Happy end to sub story; 2 men rescued

CORK, Ireland (UPI) —An international team hauled two Britons trapped in a miniature submarine alive and well from the bottom of the Atlantic Saturday, ending a dramatic three-day effort believed to be the deepest sea rescue ever made.

Roger Mallinson, 35, and Roger Chapman, 28, clambered under their own power out of their crippled 19-foot submarine Pisces III 75 hours and 50 minutes after it sank in 1,375 feet of water off the Irish coast.

"They looked fit enough to play football," a rescue spokesman said.

But the men escaped by a whisker.

Their midget sub, disabled while burying a new transatlantic telephone cable Wednesday, carried what was expected to be air enough for only 72 hours, plus a 45-minute emergency supply of oxygen. But they managed to stretch out the oxygen just long enough.

'Looked fit enough to play football'

The men's air dwindled closer and closer to what an official called "the drop-dead time" while two sister submarines and a U.S. Navy underseas drone made dive after fruitless dive.

The sister subs Pisces II and Pisces V were able to attach only two light marker lines to the disabled sub.

Then early Saturday the U.S. Navy drone CURV III—the kind of device which found a hydrogen bomb dropped into the sea off Palomares, Spain—reached the sea bed and in seven minutes attached an eight-inch-thick rope.

The craft, her aft compartment flooded, was stuck front end upward in the mud in the inky blackness and intense pressures of the deep sea bed.

The Canadian ship John Cabot, hauling slowly and steadily on the three lines, lifted the Pisces free of the bottom at 9:40 a.m.

Less than 3-½ hours later the craft was on the surface and a Royal Air Force helicopter flashed the jubilant message, "The rescue is a success."

Four doctors aboard the 4,600-ton mother ship Vickers Voyager examined Chapman and Mallinson. A helicopter flew them to Cork, where they transferred immediately to a jet for a flight to Barrow-in-Furness, England, where their families waited.

Sir Leonard Redshaw, chairman of Vickers Oceanics, owner of the Pisces, said the men were brought up in "our last chance." He described the operation as the deepest underseas rescue ever attempted.

Mrs. June Chapman, 25, and Mrs. Pamela Mallinson, 34, had spent Saturday together.

"I have had only three hours sleep in the last three nights," Mrs. Mallinson said. "But I had complete confidence in my husband and Vickers, and I always kept up hope."

'Our last chance' deepest sea rescue

"If anything, it has given me even more confidence about my husband going down under water again," Mrs. Chapman said.

Weather

Early morning low clouds Sunday and Monday, clearing by mid-morning. Warmer days, some gusty canyon winds in evenings to 20 m.p.h. Lows around mid-50's, highs to 92 — forecast high for California 500 in the 80's.

Blaze in hotel kills 19 from U. S., 17 others

19th century Denmark 'fire trap' gutted; no alarms, no sprinkler pumps in building

COPENHAGEN (UPI) — Denmark's worst hotel blaze in a generation gutted the 19th century Hafnia—described as a "fire trap"—before dawn Saturday, killing at least 36 persons, including 19 Americans. Another 20 guests were still missing, police said.

Police refused to identify the victims until their relatives were notified. Many of the victims were burned so badly it was difficult to identify them.

Police said 17 persons were hospitalized for burns, smoke poisoning or injuries received when they leaped from windows in panic.

Only 13 of the hotel's 85 registered guests escaped unscathed. Officials said it was the worst hotel fire in Denmark since the World War II.

An unidentified family of four Americans perished despite the father's efforts to save his wife and two children by putting them in a bathtub filled with cold water. The father was found lying across the tub over the bodies of his family, police said.

The Danish Fire Brigade said officials had been warned repeatedly that the 75-year-old hotel was a hazard because it lacked elementary fire prevention equipment.

A 'firetrap'

"The hotel was a fire trap and we have several times warned Danish authorities about this as well as other hotels in the old-fashioned style here in Copenhagen," Jan Amnizboel, chief of the Copenhagen fire brigade, told UPI. "They have no fire alarms, no iron doors, no sprinkler water pumps and no sufficient emergency doors."

Police managed to identify 15 victims by late Saturday and set about the task of discovering their relatives. In addition to the 19 Americans, police said the victims included one Belgian, two Italians, four Austrians, one Singapore national, two Japanese, two Dutchmen, one Canadian, one Mexican, two Brazilians and one Irishman.

One of the survivors, Jules Fine of Honolulu, said he was glad he spent the extra money for a room with a bath. All rooms with baths were in the front of the building.

Lucky room

Fine, an assistant inspector with the U.S. Department of Agriculture, said, "I think the reason we were so lucky was that we had a room with a bath, which is in the front of the hotel. The people in the back weren't so lucky.

He and his wife fled the thick smoke to a balcony, closing the French doors behind them.

"All above us on the fourth and fifth floors it was absolute pandemonium," he said. "We could hear people screaming for help . . . shouting, "Help us! Save us!"

"I think most of them at that point were suffocating rather than burning," he said.

The Fines were lowered to safety on a ladder.

A fire officer said the fire broke out about 2:30 a.m.. It apparently started on the main staircase between the second and third floors. The cause was not immediately determined.

Appeals in Nixon tapes could last to October

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The legal suits to obtain President Nixon's secret tape recordings will delay grand jury indictments in the Watergate case until at least mid-October but would not stop the Senate committee from issuing an interim report, investigators indicated Saturday.

Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox told Chief U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica this week that he does not want the grand jury to consider further indictments until he knows whether it will have access to the tapes.

Sam Dash, chief counsel for the Senate Watergate committee, told a reporter the committee could issue an interim report on the Watergate phase of its investigation without the tapes.

Cox is several steps ahead of the committee in their separate suits to get the tapes, and he hopes to have his suit ready to present to the Supreme Court when the high tribunal begins its fall term Oct. 1.

Sirica ruled Wednesday that Nixon should give him the tapes for personal inspection before the judge decides whether to order them given to the grand jury. Nixon decided to appeal the ruling by Sirica, who gave the President until this Thursday to do so.

James Doyle, a spokesman for Cox, said the prosecutor would seek to shorten the number of days permitted for both sides to file briefs and prepare for oral arguments. Doyle said this would permit the U.S. Court of Appeals to hand down a decision in September.

Epidemic of cholera spreads through Italy

NAPLES, Italy (UPI) —The government shipped hundreds of thousands of doses of vaccine and tons of fresh lemons to Naples and to Bari Saturday to fight a cholera epidemic spreading across southern Italy.

Since the first cases of the disease were reported early this week, nine persons have died in the Naples area and 229 have been hospitalized, 57 of them with confirmed cases of cholera. The Adriatic port city of Bari reported nine confirmed cases and 45 more suspected.

Residents of Naples took to the streets for the second consecutive day to protest a shortage of vaccine and demand immediate sanitation measures in the city's crowded slums.

At Portici 1,000 persons mobbed the mayor's car and beat on it with their fists as he tried to enter his office. Later a crowd of 3,000 public housing residents burned tires, furniture and bags of garbage in the street.

A motorcade drove through Naples with horns blaring, displaying signs demanding vaccine.

In Rome government officials announced the shipment Saturday of vaccine and lemons, a fruit believed effective in countering the cholera bacilius.

Campers racing to Ontario

By PAUL HILL
P-B Staff Writer

ONTARIO — If they give a prize for ingenuity at the Ontario Motor Speedway today, Don Berryman of Calimesa might win it.

Of the 900 or more campers cramped together in the Speedway infield late Saturday afternoon, Berryman's camper really stood out.

His is not really a camper. It's a truck. A Ryder van truck. The kind you usually see hauling furniture on the open highways across the country.

"Everyone has been stopping by and asking us about this," the Berryman said. "We even received a lot of attention while we're driving here on the freeway. People kept honking their horns and waving to us."

Ironically, Berryman has a camper sitting in his garage at his home. But he doesn't have a pickup to set it on.

"I'm waiting for the new trucks to come out," he said.

Berryman proudly admits to being an avid racing enthusiast. He's a member of the Grand National Racing Association and has attended the three previous California 500 races here. Berryman has a commanding view of the track from high atop his truck.

The top of the van is 11½ feet from the ground, which will put Berryman much higher than any of the other people in the infield.

He first came up with the idea of using the Ryder van after he had gone shopping and discovered that renting a motor home for the weekend would cost him a bundle.

"A motor home would have cost me $250 for the week, and six cents a mile," he said.

He then suggested the idea to a friend who owns a rental agency in the Redlands-Yucaipa area. His friend, Berryman said, "thought it was a 'great idea,' and so he rented me the truck."

The price? "I'm paying $24 a day and 15 cents a mile," said Berryman with a smile. He is dividing expenses with his father-in-law, Irvin Wissert, also Calimisa.

The two, plus their wives and Berryman's children, are spending their Labor Day weekend in the truck.

Inside the huge van, they have placed three mattresses—king, queen and single sizes—for sleeping, a table, five aluminum folding chairs, and several coolers filled with food and cold drinks.

While Berryman and company took their own original approach to setting up camp in the Ontario infield, a handful of persons like Bernie Purvis and Buddy Shoemaker settled for the "simpler" life.

The two Navy men, here in California on temporary duty to attend a military technical school, planned to spend the night in the open with only their sleeping bags to keep them warm.

They were also somewhat comforted by the fact that they might be able to get the $20 back they paid for two tickets earlier this week.

"We bought the tickets before we arrived at the school," Purvis, of Mobile, Ala., said. "But when we got to the school, the Navy gave us both a $20 ticket. Free."

"We'll sell the other tickets for what we paid for them," promised Shoemaker, who comes from Hattiesburg, Miss.

The two Navy men, and all those in the infield then, will wait the magic words today, "Gentlemen, start your engines."

Gen. Bradley out of hospital

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —Gen. Omar N. Bradley was released from UCLA Medical Center Saturday, smiling and waving after an "excellent recovery" from blood clots near his lungs.

Bradley, the nation's only living five-star general, left the hospital in a wheelchair and was taken to his Beverly Hills home by his personal physician.

The 80-year-old general was admitted to the hospital on Aug. 12 and he underwent emergency surgery four days later after anticoagulants failed to break up the blood clots.

In that operation an umbrella-shaped sieve was placed on the large vein leading into the heart to prevent clots from reaching the lungs.

Dr. Eliot Corday said Bradley had made an "exceptional recovery from a critical illness."

Area police crack down on drunk drivers during holiday weekend

CLAREMONT — California Highway Patrol officers here report drunk driving arrests this Labor Day weekend running at almost one every two hours. Officers assigned to the Claremont CHP office jailed 11 persons between 6 p.m. Friday and 6 p.m. Saturday on drunk driving charges.

Depending on the place of their arrest, they spent a minimum of four hours behind bars at the Pomona city jail, the West End substation of the San Bernardino County Sheriff's office, or Los Angeles County Sheriff's substation in San Dimas or City of Industry.

Minimum bail for those sober enough to leave after four hours is $350.

Across the nation in the first 24 hours of the three-day holiday period, 129 persons had been killed in traffic accidents, United Press International related.

Eighteen persons had died from drowning, while 11 others died in various non-highway accidents.

'Very satisfactory' session

Nixon, Agnew 'pulling together' at meeting

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew reviewed Agnew's legal and political troubles for two hours Saturday, and reportedly there was no talk of the vice president resigning. "They're really pulling together," an Agnew aide said.

At the vice president's request, he and Nixon met alone at the White House for the first time since Agnew personally informed Nixon nearly a month ago he was under federal investigation in connection with an alleged kickback scheme involving Maryland contractors.

Afterwards, the White House described it as a "thorough discussion" and "a good session." An Agnew spokesman said it was a "very, very satisfactory meeting" in which they reviewed the way the vice president and his lawyers were handling the affair.

"The vice president brought the President up to date on current matters involving himself," White House deputy press secretary Gerald L. Warren said. "It was a good session."

Nixon and the vice president met alone —at Agnew's request —in the President's Oval Office starting at 10:40 a.m., about nine hours after Nixon returned from a 12-day working vacation at San Clemente, Calif. Warren refused to give any details of their discussion, saying it was "a private meeting."

"There was no discussion of Agnew resigning," Warren said, nor was there any review of constitutional questions about Agnew's legal status as vice president while under criminal investigation.

Agnew's press spokesman, Marsh Thomson, confirmed Warren's remarks and said "they had a very, very satisfactory meeting together." Thomson said there was "nothing of a major, special nature to the meeting."

Other sources said Agnew, who has seen his lawyers for each of the past two or three days, reviewed "legal strategy" with Nixon, although Thomson denied it.

Brown, Lepire, Ayala voice approval

Valley legislators like reapportion plan

PHYLLIS CANNON
P-B Staff Writers

Three Pomona Valley legislators Saturday voiced their approval of the reapportionment plan proposed two days ago by a specially appointed "masters panel."

Congressman George E. Brown Jr., D-38th Dist., Pomona Mayor Ray Lepire, and San Bernardino County Supervisor Ruben Ayala said they were "happy" with the plan and predicted it would unite the Valley and give it a new political identity.

Ayala and Lepire also indicated that the proposal would allow the heretofore politically fragmented Valley more "home rule" in the three legislative arenas.

"I am most pleased they (the panel) have done this," Lepire said. "The Pomona Valley area will hopefully now get more direct representation in as much as we will probably have one congressional representative, one senator, and one assemblyman.

"Pomona is split into too many districts," the mayor said. "This is not meant as a criticism of our present legislators, but people in the city many times do not know who represents them because there are too many of them (legislators)."

Ayala echoed Lepire's sentiments.

"The plan is designed so someone from the Pomona Valley could carry any proposed congressional, senatorial or asstmbly district."

Presently, the Pomona Valley is split into the 25th, 33rd and 38th Congressional districts; the 35th, 49th, 50th, 58th and 72nd assembly districts; and the 19th, 20th, and 35th state senatorial districts.

Under the new plan, which must first be approved by the state supreme court before it can take effect, the Valley would be composed of two assembly districts (62nd and 65th); two senate districts 25th and 32nd); and one congressional district (35th).

"I think the three special masters did a good job," Ayala said. "Their plan shows community interest."

"When I appeared before that group in March, I proposed that a new state senate district be formed in the Pomona Valley. It seems like this is done in the plan," he added.

Asked if he wocld be interested in running in any of the districts should the plan be approved, Ayala answered, "I'll take a good hard look at all of these things. I'd have to see a breakdown of the registration. I'm a registered Democrat and it would be bad judgement for me to run in a district with a majority Republican registration."

Ayala was a Democratic nominee in the 38th Congressional District primary last year, but he was defeated by Brown.

Brown would be placed in the 36th Congressional District by the new plan, and it leaves him feeling "very happy."

He described the proposed 36th as more compact than the 38th, and with a greater indentity of interest. He said that Democratic voter registration in the 36th was 58 per cent compared to 62 per cent in the 38th.

"This means I will have to do a good job representing those voters or they will not keep me."

The cities of Pomona, Montclair, Ontario and Chino would be elimated completely from Brown's new district. But at the same time, the 36th would pick up the entire city of Riverside and the bulk of the city of San Bernardino.

Brown admitted that he was not unhappy about losing Montclair, Ontario and Chino because that was where he proved weak in last November's general election.

He said, too, that the masters had come up with a more rational plan for redistricting than had the Legislature, particularly with regard to keeping cities intact.

One of Ayala's colleagues, County Supervisor Daniel D. Mikesell, who could be tempted by the 65th district seat, said he had had the opportunity to study the reapportionment plan, and, therefore, had no comment.

Ontario Mayor Howard Snyder, who lost to Brown in the 38th District general election, was participating in his city's pre-California 500 automobile race festivities, and could not be reached for comment.

Most of the other area legislators were unavailable for comment, which was proabIy due to the holday weekend.

20,000 invaders rock Vermont village of 383 into city status

HOLLAND, Vt. (UPI) —More than 20,000 young people at a rock festival Saturday swelled this tiny northern Vermont village of 383 persons into one of the largest cities in the state.

State Police Cpl. Claude Hebert estimated the crowd size as "roughly 25,000" at noon Saturday, when rock fans still were arriving.

A brief rainstorm Saturday morning did not reduce the turnout at a 181-acre meadow that was the site of "Mac's Party," the festival staged by promoter Ronald "Mac" Worth.

Many of the youths wore plastic trash bags and sat in car trunks to keep dry during the downpour. "We've been praying for rain a lot, but I guess it didn't do much good," Hebert said.

Marijuana was smoked openly and people were seen hawking LSD in both English and French. Many Canadians were at the festival, which featured a number of rock bands from across the border.

..No serious injuries were reported. Dr. Stuart Shapiro, one of five volunteer physicians, said there were a few "bad trips" from drugs, but no one required hospital treatment.

Police reported 114 arrests, most on drug possession charges. Four cars were reported stolen.

Most of the arrests were made near the Canadian customs station at Derby Line. Frank Horton, an official at the immigration center on the border, said traffic began piling up about 2 a.m. Saturday morning.

"Most were all whacked out on drugs," he said. "With my 30 years with the border patrol, I've never seen anything lilke this."

Ontario man, 20, killed in cycle crash, girl hurt

ONTARIO — A Chino woman suffered cirtical injuries Friday evening when a motorcyclist, reportedly evading police pursuit, slammed into the side of her car at an intersection here. The cyclist apparently died instantly in the accident.

According to police reports, at about 6:15 p.m. Linda Karen Reenders, 19, 6169 Garfield, was entering the intersection of Mountain Avenue and Mission Boulevard when the cycle, driven by Daniel J. Scarsella, 20, 206 W. I St., ran a red light at a speed approaching 100 miles per hour and crashed into the auto.

Miss Reenders was hospitalized at Doctors Hospital of Montclair, where her condition was described Saturday as "critical" by a floor supervisor in the intensive care unit.

Scarsella was attempting to evade arrest, police said, after residents in the 200 block of West I Street had complained about two cyclists driving across private property there and stopping to drink beer on the lawns.

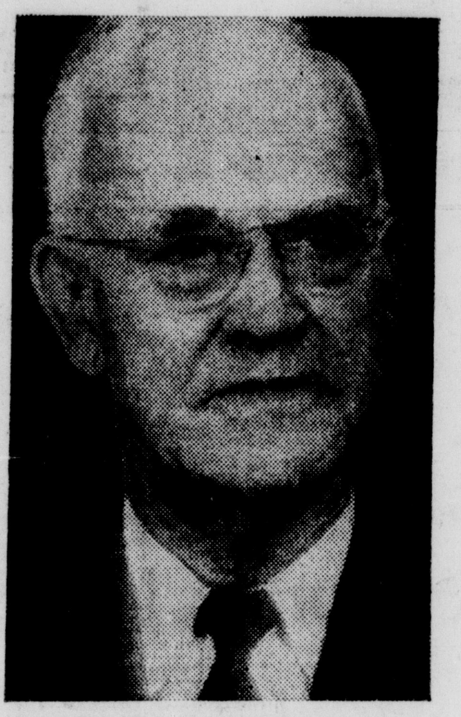
Officers said they were called when a 79-year-old woman nearly was run down by a cyclist after he had knocked a gate off its hinges at her home.

As she was talking to police, he appeared on the scene, but turned around and fled to Euclid Street, turning south before officers could start pursuit.

When they did, police related, he was already weaving through traffic, running a red light at G and Euclid Streets in the process.

Just as one of the pursuing units reached Euclid and Mission, after Scarsella had turned west on Mission, they observed the motorcycle crash into Miss Reender's car.

Miss Reenders, a recent graduate of the stewardess training program at Mt. San Antonio College, was on her way home from work at the time of the accident.



SEN. ARTHUR WATKINS

Arthur Watkins, ex-senator from Utah, dies at 86

OREM, Utah (UPI) —Arthur V. Watkins, the white-haired conservative from Utah who led the U.S. Senate's censure of Joseph McCarthy in 1954, died Saturday. He was 86.

Watkins, who served two terms in the U.S. Senate from 1947 to 1959 and later was chairman of the U.S. Indian Claims Commission, died of cancer at his daughter's home in Orem.

In 1954, Watkins, a conservative Republican, headed the Senate Select Committee that investigated censure charges against McCarthy following the hearings on the Wisconsin Senator's charges that Communists had infiltrated the Army.

Watkins, who authored a 1951 Senate resolution opposing entry of Mainland China into the United Nations, urged his colleagues to expand the charges against McCarthy.

Couple missing for 5 days

Girl with blood disease returns, weds sweetheart

KOKOMO, Ind. (UPI) — Sheryl McDonald, a 17-year-old with a serious blood disease, Saturday wed the high school sweetheart who ran away with her last week in a desperate bid for a normal life.

Wearing a lace-trimmed white gown and a floor-length veil, the bride said "I do" to Kevin Dodd, 16, in candle-and-flower-bedecked Nazarene Church—with the parents whose opposition had prompted the attempted elopement in attendance.

It was a wedding with all the trimmings, including a four-tier white cake with pink flowers, and when it was over the couple left on a brief honeymoon to Angola, Ind., taking along the bride's schoolbooks. Both were scheduled to return to classes Monday.

About 150 guests attended the ceremony, performed by the Rev. Lloyd Tucker. Mrs. Nelson McDonald sounded like any mother of the bride, weary from the hectic preparations.

"I'm amazed that we did this much in two days," Mrs. McDonald said. "That's really all the time we had."

Mrs. Hershel Dodd, the mother of the groom, welcomed her new daughter-in-law.

"I'm proud of her. She's very sweet," she said.

The young couple, who fled South searching for someone who would marry them after their parents' refusal to let them wed, plan to live with the Dodds until Kevin finishes school.

The parents agreed to let the couple marry after they had been missing five days. They were spotted in a Georgia state park by a couple who had seen their picture in the newspaper. After telephone calls to their parents confirmed the newspaper reports, the young sweethearts returned home and began preparing for the wedding.

The story has another happy postscript. Sheryl, who suffers from a disease called hypoplastic anemia, was checked by her doctor after she returned to Kokomo and he said her condition actually had improved since her last examination.

Marine robbed near bus depot

POMONA — An 18-year-old Marine was held up by a pair of armed robbers early Saturday outside a bus station at 156 W. Commercial St., according to police.

Steven Ray Caddell, 5042 Marino St., Montclair, now on duty at Camp Pendleton, told officers he was accosted by two men as he left a phone booth outside the depot about 1:30 a.m. One pressed a round object, either a piece of pipe or a gun barrel, into his side while the other ordered, "Hand over your wallet."

NEWS BRIEFS

Ford burial on Wednesday

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —John Ford, one of America's greatest movie directors, who made stars of Spencer Tracy and John Wayne and captured more Academy Awards than anyone else, will be buried Wednesday in the cinema capital where he forged a career that spanned six decades.

Ford, who made more than 200 movies and was winner of a record six Academy Awards for directing, died of cancer Friday night at his home in Palm Desert, Calif. He was 78.

Tol Avery, actor, dies

ENCINO, Calif. (UPI) — Tol Avery, veteran screen and television actor best known for his portrayal of the judge in the TV series "Slattery's People," died of a heart attack Monday. He was 58.

Among Avery's more than 400 screen credits were roles in "Hotel", "The Man," "Ticklish Affair," "Satan Bug," and "A Tiger Walks."

Avery, a past president of the California Professional Hypnotists Assn., also appeared in the television series "Death Valley Days," "The Young Lawyers,'' "Maverick," "Lost in Space" and "Dragnet."

Vet graves increasing

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Starting Saturday, an additional 53,680 burial places for military veterans are being made available in national cemeteries around the country.

This was the effective date of a new law President Nixon signed June 18 putting the National Cemetery System under the jurisdiction of the Veterans Administration and incorporating 21 VA cemeteries into the system.

Dr. McIntire ready to fight

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI) —Dr. Carl McIntire, the fundamentalist minister, said Saturday he is ready for a court battle with the government if it tries to silence his pirate radio ship now anchored off Cape May.

"We'll resist their attempt (to close down the ship) and will challenge the entire constitutionality of the licensing system," he said in a telephone interview.

Who can be a bee expert?

WASHINGTON (UPI) —It's worth $10,000 to the Agriculture Department to be able to tell the difference between a warlike bee from Africa and the regular, peaceable honeybee from Europe that makes up most American beehives.

..The department said Saturday it will pay the money to a group of California scientists for the research. The only reliable and quick way now to tell the two types apart is by their behavior. That can be painful.

European bees, the ordinary honeybees found in the United States, generally are peaceful and easy to handle. By contrast, the department said, the African bee is "an exceptionally aggressive and ferocious strain" that wipes out competing colonies and attacks people freely.

Bonuses, early retirement

Pentagon opposes extra POW aids

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Pentagon is opposing proposals to provide early retirement and bonus payments to American servicemen who were prisoners of war in Indochina.

In a letter to Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, the Defense Department said it opposed legislation providing these special benefits to the Vietnam POWs.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, a sponsor of the legislation, said it appeared the Defense Department feels "that POWs from the Indochina conflict do not merit special benefits."

Disappointed'

In a letter to Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger, Muskie said "I was disappointed that your department's correspondence was so negative and did not suggest any positive proposals which you would favor concerning special benefits for these prisoners of war."

He asked the Pentagon to come up with alternative proposals and said "the Department of Defense has a responsibility not to drag its feet on this most important issue."

The bill sponsored by Muskie, along with Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and William D. Hathaway, D-Maine, would give POWs double time credit toward retirement for time spent as prisoners and award them per diem pay as if they had been stationed in Saigon.

Liberal System

The Pentagon said it opposed early retirement for POWs because "retirement after 20 years service without regard to age is a liberal system under any criterion.

The Defense Department letter also warned against the impact of such an action on World War II and Korean POWs.

The Defense Department said it opposed the per diem proposal because those who did receive such pay were in Vietnam on temporary duty.

"Such a person was not a true counterpart of the prisoner of war," the letter said. "Servicemen on official tour of duty in Vietnam, their true counterparts, were not entitled to per diem pay."

The Pentagon also rejected two proposals which would not require legislation — allowing POWs to leave their accrued savings deposited in the uniformed services savings deposit for six to nine months instead of three, and waiving import duties on household goods brought back by POWs.

A third proposal —establishing health programs for POWs and their families even after they leave service —is under study by the Pentagon.

Proxmire says press should not try Agnew

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., urged the news media Saturday to take special care in reporting the criminal investigation of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and said use of leaked allegations subverts the U.S. system of justice.

"No evidence has been presented so far to a grand jury against the vice president," Proxmire said in a statement.

"He has not been indicted. He has not been arraigned. He has not been tried. He has not been convicted."

Accordingly, the Wisconsin Democrat cautioned the press "to be careful not to charge, try and convict Vice President Agnew when the American legal system presumes his innocence."

Agnew has been formally notified by federal prosecutors that he is under investigation for possible violations of extortion, tax evasion, bribery and conspiracy charges as part of a probe into alleged kickbacks by contractors in Maryland doing business with the state.

Agnew, a former Maryland governor, has denied any wrongdoing.

Said Proxmire: "The foundation of our system of justice is the right to face accusers. When the press disseminates leaked charges, it helps undermine that foundation. It unwittingly subverts the system of justice."

Proxmire cautioned against "relaxed journalistic ethnics" because Agnew is vice president and said persons giving the media information on the investigation could have "ulterior motives for the leaks."

"The press, as guardian of the truth, must not risk being taken in," he said.

12 laborers buried alive

NEW DELHI (UPI) —Twelve laborers were buried alive and 40 others injured in a landslide at a highway construction site about 300 miles northwest of Simla, the Press Trust of India (PTI) news agency reported Saturday.

It said two bodies were recovered from the slide, which occurred Friday.

Storm may develop into full hurricane

MIAMI (UPI) —Tropical storm Christine, its top winds holding at 60 mph, locked in a do-or-die struggled Saturday with a low pressure system that likely will determine whether the storm fizzles or blossoms into a hurricane.

Another tropical depression, meanwhile, turned up on weather satellite photographs of Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula and a reconnaissance plane was being dispatched Sunday to check.

Dr. Robert Simpson, chief of the National Hurricane Center, said the low pressure trough encountered by Chrisine could either merge with the storm or continue to fight it.

"If they merge," Simpson said, "Christine will intensify rather quickly into a full hurricane. If they don't merge, Christine probably won't go anywhere or amount to much."

Forget and rebuild: Echeverria

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — President Luis Echeverri said Saturday that Mexicans hit by floods and an earthquake must "forget useless mourning" and go on to rebuild their country.

"Misfortune puts the vigor of strong people to the test. For them defeat does not exist. A challenge does. They take advantage of the changes in fortune to remodel themselves," Echeverria said in an annual address to the Congress.

"They find motivee to redouble their efforts and to go on to better things," he declared.

"Throughout its history Mexico has demonstrated its desire to survive and to be great. Now it has to forget useless mourning and begin a new period of unity and collective effort," Echeverria said.

'Toughest' law against drugs starts in N.Y.

NEW YORK (UPI) —About 50 youngsters shouting "We want our pot back" lit up marijuana in Central Park Saturday in defiance of New York State's new "toughest in the nation" drug law, but they threw their "joints" away before police could make any arrests.

Police found about a half pound of the illicit drug on the ground when they arrived. Not one of the youths, mostly teenagers, was smoking at the time.

Under the harsh new law, which went into effect Saturday, possession of marijuana could result in a jail sentence for violators with possible probation for first offenders but mandatory imprisonment for those with previous felony convictions.

One isolated cholera case-no epidemic

ATLANTA (UPI) —A case of suspected cholera has turned up in Texas, but it appears to be an isolated incident, the Center for Disease Control (CDC) said Saturday.

The center said both state and federal health authorities "emphasize there is no cause for concern." A survey of the area had turned up no similar illnesses, it said.

The report, issued jointly by the CDC and the Texas State Department of Health, said an organism taken from a Seadrift, Tex., man "appears to be similar to the organism that causes cholera." Cholera is a gastrointestinal disease.

"The patient was taken ill one week ago, was hospitalized and has recovered," the report said. "The man has not traveled outside the vicinity of hps home."

It said there was no known connection with the current Italian cholera outbreak.

Man guilty of killing 3

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI) — Guillermo Aillon, chosen one of the three most outstanding men in his state two years ago by the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce, was found guilty Saturday of stabbing to death his estranged wife and her parents in their North Haven home a year ago.

Aillon, a former antipoverty worker born in Bolivia, was convicted of three counts of murder by a Superior Court jury that deliberated a total of 47 hours over a four-day period.

Most gas stations open

A planned holiday shutdown by service stations across Pennsylvania protesting proposed federal price controls on gasoline appeared spotty at best on the first day of the Labor Day weekend.

While the Pennsylvania AAA Federation indicated only about 2,000 of the state's some 10,000 gas stations would join the action, officials of the Pennsylvania Service Station Dealers Association said as many as "75 to 80 per cent" of their 5,400 members would close down.

In other sections of the country checks with regional and state gas stations associations showed no protest closings were expected in most areas.

Time magazine reported Saturday that in Los Angeles the antitrust department of the Justice Department was preparing for a large-scale grand jury investigation of gasoline pricing by the U.S. oil industry.

Without naming its sources, Time said the confidential records of more than 30 oil companies had been subpoenaed.

"Attorneys for the companies say that summonses will also be issued soon to a number of executives...about whether there was a massive conspiracy to fix wholesale and retail gasoline prices in 1971 and 1972," Time reported.

In Wisconsin, where a survey three days ago indicated 80 per cent of the stations would be closed, a later check by the Automobile Association of America found that 80 per cent of the stations along interstate and main highways intended to be open during the weekend.

In Pennsylvania dealer spokesman Thomas J. Anderson said the dealers would go through with their shutdown, despite a Cost of Living Council decision Thursday to put off imposing price ceilings on gas for one week.

A spokesman for the Gulf Oil Co. said the firm's Pensylvania dealers in a poll a week ago showed little sympathy for the protest.

"It is a pretty important weekend for the dealers," the spokesman said. "They've got to keep their regular customers happy."

The federal regulations which triggered plans for a shutdown would allow dealers a markup of seven cents a gallon. They contend 8 ½ to 9 cents was needed to meet higher operating costs. Imposition of the controls was delayed three times by the Cost of Living Council.

What's Going on At Griswolds

Recently our staff attended the Southern California restaurant convention in Los Angeles. It is difficult to realize the tremendous size of the resaturant bussiness until you see row upon row of displays of stoves, sinks, trays, glassware, chairs and tables, and thousands of school personnel, cafeteria workers, managers, dinner house owners and fast food personnel studying and testing products. This says nothing of all sorts of foods that were displayed. Of course, this year there were fewer steaks, but we saw plenty of ideas of prepared foods to choose from. Naturally, we look at all of these goodies, but Griswold's believes that the best food comes from preparing everything ourselves. We avoid the frozen prepared entree that is the same item served from one dinner house to another. As our slogan says —"Our food is prepared with butter and love"—and we mean it.!

See you at Griswold's

Priest takes message to the young

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — The Rev. Edmund Nadolny is preaching the Roman Catholic faith through a new gospel—the top 20 records of the week.

Since the young aren't flocking to the church in droves, the 40-year-old priest is taking the church to them through radio.

He relates music, news and the gospel to such common teen-age problems as going steady and loneliness in his sermons which are shipped off nationally to some 175 radio stations.

"Are you an onion eater or a garlic eater?" Father Nadolny asked in one sermon.

An onion eater, he explained, is the type of sinner who keeps his transgressions inside and ends up hurting himself. A garlic eater, on the other hand, is one who lets everything out and makes others uncomfortable.

In another sermon, Father Nadolny took Carole King's pop song "You Light Up My Life" to make the point that "where there is true friendship there is the presence of God."

Father Nadolny, the communications director of the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Hartford, has been recording sermons over the past three years in an effort to better the relationship between God and the young.

Some of his preachings have been slightly more controversial. Last spring he challenged the war in Vietnam.

"One man asked me to refund a dollar donation he made to the radio programs," the priest said.

"I did. And I sent him an extra dollar out of my own pocket because I felt sorry for him," Father Nadolny said.

"Most of the callers believe priests should only talk about the gospel," he said. "That's what was so funny. The gospel talks about war."

The pop radio messages developed out of Father Nadolny's quest to solve the inter-denominational problem of restoring the faith of the young in God.

On Radio, too

"If you can't get the kids to church, you have to bring God to them," he said. "The tapes show that you can hear God on the radio through music—not just in church."

When he taught high school and directed the area's Catholic Youth Organization (CYO), he realized music was the teenagers' main interest. He began the program on two popular music stations in Hartford, WDRC and WPOP and later on the ABC Network.

The pop sermons are just one of Father Nadolny's 17 types of radio programs. He also conducts adult and teenage talk shows and counsels marriages. A master of history and psychology, he recently began a mini-marriage reconciliation program.

All this keeps Father Nadolny busy seven days a week.

"Including all our programs, we send to 500 radio stations a month when we could be sending to one or two thousand."

The money he does get to fund his programs comes from private donors.

But what he learns from young people compensates for whatever drawbacks there are," he said.

He has been sharing his learning experiences with radio listeners by allowing young people to choose records and write scripts themselves.

Not candidates, thank goodness!

BUCARAMANGA, Colombia (UPI) —Police in the town of Barbosa did a doubletake when they took the names of the principals in a shooting in a brothel.

Alfonso Lopez, a patron of the establishment, shot and wounded Maria Eugenia Rojas, who worked at the brothel.

Alfonso Lopez is the presidential candidate of the Liberal party in next year's presidential election and Maria Eugenio Rojas is the name of the presidential candidate of the National Popular Alliance (ANAPO).

Police said they were no relation to the politicians.

Proper way to care for dog on plane

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: Being a frequent user of air line travel I have had the unfortunately frequent experience of having my luggage lost and eventually found again. Now I need to ship my dog across country by plane. I would appreciate any tips on assuring his survival on such a trip. — E. M.

Dear E. M.: The canine jet set makes it best when: (1) The animal is in top physical condition to begin with. The veterinarian will prescribe tranquilizers if he feels them appropriate. (2) The kennel used for shipping is properly marked and identified and is the proper size and the proper type to provide adquate ventilation. It must include, of course, a secure, usable water pan. (3) The pet is shipped on an air line which has the experience and facilities to provide temperature-controlled through flights to destination or, at least, can guarantee no long delays. (4) The final connection on the other end includes prompt pickup. (5) Low stress (gentle) care is provided for a couple of days after the trip until it is obvious the dog has indeed come through with flying colors.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Our daughter has pinworms. Could Mike, our cat, be the guilty party? Could he have given them to her? — M. F.

Dear M. F: No, not Mike. Nor any other cat or dog. Nor, for that matter, could any other pet. Enterobius vermicularis occurs only in the species Homo sapiens. The only domestic animal which might suffer from any type of pinworm is the horse. The horse pinworm, Oxyuris equi, is an entirely different species from that found in man.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Months ago my budgie, Big Boy, started squeaking. At first I thought I was hearing things. Then he did it more often and now he is squeaking all the time. I have tried to oil him—literally—by putting some oil in his food but that kind of lubrication didn't seem to help any. He still sqeaks. I hadn't worried about it because he seemed perfectly well. Lately, I have noticed, he is flying less. I hope you can suggest a better remedy than mine? — M. O.

Dear M. O.: As you found out, oil is unlikely to stop that particular squeak. Whether another prescription might would be up to a local bird-oriented veterinarian to determine. Because squeaking budgies are frequently victims of thyroid disease, carefully regulated doses of iodine are often the prescribed treatment.

Diamond cutter has expensive haircut

NEW YORK (UPI) —A diamond cutter went to get a haircut recently, leaving the office unattended. When he returned, $250,000 in diamonds had been stolen from the safe where he had left them.

The thief entered through a 14-inch high transom above the door of B&B Exclusive Diamonds, Inc. Police said the diamond cutter, who was not identified, had neglected to lock the safe.

Ex-Harvey Mudd prof in new role

LOS ANGELES — Dr. Rex C. Mack, formerly professor of engineering and director of the Engineering Clinic at Harvey Mudd College, Claremont, has been appointed head of the systems technology department in the Systems Management Center at USC.

A physicist who previously served both education and industry, Mack succeeds Dr. Aaron Rose, who is now academic director of the center.

POW bracelet drive is continuing thing

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — During the summer vacation of 1970 two 20-year-old California college girls got to talking together about what they could do —personally —to help get American prisoners of war in Southeast Asia back home.

One was Carol Bates, a student at California State University in Northridge, and the other was Kay Hunter from UCLA.

They had joined a student group called VIVA (Voices in a Vital America) three years earlier, Miss Bates said.

"At first we just mainly wrote letters to servicemen in Vietnam," she recalls. "Then in 1969 we got involved in the campaign to free American prisoners. It wasn't a matter of whether you were for the war or against it. We ran into wives whose husbands were prisoners and we decided to try to help them."

One day the two came up with the idea of picking the name of one known POW, Miss Bates said, and having his name engraved on a bracelet and wearing it until he was freed.

Friends thought it was a great idea and then VIVA formally adopted it and the POW bracelet campaign became a nationwide endeavor.

Robert Treese, who is executive administrator of VIVA, estimates that approximately 5 million of the bracelets were manufactured by two Los Angeles area jewelry firms and sent out ot an estimated 50,000 volunteers, many of them affiliated with POW-MIA groups.

VIVA set up distribution centers in Los Angeles, New York, Washington, Miami, Wichita, Omaha, Kansas City, San Francisco, San Diego, Merced and Santa Ana.

A minimum contribution of $2.50 was asked for each bracelet (carefully distinguished from an outright sale) so that total finances reached a figure above $10 million.

The stainless steel bracelets cost about 30 cents apiece to manufacture and nickel plated ones cost 50 cents.

Treese said a spotless accounting and yearly audit was made of all income to the nonprofit group and reported to the Internal Revenue Service. The money was used to make more bracelets, for bumper stickers, broches, literature and aid to the campaign to bring prisoners home.

Administratice overhead never surpassed 8.4 per cent.

At the peak of the campaign, orders were being received for as many as 80,000 bracelets a day.

The figure had dropped drastically, of course, since the majority of POWS were released by the North Vietnamese and Vietcong.

But the campaign has not ended.

Treese says that bracelets are still being distributed because of the estimated total of 1,300 missing in action in Southeast Asia and government figures of 53 prisoners of war who are unaccounted for.

Obituary

Richard Bell

POMONA — Richard A. Bell of 1526 Vejar St. died Friday in Pomona Valley Community Hospital following a year's illness.

Mr. Bell was born April 3, 1933, in Brooklyn, N.Y. He came to California in 1944 and lived in Long Beach. In 1966 he moved to Pomona from La Mirada. He was a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Besides his widow, Helen, he is survived by five daughters, Mrs. Deborah Guion, Mrs. Patricia Yockum, Kathrine Bell, Susan Bell and Lorraine Bell, all of Cypress; a step-son, Michael Miller of Pomona and a step-daughter, Miss Johnette Miller of Pomona; a sister, Mrs. Sylvia DeVita of Santa Ana; and two brothers, Charles of Westminster and Kenneth of Long Beach.

Services will be held Wednesday at 10 a.m. in Todd Memorial Chapel Pomona. Burial will be in Pomona Cemetery.

Friends may make memorial contributions to the American Cancer Society, 111 E. Center St., Pomona 91768.

S.B. County tax rate is reduced

SAN BERNARDINO (CNA) — The 1973-74 tax rate on the proposed $178,732,551 budget of San Bernardino County was set by the Board of Supervisors this week at $3.0034 per $100 assessed valuation. The new rate is 1.7 cents under the 1972-73 rate, the supervisors noted.

"The rates indicated in the compilation have been computed in compliance with Senate Bill 90, and rates to meet requirements or maximum allowed if Assembly Bill 2008 is passed are indicated under those headings," Auditor-Controller John Bulmer advised the board.

"Many of the special districts will not meet the requirements of their adopted budgets under S.B. 90 and several will not, even if A.B. 2008 is passed."

In the motion by the board for acceptance, it intended the rates as presented in accordance with A.B. 2008, subject to passage of that bill (which seems assured), otherwise they will be reduced in compliance with the limitations of S.B. 90.

Rates for the City of Needles and California City Community Services District have not yet been received by Bulmer and he requested that since they are both self-governing agencies he be given authorization to accept and apply the rates as certified by the two entities.

Edison plans purchase of generators

ROSEMEAD — The Southern California Edison Co. has signed a letter of intent to purchase two 770-000-kilowatt steam turbine generators at a cost of $40 million from the Allis-Chalmers Power Systems, Inc.

The generators are for use in a previously announced nuclear generating station the company plans to build in the eastern California desert, said William R. Gould, senior vice president. The exact site has not been selected.

Edison plans to file for an Atomic Energy Commission construction permit late next year and hopes to have the plant in operation in 1981, he added. Total project cost is estimated at $950 million.

The nuclear power plant is needed to help meet Southern California's electrical needs of the 1980s, said Gould. Some 7.3 million people depend on Edison for their electricity.

Bobby Fischer had great idea

At times, Bobby Fischer's play has been criticized by Russian grandmasters as lacking in originality. They have not been precise in this claim, which may only be an expression of their wishful thinking. One of my favorite ideas of Fischer is the motion that guided his play in the following position.

(Diagram 1)
BLACK Schweber

Fischer
WHITE

As you can see, his white bishop at Q3 is attacked by the black pawn at K5. It would seem that Fischer must retreat it to K2, which would allow black to play NxP and win a rook for a knight.

But Bobby had conceived a remarkable response. Instead of the bishop withdrawal, he played 1) RxP!!! True enough, the rook is inviolate, for an immediate. . . .PxR would allow 2) B-KB4, winning the black queen, which would be skewred against its own king. But why can't Schweber (black) play 1). . . .QxQ (which he did play), intending after 2) PxQ, to play PxR, which would gain a full rook? What did Fischer have in mind in the position reached after. . . .QxQ, which is given in diagram two?

BLACK Schweber

Fischer
WHITE

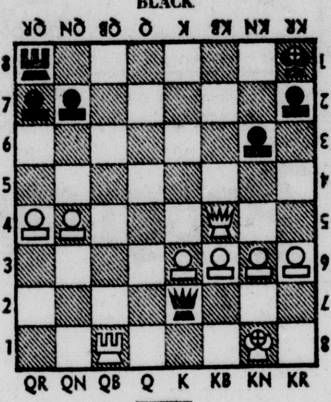
Ignoring black's queen, he played simply 2) RxN!! Curiously, the queen, which now has a tempo in which to save itself, has no escape. A queen retreat on the diagonal will yield the queen for a bishop after 3) B-KB4 and Fischer would have been a pawn ahead with an almost certain winning endgame.

Schweber elected to play 2). . .Q-N5, which at least gains a rook instead of a bishop for the queen. After the moves 3) RxQ, BxR; and 4) BxP, Fischer had two pawns for the exchange (bishop for rook) and had an easy time because of his very strong advanced bishop pawn.

In fact, after the moves, 4). . . KR-N1; 5) B-R7, R-R1; 6) B-Q3, QR K1; 7) P-B7, R-K2; 8) P-B8-Q, RxQ; 9) B-N4, Fischer won a rook for a bishop and pawn and remained a clear pawn ahead with a routine win.

As you can see, there is a delightful elegance in trapping a queen that seems to have so many escape moves. Another example of the same phenomenon can be seen in diagram three.

(Diagram 3)
BLACK



WHITE

Although black has the move, he cannot avoid a queen trade. Why? . . . . No matter where black moves his queen, i.e., R7, N.7, Q7, or Q6, QB5, QN4 or QR3, either Q-Q4 check or Q-Q4 check followed by Q-B4 check forces the queen exchange. Moves such as RQ-1 or P-R4 by black in diagram three prevent the exchange but result in the loss of a rook or in checkmate.

Work out the possibilities yourself. After the trade, white, who is two pawns ahead, has an easy time.

As in the Fischer game, the cornering of the king is an aesthetic delight.

Stamp design drawing fire

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The U.S. Postal Service receives a lot of mail itself these days, but not always from people griping about slow delivery.

The theme is often love.

Public reaction to the multicolored "love" stamp issued to commemorate last Valentine's Day is running 8-1 in favor, a spokesman said recently.

But "the specal stamp for someone specal," as the pop art design is offically called, has also generated some criticism.

"The adverse mail we've gotten on the stamp criticzes us for promoting what they term 'the hippie theme of love,'"the spokesman said.

"They act as if it was the young who invented love. And they imply that such a stamp will work to tear America down."

Lower your own taxes

Reagan launches his most ambitious political move

SACRAMENTO (UPI) Labor Day traditionally kicks of Fall election campaigns and Gov. Ronald Reagan is launching one unique not only for California but for the nation.

In his most ambitious project yet as the fiscally conservative governor of the nation's most populous state, Reagan is asking Californians to vote themselves a fat tax cut and freeze it into the state constitution.

Opponents condemn the proposal —the first tax rollback of its kind ever attempted by any governor in the nation —as a "fiscal straitjacket" for state government and an "ill conceived" scheme that ultimately could lead to higher local property taxes.

Reagan calls these charges "the big lie technique."

Many California politicians of both parties see the campaign as Reagan's opening bid for the Republican presidential nomination in 1976. The governor says his tax plan can be a "model for the nation." If successful in California, he says, it should be adopted by the federal government.

"The governor's future is pretty much on the line" with the success or failure of his ballot proposition on election day, Nov. 6, says one leading California Republican.

Reagan, 62, who is leaving the door wide open for a presidential race after he steps down as governor in January, 1975, insists he does not regard his tax plan as a White House stepping stone. But he does say "I would very definitely consider this my greatest accomplishment" in Sacramento — surpassing even his welfare "reform" and property tax relief.

Here's what Reagan's plan would do:

—Reduce the state income tax by 7½ per cent. For couples with adjusted gross incomes of less than $8,000, and single persons with less than $4,000, the tax would be eliminated entirely.

—More significantly, gradually reduce over a 15-year period the percentage of total California personal income the state could collect as tax revenue from 8.75 to 7.15 per cent. Reagan says over the 15 years this would reduce the total tax burden by 20 per cent, saving the average Californian $4,250 and all taxpayers $118 billion. Still, the state budget could triple to $27 billion during that time.

—Freeze all this into the state constitution. The legislature would be prevented from raising the total tax limit except in emergency situations, and then only briefly, although individual taxes could be hiked or lowered. To raise an individual tax would require a two-thirds legislative vote. Now only a simple majority is needed to boost most taxes. The voters could lift the overall ceiling at any time.

"Politicians have been promising the voters tax cuts for decades. Now the people will have a chance to cut their taxes themselves," says Reagan.

After six years of watching his "cut, squeeze and trim" proposals go down the drain in Democratic legislatures, Reagan took things into his own hands and became the first governor in California history to carry a program directly to the people through the initiative process.

A campaign committee organized by Reagan spent $361,000 collecting the 586,000 signatures which qualified the initiative for California's first special statewide election in 24 years.

Many of Reagan's "kitchen cabinet" campaign contributors are digging into their wallets to help finance the Fall campaign, which is expected to cost more than $750,000.

"It's a chance you may never have again," Reagan tells voters.

"Obviously freedom itself is in danger if we continue our present rate of tax increases."

Reagan intends to campaign around the state for his initiative as if he were running for re-election —speaking to every group he can find and taking advantage of free television news time. The former movie star also plans to buy substantial radio and television time.

Trailing close behind will be the proposal's most outspoken critic, Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, a Los Angeles County Democrat running for his party's 1974 gubernatorial nomination.

"I think this initiative is the most serious question the people of this state will ever have voted on," he says.

Moretti's chief argument is that if voters approve the measure "they will be guaranteeing themselves property tax increases for the rest of the political history of this state." He contends local governments will be forced to raise taxes to pay for services the state no longer can afford.

Reagan disputes this, noting under his proposal local voters would have to approve any permanent property tax hike.

Opponents of the initiative include the County Supervisors Association, League of Women Voters, National Association of Social Workers, California Teachers Association and several other school groups.

Proponents include the California Taxpayers Association, the State Chamber of Commerce and the California Real Estate Association.

TEEN FORUM

Folks block the way for young lovers

By JEAN ADAMS

SERIOUS: (Q.) Paul and I work at a bank and we really love each other. We have been seeing each other about a year.

Both his parents and mine are trying to break us up. His have told him he cannot date any girl until he is 21.

We are both 17 and he has given me his promise ring. Please help us.—Romeo and Juliet in Florida.

(A.) Your use of the names Romeo and Juliet tells me that you are very serious. Your parents sense this fact. They know that such seriousness at 17 is full of dangers.

Paul's parents are increasing the peril by imposing an unworkable rule.

I suggest a six-person conference—Paul, you, his parents, yourparents.

Be frank about how you feel. Ask for understanding. Promise to be sensible (and keep your promise). Agree to wait at least two years before taking any final steps.

One other thing: At the bank do your work. Do not let your personal affairs interfere with it. This goes for Paul, too.

MAKEUP: (Q.) My mom says I can't wear makeup. I am 12 and will be in the seventh grade. My older sister started when she was in the sixth grade. I need help for my face.—Looking and Feeling Terrible in Texas.

(A.) Maybe your parents now believe that your sister started too early. Maybe they see the current trend toward heavy makeup among 12-year-olds and think it doesn't make sense.

I personally think it is excessive. I think all you will need at the start is a little eyeshadow, cheek blush and pale lipstick.

Talk to your mother about starting like that.

Meteorology stamps due

By GUSTAV DETJEN JR.

On Sept. 4 Ethiopia will release a set of three stamps to mark the centenary of the International Meteoroligical Organization. The first Congress was held in Vienna in 1873 and this event is generally considered as the beginning of organized international cooperation in meteorology. Further information available from Post Office Department, Philatelic Section, P.O. Box 1112, Addis Ababa, Ethiopia.

The German Bundespost will issue a special stamp on the occasion of the entry of the Federal Republic of Germany in the United Nations. The stamp depicts the emblem of the United Nations and next to it an illustration of the Federal German Eagle on background colors of black-red-gold, the colors of the German flag. The value is 40 Pfennig. The stamp will be printed in blue, red, yellow and black on white fluorescent paper. Date of issue is Sept. 21.

The 1973 welfare stamps with surcharges for the benefit of the Federal Working Association of Free Welfare Work shows illustrations of eight musical instruments. The values and designs are: a; 25 plus 10 Pf. French Horn, 19th century (brown); b; 30 plus 15 Pf. Pedal Grand Piano (18th century) (green); c) 40 plus 20 Pf. Violin, 18th century (red); d) 70 plus 35 Pf. Pedal Harp, 13th century (blue); e) 20 plus 10 Pf. Hurdy-Gurdy, 17th century (brown); f) 30 plus 15 Pf. Drum, 16th century (green); g) 40 plus 20 Pf. Lute, 18th century (red); h) 70 plus 35 Pf. Organ, 16th century (blue).

The first four values are inscrcibed "Deutsche Bundespost" and the latter four stamps show "Deutsche Bundespost Berlin."

Other issues

INDIA: Aug. 15—20 P—Portraits of Gandhi and Nehru.

CHRISTMAS ISLAND: Oct. 2—.7 cents and 25 cents—Christmas 1973.

NETHERLANDS ANTILLIES: Sept. 4—15c—25th Anniversary of the reign of Queen Juliana;

ITALY: May 22—25 lires—Centenary of the death of Manzoni;

CANADA: Sept. 20—8 c. and 15 c.—Olympic series, to be followed by seven low denominations on October 17;

AUSTRALIA: Sept. 5—7c—50th anniversary of the Legacy, an Australian war veterans' organization.

The Stamps Department of the U.S. Postal Service, formerly the Office of Philatelic Affairs, will be located at the north end of the 10th floor of the new Postal Service Headquarters Building in L'Enfant Plaza, Waashington, D.C.

Postage stamps from the United Nations and some three dozen countries around the world, bearing heart symbols and issued in connection with World Heart Month 1972, have been assembled in album form and are available at $20 per set from the International Cardiology Federation, P.O. Box 158-D, CH-1211, Geneva 12, Switzerland. The albums contain more than 50 stamps in striking colors.

Collecting U.S. plate number blocks is another interesting facet of stamp collecting. The Plate Block Collectors Club caters to this collector; they can be reached for further information at P.O. Box 173, Brookfield, Ill. 60513 or P.O. Box 937, Homestead, Fla. 33030. Those plate block collectors who try to collect matched sets of each number, that is all four corners, there is also the Plate Number Sociyty, 9600 Colesville Road, Silver Springs, Md. 20901. Their primary purpose is to encourage the exchange of plate numbered blocks. Membership dues in the latter group are $3.000 face value in mint U.S. plate numbered blocks. Membership includes a bulletin.

Collectors of philatelic literature may be interested in the Sept. 19 mail sale sponsored by Stamps Information Associates, Inc., 675-D Massachusetts Ave., Cambridge, Mass. 02139. Offered for sale are books, catalogs, exhibition catalogs, as well as covers, postal stationery and stamps.

The American First Day Cover Society has produced a new full-color slide program highlighting first day covers from 1901-1972. It is available to stamp clubs at no cost. For a reservation write to William P. Duffy, AFDCS Program Librarian, 83 Rdigecrest Drive, Westfield, Mass. 01085.

The 9974 Michel Catalog for Germany, territories and colonies is now ready. The 446 page volume is essential to the collector of Germany. The price is $4.80 plus 50c for postage. Order from Lighthouse Publications, Inc., 317-D West 44th St., New York, N.Y. 10036.

For Sunday, September 2

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your opinion and assistance on a confidential matter will be requested by someone who feels she can trust you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Practice co-operation today. It will have a reflective effect. You will gain much more than you give.

GEMINI (May 1-June 20) Some pleasant activity outdoors today will do much good. You need it to tune-up for the week ahead.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You won't be at your best today unless with one who really means something to you. Then you'll shine.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Something is astir that will prove of value later. It will come about through one of your family.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't wait to be asked. One you'd like to see would enjoy seeing you. Make today visiting day.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Take some time to get off on your own somewhere. Your intuition has a profitable message for you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You'll sparkle in any group you're in today. Club or charitable work is your cup of tea.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You will be aided secretly today. Someone can help you obtain something very important.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Draw upon your spiritual reserves if you have any problem. Your faith will work marvels for you today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Benefits come to you through the kindness of another. However, there's some mystery about it.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You will get very good cooperation today from one who hasn't been as helpful as she should have been.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
September 2

Your outlook will undergo a major transformation this coming year. Greater determination, coupled with fresh ideas, make this a time of real promise.

For Monday, Sept. 3

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Don't make any major decsions today at least till later afternoon. Then, you'll be much sharper.

TAURUS (April 20 May 20) A misunderstanding will arise today with one with whom you're working. It will clear if both remain calm.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) One whose company you'll share today will arouse your deep emotional feelings. This person has an aura of mystery.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You'll not be completely at ease today till you're through with outside responsibilities and can concentrate on your home.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) The early part of the day you'll feel somewhat left out of things. Later, a companion will get you back in the swim.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Commercial dealings you have today will be to your advantage provided you show how fair you are.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) This will be a very creative day. Any hunches or ideas will be better than usual. Use them.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Take whatever help is offered you today and be grateful. There are hidden motives, but they're for your good.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Fresh hope will come today just when you are about to give up. Don't discard dreams without a second try.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It's a good thing your sense of timing is so keen today. You'll put an incident to advantageous use.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your interest in something you've been neglecting will be refreshed today. You'll pick up where you left off.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Even though you may not, others will recognize an inner strength you possess. This is a day to get things done.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
Sept. 3.

Your financial picture will improve as the year progresses. Many things that you want for yourself and your family can be had if you'll really try.

First warships at Portsmouth

Anglo-Saxon King Alfred built the first English warships at Portsmouth, home port of the British navy, in 1897. A contemporary chronicler wrote that the 60-oared galleys "were of a peculiar build, higher, swifter and steadier than those of the Danes or the Frisians."

'Separate Realities' exhibition scheduled

LOS ANGELES — "Separate Realities," and exhibition by 27 California artists noted for representational work, will be held at the Municipal Art Gallery, Barnsdall Park, Sept. 19-Oct. 21.

Gallery hours are noon to 5 p.m. daily except Monday.

"In recent years, a large group of California realists whose work was virtually unseen in Los Angeles, gained prominence in New York and Europe," said Curt Opliger, director of the gallery. "This exhibition was planned to acquaint Southern California art followers with the importance of this major development of representational art emanating from our own area."

Laurence Dreiband, California artist and chairman of the fine arts department of the Art Center of Design in Los Angeles, is guest curator.

The criterion for deciding which artists were to be represented in "Separate Realities" was based on quality of achievment and on the extent to which the work advanced or significantly altered representational painting and sculpture.

Artists in the exhibition include William Allan, John Battenberg, Robert Bechtle, Douglas Bond, Vija Celmins, Robert Cottingham, Dreiband, Doug Edge, Bruce Everett, Lyn Foulkes, Ralph Goings, Gerald Gooch, Robert Graham, Marvin Harden, Maxwell Hendler, Don Hendricks, Richard Joseph, Richard McLean, Keisho Okayama, Kenneth Price, Joseph Raffael, Mel Ramos, Edward Ruscha, Paul Sarkisian, Paul Staiger, Wayne Thiebaud and James Valerio.

"The body of work presented in the show primarily concerns new directions in representation to illustrate the broad, original and genuinely independent representational painting and sculpture emerging in California," Opliger said.

The works shown in "Separate Realities" are loaned from more than 50 museums, galleries and private collections throughout the nation. The show is open free to the public.

Butz expects leveling off

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz said that he expected food prices to start leveling off in a few weeks and remain fairly constant through 1974.

"The consumer price index in September will show a substantial jump," Butz said. "However, that index will reflect price hikes that are already behind us.

"I would expect it to level off after that," he said. "I think food prices in 1974 may be a little higher than 1973, but not much."

Butz also said he did not consider present food prices unreasonable when considered in a "long-term context. During the past five years, food prices have risen less than almost any other economic indicator."

He said the American consumer still pays a lower percentage of his income for food than citizens of practically any other country

Valley Camera Club will display fair nature photos

POMONA — The Pomona Valley Camera Club will host a showing of nature division slides to be exhibited at the Los Angeles County Fair's 17th annual International Exhibit of Photography.

The showing, to be open admission free to the public, will take place at 300 Pomona Mall West, beginning at 7:30 p.m. on Sept. 6. Ernest Wells will narrate.

Included will be accepted slides from Australia, Canada, England, France, Germany, Scotland, South Africa and the United States.

Judges in this division are Victor Baldwin, Costa Mesa; Betty Davenport Ford, Claremont; Lee W. Lenz, Claremont; Howard Kessler, Sacramento; and Dr. Lloyd Ingles, Fresno.

The Photographic Society of America recognizes this exhibit and offers two silver medal awards, one for wildlife and one as judges' choice.

Gold, silver, bronze and honorable mention awards will be announced, as will the winner of the Los Angeles County Fair trophy.

On Sept. 7, at 7:30 p.m. the General Dynamics Camera Club will host a public showing of all slides accepted by the fair in the pictorial division.

Mrs. Alda Van Poppelendam of Pico Rivera will narrate and announce awards.

This meeting will be held in the recreation building at General Dynamics.

Rodney is the star of 500 parade

By PHYLLIS CANNON
P-B Staff Writer

ONTARIO — Rodney Allen Rippey, the child who won fame eating huge hamburgers on TV, was the star of the fourth annual Ontario 500 Festival Association parade here Saturday, stealing the spotlight and attention from established television stars and record-setting race drivers.

The 5-year-old boy, nattily dressed in a striped blazer and slacks, was all but mobbed all along the parade route by autograph seekers.

Patiently he printed his first name with a ballpoint pen, and those who succeeded in getting an autograph squealed with delight.

Other popular parade participants who rivaled the 500 drivers for the crowd's attention were "Mom" Unser, Elgin Baylor, Phil Harris and grand marshal James Garner.

Autograph seekers were in evidence all along the line of the snappy parade, which started promptly at 10 a.m. at 5th Street and Euclid Avenue and proceeded south along the avenue.

Grey, overcast skies and mid-50-degree temperatures did not detract from the gaiety of the event. Many parade watchers were bundled in coats and sweaters, others pulled blankets they had brought to sit on around their shoulders.

The parade theme, "The Wonderful World of Wheels," proved appropriate. Possibly more than half the parade entries rolled by on wheels. Some, bearing celebrities popular with the crowd, were welcome.

Others merely were endured and added to the length of the three-hour parade.

Enrollment Will Begin for Head Start program

POMONA — Pomona Unified School District's Head Start office, situated at Kingsley Elementary School at 1170 Washington Ave., will begin taking applications for the fall program on Tuesday.

Children who will be 4 on or before Dec. 2, and whose families meet income criteria are eligible to enroll.

The income level has been raised recently and those families whose children were turned down last spring are urged to call the office (623-5251, extension 402) Tuesday for a reevaluation of their eligibility.

Enrollments also will be taken for classes for 3-year-olds, children who will have had their third birthday on or before Dec. 2, and whose families meet the income criteria.

These classes will begin in January.

Pomona Head Start will conduct classes at Arroyo, Hamilton, Lexington, Madison, North San Antonio and Washington elementary schools this fall.

Anyone interested in having a child placed on the waiting list may contact the Head Start office after Tuesday between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

Public hearing is scheduled Wednesday on airport study

ONTARIO — An environmental impact report prepared for Ontario International Airport will get its first public airing Wednesday night.

The West Valley Airport Land Use Commission has set a hearing for 7 p.m. at the Bon View Center's assembly room, 1010 S. Bon View Ave.

Persons are invited to speak for or against the report during the hearing, officials said.

The Northrup Corp. made the study for the Los Angeles Department of Airports, operators of the Ontario International Airport. Such a study was required to meet state and federal regulations before a second main runway could be constructed at the Ontario facility.

"We want the hearing to provide for public input on the results of this report," said Kenneth Topping, director of the San Bernardino County planning department.

"We want to determine what implications this may have in regard to the use of land surrounding the airport."

The commission felt the impact report was important enough to provide a hearing so residents could have an opportunity to provide input, he added.

The airport land use commission also sits as the West Valley Planning Agency. It is composed of elected city and county officials who serve the West End of San Bernardino County.

Maurice Laham, environmental planner for the Los Angeles Department of Airports, has been invited to attend the hearing.

Topping will present a brief county planning staff report to the commission members.

The Northrup Corp. completed its study last June. Airport officials must also conduct a public hearing on the proposed project, with a transcript of the hearing and copies of the report to be sent to U.S. Department of Transportation officials. A date for the hearing has not been announced.

In its report, the consulting firm noted the most positive way to reduce the noise impact at the airport would be to construct the other runway.

The proposed project is to construct a new 10,200 foot runway parallel to the present east-west runway, with the new runway's threshhold being located 2,200 feet eastward.

This is expected to reduce airplane noise and pollution levels over populated areas in take-offs to the east.

Regarding residents affected by the noise, the consultants said the final decisions as to acceptable exposure periods is a matter for local determination, with the City of Onatrio and other communities having to investigate the possibility of acoustical modification.

Diamond Bar woman in fair competition

DIAMOND BAR — A local resident has entered the Home Arts Division competition at the 46th exposition of the Los Angeles County Fair, which runs Sept. 14 through 30.

Cleta A. Farr of Diamond Bar has entered her handwork samples. Winning entries will be on display in the Home Arts Building during the fair.

Other attractions include a varied array of divisional competitions and displays. Highlighting the affair will be nightly circus and rodeo shows in the main grandstands.

Mom-daughter pairs seeking fair crown

POMONA — Two Pomona mother-daughter look-alike teams will be competing for the mother-daughter look-alike crown at the Los Angeles County Fair on Sept. 20.

Gloria Buiss and her daughter, Tanya Glover, of 882 Ashfield Ave., and Betty Ruth Wilmore and her daughter, Brenda Lynne, of 1804 Morrison St., will be competing in the annual fair event.

Holiday delays city meetings

City Council meetings and rubbish collection schedules in most Pomona Valley communities will be delayed one day this week due to the Labor Day holiday.

City Councils in Pomona, Montclair, La Verne, and Upland will hold their regular meetings Tuesday night instead of Monday. In addition, the Chino Planning Commission and the Claremont and Walnut school boards will shift their meetings to Tuesday night.

Trash collections in all valley cities except Montclair and Upland will be one day late all week due to the holiday. Residents in Montclair will have regular disposal service Monday while service in Upland will be according to the regular schedule beginning Tuesday. Upland residents who normally have Monday pickup will be serviced on Tuesday.

Finally transit gets fare $hare

At this point, it is not so much the money — although $1 billion for starters is going to come in very handy — as the principle that is most important.

For the first time, mass transit is being cut in for a direct share in the billions pouring into —and out of — the Federal Highway Trust Fund, the kitty set up a decade back to finance the interstate road network and one of the most fantastically productive revenue-raising programs ever devised.

Under the new highway bill, municipalities beginning next July will be able to tap the trust for $200 million, with expenditures initially limited to busy purchases. The following year, however, $800 million will be available for rail and subway systems as well, with the promise of more to come.

To those in the land who have been crying out in alarm at the steady deterioration of public transportation facilities as private autos and superhighways proliferated, it is the realization of an idea whose time actually came years ago. The allocations fall short of meeting even the most pressing immediate needs of transit systems and are of a $23-billion bill which still emphasizes asphalt and concrete.

But it does set a precedent, opening the door to a treasure house which highway interest have long barred. Their argument is that the trust, fed by gasoline and road-use taxes, should be reserved for the direct benefit of those paying for it— motorists.

Until recently, most of the public -- which not so coincidentally is also mostly motorists — seemed to agree. But signs of changing attitudes on transportation in general abound. After thinking big is best for so many years, car buyers are turning to smaller, more economical models. Here and there around the country public opposition has halted freeway construction. And now in San Francisco, there is a movement to demolish one the Embarcadero.

President Nixon has been heard to murmur that in the preoccupation with political scandals, not enough attention is being paid to the "public's business."

He may have an excellent case in point in the muted fanfare with which signature of the highway (transport might now be the better word) bill was received. It is likely to have more influence on the future conditions of life in these United States than any number of Watergates.

U.S.-China trade unexpectedly high

Political and diplomatic dividends were expected to flow from the rapprochement with China and they obviously have.

Not expected were economic dividends, at least not immediately. Mainland China might be the world's largest untapped market, but the expert word was that the Chinese economy was still too underdeveloped to offer significant trading opportunities for some time to come.

It is something of a surprise, therefore, that in the short two years since President Nixon's historic visit to Peking, U.S.-Chinese trade had developed so briskly that the 1973 total is expected to reach $900 million worth, according to a New York Times report. The United States has, in fact, moved up from last among China's major trade partners to second, trailing only Japan.

China's chronic harvest problems account for much of this — Peking is making large purchases of U.S. grains and cotton — but U.S. exports also include jetliners and machinery.

The exchanges with China are still far short of U.S. trade with China's immediate neighbor, Japan (some $14 billion in 1972), or with the No. 1 U.S. partner, Canada (more than $27 billion in 1972), but it is a start, and an indication of how very rapidly the world can change.

We must be firm

Life in these United States often seems better when we look beyond our borders to other lands. In one strife-torn South American country, for instance, all it took was one saucy motorist sticking her tongue out at an army chief for near-tragedy to strike. According to witnesses, the woman stuck out her tongue as she drove by the general's car in her red compact. He was infuriated and ordered his driver to pursue her vehicle as he shot at it. Says a resident who saw the incident, "I heard a shot, I ran outside. I saw the general. He was putting a gun to the woman's head and he was telling her to apologize."

This appalling event would be unthinkable in the U.S., where freedom of speech and press are but two of many sacred Constitutional rights, guaranteed to all. We must be firm in our determination that it always remain so.

Nixon prides ability to keep cool

WASHINGTON — The strange shoving incident in New Orleans — where President Nixon grasped aide Ron Ziegler by the shoulders, spun him around and gave him an angry push — still has Washington whispering. Could the President be buckling under the Watergate pressure? Is he losing his grip on himself?

His strong showing before his press inquisitors at San Clemente has stopped the open talk but not the whispers.

Richard Nixon has always taken pride in his ability to control his temper. "A public official, particularly a President, should not show temper except for a purpose," he has told subordinates.

In private, he may display flashes of anger over small irritations. When someone tells a dirty joke in mixed company, for example, his dark jowls will flush. Or if an aide should do something stupid, the President may explode.

'He seethes'

However, he tends to bottle up any real wrath. The anger boils inside him until he becomes bitter. "He seethes," said a friend.

In trusted company, the President may betray his inner bitterness by making nasty cracks about those who have enraged him. This is one reason, suggested an aide, that Nixon is fighting against the release of the secret White House tapes. Some of his biting remarks about the high and mighty, apparently, were recorded.

While he is dealing with adversaries he holds his emotions in check. Not until the crisis is over does he let go. "I get a real letdown after one of these (confrontations)," he confided to a friend. "Then I begin to think of what bums they are."

But even for a President who keeps count of his political crises, Watergate has been an extraordinary ordeal. Sources close to him have seen signs of the strain. As the Watergate wreckage piled up around him he became drawn and distant. His periods of brooding lengthened; his private remarks about his tormentors became more ugly.

Cracks under pressure

In New Orleans, his self-control finally cracked under the pressure. A safety valve gave way, and he "blew his stack."

The shoving of Ron Ziegler, however, wasn't the first time Nixon has laid hands on an aide. During the 1960 campaign, frustration and fury built up inside him as the polls showed him falling behind John F. Kennedy. Nixon could sense the presidency slipping from his grasp.

As he prepared for his election eve telecast, the inner storm was ready to break. The late Everett Hart, a TV production specialist, approached him with some last-minute suggestions. Nixon didn't want to be bothered and gruffly ordered Hart to fetch his military aide. When Hart demurred, Nixon gave his TV adviser ahard shove against the chest.

The incident might have been tragic; Hart was recovering from open-heart surgery. Members of his family, still bitter over the incident, told us Hart had to go back for more heart operations before he died last January.

Time's president

He also lost patience in 1960 with another campaign aide, James Shepley, who is now president of Time magazine. Witnesses remember the furious Nixon telling Shepley: "I don't want to see you on this plane again!" Once during the campaign, the same sources recall, Nixon got so upset that he threatened to leave the country.

In the privacy of the White House, the President occasionally flies into a rage and invokes the power of government against his adversaries. But aides insist he usually calms down and calls off the federal forces before any damage is done.

In 1970, for instance, he visited his mother's sister, the late Edith Timberlake, at the Beverly Manor Convalescent Hospital in Riverside, Calif. He fumed afterward over the accommodations.

Recalled a former aide: "The President stomped around, chewing out everyone in sight. He fired off directives in every direction. He ordered a search to find out whether the hospital received federal payments. He damn well wanted them cut off."

Pleased

But later, he paid his aunt another visit and was so pleased over her care that he sent the hospital a letter of commendation.

He has a habit, when provoked, to categorize his enemies and threaten retribution. Although some aides ignore these fulminations, others have taken his threats seriously enough to draw up an enemies list. Some people on the list have complained of federal harassment.

Confidential White House minutes in our files show that the President lost his temper when the Senate opposed his nomination of Judge Clement Haynsworth to the Supreme Court. "Unless some new fact comes in," he thundered, "I will stick by Haynsworth even if he gets only one vote. Will I withdraw him? I will not!" He vowed retaliation against the senators who crossed him.

It is rare, however, for the President to show his temper. Those who have penetrated his seclusion have found him to be warm and friendly. He usually expresses anger with a cold, silent fury rather than a sudden outburst. When anger flashes across his face, he often catches himself and turns away. In public, he will sometimes break into an Exxon Tiger smile.

Bit his tongue

After his ailing father died, for example, Nixon asked sympathizers not to send flowers but to contribute to a health fund. An aide told us the President was accosted at the funeral by a florist who scolded him for setting an example that could hurt the florist business. Nixon's eyes blazed and he started to blurt something. But he bit his tongue and turned on his heel.

President Nixon, meanwhile, is still in a black mood over Watergate. He keeps largely in seclusion in the various presidential sanctums. In his private conversations, he expresses more anger against his accusers than against those who committed the Watergate crimes.

His erratic behavior in New Orleans caused a lot of tongue-clucking. Many people reminded us of his visits in the 1950s to a Park Avenue psychotherapist named Dr. Arnold Hutschnecker. All we know is that the then Vice President, exhausted after a foreign trip, went to Dr. Hutschnecker for treatment and was given "some pills".

Our report on his visit brought this emphatic comment from Dr. Hutschnecker: "During the entire period that I treated Mr. Nixon, I detected no sign of mental illness in him. As I came to know him over the years, we developed a trusting professional as well as amicable personal relationship . . . He always impressed me as a man with superior intellect and keen perception."

Gossip for today

Although I don't consider myself a prophet of doom and gloom, nevertheless I must confess that at times I am guilty of harboring certain X-rated thoughts regarding the sanity of the Great American Public.

We moan and groan about food shortages and spiraling food prices and at the same time, in Merced, we carted 100 tons of peaches to the city dump because of wage arguments.

We are unable to design a satisfactory pollution control device for autmoibles but we are building a $10 a whirl slot machine with a $1 million jackpot payoff.

We send our missionaries to savage lands to encourage the natives to cover their bodies with clothing while here at home fortunes are being made in the design and sale of belly-button jewelry.

We complain about the costs of health and welfare but find no difficulty in raising the money necessary to underwrite a beauty contest for snakes.

But on the credit side of the ledger let it be recorded that although we are fighting a losing battle with crime in the streets, at least we have come up with a built-in handbag siren to foil purse snatchers

And to compensate for the loss of an international track and field meet to the Russians, we have set a new world's record for non-stop pogo stick jumping.

OUR MAN IN WASHINGTON

Insanity of a few calls for caution

By RICK GOTCHER
P-B Washington Bueau

WASHINGTON — The "flower generation" has created a social monster that feeds on the trust of its makers.

Latest victims of this antithetical creation, which surfaced prominently during the Charles Manson episode, are 27 young boys found tortured and slain in Houston.

The cause of this grisly tragedy will never be fully explained. The person responsible is dead and his two known living accomplices are probably unable to give a coherent understanding for his motives.

But that isn't the point here — a killer's motives are always only sufficient to himself — the question is why did these youngsters allow themselves to so easily be led by the promise of drugs, sex, or whatever?

At least part of the answer can be found in today's permissive society; literature written only for shock value; movies that sell skin and violence; and, more subtly, the instance solutions of complex personal problems on a 30-minute television show.

However these have only transitory impact. But the peace, brotherhood and love message is a lasting one. And because it is, its followers are prone to think themselves above the world's cruelties.

A recent conversation with two young hitchhikers, a girl and boy, provides some insight into the problem:

Doesn't it bother you, out on the road like this, that you are vulnerable to any passing wierdo?

"What's the worry? If something is going to happen, it'll happen. You can get killed crossing the street."

Yes, but you don't deliberately cross the street just to see if the cars respect your indifference.

"Our generation isn't indifferent. Who do you think stopped the war?"

Your social activism is well-known. Whether it stopped the war is something wiser heads will have to decide. We're talking about your personal indifference, however.

"What's personally indifferent about loving your fellow man?"

Nothing, it's a beautiful thought. But where in your philosophy do you place thesavage psychotics who commit the rapes and murders which seem to headline newspapers daily?

"We don't think about them. They can't bother us because those situations are outside our belief.

"Besides, they are extremes and when you've been around enough, like us, you learn to size people up and stay away from those who might do harm."

If you "don't think about them," then why bother to stay away from someone you think is potentially dangerous?

Neither could explain that contradiction.

"You know, your generation is responsible for all the trouble in this world. If everybody loved and trusted his neighbor, there wouldn't be all this junk."

You might be right on both counts. But if you admit the problems, why can't you admit your personal solutions are easily exploited by devious and, sometimes, terrible people?

"Because we only want to think good thoughts."

Those 27 boys in Houston probably only wanted to think "good thought." We all would like to. But good thoughts run counter to the insanity of a few, which requires a certain amount of personal caution.

L.V. planners wind up work on general plan, send it to council

LA VERNE — The Planning Commission wrapped up its work last week on the city's proposed general plan and sent its recommendations for approval to the City Council.

The council will hold a public hearing on the proposal, a master plan that is expected to guide the city's growth for the next decade, on Sept. 17.

The commission wound up more than six months of work Tuesday, making two final recommendations affecting land use within the city.

It decided to keep five areas agricultural rather than residential as proposed earlier. The planners agreed with representatives of the Commission on Environmental Quality that the changes, if necessary, could be made appropriately at a later time.

The CEQ apparently convinced the planners that with open space continuously shrinking, it was more expedient to maintain as much land in green as possible.

Three of the five areas are expected to be bisected by the proposed Foothill Freeway.

They include about 40 acres on the southeast corner of Base Line Road and Emerald Avenue; eight acres south of Bowdoin St. and west of Wheeler Avenue; and 12 acres near Bowdoin and Fruit Street.

Also left as agricultural are 10 acres southwest of Amherst Street and Bradford Avenue, and 31 acres south of Golden Hills Road at the eastern city boundary.

The Planning Commission also decided at the request of residents on the south side of town to leave a strip of land in commercial-manufacturing use between Arrow Highway and Walnut Avenue from A Street to E Street.

The preliminary form of the general plan had indicated a proposal to place that area into an industrial zone.

Charles Le Gros, planning director, said the commission felt that by changing the existing zones on the agricultural parcels the city would "encourage premature development."

"If and when the need arose for changing the use of those areas," he declared, "we feel the time to consider them was at the time of the need."

Walnut area teachers return to classrooms

WALNUT — Classes start Sept. 11 for students in Walnut Valley Unified School District, but teachers return a week earlier for orientation and "welcome back" luncheons.

Community Clubs at each of the schools will host a luncheon for teachers, staff, and district employes throughout the week. Walnut High School students will be on campus Tuesday through Thursday for registration under a new do-it-yourself system.

Walnut Elementary School Community Club members host their luncheon at noon Tuesday in the school's multi-purpose room. Orientation starts the same day and continues throughout the week. The club is also helping with a pre-school mailing to parents of information about programs, schedules, and rules.

Collegewood and Vejar elementary schools have scheduled their luncheons for Tuesday. The Collegewood Community Club will present the program at noon in the school cafeteria, while Vejar's club board hosts a session at 11:30 a.m. in the multi-purpose room.

Three back-to-school luncheons are planned for Thursday. Mrs. Carol Jensen, hospitality chairman for the Suzanne School Community Club, will be in charge of the activity at 11 a.m. in the multi-purpose room. Noon starting times are set for the programs at Castle Rock and Evergreen elementary schools.

New teachers will be greeted with a luncheon of their own at Walnut High School on Friday. The 11:30 a.m. session, set in the school cafeteria, follows a week-long program of orientation and department meetings.

Walnut High students face something new themselves, this year, as the school initiates a class registration system in which the pupils pick out their own programs. Seniors start on Tuesday from 8:45 to 11:45 a.m.; juniors register Tuesday afternoon from 12:30 to 4; sophomores sign up Wednesday from 8:45 to 11:45 a.m.; and freshmen start their high school programs with sign-ups Wednesday afternoon from 12:30 to 4.

Open registration for all students who were not able to register at their assigned times and days will be held from 12:30 to 4 p.m. on Thursday.

District trustees hope the new registration program will encourage teacher participation, foster development of student decision-making abilities, and eliminate massive class schedule changes after the school year is under way.

Brezhnev defends U.S. link against critics

LONDON (UPI) — Soviet party Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev has slapped down Kremlin critics of his policy of close cooperation with the United States who fear the Watergate affair will affect President Nixon's commitments to Moscow, Communist diplomatic sources said Tuesday.

The hard line critics have been arguing that Brezhnev has tied his policy too closely to Nixon and is running a considerable risk in the face of the uncertainty of the President's future standing and powers, the sources said.

Brezhnev has firmly opposed his opponents with the argument that the accords reached must be considered primarily as agreements with the United States, irrespective of who is the president.

Moreover, the critics have been given to understand that the Kremlin switch to closer cooperation with the United Soviet Union and its economic future, the sources indicated.

Moscow is continuing its policy of keeping the Watergate affair out of the limelight and avoiding any public discussion of Nixon's future.

Communist diplomats are critical of the western publicity of the affair and suspect it as part of an alleged concerted allied strategy to undermine Nixon because of his switch to closer relations with the Soviet bloc.

There is little doubt, according to the diplomatic informants, that Brezhnev feels he has established a good personal relationship with Nixon and expects to be able to continue "doing business" with him.

But they argue, that according to the Communist book one deals with "whomever is in power." The line on which the Kremlin has embarked will prevail, but there might be hitches and delays, they said.

Moscow would want especially the projected trade deals with the United States and others to be set in motion as soon as possible. The state of the Soviet economy appears to be heavily dependent on their fruition in the view of western experts who hold that the technological gap with the West is strikingly wide.

These experts also hold that the Brezhnev's survival in power hinges largely on his policy of cooperation with the United States proving a success for Russia.

Cheaper substitute

Researcher urges wood as new feed for cattle

PULLMAN, Wash. (UPI) — Beef cattie can be fattened for the broiler on a diet of wastepaper and wood, a researcher maintains.

A diet of cooked wood and paper can be substituted for scarce grain as the major source of carbohydrates for cattle and sheep, said Dr. Irwin Dyer of Washington State University.

Dyer, an animal nutritionist doing research under a $15,000-a-year grant from a timber firm, said cattle are fattened 14 per cent slower on wood products than grain.

But fed a little longer, he said Tuesday, "they will finish out about the same."

With grain prices soaring, he said, wood products could become a major new feed source for livestock. He said barley now cost about $120 a ton, but a new wood-base cattle feed has been selling for $35 a ton in the northwest and Canada.

The manager of the firm that manufactures the feed, Herb Kalbfleisch, said, "We have no alternative but to go to a cheaper source of feed.

"Let them eat wood."

The proclamation was sent to Los Angeles Mayor Tom Bradley.

Ancient tribes used corn

Though corn did not spread throughout Europe until the 16th century, it had long been the principal food crop of the Mayas, Aztecs, Incas and other Indian tribes. Corn pollen taken from drill cores 200 feet below Mexico City was about 60,000 years old.

The latest population estimate for Utah was 1,128,000.

Literary mystery

Was 'Patience Worth' for real?

ST. LOUIS (UPI) —On a hot, stuffy St. Louis summer night 60 years ago three women passed the time experimenting with a Ouija board. They had not had much luck in previous attempts to contact spirits but thought they would give it another try.

After several false starts the board spelled out a message:

"Many moons ago I lived. Again I come—Patience Worth my name."

Over the next quarter of a century "Patience Worth" and her earthly contact, Pearl Curran, wife of a successful St. Louis businessman, presented the world with literary works of much eloquence and beauty. The volume of the work was staggering—four million words, seven books, thousands of poems, epigrams and stories and hours of witty conversation —all, according to Mrs. Curran, spelled out one letter at a time with amazing speed.

The story of Patience Worth is detailed in a book, "Singer in the Shadows — The Strange Story of Patience Worth." Its author, Irving Litvag, has no explanation for the appearance of the spirit from another time and another place, and thinks it better that the mystery remain unsolved.

"I'm a rational human being," Litvag said in an interview, "and I try to get as much information as possible to solve the problems of life. But working on a book like this for about two years, you become emotionally involved in a way, caught up in the aesthetic beauty of the story as an unsolved mystery."

The source of the works, assertedly dictated by Patience Worth through Mrs. Curran, remains a puzzle for many reasons. The language was from many different periods, Litvag notes, from the time of Christ up to 20th century America, and Mrs. Curran disclaimed any personal literary talent. "Patience" was said to discourage speculation and probing into her background, replying that nothing mattered except what she had to say. One example of her poetry expresses this thought:

"I am molten silver running. Let man catch me within his cup. Let him proceed upon his labour, smithing upon me Let him with cunning smite my substance. Let him at his dream, lending my stuff unto its creation. It shall be no less me!"

Many skeptics charged that "Patience Worth" was a fraud, that Mrs. Curran actually made up the works herself. While there is no evidence she made any profit from "Patience Worth," Mrs. Curran's description of how she received her works did little to end the suspicions. "I am like a child with a magic picture book," Mrs. Curran once explained. "Once I look upon it, all I have to do is watch its pages open before me, and revel in their beauty and variety and novelty."

Some skeptics suggested that Mrs. Curran had literary talent in her subconscious that created the literature attributed to Patience Worth. Since Mrs. Curran's death in 1937 the voice of "Patience Worth" has been stilled, so the mystery is unlikely ever to be solved.

Fort Point growing tourist attraction

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — One of the fastest growing tourist attractions in the Bay Area is an old fort that never fired a shot in anger.

"Last year we had 500,000 visitors," said National Parks ranger Jim Lester as he stood in the giant courtyard at Fort Point, a massive brick structure that guarded the Golden Gate during some of America's most troubled times.

"And we are running 120 per cent of that figure so far this year," he added.

The park service opened the fort on a day-to-day basis just last year but the public had its first look at the three-story building long before that.

In 1967 the Fort Point Museum Association held a public "open house" and some 16,000 persons came through the fort's sally port during a four-hour period.

The fort, the largest brick fortification erected on the West Coast of North America, was built by the Army between 1854 and 1861.

Modeled somewhat after Fort Sumter, South Carolina, Fort Point is in the shape of an irregular quadrangle with the longest side 250 feet. The walls average about seven feet thick and are marked by gun ports that once mounted 149 cannon, including those on the roof.

A 12-pounder still sits in the courtyard and school children get a chance to play artilleryman.

"The kids get to run the ramrod and put in a ball," Lester said. "The ammunition is mock and doesn't make any noise but the children provide plenty of that."

The fort houses a museum that contains scores of old Army uniforms, guns and other equipment.

And tour guides wear uniforms of the Civil War era.

Guide Lee Shenk, dressed in a Civil War artilleryman's garb, plays bugle calls that can be heard down the fort's long passages.

"I also have to know the history of the uniform," Shenk said after blowing assembly and the Blue and Gray March. "People often ask why the brim of the hat is turned up."

"That's so you wouldn't chop it off with your sword while giving a salute."

The fort was abandoned for military use in 1905 but was used expediently during both World Wars and during construction of the Golden Gate Bridge, which soars overhead.

The closest the men at Fort Point came to combat was in the Civil War when fears mounted that a Confederate privateer would try to enter the bay.

Capt. James I. Waddell of the Shenandoah planned to do so but the war came to an end before he could turn his plans into action.

Historians consider the fort one of the nation's finest example of pre-Civil War military technology, but it was hopelessly outdated not long after construction stopped. The fort's guns became obsolete with the advent of breech loading, disappearing guns and other advances.

Writer Rudyard Kipling noted this fact in 1889 when he sailed through the Golden Gate aboard the City of Peking.

Kipling, no doubt with a touch of British jingoism, wrote: "I saw with great joy that the blockhouse which guarded the mouth of the 'finest harbour in the world, Sir,' could be silenced by two gunboats from Hong Kong with safety, comfort and dispatch."

This may have been so, but the massive walls of the fort are certainly enough to fool today's average tourist.

GROCERY DELIVERY — "The Walking Store" in tempera is one of the works by Hungarian-born artist John Bernat (1910-1964) which are now on exhibition at the Pomona Public Library. Some 30 works have been loaned by the artist's widow, Berat, who became an American citizen and lived for many years in Southern California, won the Prix de Roma.

Brothers turn from sled dogs to bears

LINCOLN, N.H. (UPI) —It's noon any day of the summer and 400 people are leaning over a steel fence watching Murray Clark engage in a shoving match with a friend, yelling "Don't you bear on me."

"I can't stand it when they bear on me," he mutters, and the tourists shout with laughter. The friend who is "bearing" on Clark is a big black bear.

Clark, 45, and his brother, Ed, 49, got into the bear training business in 1950 because tourism was their way of life—as it is in much of New Hampshire—and they thought people were losing interest in their parents' Eskimo sled dogs.

Edward and Florence Clark opened Clark's Trading Post on the road to Franconia North and the Old Man of the Mountain, the stone face which is New Hampshire's greatest single tourist attraction, back in 1928. They were tired of New York City and Clark knew Eskimo dogs from his days trading furs in Labrador.

They trained the dogs and kept a few bears on the side, just to look at.

Their dogs served in the armed forces of Britain, Norway and the United States in World War II and were used by Admiral Richard Byrd in his 1948 expedition to Antarctica.

Trained bear acts proved a success, so great that Clark says they tried to phase the animals out when steam locomotives and a museum were added, but couldn't. "The public would come here looking forward to the bears," he said.

The bears look forward to the people, and sit on platforms high up on poles out front, working little trolly cars. Children put in bear food (dog pellets), peanuts and the best of all modern bear treats, ice cream.

Ice cream and marshmallows keep the act going, as the bigger bears climb poles for marshmallows and the 18-month-old "cubby bears" stick their tongues through a hole in a barrel to lick ice cream. Any flavor will do, but strawberry is a favorite.

"You won't see us mistreat the bears and you won't see anything thrilling," Clark warns his audience. "If it got thrilling" (a doleful voice) "it would just ruin my day."

He and his brother, their wives, and seven of their nine children, have no time for thrills—that's for the visitors. The whole family pitches in to run the show, feeding bears, taking people through a tilted "Haunted House," running the White Mountain Central Railroad (the ticket guarantees a ride of less than 100 miles), running the trading post and snack bar, and constantly searching for bits of "Americana" for the museum.

So far the museum specializes in steam fire engines, mechanical pianos of every description, typewriters, old cameras, model railroads, swords, posters, glass light-up tops from old gasoline pumps, early telephones and elec- miles per hour. trical equipment — anything that strikes a Clark fancy.

The whole works draws 200,000 paying customers a year, and countless more who stop out front for free to feed the bears.

The big thrill for most children is the ride over the Pemigewasset River (Crooked River that Runs Among White Pines) and through the woods in a train drawn by a steam locomotive-but not the kind you ever saw on the main line.

The Clarks collect geared locomotives, the small, slow, tough little engines that can pull heavy loads of logs over steep grades and bad railroad beds. The biggest engine achieves a racing speed of 15 miles per hour.

The train stopped at the river until Ed Clark found an old covered railroad bridge in East Montpelier, Vt. He acquired it for a little cash and a 1910 Ford, found some granite bridge abutments elsewhere in Vermont, and brought the whole works home a truckload at a time in the winter of 1964 to extend the railroad.

Now it comes to a dead end just short of the construction site for Interstate 93, which Murray Clark hopes will never go all the way through Franconia Notch, tourism or no tourism.

Della Reese happy with life she leads

DENVER (UPI) —Onstage and off, singer Della Reese says she is a "people person."

"I believe in man and that the world must be run collectively by all people, be they white, black, Chinese or whatever," said the lady with the big brassy voice. "We all must work together."

The singer said in an interview there is no difference between Della the entertainer and Della the woman. "I'm just me, independent Della—all of the time," she said.

"I wouldn't consider myself to be a woman's liberationist, because as a black woman I feel I've always been liberated in many respects."

The 40-year-old singer explained that as a black woman in the entertainment business, she has rarely encountered prejudices or obstacles bcause of her race, and then long ago. She recalled that in earlier years, in Las Vegas night clubs, "blacks weren't allowed into the night clubs where I performed. Those were some really bad days, and I'm happy things have finally changed."

A frequent guest and sometimes hostess on Johnny Carson's "Tonight Show," Della said the image of her projected by television is not a complete one.

"Everything on those TV shows is pre-planned and calculated for exact times. Sure, that's Della Reese you see, but that's not all of me. I like to think that there is so much more.

"I'm often referred to as a pop singer, but I consider myself a Della Reese singer—giving to my audiences a wide variety of tunes including rock, blues, jazz and gospel."

A divorcee, Della and her 13 year old daughter (Deloreese Jr.) live comfortably in Hollywood. Having been divorced after eight years of marriage, she says she has no immediate plans for another marriage. "I left my husband following the birth of our daughter, and I must admit I've been very happy over the past 13 years. But I will say this—if the right man comes into my life and we share a mutual love—I would like to get married again."

She made another point: "I believe in green power—and the average man doesn't usually make the kind of money that I earn as an entertainer."

Romans built first aqueduct

The Romans developed a system for delivering water to Rome from more than 60 miles away. They built aqueducts 50 to 100 feet high. The first known system was constructed by the Phoenicians.

Classics return in fall

A return to the classics in shapes, colors and patterns will mark this fall's back-to-school fashions.

Add a touch of nostalgia and the sporty look, and fashions start a trend to cleaner, more tailored, neater styles.

Traditional patterns and textures take the lead with plaids and checks in autumn brights and deep, rich earth tones. Spruce green, brick red, burgundy, camel and tree-bark brown add touches of color. Ivory, natural, string and pewter lend contrast and accessory notes to the darker shades.

The sweater-look is all-important this year and teams up with sporty plaid pleated skirts and kneesocks, plaid pants, jumpers and smocks.

Another classic, moving from spring into fall, is shirtdressing with its fluid skirts, soft shoulders and blouson tops. The shirt dress is getting big and little girls back into dresses.

For the college set fashions from the "flirty thirties" and the "golden twenties," including the shawl-collared and super long sweaters, will go along with the charm of the new ladylike way of dressing.

Classic materials also return this fall, and those who sew their own styles will have available to them such fabrics as donegals, tweeds, herringbones, flannels and meltons.

For all ages the wardrobe concept is basic this school year with everything related. A plaid jacket and matching skirt mark the return of the suit for the grammer school girls as well as their older counterparts. By adding matching pants, a jumper and a sweater the costume is always interchangeable.

CASUAL PLAID

Girls' pants sets for fall feature plaids and cinched waists. Shown above is a set in red, yellow and green window plaid, knit of washable dacron polyester. Bands of yellow are at the neck, waist and sleeves.

SUIT LOOK

For school or fun outings is the plaid suit shown above. The suit has a zippered shirt-styled jacket and dirndle skirt with elasticized waist, and is an example of this fall's trend back to plaids and the suit for the classroom set.

OFF TO CLASS

Although it looks like a two-piece outfit, the knit dress is attached to a ribbed turtle neck top accented with tiny flowers. The solid blue a-line dress is appliqued with "Love." Easy to care for, the dress is perfect for back-to-school wear, play and parties.

CAMPUS CLASSICS

Plaids and sweaters will be evident on the college campuses when school resumes this fall. Plaids are back for the men as well as the women this year and are part of the return of the classics.

BACK TO SCHOOL

Coordinates that click for fall are bright plaids and subtle checks for back-to-school wear. The cuffed pants and u-neck vest and the camel plaid dress with drawstring ties, above, are sew-yourself Singer fashions. Patterns and fashion plaids and check fabrics are featured in Singer Centers.

A 6:30 p.m. covered-dish dinner is planned for members and their husbands. Mrs. Paul Downs will conduct a brief business meeting before the social evening.

DAVID ARMSTRONG

Travelers schedule speaker

Pomona Valley Travelers will open its fall season Wednesday with a program by David Armstrong of Armstrong Galleries.

"Limited Edition Porcelain Figurines and Collectors' Plates" will be Mr. Armstrong's topic at the 2 p.m. meeting in St. Ambrose Episcopal Church, Claremont.

He will describe the history of collectors' plates, why people buy the plates, and their importance from an investor's standpoint. A number of famous figurines will be displayed.

Armstrong's has one of the largest selections of limited edition figurines and plates in the United States. Customers are from across the nation.

The Travelers club has scheduled a Hawaiian tour on Sept. 10 to 24. The group leaves Claremont at 8 a.m. and will fly to Hawaii via Western Airlines. The tour will include three islands.

Erma Bombeck

My husband says I overreact to a traffic ticket. That's not true. I know a lot of women who cry for three days. And sell the car. And try to retain F. Lee Bailey to defend them.

The trouble with men is they do not have the proper respect for a traffic ticket. To them, it is a sign of manhood, like drinking a quart of beer without belching. To women, it's an emotional trauma, comparable to Hester wearing a large "A" on her chest that stands for Auto Violation.

My husband considers my traffic tickets the greatest source of humor since Milton Berle wore a dress. As a high school graduate, I consider them a humiliation.

I have received three citations in 23 years of driving. The first one was in 1950, when I made a U-turn in front of a paddy wagon. I know what you're thinking. You're thinking I didn't see the paddy wagon. Wrong. In my mind, I humanized the police officer, rationalizing he was a man who took out the garbage, stood in line at the circus, and knew the agonies of circling the block 18 times only to see a parking spot on the other side.

If I live to be a hundred, I will never forget the laughter that came out of that paddy wagon.

My second misdemeanor was for speeding . . . while passing a police cruiser. As I sped by, I purposely waved to the officer and pointed to my watch, indicating that I, had a dental appointment for my son and would be charged for it if we were late.

I thought it odd when he escorted me from behind with his siren and red light for three miles, but I respected him for his understanding.

In traffic court, I sobbed so uncontrollably they had to give me two aspirin and a cup of hot tea to sedate me.

Last week, I cut in front of a police car to make an illegal left turn. As the officer put on his riot helmet and a crowd began to form around my car, I knew he would not buy the fact that if I was stupid enough to cut in front of a police cruiser for an illegal turn, I surely wouldn't be smart enough to figure out the one-way streets in the downtown area.

What could I do? I got out of the car, threw myself against the hood with my feet apart, asked to hear my rights, and requested a phone call to my husband.

Now, my husband is laughing. But just wait till he finds out who gets custody of the kids!

Young Americans needing help in Paris can get it

PARIS (UPI) —If that old book "Europe On Five Dollars A Day" wasn't still float ing around, Mrs. Margaret Garrett might have an occasional quiet day.

As it is, a dozen young Americans pour daily into her tiny office at the American Aid Society, a private charity housed at the U.S. Embassy. They have one thing in common: They're broke.

"One of the biggest problems is that book," signed Mrs. Garrett, society president and mother confessor to some 1,500 troubled Americans who come to her desk each year.

"Most of the travelers these days are new travelers, so misinformed. They still think you can get along on $5 a day. The normal estimate is $10, and that's only for food and room.

"The young people think of the days when Ernest Hemingway was in Paris, when you could be happy and poor in Paris. It's not that way now."

Busy day

It was a busy day at the Aid Society when a UPI reporter visited:

10 A.M.—Young man in jeans who lost passport. He said he loaned it to somebody else and never got it back. He was sent to the Embassy passport office.

10:30 A.M.—Boy on group tour whose hotel is paid for, but who ran out of food money. He had only seven francs ($1.60) left for four days until his charter flight leaves. He timidly asked for 22 francs ($5). Mrs. Garrett said with a smile, "He needs so little that it isn't necessary for me to phone his parents. It's a justifiable loan and I'm sure he'll pay us back."

11:00 A.M.—Boy who lost his return charter flight ticket. He was told how he could telephone his parents collect. He asked them to send $50. They said they'd send $100.

And so it went all day long.

The society was started by private Americans in Paris in 1922 to help stranded World War I veterans get home. During the World II the society —supported by private contributions and foundations—channeled food packages in Americans in occupied France, including Gertrude Stein and Raymond Duncan. After the war the society helped GI's studying in Paris.

Then the charter flights of the '60's resulted in many travelers being in the beard-and-knapsack class.

"That doubled our load and problems," said Mrs. Garrett, wife of a U.S. Embassy official.

"For those who are broke and need only under $20, we advance them the money and they sign this pledge," she said, showing a card saying "I faithfully promise to repay as soon as I am in a position to do so."

She picked up a packet of 20 bills she had mailed out for repayment of loans. The post office had sent them all back marked "address unknown" or "addressee moved."

Call parents

"About 60 per cent pay us back," she said.

"For those who need more money, we help them call collect to their parents. While they are waiting for money to arrive, we put them up in a little hotel—we practically own that hotel. They pay the bill when they get their money."

The next big problem is lost passports and travelers' checks.

"The trouble is their clothes. Those tight pants. They don't have any safe pockets," the tall, elegant Mrs. Garret said. "The youth keep passports in exposed hip pockets, or knapsacks. Then they sleep on the quais by the river or in train stations and they get robbed."

Forty young people reported lost-stolen passports within four days to the Embassy recently. The society loaned many of them money for the new passports.

Student Counseling

So many young Americans now are studying in France—there are 75 third-year-abroad study programs in France alone, compared to three after World War II—that the society had to organize a special student counseling service.

Social worker Irving Levin of Washington said most students who come to him suffer "a temporary cultural crisis" of being in a strange country. He also visits Americans in French prisons, many on drug charges. Twice recently he was summoned to Paris hospitals to take charge of finding the parents of boys freaked out on LSD and in serious condition.

Many girls who come to Levin and Mrs. Garrett are pregnant. If they ask, they are advised of abortion facilities in England and urged to call their parents.

The society also cares for elderly U.S. pensioners living in Paris. As its last gesture, the society sends home the goods of Americans who die in France.

Traveler finds same problems aboard ship

By DONALD W. REYNOLDS

Aboard RMS Queen Elizabeth II — As most air patrons will agree, pleasant air travel is a thing of the past.

From the interminable telephone delays on your first call for a reservation right up until you arrive at your destination to learn that your baggage has been lost, the entire experience has been a series of frustrations. Deleyed flights are the rule rather than the exception and no specific information is ever available to the unfortunate traveler. Interminable hikes at over-crowded airports with security checks to complicate the boardings seem to be a part of the airlines conspiracy to keep you at home.

Therefore I was most intrigued to plan a leisurely trip to Europe by ship. My dissolutionment started when I was greeted by an amateurly painted sign saying that the escalator at the 44th Street Pier was out of order. The Que Two has 11 passenger decks —, and the formidable stairs at the dock measured approximately the height of a five story building. And at the summit the same sort of security check we have learned to expect at airports. No passenger is looking forward to being hijacked, but there must be a better way of checking hand luggage. Apparently cabin baggage is checked through X-ray equipment. If not, there is little point in searching carry-on bags. If such equipment is available why not use it.

And — again reminiscent of airlines — the 8 p.m. sailing is announced as departing at 10 p.m. Nothing is quite so bedraggled as a bon voyage party extending an extra two hours.

Admitedly, once under way, things do improve. This flag ship of the Cunard Line has been excellently designed. Staterooms are spacious and the public areas convenient and attractive.

Feeding approximately 1,700 passengers and about a 1,000 crew and staff members is a rough job. The remarkable thing is not that the food is only adequate, but that they can serve 7,000 meals a day of any sort. And for the gourmet, there is the Queen's Grill, where for a substantial extra charge special individual meals can be ordered.

What do 1,700 tourists do for five days between New York and London? You pay your money and take your choice — contests of all sorts, quizzes, bridge games, table tennis, shuffle board, lectures on Paris and London, discussions on investments mediated by a financial analyst and music by quartets, full orchestras and classical artists. Perhaps most popular is a casino with slot machines, roulette wheels, crap tables and twenty-one games.

It has been an interesting interval — but I'm afraid the art of offering truly pleasant travel has been lost. But then one could stay at home.

Ford decision to idle about 6,900 workers

CORONADO, Calif. (UPI) — The decision of Ford Motor Co. to shift its production emphasis toward smaller cars in the 1974 production run will mean the closing down of two assembly plants and the temporary idling of 6,900 workers, 3,500 in Michigan.

Six North American assembly plants will be involved in the changes designed to increase output of intermediate, compact and subcompact cars, two of them —at Wayne, Mich. and Chicago —will be shut down completely during the changeover.

Ford officials said they did not think the shift would result in any permanent reduction in hours workers at any of the plants, however.

About 3,500 employes will be affected at the Wayne plant, which will be shut down from Dec. 21 to Feb. 11 as the standard-size Ford is phased out in favor of the compact Maverick. At Chicago, where the standard Ford will be replaced by the intermediate Pinto, 3,400 employes will be out of work from Dec. 21 to Jan. 14.

Supplemental unemployment and unemployment compensation plans will provide the laidoff workers with nearly 95 per cent of their weekly wages

"STOMACH OK NOW"

Says Mrs. Ruiz, "I had stomach trouble mucho malo. It used to burn like fire and I couldn't eat anything without terrible pains. I was so nervous I could hardly think. Then my brother told me to see Dr. Wing, and after a few weeks I was much better. Soon I was well enough to stop all treatments and it is now 10 years ago and my stomach and nerves are fine."

'Gentlemen... start your engines'

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

ONTARIO — In just a few hours (depending on what time you're reading this), the cry "Gentlemen start your engines" and the roar of 33 machines will break the morning silence in Southeast Ontario.

It'll be coming from the Ontario Motor Speedway where the fourth running of the California 500 will be getting under way.

Six months, ago, it looked like those sounds would never come from the $25 million facility when it was closed down last November due to a breakdown in negotiations between the company that operated OMS and the firm that underwrote the bonds to finance it.

But Parenelli Jones and Tony Hulman came to the rescue, and signed a one-year contract to run the Cal 500. That was in April, and that's when the Ontario Motor Speedway Operation Co. Ltd. came on the screen. The group is headed by Jones and Hulman.

Thanks to those two men and countless others who helped put the speedway back in operating condition for today's race, the fourth Cal 500 will make it into the record books.

When the 33 cars take the green flag at about 11 a.m. this morning, Peter Revson will be sitting on the pole position with Jerry Grant and Gordon Johncock holding the other two spots on the front row.

But the eyes during the race will be on Roger McCluskey, the defending California 500 champion.

Not only will Roger try to be the first driver to win two California 500s, but he'll also be trying to cinch the National Driving Championship this year.

The 1,000 points the winner receives today would be all McCluskey would really need to win it all from second-place driver Billy Vukovich. After last Sunday's Twin 100 qualifying races, Roger extended his lead over Vuky to 955 points after coming to Ontario with an 805-point advantage.

The Tucson (Ariz) driver has been established as the favorite to win today, according to the choice of sportswriters across the country.

He received 24 votes from the Samsonite Triple Crown Sweepstakes panel, with Gary Bettenahausen two votes back. Mark Donohue and Mario Andretti were next on the list with 17 points each.

McCluskey will be starting on the inside of the third row next to Lee Kunzman and Al Unser.

Driving the blue and white Hopkins Buick McLaren-Offenhauser, Roger qualified at a speed of 198.238 miles an hour and finished second in the first heat of the Twin 100 qualifying races.

The winners of those two 100-mile qualifying races Sunday were Wally Dallenbach in the STP Oil Treatment Oil Filter Eagle-Offy and Johnny Rutherford in the Team McLaren-Offy.

Rutherford will be on the inside of row two, while Dallenbach will be in the middle of the same row. On the outside is Bettenhausen.

Revson won the pole position this year with the fastest average for a pole sitter in the history of auto racing—200.089 miles an hour.

The average was compiled after two laps around the 2.5 mile oval at Ontario instead of the traditional four laps which were conducted in the previous three years.

Bobby Unser, who had to qualify on the second day of time trials last year and again this year, holds the track record for one-lap and four-lap clockings.

Bobby blistered the OMS track at 201.965 miles an hour for one lap and averaged 201.374 miles per hour for the four laps. He also holds the all-time speed of 212.776 miles an hour when he qualified at Texas International Speedway in April of this year.

But again this time he'll have to do the chasing for the first part of the race— starting way back in the eighth row with Bentley Warren and John Martin.

Revson, though, isn't too excited about being on the pole. In the nine 500-mile races he has competed in during his racing career with USAC, Peter has been on the front row six times and on the pole three times.

Being on the pole at Ontario is a little different than being on the pole somewhere else.

"Being on the pole doesn't mean much in this race," he said. "Look at what they've done here in the past. They come from way back in the pack in this one."

That's an understatement.

Car owners and team managers held a closed-door meeting Saturday to discuss ways of upgrading the "design, performance, safety and finances" in the U. S. Auto Club circuit.

A brief statement after a preliminary meeting quoted the owners as being "interested in the general improvement of championship racing in this country."

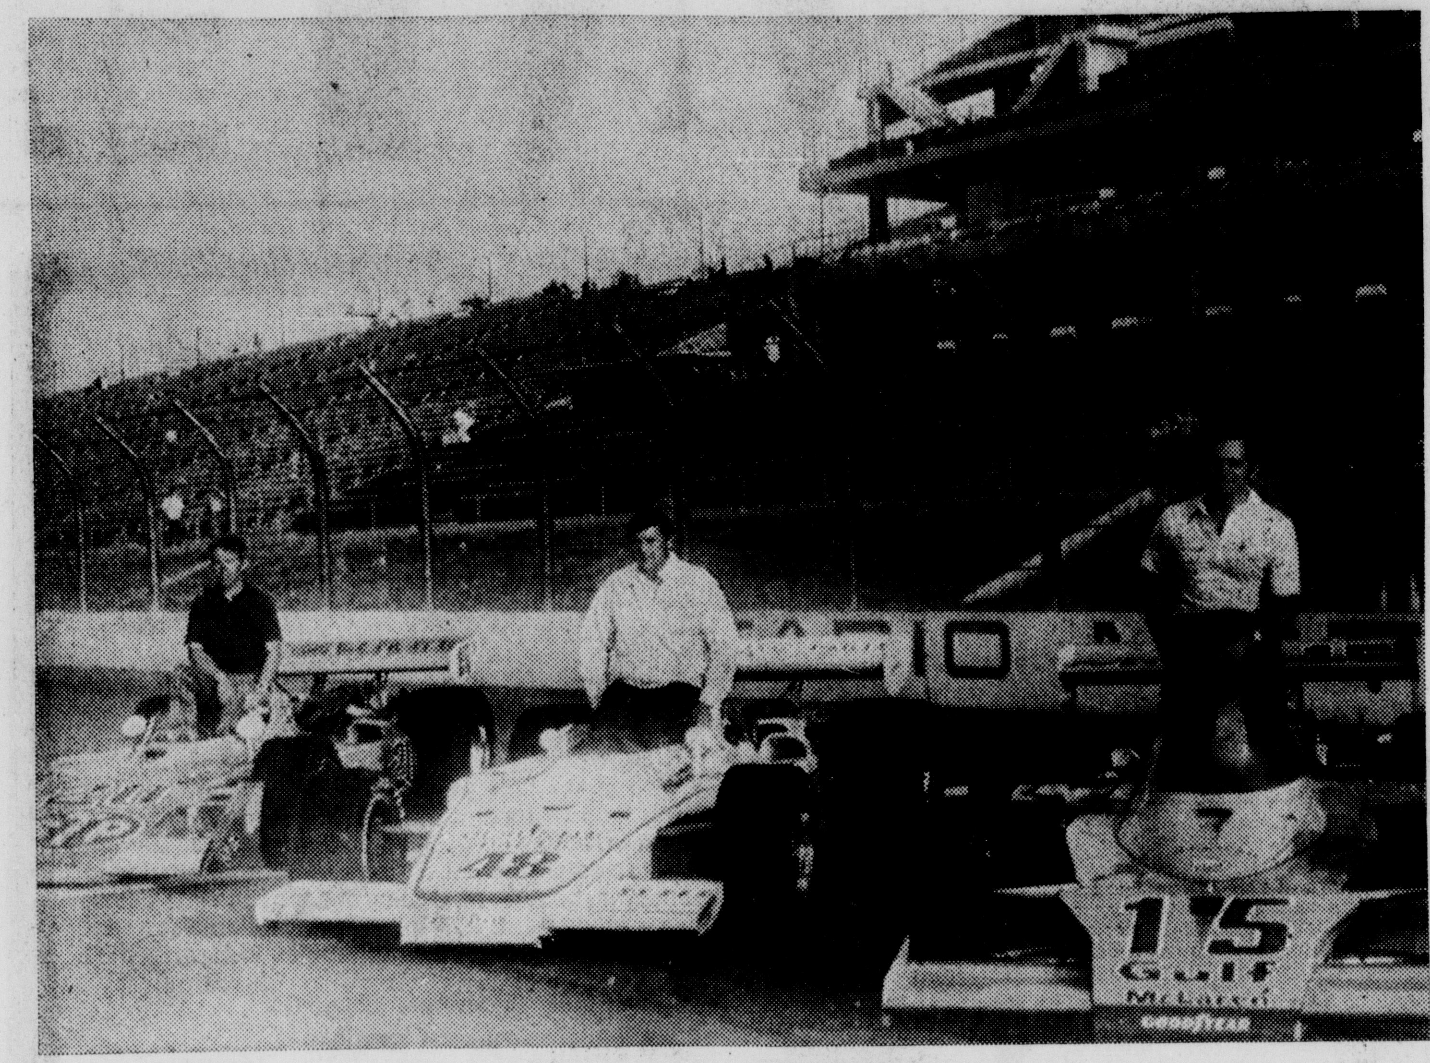
There was also a closed-door drivers meeting Saturday at the speedway.

A writers' breakfast was held in Claremont Saturday morning with a few drivers in attendance.

Since Norris Industries sponsored the breakfast, Norris drivers Sam Posey and Jim McElreath, the inaugural winner of the Cal 500, were there.

Posey, who is known to be very talkative, tried to pick a winner in today's race. "I'll have to pick Billy Vukovich," he said. "He tells me he doesn't have a chance. He said he didn't like how he qualified and where he's starting. It's only obvious he'll win the race."

Of course he was only joking, but don't be surprised if something like that happens today. It's already happened for three consecutive years at OMS.



CAL 500 FRONT ROW

When the green flag drops this morning at Ontario Motor Speedway, these three guys will lead the 33-car field through the first turn. The front row consists of Peter Revson (R, on the pole), Jerry Grant and Gordon Johncock (L). Revson averaged 200.089 miles an hour in qualifying.

Dodgers blanked by Reuss, 2-0

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Jerry Reuss pitched a six-hitter to give the Houston Astros a 2-0 victory Saturday night over the slumping Los Angeles Dodgers.

It was Reuss' 15th win against 10 defeats and his third straight over Los Angeles. He struck out four and walked only three.

Johnny Bench's two-run homer in the ninth inning gave Cincinnati a 3-2 win over the San Diego Padres and moved the Reds two games back of the Dodgers.

Houston scored its first run off loser Andy Messersmith, 11-0, in the second inning on singles by Doug Rader, John Edwards and Tommy Helms. Lee May made it 2-0 when he led off the fourth with his 23rd homer of the season.

Reuss stranded two runners in the fourth and survived two opening singles by Bill Russell and Steve Yeager in the fifth when he struck out Tom Paciorek with the bases full on a 3-2 pitch.

The Dodgers, who have been hit with injuries in recent weeks, had to take Dave Lopes out of the lineup when he suffered a muscle spasm in his back before the game. Then Messersmith had to leave after six innings due to pain from a pulled hamstring muscle.

Teenager upsets Laver at Forest Hills

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI) —Vijay Amritraj, a beanpole Indian from Madras, shattered the championship dreams of former titleholder Rod Laver when he upset the fourth-seeded Australian, 7-6, 2-6, 6-4, 2-6, 6-4, Saturday to reach the last 16 of the U.S. Open tennis championships.

The 19-year old Indian, who beat Laver in three sets at Bretton Woods, N.H., last month, whipped the 35-year old former world No. 1 player as a steady rain fell during the final set to make the already uncomfortable conditions all the more unbearable.

Amritraj attacked Laver throughout the match. His line passes matched those of the master, while he surrended nothing at the net and on the volley. There was nothing flukey about his victory. It was earned by his own endeavors, especially his returns of service.

The fifth set started in a steady drizzle and the first four games went against service.

When Laver broke for a 4-3 lead, it appeared he had finally gotten the match under control, but Amritraj broke right back for 4-4, then held service and then broke again in the 10th game for the match.

He reached match point with a back-point return of service to Laver's feet, and then the Australian returned a volley long and it was all over.

Two other Australians, 38-year-old Ken Rosewall and 29-year-old John Newcombe, both advanced.

Rosewall, who won here in 1956 and 1970, had little trouble with Japan's Jun Kamiwazumi, 7-6, 6-1, 6-1, while Newcombe, who won here as an amateur in 1967, captured the battle of the "mustaches" from Romania's brooding Ion Tiriac, 7-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Allan Stone, a second flight Australian, upset 14th seeded Adriano Panatta of Italy, 7-5, 6-7, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Other seeds to advance in the bottom half of the draw were No. 7 Tom Okker of The Netherlands, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4 over Brian Gottfried of Fort Lauderdale, Fla.; ninth-seeded Jimmy Connors of Belleville, Ill., 6-3, 6-4, 6-7, 6-2 over Charlie Pasarell of Los Angeles, and 16th pick Cliff Richey of Sarasota, Fla., who beat Raul Ramirez of Mexico, 6-2, 6-4, 6-7, 7-6, the first time in three matches he didn't have to go the full five sets.

Rhodesia's Andrew Pattison, who knocked off co first-seed Ilie Nastase of Romania in the previous round, Saturday defeated Charlie Owens of Tuscaloosa, Ala., 6-3, 6-4, 6-2.

The hard-serving, quick-moving Amritraj never faulted or lost his poise against Laver, even when the rocket flashed some of his finest vintage tennis. The crowd of 10,868 roared its approval to the sportsmanship of the teenager who always applauded Laver's finest shots.

The opening set saw Laver fall twice as he chased crosscourt passes and when it reached the tie-break, Amritraj won it five points to three, wrapping it up when Laver hoisted a top-spin lob over the baseline.

Laver broke for 1-0 in the second set, maintained the advantage although always under pressure and got another break in the seventh game. In the third set Amritraj got the bit in his teeth when Laver opened the ninth game with two double faults. The Indian got the break for the set. With dark clouds hanging over the stadium, Laver broke for 1-0 after five deuces and quickly reeled off the fourth set to square the set.

Three shine in SC scrum

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Tailback Rod McNeill went 80 yards on a pitch play and quarterback Pat Haden hit flanker Lynn Swann with a five-yard scoring toss to highlight a 60-minute controlled scrimmage by University of Southern California Saturday.

The Trojan offensive regulars scored the first three times they had the ball, while the only touchdown scored against the first two defensive units came on an 80-yard pass-run play from quarterback Rob Hertel to wide receiver Dave Farmer.

The offensive regulars scored their other touchdown when fullback Ray Washmera plunged one-yard for the score.

Coach John McKay said, however, "We are far behind this time than last year. It is almost like being in another world."

Orta homer downs Angels, 7-5

CHICAGO (UPI)—Jorge Orta crossed up the California strategy by belting a two-run pinch-hit homer in the eighth inning Saturday night to lift the Chicago White Sox to a 7-5 triumph over the Angels.

Orta, a left-handed batter, was sent in to hit for Bucky Dent against right-handed reliever Dave Sells, but after Orta was announced manager Bobby Winkles replaced Sells with Steve Barber, a lefty.

Orta then slammed a 1-1 pitch into the upper deck of the rightfield stands to tag Rudy May with his 13th loss against seven wins.

The Angels had scored a run in the opening inning on singles by Sandy Alomar, Frank Robinson and a double by Bob Oliver.

Brian Downing's second homer of the year tied the score for the White Sox in the second inning.

A single by Alomar and a double by Robinson gave the Angels a 2-1 lead in the third but the Sox came back to take a 4-2 lead with a three-run fourth. The Angels scored three runs in their half of the fifth, two coming in on Oliver's bases-loaded single.

John Jeter's fifth homer of the year off May tied the score at 5-5 for the White Sox leading off the seventh.

Broncs impressive in final scrum

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Stafff Writer

POMONA — First impressions can either be beneficial or very costly.

After attending Cal Poly's fourth and final scrimmage of the preseason several things left impressions. Some good and some not so good.

The spirit of the camp continues to be a strong suit, with praise and encouragement to individuals from fellow players and coaches for achievement.

Most impressive was the entire defensive unit, which held the offense to minus yardage rushing and 144 yards passing.

While the entire defensive unit dominated the game-like scrum several individuals had standout performances Of the front four, tackles George Lucas and Collin Bromley brought expressions of delight from head coach Roy Anderson and newly acquired assistant defensive coach Mike Jones, who comes to Poly after serving under Chuck Mills at Utah State.

Lucas, who on several occasions could be found harrassing quarterbacks Jim Zorn and Randy Brown in the backfield, indicated exceptional football form for his freshman years. Throughout the one hour and 45 minute session the 5-9, 192 pounder fought off the offensive block, shot gaps, and either made or assisted on the tackles. As expected, Bromley, who is making a switch from linebacker to the line, appears to be fullfilling expectations ability. The two spearheaded a defensive charge that held the offense to seven first downs with two of those coming on penalties.

For the fourth straight scrimmage, linebackers Joe Diaz and Lonnie Mahi had fine showings. They displayed good pursuit, shrugged off blocks to fill holes and were in on most of the tackles.

From the secondary, veteran Paul Russell, freshman Rod Hiatt and junior Louie Perez looked good, holding the offense to just nine receptions in 29 attempts.

Perez intercepted a Brown misplaced aerial and retured it 30 yards for a touchdown.

The offense was completely stymied until their final two drives of the 68-play session.

Zorn was only able to complete 5 of 16 passes for 102 yards and a TD while Brown could only connect on 4 of 13 aerials for 42 yards and had two intercepted.

Zorn did combine with Ron Tatum for the only offensive score of the day, a 57 yard bomb.

While the young QB's Zorn is a junior and Brown a freshman, did appear to have off days, their receivers didn't help much as it least six passes were dropped.

The Broncs may have had their quarterback problem solved for them. Four signal-callers were vying for the No. 1 spot.

Dave Erikson was ruled out of the picture because of asthma problems, and now last year's backup QB Steve Rothblum has left the squad leaving the job up to Zorn and Brown.

With the departure of Rothblum, there are only six seniors left on the team.

"We had a good workout today (Saturday)," said Anderson. They worked hard, hit hard and continued to show progress in some areas. I just hope that the offense can pick up more of that defensive spirit."

Disabled list for 2 Rams

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —Rookie quarterback Ron Jaworski of Youngstown State and defensive end Jim Peterson of San Diego State have been placed on the temporary disabled list by the Los Angeles Rams Saturday.

Jaworski has a sore elbow and Peterson has a bad back. Placing them on the disabled list means they will not be permitted to play in the last preseason game against the San Francisco 49ers Friday.

U.S. water polo team whips Cuba

BELGRADE (UPI) —The U.S. Olympic bronze medal water polo team whipped Cuba 4-3 in an incident-filled opening match Saturday at the start of the first World Swimming Championships.

Paced by two goals from Peter Asch of Berkeley, Calif., the U.S. squad continued its winning streak against Cuba which stretches six years.

Although eight Cubans were suspended and one, Orlando Cowley, expelled from the game, there was no repetition of the fighting which took place the last time athletes from the two nations met in a stormy basketball battle at the World University Games in Moscow.

Eric Lindroth of Newport Beach, Calif., brought the United States back into the game in the second period after Carlos Sanchez had put the Cubans one up after only three minutes.

Asch scored once in the second period and again in the third and then Jon Svendsen of Orinda, Calif., wrapped it up at the end of the third quarter after Sanchez had scored his second goal.

Tereza Anderson capped the good American start in the championships by taking an almost unassailable lead after the compulsory stunts in the synchronized swimming.

In the team standings, however, Canada had the slight edge with five girls in the top eight.

A crowd of 2,000 watched the U. S. team begin its quest for the water polo gold medal which eluded it at Munich.

U.S. Coach Monte Nitzkowski said his team played exceptionally well.

"It was a tough game as we expected but we handled it well," he said.

The U.S. team used its own version of a full-court press to stifle the Cuban attack and even when it lost two players simultaneously through suspensions still managed to contain the Cubans.

The U.S. polo players escaped the illness which hit several members of the U.S. swimming team.

Wiechers takes GHO lead

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (UPI) —Chunky Jim Wiechers shot a steady but unspectacular five-under par 66 Saturday for a one-stroke second round lead in the Greater Hartford Open — but Arnold Palmer blasted out his best round of the year, a 65, and moved within two shots of the lead.

Lee Trevino, Billy Casper and Bruce Devlin all were tied for second, a stroke behind Wiechers and a shot in front of Palmer, after two rounds of the $200,000 tournament at Wethersfield Country Club.

Wiechers reached the midway point of the tourney with a 65-66--131, 11 strokes under par on the 6,583-yard course. First round leader Hubie Green lost control of his game on the back nine Saturday and finished with a 73 for a two-day total of 136, five back.

Wiechers, who dropped in five putts of 20 feet or more in the opening round, said he did nothing spectacular on his second trip around the course, but shot a steady game in which he "was a lot closer to the hole."

"I'm doing everything well in this tournament," said Wiechers, who at 6-foot-2 and 220 pounds is one of the biggest men on the PGA tour. "I think I missed just one green in two days and I didn't miss a fairway."

Wiechers said the mid-day heat, which again was in the mid 90s, helped him concentrate on his game. "I find that I force myself more to concentrate in the heat than I do on a cool day."

Trevino, the defending champion, went six under par at 65 to move within one stroke of the top with 132. His biggest shot of the day was a 3-wood that left him 10 feet from the hole for an eagle 3 on the 497-yard 14th hole.

He sank birdie putts of 2, 30, 6 and 20 feet and saved par on the 18th hole by chipping out of a bunker and tucking away an 18-foot putt.

"I made a couple of good ones out there today," Trevino said. "The greens are the best I've seen on the tour. You can throw the ball up there and they'll hold it."

Casper had a 65 Saturday and Devlin shot 67.

Palmer was grouped at 133 with John Schroeder, who also had 65, Gary Player, George Knudson and Don Bies.

Palmer caught the fancy of the gallery with his long putts that kept him in contention. "I made more long putts today than I have at any time this year," Palmer said. "This is the way I used to play all the time."

Palmer's best birdie putts came from 30 feet on the fifth hole, 25 on the eighth and 30 on the 11th.

"The big thing was that I left only one putt short of the hole all day," said Palmer, who complained Friday that he was short on far too many putts.

"I've been unsure of myself," he said. "I had a lack of confidence in my putting, but today I was getting the ball up to the hole."

Green, who carded an eighttunder-par 63 Friday, remained in contention early Saturday with birdies on the fifth and sixth holes. But he faded quickly with consecutive bogeys on the 8th, 9th and 10th holes and still another bogey on No. 17.

Garner goes on with show despite injury

By MIKE RAWLINSON
P-B Staff Writer

ONTARIO — In thinking of all the ways there are to cause bodily harm to yourself, playing a leisurely game of golf doesn't immediately come to mind.

But it can happen. Just ask James Garner, the motion picture and television actor.

Garner was sailing along at even-par through nine holes in the Cal 500 Celebrity Invitational at Ontario National Golf Club Saturday when disaster struck.

On the 10th hole, Garner took a practice swing and dislocated his left shoulder. In true show business tradition, however, Garner went on with the show and finished the round, carding a gross 76 to finish in a tie for third with William Reynolds and Max Baer Jr. in the celebrity flight.

John Agar fired a 74 to take celebrity flight honors, and Don Lamond was second with a 75

It had been a busy week for Garner, who besides acting as tournament chairman, performed as grand marshall of the Cal 500 parade. And he is the honorary chief steward. (Gentleman, Start Your Engines) for today's race at Ontario Motor Speedway.

A record crowd joined celebrities in balmy weather for the fourth invitational tournament held at Ontario National in conjunction with the 500.

The top score of the day was a 69, shot by Jim Ruziecki of the University of Southern California Golf team. Jack Garner (Jim's brother) had a 71.

Among the celebrities, Elgin Baylor, the former Laker great, won low net honors with a 64. Buddy Lester had a 65 for second and Tim Herbert carded a 66 for third.

In team scoring, Baylor's fivesome took honors with 111. The John Agar group was second, while midget actor Billy Barty's fivesome was third and the group led by actor Jim Davis was fourth.

Low net honors the guest flight went to Joe Trocino (72-13—59) of Riviera Countr Club. Second low as turned in by E. K. Jensen (80-18—62), who along with P-B editor Joe Gendron, was a member of the Jim Davis fivesome.

S. Fernando ends legion campaign

LEWISTON, Idaho (UPI) — Memphis, Tenn., scored early Saturday to defeat San Fernando, 6 4, and eliminate the Californians from the American Legion baseball World Series.

West Hartford, Conn., and Cincinnati met in the second game with the loser being eliminated. Portland, Ore., and Puerto Rico, the only undefeated teams remaining in the tournament, complete the triple-header Saturday night.

San Fernando tallied single runs in the first and third innings and rallied for two runs in the ninth inning.

K. Buchanan scores TKO over Malave

NEW YORK (UPI) —Former lightweight champion Ken Buchanan of Scotland, who helped capture two robbers a night earlier, scored a seventh round technical knockout over game but outclassed Chu Chu Malave in a bloody, nationally-televised junior welterweight bout Saturday.

Both fighters' faces were masks of blood when the bout was stopped, with Malave bleeding from cuts in the mouth, the nose and from over the eye. Buchanan ran into an unintentional butt in the fourth round that opened a cut over his left eye and left one side of his face a pool of blood for the remainder of the round.

Buchanan, still looking for a chance to regain the lightweight crown he lost to Roberto Duran of Panama in June 1972, was in complete command of Malave throughout. From the opening round, when Malave was on the verge of getting knocked out, Buchanan kept up a steady attack of vicious left jabs and right uppercuts.

Buchanan who weighed 137 ½, the heaviest of his career, still gave away 3 ½ pounds to Malave, the fourth ranking junior welterweight, but the extra weight in no way slowed down the speedy Buchanan.

After taking the first two rounds easily, Buchanan kept up the attack in the third round when he bloodied Malave's nose with four left jabs in a row. Buchanan also opened the cut over Malave's left eye in the fifth round and finally put down the game underdog for the first time early in the seventh round.

Malave arose but was unable to defend himself further from the aggressive Buchanan and referee Herb Krunowitz stopped the bout at 1:43 of the round to prevent Malave, a Puerto Rican now living in New York, from absorbing further punishment.

Friday night, Buchanan was returning to his hotel with his aunt, who was in town to watch the fight, when he noticed two thieves emerging from his aunt's room. He gave chase and with the help of the hotel detective, caught the two thieves in the lobby and restrained them there until police arrived.

The victory raised Buchanan's record to 49-2-0 and was his 19th knockout. Malave, an aspiring Broadway actor who abruptly quit boxing two months ago before returning to the ring, suffered his fifth loss against 21 victories and two draws.

Stadler, Strawn to finals

TOLEDO, Ohio (UPI) —Craig Stadler and David Strawn, a couple of young underdogs, advanced to the finals of the 73rd U.S. Amateur Championship Saturday with semifinal victories over two of the tournament's former champions.

Stadler, 20, of La Jolla, Calif., turned in a 3 and 1 victory over defending champion Vinny Giles of Richmond, Va., while Strawn of Concord, N.C., defeated 1964 winner Billy Campbell of Huntington, W.Va., 6 and 5.

Strawn, a third year law student at Furman University, and Stadler, a junior at the University of Southern California, both making their first Amateur appearances, meet Sunday in the 36-hole final.

Stadler, a mustachioed, 5-10, 205-pounder who outdrove Giles on most holes, got off to a flying start, winning the first three holes with a birdie and a pair of pars.

After that, it was all uphill for the 30 year-old Giles, who managed to cut the margin to one hole early on the back nine, but could never get any closer.

Giles, who beat A. Downing Gray 5 and 3 in the morning's quarterfinals, captured his first hole at the sixth when he hit his second shot three feet from the pin, took the ninth when he knocked in a six-foot putt while Stadler missed a two-footer and won the 10th when Stadler went into a bunker and blasted out 20 feet short of the pin.

Stadler, named to this year's All-American college golf team, said he had played well in stroke play all summer but had been having trouble in match play competition coming into the Amateur.

"I had been playing the man instead of the course," Stadler said. "Lately I've been playing the course and I think it's helped a lot."

Stadler said he was "very happy with my iron play" although he admitted his driving espcially late in the afternoon rounds gave him some problems. "I was hitting them every which way," he said.

In the quarterfinals, Stadler eliminated 1973 British Amateur champion Dick Siderowf of Westport, Conn., 2 and 1.

Campbell, 50, the 1964 Amateur champion, got off to a rocky start on the very first hole when he hit his drive under a three and had to lay out. He settled for a bogey five and lost the hole to Strawn's par, the first of five straight holes Campbell lost.

Strawn, who was seven-up at the turn, got a birdie three on the second hole with a 30-foot putt, then hit his drive on the 172-yard third hole three feet from the pin and made it for another bird.

The lead swelled to four on the fourth when Campbell, who was short of the green in two, chipped about 20 feet past the hole and failed to make his putt coming back as Strawn putted for a par.

Campbell drove into a small creek on the fifth hole and was forced to take a penalty stroke. He hit his third shot into the woods at the right of the green and made a miraculous recovery three feet past the cup and made a five. Strawn, however, was on in two and got his par.

Campbell had beaten Bill Kratzert III of Fort Wayne, Ind., 2 and 1 in the quarters while Strawn eliminated Henri Delozier of Crofton, Md., 2-up.

Bee sting causes crash at Pocono

MT. POCONO, Pa. (UPI) — Jody Scheckter, his right hand swollen from the effects of a bee sting, lost control of his Lola Saturday and crashed into a retaining wall at Pocono International Raceway while practicing for the Labor Day L&M race that could prove the clincher in the series for the South African driving ace.

Scheckter was stung last Thursday. He kept soaking his hand in a bucket of ice water to keep the swelling down during non-practice hours, but the grind was too much.

The 23-year-old flamboyant driver had just set a new track record of 114.39 miles an hour on the 1.8 mile track when he hit the wall. The front nose cone was ripped apart and the car suffered some slight front suspension damage. Two tires blew out on impact.

Scheckter had been driving a Trojan for most of the series, but after a fourth place finish at Road Atlanta, team manager Sid Taylor decided to switch to a Lola for Monday's important race.

Scheckter and Brian Redman of England are running 1-2 in the standings, with the South African leading, 120-90, in points. If Scheckter finishes third or higher he will clinch the title.

Mark Donohue, relying on air travel to speed him between coastal racing points, tries to crack this foreign domination. Donohue, driving in the Ontario (Calif.) 500 Sunday, jets east immediately after the race and has received special permission to qualify early Monday just prior to the Pocono feature. The 1972 Indianapolis winner currently leads the Can-Am competition and is fifth in this series.

Saturday's fastest time was recorded by Redman when he turned a lap in 115.71 following Scheckter's smash up.

Haynie still leads Charity Golf Classic

FT. WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Sandra Haynie birdied five holes in a row on Woodhaven Country Club's back nine Saturday to overcome early trouble and retain a two-stroke lead over Kathy Whitworth after the second round of the $30,000 LPGA Charity Golf Classic.

Miss Haynie, struggling on the front nine, caught fire on No. 12 with a birdie and then started her birdie string for a one-under-par 71 and 139 total for 36 holes.

Miss Whitworth, the second leading moneywinner on the LPGA tour, shot a 72 for a 141 total.

Another shot back at 142 were Beth Stone, Mary Mills, Judy Rankin and Carol Jo Skala. Joyce Kazmierski was at 143 and Sandra Palmer and Shelley Hamlin were at even-par 144. The third and final round will be played today.

Women still getting short end of economic stick in Britain

LONDON (UPI) —"By 1975 every woman in Britain will be getting equal pay with men," promised the British government's chief spokesman on labor relations.

The audience of women exploded into applause.

The year was 1970. The spokesman was red-haired Barbara Castle, at that time secretary for employment and productivity in the former British Labor party government. She was addressing the national Labor Women's Conference.

More than three years have passed since then. Under the program announced by Mrs. Castle and endorsed by Parliament a few months later, women by now should be earning 90 per cent of men's pay for equal work. By 1975 men's and women's pay was to have been completely equal.

In fact, British women are nowhere near achieving that goal.

Lost Hope?

Income Data Services, an organization that monitors industrial pay, reported recently that out of 84 industries it checked, 49 still are paying women less than 90 per cent of men's wages.

At the beginning of this year the average women in Britain earned a little over 20 pounds ($50) weekly. The average man earned somewhat over 33 pounds, or $82.50.

"Unless the whole program is speeded up, equal pay by December, 1975, is a lost hope," reported Income Data Services.

Mrs. Doreen Tomlin, 44, a state registered nurse of Berkshire, announced she and friends plan to form a new political party dedicated to equality for women.

"It is something in which I believe very strongly and I think the only way to change the general attitude and bring about changes is through a political party," she said.

Began in 1964

Mrs. Tomlin turns her back on "Women's Lib."

"It is a derisory term and not treated with much respect by men," she said.

The equal pay fight in Britain began in earnest in 1964, when the Labor party made it official policy. In 1969 Harold Wilson, at that time Prime Minister, publicly pledged equal pay for women.

In the spring of 1970 Parliament approved legislation promising "gradual progress" toward equal pay. At that time only one million of the 8.5 million women employed in Britain earned the same as men.

The government said the equal pay legislation would add 30 per cent to industry's payroll. But it said if this were spread over five years it should cause no major hardships.

Employers' tricks

The Conservative party government adopted the policy when it took office in June, 1970, but the Ministry of Employment says that instead of closing the gap, industry is using every conceivable trick and loophole to avoid putting women on an equality with men.

The tricks, it says, include "segregating" women in separate departments so they have less chance of finding out what men earn, re-grading jobs and reserving the lowest-paid posts for women.

Recently, the ministry mailed 400,000 leaflets to employers urging them to quit stalling and to start paying women on an equal basis.

Harold Walker, an opposition Labor party spokesman on employment, plans to introduce an anti-discrimination bill into Parliament in an effort to close loopholes.

None of this has impressed Mrs. Tomlin and others like her. "We seem to have heard all this before," is their reaction.

Mail against Liberty Bell moving 100-1

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Although he says his mail is running "100 to 1" against moving the historic Liberty Bell from Independence Hall, Mayor Frank L. Rizzo said the bell should be moved.

However, one question still remained: Where to move it?

Two weeks ago Rizzo said he was opposed to moving the 220-year old symbol, but made a walking tour of the site proposed by the Independence Historical Park Advisory Commission.

Rizzo rejected the site, three blocks from the bell's present location, and said he favors a location on Independence Mall directly in front of the hall. The commission's suggested location is also on the mall.

The mayor's change of heart came after he saw a large number of tourists attempting to see and touch the bell.

"It's a tough decision to make," he said. "My mail is 100 to 1 against moving it."

Commission Chairman Arthur Kaufman announced Aug. 16 plans to move the bell to a proposed new visitors' center on the mall. He said the state of Pennsylvania, which owns the site where the bell would be relocated, and the National Park Service had agreed to the move.

Find a truck stop

How to eat cheaply -- and well -- in France

PARIS (UPI) —It's a little restaurant in the east of Paris, the kind you might call a hole-in-the-wall, and it could be out of a French movie about truckdrivers.

As a matter of fact, most of the customers are truckdrivers. And outside the door hangs a red and blue sign that says, "Relais Routiers", or truckdrivers' stop.

In this land of Maxim's and luxury champagne, the hottest type of restaurants this season for tourists have been the eateries rated by a special guidebook for truckdrivers.

The 4,450 restaurants and inns around France carrying the sign "Relais Routiers" may not have fine white tablecloths or expensive brandy in the sauces, but they offer two advantages hard to find in France—low prices for tourists plagued with inflation or devalued dollars and a friendly, oldfashioned French atmosphere.

Out in front of "Au Rendezvous des Routiers", (Truckdrivers Rendezvous) on Rue Beaubourg in the east of Paris one recent day, diners swigged wine at little outdoor tables and an old fellow played an accordion.

Price right

Inside, a man at the bar, stripped to the waist, roared with laughter as he told a joke to the bartender in his big, blue apron. Hefty waitresses twirled among the tables with remarks to the eaters that indicated they had known each other for years.

That day you could have a hardboiled egg, nicely presented on lettuce with a vinegar sauce and chopped parsley, as a starter. Then came tender, juicy, roasted chicken with a heap of watercress on the side. Dessert was a bowl of chopped fresh fruit, or you could have cheese. All that, including a quarter of a bottle of red wine and the tip, was exactly eight francs, or $1.90.

The same simple meal in a more elegant restaurant in a plush neighborhood would come to more than double that price.

What is even more attractive to some tourists, a customer in a truckdrivers' stop is not likely to tangle with unfriendly French. Foreign tourists who are lost or have flat tires are helped by the truckdriver customers.

"Everybody who comes here knows each other. It has a family atmosphere", said one customer at the truckdrivers' hangout on the Rue Beaubourg.

Started in 1934

The "Routiers" system is not new. It celebrates its 40th anniversary next year. The truckdrivers' restaurant organization was started in 1934 by a Paris sports writer who thought roadside eating places and hotels should be organized for drivers who make long hauls at night.

For years the Routiers' Restaurant and Hotel Guidebook was published only for truckdrivers. Only since 1968 has it been sold to the public. And this tourist season it "took off" as a wild success for bargain meals because of inflation and tourists suffering from dollar devaluations.

The editor of the Routiers 350-page restaurant guide, Thierry de Saulieu, son of the sport writer founder of the Routiers organization, said "many tourists say they travel quickly through France because it is so expensive. We often see foreign tourists eating sandwiches in their cars by the road. The truckdrivers' stops are a better solution."

Truckdrivers themselves serve as inspectors for the restaurants. The rule is a restaurant has to serve a good meal costing no more than between eight and 13 francs, and offer a warm welcome.

Last bistros

The 13 franc meals often take off on flights of gastronomic splendor. The Du Coq Bressan, a truckdrivers' restaurant in the village of Piolliat, serves a chicken souffle. Le Beau Site on a highway near Paris offers lobster quenelles (patties of chopped lobster) and omelettes with mushrooms, food of a sort that can be commanded at a three-star food place in Paris.

The Paris newspaper France Soir calls the truckdrivers' stops "the last authentic bistros of France". Even Brigitte Bardot has her favorite truckdrivers' stop near Aix-en-Provence.

The only sad note as you eat your eight franc feast is in remembering what the price was a few years ago when it was three francs, or just 60 cents American.

Stock prices attract some buying interest

By LEE MITGANG
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) —Stocks, battered for weeks by investor apathy in the face of economic uncertainties, finally attracted some buying this week after prices had reached bargain-basement levels. Volume remained light, however, on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average gained 24.08 to 887.57. In the previous four weeks, the index of 30 blue chips had sagged some 73 points. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index shot up 2.48 to 104.10. The NYSE index rose 1.46 to 55.64.

Participation in the rise was broad. Advances topped declines, 1,315 to 459, among 1,957 Big Board issues traded.

Turnover showed little improvement over the slow pace of the last few months. Many analysts pointed out, however, the pre-Labor Day week typically is one of the dullest of the year on Wall Street. Volume totaled 59,889,299 shares, compared with 53,814,460 the week earlier, and with 59,446,675 the year before.

"If you look for outside causes to explain this rally, you won't find any," according to Monte Gordon of Dreyfus Corp. He and many other market observers looked primarily to technical —or internal—market factors, and concluded the obvious: after taking a beating for months, prices had become too good to resist.

Playing on that same theme, some concluded the market had reached a "bottoming phase," in which the widely-followed averages would establish themselves in a zone of support until —on some given outside signal —they would make their upward move.

Use point scoring system in making new home selection

POMONA — A family seeking a new home recently developed a point scoring system.

Members had so many arguments about what was most important about the house they wanted that they had to bring order into the chaos, said James Odom, president of the Pomona Valley Board of Realtors.

"The two boys were tennis buffs, so being near courts brought a few pleas. Their sister was only eight, so the parents gave high ranking to closeness to a school they liked, and a neighborhood with possible playmates.

"The husband didn't want to be too far from his work. He hated commuting. The wife eyed distance to shopping," he added.

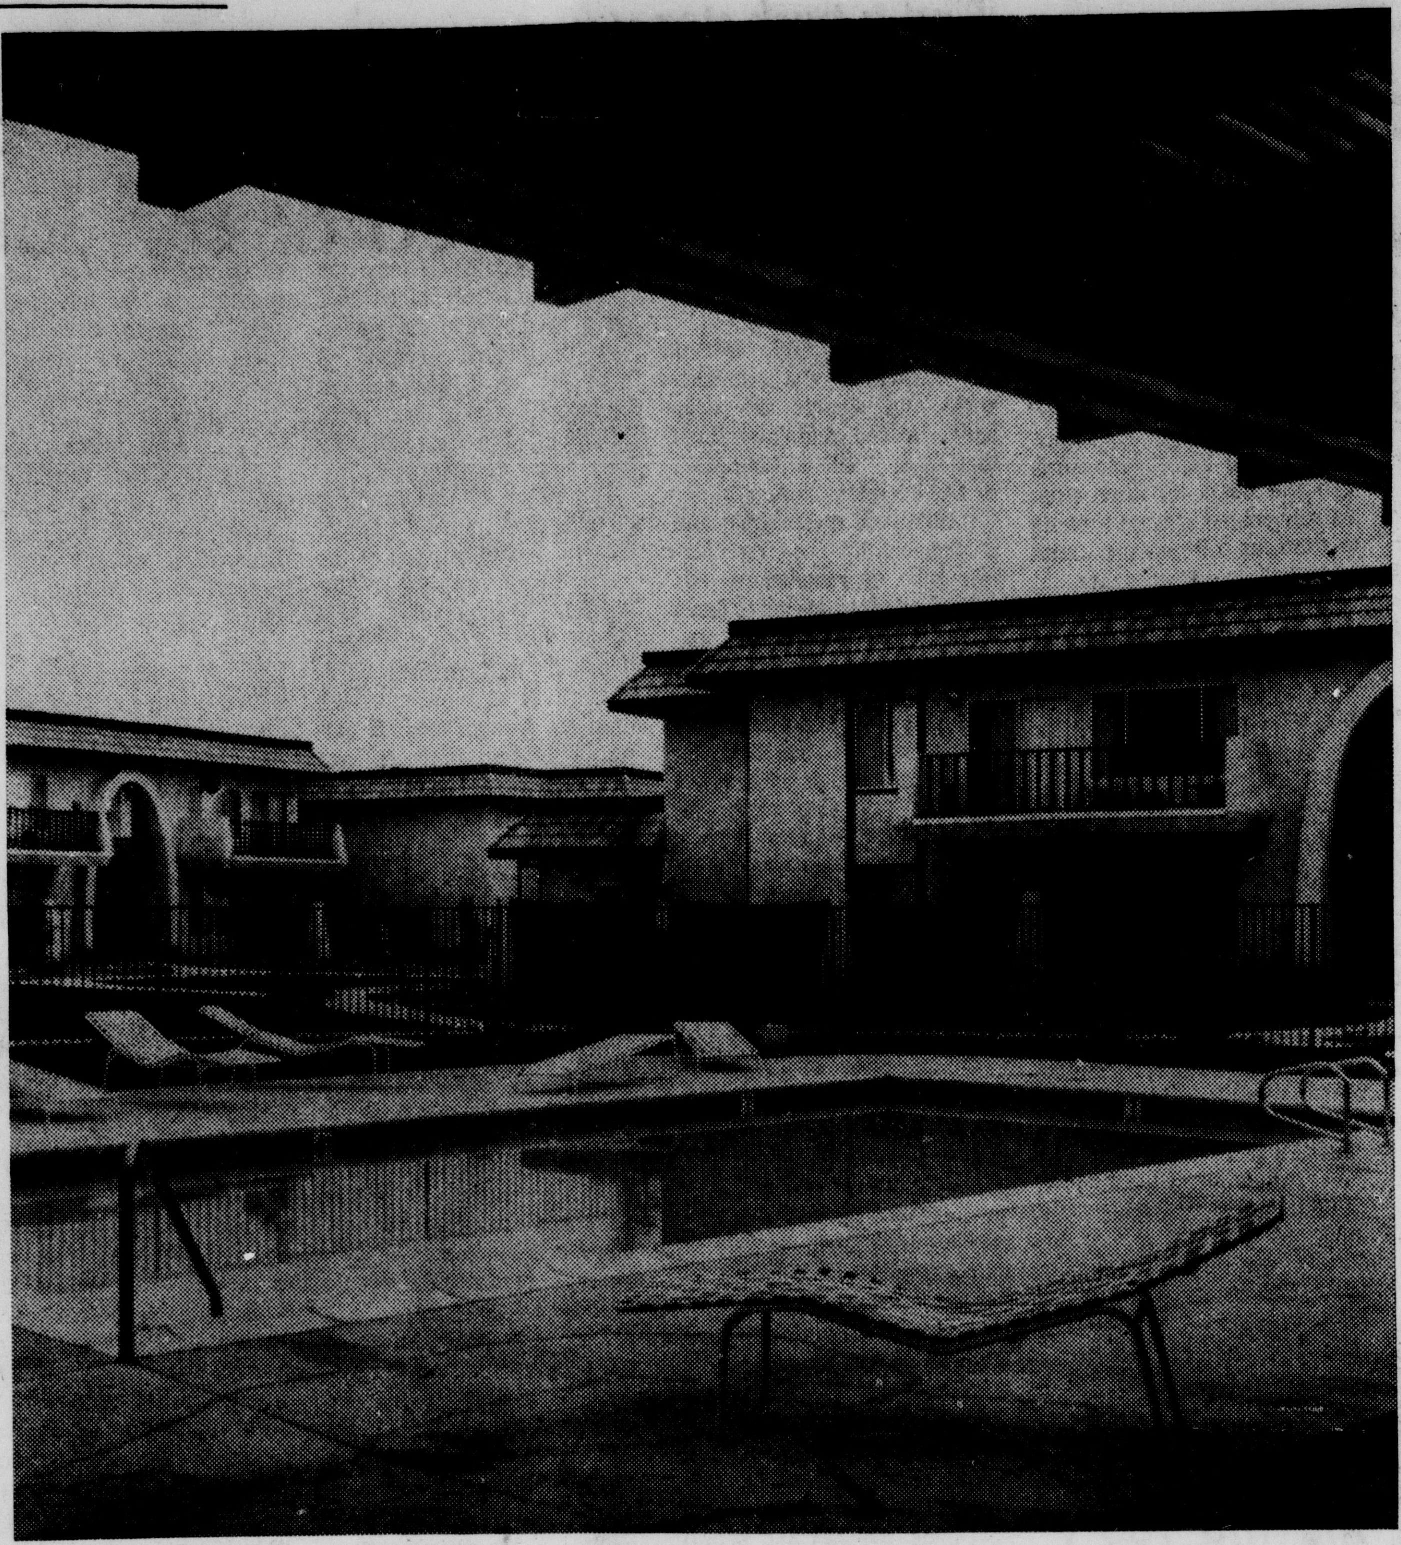
After a few "near finds" that ended in tears and hurt feelings, they settled on the point system. They listed first all of the qualities every member of the family wanted, and asked that member to rank each on a scale of 10.

"Surprisingly, when each one began rating, particularly the children, they were influenced by the desires they already knew the others had. They made concessions without being asked."

The house they finally found and bought was just what was expected—a compromise. "Of course, such considerations as price, number of rooms, and other facts that cause no argument had to be settled first, and in those the children had no voice," said Odom.

"In my work as a Realtor, I find that families sometimes need such a soul searching to really learn what they want. Even then, the emotional experience of selecting a house for the future can take unexpected turns that have little relationship to points or other such logical methods.

"The loser on points can be the winner on charm and happiness for the family living there. And who can say that's illogical?" he asked.



LEISURE LIVING — A heated swimming pool, hydrotherapy pool, and gas barbecues are some of the leisure time amenities offered at the Los Arnolitos apartments soon to open in La Verne.

Carriage Square West holds opening today

UPLAND — The Carriage Square West will hold its grand opening today.

"The model homes are completed. They're sparkling clean. And we are ready to offer quick occupancy on the limited number of homes we have here,'' said Dale McPhetridge of Key Realty, the sales agent.

"Only 24 homes have been built, so this is a choice development with plenty of individuality for each of the homes."

Each house has four bedrooms with two or two and a half bathrooms. The minimum size is 2,290 square feet of living area. Lots are up to a half acre in size.

"Everyone wants to know he can install a pool, and that's no problem on any lot here,' said McPhetridge.

The one and two story homes were developed by Jackson Development Co.

They are priced from $45,450 to $47,800. Financng can be arranged with a 10 per cent down payment.

The homes include central air conditioning, forced air heating, insulated exterior walls and ceilings, nylon carpet in the living room, dining room, family room, hallways and all bedrooms. Vinyl floors are located in the kitchens, breakfast rooms and bathrooms. The front entry hall floors are of ceramic tile.

The medallion kitchens have double ovens, dishwashers, disposals and hardwood cabinets. These also have cold water lines for ice-making refrigerators.

Bathrooms have cultured marble pullmans and ceramic tile shower areas.

Each family room has a wood-bruning fireplace with a raised hearth. Homes are wired for cable television. Phone jacks are standard.

Lewis Homes:

Buyers see advantage in home price freeze

UPLAND — Home shoppers are taking advantage of current prices and interest rates by buying homes in the new Prestige Series here, said Richard Lewis, builder.

They are buying now without waiting for our grand opening.

The homes, located near San Antonio Avenue and 21st Street, are priced from $38,000. Buyers are offered financing at 7¾ths per cent interest.

The house are air conditioned. Some have powder rooms and three car garages.

Similar financing terms prevail at the Lewis Homes-Upland community at Mountain Avenue, said Lewis.

Prices there are from $28,950, just as they were during Phase III's frozen price period, he added.
noted at Lewis Homes—Alta Loma, a new development which opened at Beryl Avenue north of Base Line Road. The three and four bedroom homes are priced from $25,450.

"Just how long the firm can continue to adhere to the Phase III scale is unpredictable, said Lewis. "It has put us in a great competitive position in the residential home development market.

''However, constantly mounting building costs and higher interest demands by lending institutions are apt to force us to reexamine our prices and terms.

"The public understands that. That's why the hurry to buy now," he added.

Sales offices and model homes are open daily and also evenings by appointment.

La Verne complex is nearing completion

LA VERNE — The second phase of Los Arbolitos adult apartment community here is nearing completion and applications for rentals of the 120 units are being accepted.

The community, developed by Fredricks Development Corp., is located on Foothill Boulevard west of Garey Avenue.

Renters have their choice of four floor plans, including one and two bedrooms. These are offered either furnished or unfurnished. Some units have dens.

The two bedroom units also have two bathrooms. The rents range from $155 to $220 a month, which includes natural gas and water utilities.

The luxury apartments feature central air conditioning, central heating, deep shag carpets, drapes and a private patio or balcony.

Kitchens include luminous ceilings, double sink with disposals and built-in gas ranges and ovens. Fully equipped laundry rooms are located throughout the development.

The project also has a heated swimming pool, hydrotherapy pool, gas barbecues and landscaped dining and conversation areas.

The apartments are managed by the Ankirk Development Corp. Rental offices are located at 1849 Foothill Blvd.

Survey indicates:

Interest rate increase creates minor 'draining'

WASHINGTON — A national survey indicates that banks have increased their interest rates for savers without draining a significant amount of funds from other financial institutions.

The American Bankers Association (ABA) polled the 110 bankers on its governing council, who represent banks of all sizes and types throughout the nation. They were asked about developments since July 5 when financal institutions were permitted to pay more interest to savers.

"This survey illustrates that banks are exercising their new freedom to the benefit of their customers and to the detriment of nobody," said Eugene H. Adams, ABA president.

"The survey also indicates that bank's commitment to all its customers, including home buyers, is remaining firm during the current period of tight money."

Of the 93 council members who responded, 60 reported modest gains in savings and time deposits. In each case, all or virtually all the gain was attributed to transfers from other bank accounts. Twenty five bankers, however, said very small portions of their increases came from savings and loan institutions or mutual savings banks.

Sixty-seven of the responding bankers reported decreases in passbook savings deposits since July 5.

Adams said the survey also indicated no substantial reduction in bank mortgage lending activities despite the scarcity of money. Only 30 of the bankers reported any reduction in their housing mortgage commitments, closings or home construction financing activities.

Adams said the money scarcity was the chief reason for decreases in mortgage lending. Another factor, he said, was that usury laws in some states hold the interest that financal institutions can charge to a rate below what they must pay to obtain funds.

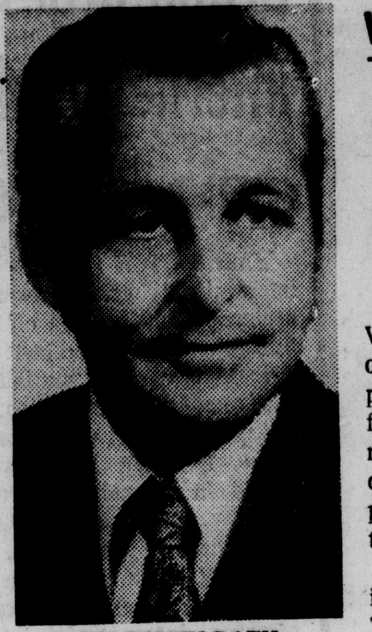
He also reported that interest rates on home mortgages in most parts of the country are far below the prime rate charged to large commercial and industrial borrowers.

Adams said the survey produced no evidence that a rollback in savings interest ceilings would benefit housing. "To the contrary," he said, "a rollback would force funds to flow out of all financial institutions and into other investments, and this would deprive the housing market of funds.

"A rollback would also be unfair to the saving public," he said.

In an earlier ABA survey conducted Aug. 6 among 50 banks, Adams said, of 42 banks responding, 14 reported lower passbook savings totals while 17 reported gains for their higher yielding certificates of deposits.

Of the banks reporting funds gains, 12 indicated their major source of funds resulted from the transfer of deposits within the bank itself. While several respondents were able to identify funds as having come from other commercial banks, only two were able to identify a funds gain at the expense of a thrift institution, he reported.



JIM DISTELRATH

Distelrath wins July sales award

POMONA — Jim Distelrath, a salesman for the Herbert Hawkins Co. office here, has received an award for making the greatest number of realty sales in the Pomona area during July.

John Kelly of the Title Insurance and Trust Co. presented him a plaque on behalf of the Pomona Valley Board of Realtors' multiple listing service at a breakfast meeting held at the Mission Family Restaurant.

Distelrath, born in Michigan and a California resident since 1953, has been in the real estate business for 12 years. He is a charter member of Elks Lodge 1996 in West Covina. He has lived in Chino for seven years.

Sales top $4 million in June

POMONA — Real estate sales handled through the Pomona Valley Board of Realtors multiple listing service totaled 185 transactions and a $4,889,882 volume during June. June.

This compares to 188 transactions and a $4,599,935 volume in June of 1972.

Sales for the period of Jan. 1 to June 30 is $25,490,571, down slightly from $27,998,750 for the same period last year.

The average price of houses sold through the multiple listing service in June was $26,467. Fourteen of the total sales were for homes selling for more than $40,000.

Villa LaVerne

Lease purchase plan offered at condominium

LA VERNE — Villa La Verne, a condominium development, is offering a lease purchase plan which allows families to move into their new homes on approval of credit and save their down payment money while living there.

The plan is ideal for families now renting, officials said. The full price of the two bedroom, one and two story homes, is $17,995. Monthly payments are often lower than rentals.

The community was developed by the McKeon Construction Co.

Prices include wall-to-wall carpeting, forced air heating, air conditioning, built-in electrical kitchens, swimming pool, cabana and recreation area.

The exterior maintenance, gardening and upkeep of the common grounds is done by professionals and administered by a homeowners association.

Each home has a private entrance for privacy. Covered parking, underground utilities and laundry rooms are provided.

The development is close to both parochial and public schools, colleges and churches. Residents may also find bus service to Pomona, Los Angeles and Pasadena.

Furnished model homes and a sales office are open daily from 10 a.m. until dusk. These are located on White Avenue near Foothill Boulevard.

17 designs offered at development

CHINO — Buyers have their choice of three and four bedroom homes at the Princess Del Chino, with prices starting at $26,950.

These homes include such kitchen applicances as continuous-cleaning ovens, disposals and dishwasher; wall-to-wall capreting; storage cabinets; concrete patios.

The master bedroom suites also have private bathrooms and large closets.

"Home buyers have 17 different exterior designs to choose from, and the builder has arranged the single story homes for maximum privacy for each family, said Hal Pease of Colwell Properties, Inc.

"With nine floor plans, buyers can really find the home that suits their needs. And the moderate price is a real boon to budget-conscious families," he added.

The residential community is located near Mountain and Chino avenues. Dispaly model homes are open daily.

Sales increase at Upland condominium

UPLAND — Sales at Orchard Lanes 134-home second phase has passed the 50 per cent mark.

The $4.5 million condominium development is located near Fredricks Lane and Spencer Avenue.

"Visitor traffic in recent weeks has shown a sharp increase, and the homes are selling at a record pace," said Jim Noever, sales manager.

"They are most attracted by the homes unusual one story design and the variety of exteriors," he added. "Eight different contemporary and Spanish elevations are offered."

The homes, priced from $19,900, feature quality construction and a variety of comfort amenities, with emphasis on privacy and individuality, said Noever.

The homes include wood-beam cathedral ceilings, large private patios, wall-to-wall shag carpeting, decorator drapes, central air conditioning and heating, and many have fireplaces.

The color-coordinated kitchens include built-in gas ranges and ovens, double sinks with disposals, dishwashers, luminous ceilings and pantries. An inside laundry area adjoins the kitchen.

For outdoor living, the community has a heated swimming pool, hydrotherapy pool and landscaped "greenbelts" and conversation areas. All exterior replacement and maintenance are included in the monthly payment.

Training director is named

ONTARIO — David Butler, manager of the Herbert Hawkins Realtors office in Ontario, has been appointed the firm's director of training.

His new job will cover both sales and management training. Butler has been with the firm for three years and was instrumental in developing the company's sales training examination recently approved for college credit through Chapman College.

He is a graduate of USC and holds a law degree from Blackstone School of Law in Chicago. Butler, an associate broker, has been active in the Upland-Ontario-Chino Board of Realtors, the California Real Estate Association, and the Ontario Planning Commission.

Impeachment

The House of Representatives has the power to impeach federal officials and the Senate conducts the trial. Conviction requires a two-thirds Senate vote.

La Linda Homes has furnished home open

FONTANA — A furnished model home will be open today at La Linda Homes development here.

The community of 14 homes is located near Fairview Road and Blanchard Avenue.

"The model home emphasizes the complete home package of luxury extras included in the purchase price of every La Linda home," said Richard Hall, president of La Linda Estates, builder.

"Air conditioning is just one of the many features which make up our package of extras," he added. "Others include deluxe - equipped kitchens, dishwashers, shag carpeting, draperies and fencing."

Buyers will have a choice of three distinctive floor plans, with two, three or four bedrooms and one or two bathrooms.

Prices start at $24,500, with conventional financing terms available.

Featured at La Linda is the "Granada Plan" which won a National Association of Home Builders Gold Nuggett Award in an earlier La Linda Homes development.

The La Linda sales office is located in the model home at 7812 Blanchard Ave. Eight of the homes are on Blanchard Avenue, flanking Fairview Road, a cul-de-sac street which contains the other six homes.

Visitors may reach the site from the San Bernardino Freeway go going north on Sierra Avenue, east on Foothill Boulevard, north on Palmetto Avenue, west on Reed Street and north on Blanchard to Fairview.

Seminar set on Wednesday

COVINA — The American Home and Associates will host a free real estate career night seminar Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at 263 E. Rowland St.

Jerry Weislow, American Homes vice president and director of sales training, will conduct the training program which the firm offers to licensed and unlicensed men and women considering a career in real estate sales.

Company executives and sales managers will also attend and be available after the meeting for informal discussions. The meeting is open to the public at no cost. Refreshments will be served.

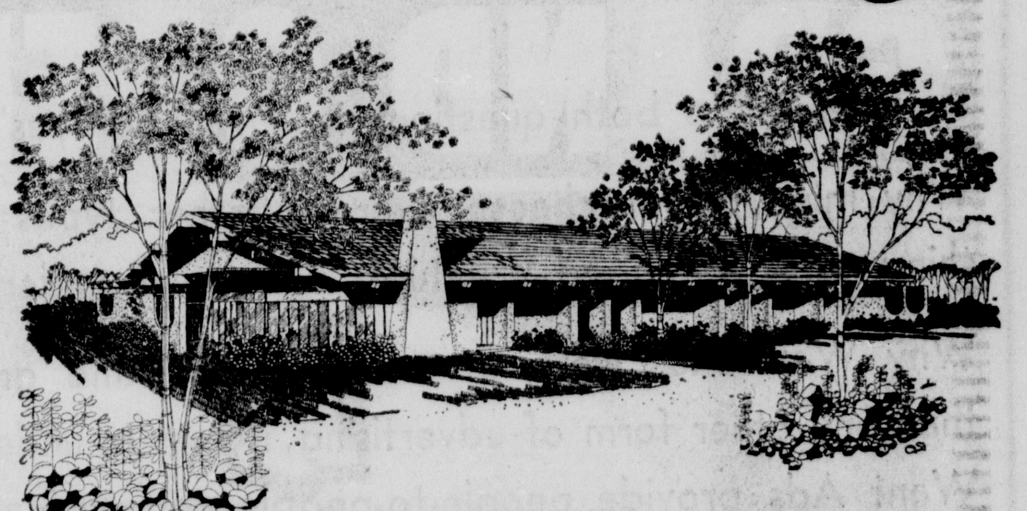
Your best assurance of quality is the integrity of the builder

Some people have more than one story.



Not us. Our story is always the same at Orchard Lane: one-story condominium homes with two or three bedrooms—for people who don't like to climb stairs . . . who resent strangers dancing on their ceiling . . . who are bothered by the patter of little feet overhead . . . who want maximum quality throughout their home.

A carefree investment. Orchard Lane is ideal for people with more important things to do than mow the lawn, pull the weeds, and paint the house. All exterior maintenance is taken care of by the Homeowners Association. Everyone enjoys the beautifully landscaped open space, the swimming pool, the Jacuzzi, the cabaña area . . . without the responsibilities that often come with home ownership. And there's more. All windows are fully draped . . . many rooms are fully carpeted. There's a color-coordinated, built-in range with continuously self-cleaning oven . . . and an automatic dishwasher. Then there are cathedral ceilings, ash cabinets, Formica countertops, cultured marble pullmans, fireplaces in some models, and . . . well, you'd better come see the rest. It's a real value, priced from

DO WANT ADS WORK?

DO MICE LIKE CHEESE?

The answer to both questions is a roaring "yes".

Why mice prefer cheese over all other types of food is something we two-legged creatures will never understand.

Why Want Ads work, at a lower cost and greater effectiveness than any other form of advertising, is easy to understand. It is because Want Ads provide people-to-people communication, bringing buyer and seller together.

If you've never used a Want Ad, you have a pleasant surprise in store for you.

Briton urges international grain reserve

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An international grain reserve designed to help ward off future famines could be built up over five years at an initial cost of about $750 million, a British economist estimates.

The tentative plan, suggested in a study by Prof. Timothy Josling of the London School of Economics, is the latest entry in a wave of world-wide discussion of grain reserves. International interest in the subject has been revived by the fact that grain supplies around the world are tight this year, leaving poor nations hardpressed to feed their people at current record prices.

Among other groups talking about ways and means to deal with future years in which farm production may drop, as it did in 1972, is the UN Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO). By the end of this year, the FAO is expected to produce recommendations for international cooperation in maintaining reserve stocks, and Josling said he hopes his study will make "a timely contribution" to debate on the issue.

The Josling study, commissioned and published by the British North American Committee, was released here by the National Planning Association, one of the participants in the committee. The committee, in a foreword, conceded that the world's nations "may not yet be willing or able" to make a strategic grain reserve program work. It said, however, that if a reserve is established, the contributing "rich" countries should own the grain, fix policies for its use and determine where it should be stored.

Joseling, in his report, added that needy nations which draw from the proposed reserve during emergencies would decide how to distribute the grain, and would pay for it in their own currencies. Such a policy would hold down inflation in needy-nation food costs during periods of short supply, he said.

Ironically, Josling said, one of the factors pointing to an increased need for creating international food reserves is the "Green Revolution" —the rapid rise in grain yields due to growing use of improved varieties and irrigation in developing nations. The very factors which have increased production have made crops more susceptible to sudden disasters from plant diseases and water shortages, he said.

Josling's tentative suggestion for a future reserve program calls for beginning a stock buildup after world grain production begins to rise above current needs, a development many experts think may begin next year.

The reserve, Josling said, might be designed to meet 80 per cent of the gap between world output and needs in "all but the very worst years." As a beginning, he said, efforts could be made to build a stock of 5 million tons of wheat and 5 million tons of rice.

Social group giving blood

POMONA — The Inland Empire Social Group, made up of people throughout the Pomona Valley, has established a blood bank at the Red Cross station here.

The blood bank is open for the public use, according to group president Bob Haar.

The group explained the purpose of the bank and its future last week at the Alibi East Show Bar at Second Street and San Antonio Avenue.

Anyone interested in donating blood should go to the Red Cross and make their donation in the name of the Group.

SOLITUDE
ESCAPE TO 11 ACRES OF WOODSY
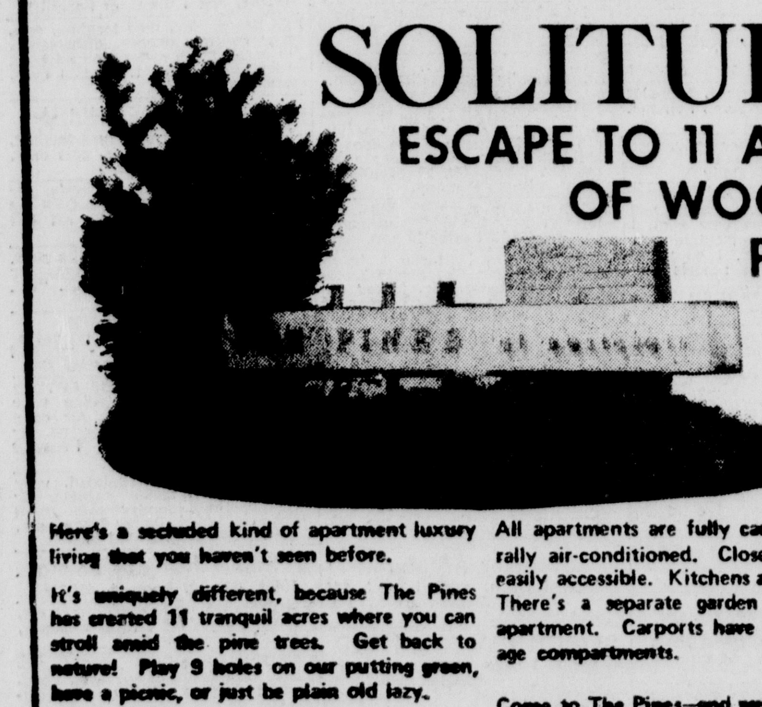
PINES!



Here's a secluded kind of apartment luxury living that you haven't seen before.

It's uniquely different, because The Pines has created 11 tranquil acres where you can stroll amid the pine trees. Get back to nature! Play 9 holes on our putting green, have a picnic, or just be plain old lazy.

At The Pines, you are just a stones throw from Montclair Plaza, minutes away from hospitals and medical facilities.

All apartments are fully carpeted and centrally air-conditioned. Closets are large and easily accessible. Kitchens are fully modern. There's a separate garden patio for each apartment. Carports have convenient storage compartments.

Come to The Pines—and we'll introduce you to a whole new way of life!

- SWIMMING POOLS
- SAUNAS
- GAME ROOM
- WALKING TRAILS
- HOT SWIRL POOLS

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY—While having a garage sale the children were trying so hard to be helpful that the customers were falling over them. We finally decided to have a minigarage sale and give the kids their own small table. They filled it with unwanted items of their own (toys, books and so on). They sat in one place, leaving spaces clear for the customers. They made their own change and learned a little about retail selling in the process. The kids were thrilled when they learned they had made a little money.—SHARON McB.

DEAR POLLY—I have a fish aquarium and found it difficult to keep live plants on the rocks in the bottom. The fish nibbled on them and the plants also came loose and would float to the top until I fastened some small fishing weights to the ends of the plants. No more plants floating on the top of the water in my aquarium!—D. S. F.

DEAR POLLY—When I make a casserole, meat pies, etc., I always fill an individual container or even two to give to someone in time of need or to an elderly neighbor. If this food is not needed right away, freeze it and take out when wanted. I also make something extra to give away each time I bake.—HELEN

DEAR POLLY—Here's how to keep the lids of salt and pepper shakers from sticking: Lay a square of waxed paper on top of an open shaker, replace the lid and turn back and forth. Move the paper over and repeat four or five times. Remove the waxed paper and replace the lid. This also is good for sugar dispensers.—MRS. J. A. L.

DEAR POLLY—Those coupons we save to get a few cents discount on various items are hard to find when an item is to be bought. I file mine in a box in letter envelopes that are marked by categories such as beverages, packaged mixes, etc., and they're easy to find when I shop.—DOROTHY

DEAR POLLY—I have seven kids in the house so there used to be quite a hassle over whose turn it was to get the prizes that come in cereal boxes. I have solved this bickering by taking them all myself to save for use at birthday parties. I never have to buy any prizes for games or favors. They really accumulate fast in a family the size of ours.—C. L.

DEAR POLLY—When cupboard doors will not stay closed, put a thumbtack on the edge of such a door, adjust it to the proper length and the door will stay closed.—PAM

DEAR POLLY—You can easily improvise a portable grill with your wheelbarrow. The only materials needed are a metal wheelbarrow, wire mesh for the fire basket and grill and wire hooks to fasten the grill on. This works just great.—MYRTLE

MOM! THE SALES SLIP ISN'T IN THE DESK WHERE I PUT IT… I WON'T BE ABLE TO RETURN MY DRESS!
GEORGE, YOU CLEANED OUT THE DESK RECENTLY! I HOPE YOU DIDN'T THROW THAT SLIP AWAY!
OH, HE MUST HAVE, MOM! I LOOKED IN EVERY DRAWER TWICE…!
GEORGE, LIL'S IN A HURRY… IF YOU KNOW WHERE THE SLIP IS, WILL YOU GET IT QUICKLY?
BOY! DOES THAT GRIND ME!
YOU TWO STAND THERE ALL HUFFY AND PUFFY AND CONDEMN ME BEFORE I CAN EVEN OPEN MY MOUTH…
…AND THEN YOU EXPECT ME TO JUMP LIKE A PUPPET AND GET IT FOR YOU RIGHT NOW!
WELL, I'M SORRY, BUT I'M NOT JUMPING TODAY!
I DO KNOW WHERE YOUR SALES SLIP IS, BUT I'M NOT GOING TO TELL YOU…
YOU CAN JUST WAIT A BIT!
I'LL GET IT MYSELF, AS SOON AS I TAKE CARE OF A LITTLE TASK IN THE BASEMENT…

THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:
ORANGES ARE SELDOM GROWN FROM SEEDS TODAY. A COMMON WAY OF GROWING NEW SEEDLESS ORANGE TREES IS BY BUD GRAFTING. IF A STEM BUD OF A SEEDLESS ORANGE TREE IS CAREFULLY INSERTED INTO A SLIT MADE IN THE BARK OF A YOUNG CITRUS TREE, THE ORANGE TWIG WILL GROW INTO A NEW SEEDLESS ORANGE TREE. GRAFTING IS IMPORTANT IN GROWING OTHER FRUITS THAT HAVE LOST THEIR POWER TO PRODUCE SEEDS, SUCH AS SEEDLESS GRAPES AND GRAPEFRUIT.

Tony & Lena

"Sentry Insurance Presents Tony and Lena," an elegant hour-long musical entertainment special starring Tony Bennett and Lena Horne, will air on ABC, Thursday at 9 PM. In the music-filled hour, the two stars combine their talents in a selection of popular standards written by Burt Bacharach, Cole Porter, Duke Ellington and the Beatles, but concentrate on a special tribute to composer Harold Arlen. It was Arlen who wrote "Stormy Weather," long identified with Miss Horne, and which Bennett will sing on the special. And it was Arlen who created such wonderful songs as "Any Place I Hang My Hat Is Home," "Accentuate the Positive," "I Gotta Right to Sing the Blues," "Over the Rainbow," "Ill Wind," "Get Happy," and "Happiness Is Just a Thing Called Joe." There will be 24 Arlen songs in the tribute. The first time Tony and Lena appeared together was on a Burt Bacharach special produced by Gary Smith and Dwight Hemion. That Emmy Award-winning team has brought the pair together for the second time. The special was taped in London in association with ITC, and was directed by Hemion.

An incredible 1500-mile trek by land yacht through the forbidding western Sahara is the subject of "Wind Raiders of the Sahara," the premiere presentation of the popular National Geographic color documentary series moving to ABC, Thursday at 8 PM. To film the one-hour program narrated by Leslie Nielsen, National Geographic dispatched a team of eight international pilots under the leadership of Gen. Jean Du Boucher, a retired French Army officer with 20 years of Sahara service. From knowledge gained from his first trans-Sahara land yacht expedition in 1967, the general prepared for this second attempt using a more sophisticated type of yacht and chose a shorter but more arduous course.

In strict survival terms, the inhospitable Sahara is adventure enough. Attempting to traverse its western region—the most desolate portion—in a wind-driven vehicle increases the prospects of adventure all the more, as recorded by the cameras.

TV WEEK'S

20 years in prime time... and still going strong!

Milestones are rare in any industry. Especially so in television, where series die by the dozen. One particular milestone though is just around the corner. It marks the 20th year on TV for The Wonderful World of Disney.

The happy occasion officially begins this Fall when the Sunday evening anthology series returns for its 13th year on NBC, and its second decade of continuous programming.

Originally aired on ABC (1954-1961) before moving to NBC, World of Disney is currently television's longest-running prime time show. It is only three years shy of catching TV's all-time champ, The Ed Sullivan Show. Sullivan racked up 23 consecutive years before leaving the air in 1971.

Winner of seven Emmy Awards during its 20 years, World of Disney remains the Secretariat of the medium. Most TV shows lose their audience appeal after several seasons, but not Disney. Its lively anthology format, which defies the traditional vid-series formula for a hit show, endears the program to young and old alike. Each week the series presents new stars, new plots and new locales in single and multi-part adventures. Its family-oriented programs attract an average viewing audience of over 40 million.

During the 1972-73 season, World of Disney placed among the Top Ten shows 10 times, and in the Top Twenty shows 11 times during its first 23 weeks of scheduling. On the basis of that fine performance, NBC renewed the program through the 1975-76 season. Disney in turn granted an option to the network to extend the series through 1978.

In signing the agreement earlier this year, Don Durgin, executive vice president, National Broadcasting Company said: "We take great pride in our long and rewarding affiliation with the Disney organization and The Wonderful World of Disney series. The genius and creativity of Walt Disney and the continuing dedication of his successors to his unique and innovative ideas of quality and taste in popular entertainment have made the Disney name a household word around the world."

'THE LOST ONES'

E. Cardon Walker, president, Walt Disney Productions stated: "We are highly pleased at the continuing public acceptance for this series. The unique nature of our show requires extensive lead time in production and NBC has once again allowed us to begin planning another two years of filming well in advance. This arrangement helps maintain the overall quality of the show."

For the fall schedule, Disney will premiere its 20th season with a first-run motion picture, "The Barefoot Executive," the hilarious spoof about an unusual chimp that predicts top-rated television shows. Starring Joe Flynn, Kurt Russell, Harry Morgan, Wally Cox and Heather North, this comedy hit was released in theaters in 1971.

Other movies to air during the '73-'74 season are "King of the Grizzlies," also a first-run feature, "The Ugly Dachshund" and "Flight of the White Stallions." "Grizzlies" concerns an Indian's love and friendship for a giant grizzly bear in the Canadian Rockies. "Dachshund," starring Dean Jones and Suzanne Pleshette, is a homespun comedy about the owners of a Great Dane named Brutus. "Flight of the White Stallions" is a World War II action adventure starring Robert Taylor, Lilli Palmer, Eddie Albert and James Franciscus. It depicts the daring rescue of prized Lipizzan stallions from behind enemy lines during the last months of the war. The motion picture was filmed in Europe amid the old world charm of Vienna.

In a special three-part presentation, the series will air a first-run movie filmed entirely in England. "Diamonds on Wheels" is a mystery involving three youngsters who enter a sports car rally only to discover that hidden within their car is a cache of diamonds worth millions. The film is a chase from beginning to end with proper British criminals in hot pursuit of the kids.

Among the most popular types of program on the Disney hour are the animal-adventure dramas. At least four are scheduled for fall. "Mustang!," a powerful two-parter, was filmed in New Mexico. Produced by Roy E. Disney, who is noted for quality location films, the story is set in 1880s Mexico. Its animal hero is a wild mustang that fights for his birthright of freedom even as civilization crowds in around him.

"The Lost Ones" was produced by Academy Award winner James Algar and filmed in Alaska's arctic wilderness. The plot concerns two Eskimo children who wander the vast, desolate landscape of the frozen North; their encounters with nature and their continuous fight for survival.

Closer to home, Northern California becomes the forest setting for "Fire on Kelly Mountain." Starring Andrew Duggan, this one-parter shows nature untamed as an awesome firestorm sweeps through virgin timber country.

Oscar-winning producer Larry Lansburgh's offering for '73-'74 is "Cow Dog," a western tale of an Australian sheep dog named Stub. Slim Pickens stars in this rugged adventure set in Arizona's mesa territory. Rex Allen narrates and sings. Executive producer Ron Miller helms the production, "Alvin the Magnificent." In this two-part mystery, three youngsters uncover a swindle in their city government and track down the crooks with the help of zany inventions concocted by their ingenious leader, Alvin.

Rounding out the schedule, "World of Disney" will present its annual Christmas show, and a tour of its giant Florida project entitled "The Magic of Walt Disney World."

A Man for all Seasons

Paul Scofield portrays Sir Thomas More, the Lord Chancellor of England.

For the first time in commercial television history, a major two-and-one-half hour program will be presented twice on the same network in the space of five days. The occasion is the television premiere of Fred Zinnemann's much-honored film, "A Man for All Seasons."

The 1966 motion picture version of Robert Bolt's award-winning play will be shown on NBC, on Wednesday evening from 8:30-11:00PM and a matinee performance, Sunday (September 9) at 1:30-4:00PM. The purpose of the double showing is to allow as many people as possible to see a motion picture of extraordinary importance.

"A Man for All Seasons," starring Paul Scofield, Orson Welles, Susannah York, Wendy Hiller, Leo McKern and Robert Shaw, tells the story of the last seven years in the life of Sir Thomas More, with special focus on the confrontation between More, as Chancellor of England, and King Henry VIII. The film won six Academy Awards, including "Best Picture," "Best Director" (Zinnemann), "Best Actor" (Scofield) and "Best Screenplay" (Robert Bolt). It also became the first film in history to win four major New York Film Critics Awards.

INSIDE the tube & OUTSIDE hollywood

by Bill Mahan

There is a very famous place in Marina Del Ray, California called THE BASEMENT. To get in to spend your money is a monumental chore. The music is so loud that one's ears ring for a good hour after leaving. Ordering a drink is nearly impossible unless the order is written. The frantic dancing has a kaleidoscopic effect on the eye. All written. The frantic dancing has a kaleidoscopic effect on the eye. All in all, it is not a place I would care to frequent very often. THE BASE- MENT was balanced for .me last Friday. I spent the evening at the Hollywood Bowl listening to the soothing music of Neil Hefti, followed by an hour and a half of Tony Bennett singing songs that, to me any- way, had tunes. I left the Bowl feeling better about music in general. More than incidentally, there wasn't a seat to be had and the scalpers were at the box office before Tony's performance asking astronomical prices for the coveted tickets.

For the bulk of Tony Bennett lovers across the nation who weren't able to attend his Bowl performance, come Thursday, September 6, on ABC, Tony will have a color special and his guest singer will be Lena Horne. "It's just an easy hour of music." he said. "Lena and I bat around the oldies and the whole show is quite informal."

"How come I don't see you in the movies?" I asked. "That's never really been my bag," he said. "However, Elliott Kastner, the motion picture producer, came to hear me rehearse with the Ruby Braff-George Barnes quartet in New York and he was so turned on that he decided to film a concert by us. We'll be doing all Rodgers and Hart songs." "You mean the show will go into the theatres" I questioned. "Yep," he said. "Just like a feature motion picture." At that point he took a small tape recorder out of his desk and dropped a tape into it. "This is some of the kind of music we'll do for that concert," he said. The first song was the smoothest version of THIS CAN'T BE LOVE that I have ever heard. Then he turned the recorder down and let it play as background music as we continued to talk.

My time with Tony Bennett was up much too soon and as I left his hotel room I couldn't help but think what would happen if he dropped into THE BASEMENT and offered to do a guest song or two. I'll bet all those hip young kids would be twice as turned on if they heard the kind of music I had just heard.

'A COUPLE OF DONS'

Highlights include satirical sketches of famous movies, including "The Godfather," "City Lights," and "Moulin Rouge." That's Rickles above, and Adams below, in character for these sketches.

Don Adams and Don Rickles are the title role stars in "A Couple of Dons," a one-hour comedy-variety special featuring comedy sketches, monologues and songs covering a wide range of subjects, on NBC, Saturday (Sept. 8) at 9PM. Joining them are the Jackson Sisters, a popular young singing group who perform two numbers, and special guest star Sally Kellerman, who sings and also appears in several sketches. Highlights of the show include "Hooray for Hollywood," a series of satirical sketches of famous motion pictures, and Don Rickles roasting guest celebrities in the audience.

"TELE-TALK"

"In Search of Ancient Astronauts," one of the most talked-about television specials of the past season, will have a repeat colorcast on NBC, Thursday (Sept. 6) at 8PM. Originally colorcast on NBC-TV on January 5 of this year, the special depicts the theory that ancient visitors from other planets are responsible for various baffling phenomena of the past which are visible in widely scattered parts of the world.

"In Search of Ancient Astronauts" is based on "Chariots of the Gods?", the international best-seller by Erich Von Daniken which supports his premise that early space travelers visited earth years ago and profoundly altered the life of primitive man. Rod Serling narrates the special, which was filmed in England, Egypt, Mexico, Japan, Iraq, Australia, Peru, Yugoslavia and on Easter Island.

Following its January telecast, the program received one of the largest outpourings of mail — overwhelmingly favorable—ever inspired by an NBC Special. Within days, copies of the Von Daniken book were sold out at book outlets in all parts of the country, prompting its paperback publisher, Bantam Books, to rush additional copies into print and onto the shelves. (Variety reported that in Washington, D.C., ". . . most accounts polled reported entire inventories . . . exhausted by noon Saturday" —just one day after the Friday night presentation on NBC).

The special also had a major impact in the educational community. For example, Prime Time School Television, a Chicago-based non-profit organization which develops free teacher utilization material on nighttime TV broadcasts, surveyed nearly 800 teachers by phone in connection with "In Search of Ancient Astronauts." The responses indicated that 83% of the teachers assigned or recommended viewing of the program and 60% of those were able to do classroom follow-up. In a separate post card survey, PTST found that 80% of nearly 3,600 teachers who responded used the program in connection with classroom work.

In the special, many mysteries are offered to support the Von Daniken theory. A clay vase, which is on display in the Baghdad Museum, is also a 2,000-year-old electrical battery. Istanbul's Topkapi Palace houses maps found in the Orient by Turkish Admiral Piri Reis. Dating back to the 1st century A.D., these maps are uncannily accurate and, according to Von Daniken, show the earth as it would have appeared to astronauts high above Cairo.

In Mexico, in Central America, in Italy, and on a rocky ledge in the Sahara Desert, there are ancient drawings and sculptures depicting strange beings wearing what appear to be space suits, including helmets with antennae. Von Daniken suggests that if space travelers from another planet were to visit earth, they would have found the environment hostile. They, too, would have had to travel in self-contained units and, in appearance, they may have resembled modern astronauts.

Von Daniken also suggests that these ancient astronauts would have brought with them superior skills and may have been responsible for the incredibly accurate Mayan calendar, the huge, stone carvings on Easter Island, Egypt's massive Pyramids and Stonehenge in England. He also considers it significant that legends of various ancient peoples mention powerful strangers descending to earth in flaming chariots. In addition to utilizing much hitherto unexplained physical evidence, the program presents the comments of several scientists including Dr. Wernher Von Braun and Dr. Harold P. Kline, of NASA's Ames Research Center.

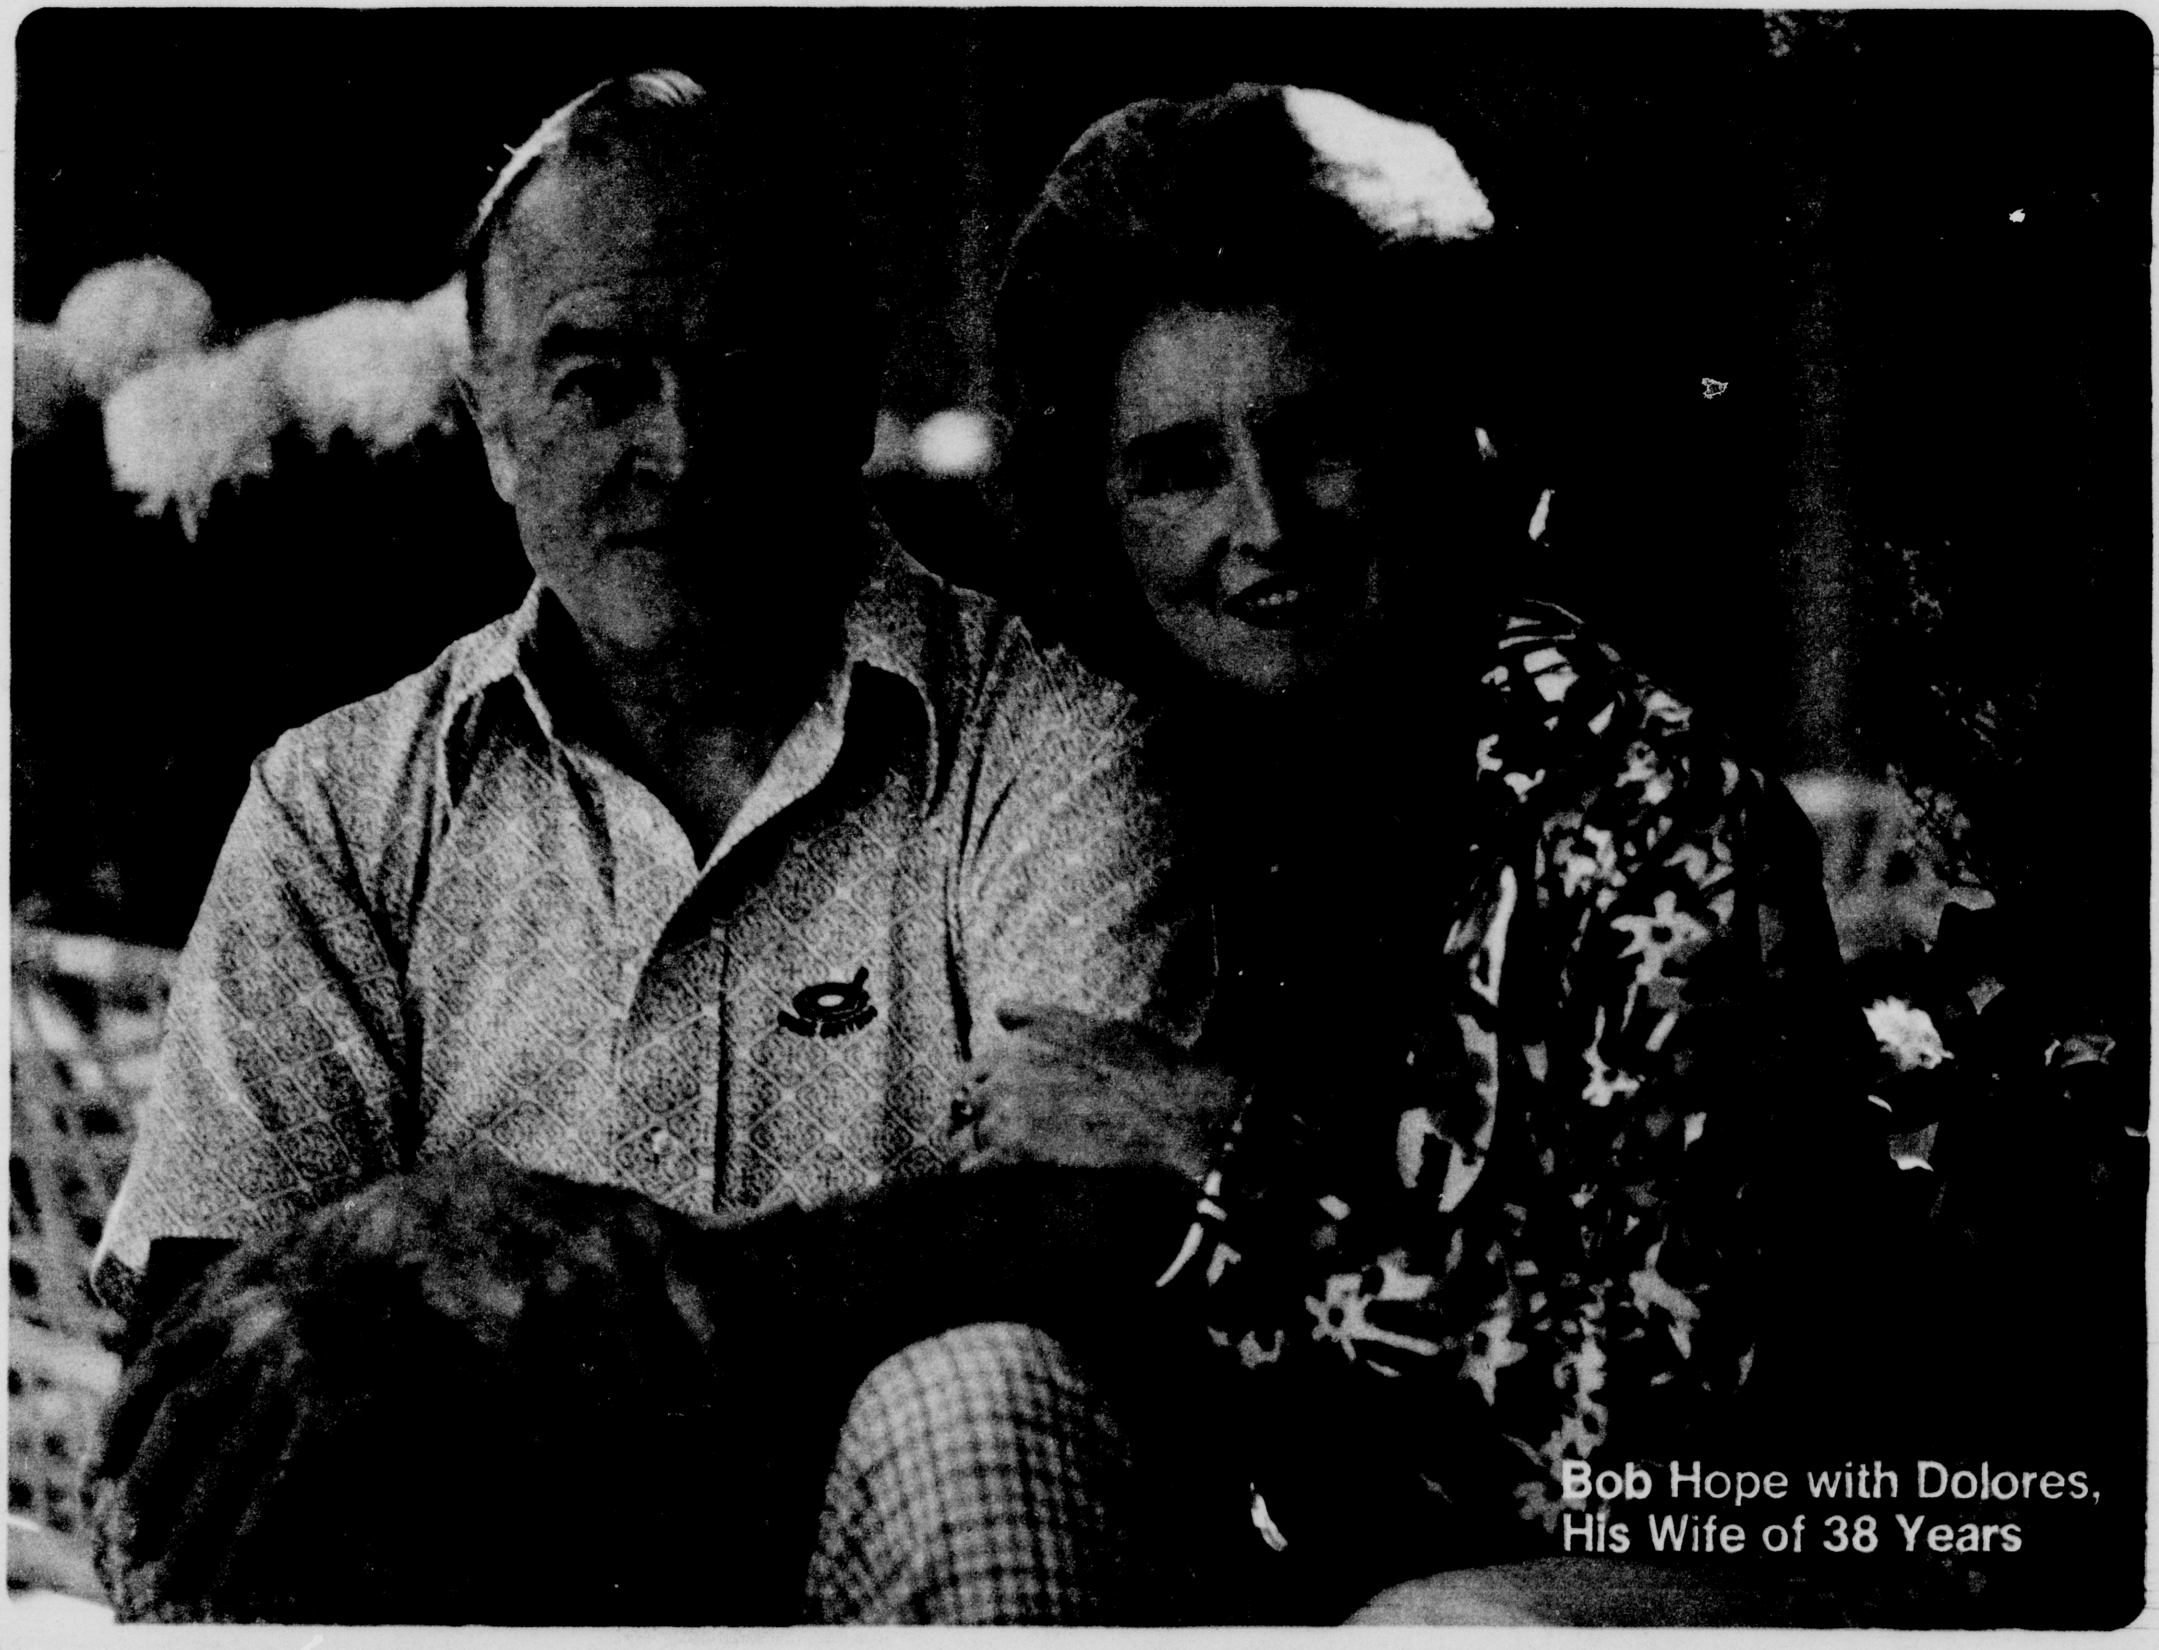
Bob Hope, Nearing 70, Talks Freely About His Life

By MacKinlay Kantor: How Helen Keller Taught Me to "See"

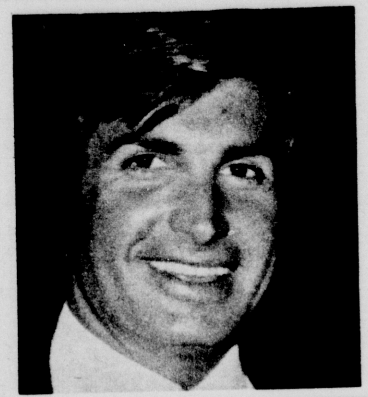
Two Party Favorites: Swedish Meatballs And a Delicious Cake



Bob Hope with Dolores, His Wife of 38 Years

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.



FOR GEORGE HAMILTON

You used to live in such a grand style. Do you still?—N. P., San Rafael, Calif.

● I have a Rolls convertible and a Cessna 182 that I fly myself. I have two houses, one in Palm Springs and one in Los Angeles, but neither one is quite the size of the house I used to have—which I sold to financier Bernie Cornfeld. As to whether my attitude has changed, my answer is yes—and no. Yes, I don't think it was necessary to live in such high style, and no, I loved it. But if I had continued to live that way, I might be in the poorhouse by now.

FOR HOPE LANGE

You have a teenage daughter. How have you advised her about the new morality?—T.D., Albany, Ga.

● I haven't yet. She's 14 and too wrapped up in horses at this point to be very interested. When the time comes, I guess we'll just face it together. I wouldn't want her to run off, but I don't mind her having a boyfriend—as long as he is absolutely perfect: cute, handsome, rich, not temperamental, loves her, and so forth.

FOR WALTER CRONKITE, newscaster

In all your travels at home and abroad as a newscaster, which trip has proven to be the most interesting?—Mrs. John A. Parker, Eureka, Calif.

● Probably the trip to China with President Nixon. It was our first opportunity to take television cameras to this great country. We felt like modern Marco Polos.

FOR JANE BLALOCK, pro golfer

Some of the other female pros have been complaining that since you got in trouble for allegedly bettering the position of your ball, the crowds have been lionizing you. Is this true?—Joan Smedley, Cambridge, Md.

● The spectators have been very nice to me, and I have to assume that this is because Americans root for underdogs. But there is another reason. I won the highly publicized Dinah Shore tournament and that made me more easily identifiable. The big public reaction started after that.

FOR SAM LEVENSON, entertainer-author

Why did you decide to leave teaching and become an entertainer?—A. S. Kravitz, Brooklyn, N.Y.

● I never decided what I wanted to be. Somehow circumstances pointed out new directions for me. I started out as a musician, went on to teaching school, then on to show business, then to writing. At this point I am doing some of each. I bring one subject to all of my careers—me.

FOR WILMA SCOTT HEIDE, president of the National Organization for Women (NOW)

Is it true that the Equal Rights Amendment will abolish alimony payments by men?—J.B., Sweetwater, Texas

● No. Decisions under federal or state law will be made on the bases of needs and resources, not sex. Fewer than ten percent of divorces require any alimony. Much child support after divorce is called alimony, and women pay over one-half of child support after divorce. Anyone who cares about women should know there are hundreds of better reasons to support this amendment. Its ratification will help put sex in its place.

FOR SEN. BIRCH BAYH (D-Ind.), chairman of the Senate Subcommittee on Juvenile Delinquency

My newspaper gives me the impression that a big percentage of crimes are committed by young people. Right or wrong?—F.D.M., Bradenton, Fla.

● Ninety-five percent of all adult felons have juvenile records, and half the crimes in this country are committed by youngsters not old enough to vote. These are alarming facts that point to one very sad conclusion: Whatever we are doing in the area of prevention and rehabilitation has been a dismal failure.

FOR MICKEY SPILLANE, author

I have heard that you now live in South Carolina while your wife lives in New York City because of her career in show business. Do either or both of you have dinner dates with other people?—Roger Morre, Bloomington, Ind.

● We both have many friends and do have dinner dates with other people. This doesn't bother either one of us at all.

FOR TWIGGY

Do you ever fight with your boyfriend and mentor, Justin de Villeneuve?—M. N. T., New Albany, Ind.

● I hate fighting. But to be perfectly honest, once in a while Justin and I do have an argument. If we scream at each other, we always make up in the end—and that's always so beautiful. I think in a love relationship it is all right to scream once in a while, but I wouldn't want to do it at work.

FOR GARY GRIMES,
star of "Summer of '42" and "Class of '44"

Do you have any heroes among older actors and actresses? —K.R.D., Reading, Ohio

● Yes. James Dean is one of my heroes. To make scenes as dramatic as possible, without making them look overdone, is probably the most difficult thing to achieve in acting—but Dean could do it. Orson Welles in his earlier days is another hero of mine. Glenda Jackson is my favorite actress.

The Woman Who Could

The Story of a Fateful Meeting

By MacKinlay Kantor

Author of "Andersonville"

One morning years ago I was aboard an ocean liner, and got up at five-thirty in the morning and began to walk the sun deck.

At first there was no one else about except for a few sailors wiping away the last traces of their swabbing. Solid planks were damp and pungent, the tender mystery of sunrise lifted behind the Azores. Those islands were actually mountains shafting up impassively from bases four miles beneath the smooth marbled water.

They said, We are here, we have been here for a long time.

But I felt a sadness, despite the gold and wine behind mossy clouds.

My problem at that moment was more inscrutable than I could passively accept.

At 52, after 36 years of crowded writing and more crowded living, suddenly I stood upon a summit. It was an attainment for which any man might yearn, and lacerate himself in order to reach it. I was dressed in fame, financial security, artistic and professional accomplishment.

I cried to myself, "But I am still comparatively young, still ambitious. I have won the Pulitzer Prize in Letters. A book I wrote has earned—and is earning, and will earn—a fortune for publishers, dealers, tax collectors, agents, and even for myself.

"Is there no direction to go except down? I have been tussling in the climb for more than a third of a century. Is there still another mountain waiting? Should there be one, have I the strength to attempt it?"

Presently I observed two women of elder years coming slowly toward me. Perhaps craving the same sea-smoked privacy I sought, they had risen with the first light to go a-walking and a-hunting something.

As they approached, I realized that the woman in the beige cloth coat

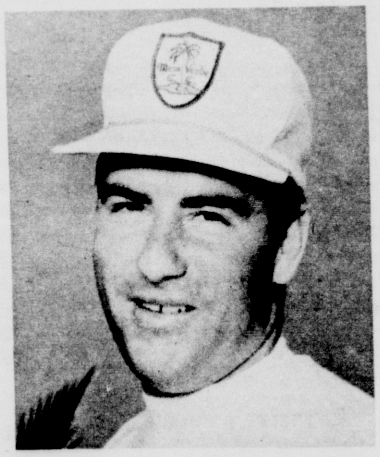
Golfer DAVE STOCKTON:

What's My Secret?
My Dad Didn't Spoil Me!



Dave Stockton, winner of this year's Greater Milwaukee Open and former national PGA champion, has chronic back trouble that causes him to walk around golf courses with a strange gait. He also has a tendency to succumb to heat strokes during tournaments. Yet he is one of the golf game's leading money winners, known on the professional tour as a "scrambler"—a man who makes up in sheer determination what he lacks in physical strength. Stockton, who's 30 and married, credits his iron determination to his upbringing. His dad was a successful sporting goods merchant who refused to indulge his son. "He wouldn't give me a job in his own store," Stockton recalls, "because he felt the work wasn't hard enough. He sent me to work in a neighbor's lumberyard. That was when I was 12. Then he decided the first week's pay I got was too much for the work I did and made me give part of it back to the neighbor. . . . I may have kicked about working hard, but I came to appreciate the work ethic. That's why I've had the guts to stick to this game. I'm bringing my children up the same way."

—By Barry Abramson

Feel the Mountains

At the pinnacle of his success, MacKinlay Kantor questioned: "Is there no direction to go except down?"

The answer to Kantor's anguish came from a radiant Helen Keller.

must be blind. Her companion, in a brown-suede jacket, was directing her steps.

On impulse I went to the two.

I asked, "Does she feel the islands? Feel the power of the mountains which hold them? Feel the ocean? The dawn?"

The woman with the jacket said, "Ah. . . ."

I feared she was surrendering, and to the inevitable.

She spoke softly. "It would be very difficult."

"Still, perhaps, in some miraculous way, could she–?"

She turned and pressed my question into the palm of her companion.

The answer was something to make a man walk away and lift his head higher, make him breathe well, make him feel that there were still cliffs awaiting . . . and he might be vigorous enough to start climbing again.

With busy fingers the woman tapped out the words, even as her lips shaped them.

He–wants to know–if you feel the sea – the mountains holding the Azores–feel the dawn. . . .

Sightless blue eyes seemed to glow. A color pinker than the sunrise was on that keen face.

"Of course I do! Yes, yes. . . . Feel depths and heights. . . . Feel the dawn, feel its coming, its vastness. . . . I feel it," said Helen Keller. fw

Why Some People "Hold Their Liquor" Better Than Others

Nobody really holds his liquor—only some people look as if they do, just because they don't stumble and can apparently keep a conversation going along a straight line. But the fact is, just as soon as alcohol is absorbed into the bloodstream, some mental functions, like judgment or coping with an emergency, begin to be impaired. So why do some people look as if they can hold their liquor longer than others? It is a matter of absorption. What counts is the concentration of alcohol in the blood. Concentration is the difference between the amount that is absorbed and the amount that is oxidized—which means, changed in the body and excreted. When intake and absorption are faster than oxidation, you show the effect of alcohol more strongly. Habitual drinkers absorb alcohol more slowly and oxidize it faster than those who rarely drink. That is the reason they seem to show less effect. But impairment of higher faculties is not reduced! Other things can also delay absorption, such as having a full stomach. Size of a person also counts. The same amount of alcohol absorbed will have more effect on a small person than on a large one. So—if you plan to drink, eat first. But even then, do not undertake tasks that require judgment or a reaction in an emergency.

Is a new home of your own becoming an impossible dream?

On a national average, home prices have jumped nearly 22% over the past three years!* That $20,000 home you started saving for in 1970 now sells for $24,400. That's why more and more families are building the Capp Homes way. And the free plans service lets them build exactly the home they want.

Capp does the rough stuff, then you do the finishing. Even if you just subcontract it all, you can save up to 20% because that's the usual contractor's fee.

And you can save lots more if you do some of the work yourself.

Nothing but the best. All building materials and construction in a Capp Home meet or exceed all building codes. In fact, they're probably superior to those used in most model homes you've seen.

Financing? Don't worry about it, Capp Homes has a variety of financing plans to help you buy that home right now . . . without closing costs, points or hidden charges.

Bob Hope Nears 70—And Talks Frankly About His Wealth, His Politics, His Home Life

Globe Photos

Bob Hope's tribute to his wife: "I admire Dolores for the way she's kept the family together in all my travels...."

"I've always played it pretty cool when it came to politics. I don't want to be a hypocrite about it. Everybody knows my position. But... I know that if Kennedy had lived we wouldn't have been in the Vietnam war so long."

FAMILY WEEKLY: If you had to live your life over again, what would you do differently?

HOPE: I had an opening line in one of my books that said if I had to live my life over again, I wouldn't have time. I've had the most exciting and lucky life. People say to me, "My God, the way you've traveled in the last four months!" and I say, "Yeah, and I arranged the schedule!" People think I'm a bit flakey, but I enjoy it. That must be why I feel in such good shape. I'm hitting the ball better than I have in 15 years!

FW: That means you have no plans for retiring?

HOPE: No way! I'm just starting, Peer!

FW: You're supposed to be the richest actor in Hollywood. How did you acquire your business acumen?

HOPE: I think I was just lucky. You see, Bing [Crosby] and I made a killing in oil about 20 years ago. I also got some good business advice from Joe Rosenthal of Lehman Brothers. He said to buy real estate. I don't think that I am any kind of business genius. I just did the very obvious thing that people can do. I can look back and see that I could have gone off in other ways.

FW: A couple of years ago I read a story that said you were not only the wealthiest actor in Hollywood, but that your net worth was between $250 million and $750 million. Is that correct?

HOPE: I remember being quoted in "Time" magazine as saying that I had a billion dollars! I've been looking for it ever since! I can't find a tenth of it. Frank [Frank Liberman, Hope's publicist] had a guy from "Fortune" magazine who wanted to talk to me about my estate, and I said, "Sure, bring him down to Palm Springs." He never got down there. But he reported that I was worth a quarter of a billion dollars! And people believe it. It was absolutely a lie! [Editor's note: Yet Bob is not a pauper. When his new house in Palm Springs—being built at a cost variously estimated between $1½-3 million—burned down in July, Bob, who already owns two homes in Palm Springs, said, "No need to cry over spilt milk"—and promptly decided to rebuild the house.]

FW: You still didn't answer my question: How much are you worth?

HOPE: If I could sell all of my real estate, I would be worth about $25 million to $30 million. But now I am property poor. I am fighting to pay my taxes. Look, I have 11,000 acres right around here. Damned good property. But you have to realize it. I've been lucky in the last couple of years and did sell a few things that kept me moving pretty good.

FW: You've been married 40 years now?

HOPE: Thirty-eight.

FW: To what do you ascribe the success of your marriage?

HOPE: I travel a lot. [Smiles.] No, I think when you can live with one woman for so long, there must be a lot of admiration connected with it. It wouldn't last if you didn't admire the other person a lot. It's like patriotism: You don't go around yelling "I love my wife." You kind of look back, and think about what she's done, and I admire Dolores for the way she's kept the family together in all my travels, and for her philosophy of life, her belief in religion, and everything else.

FW: Do you feel you are difficult to live with?

HOPE: Not at all. In fact, I think I am a rare delight! Because it is very rare that I am home! You know, I would think someone would be difficult to live with if they didn't want to do things. I am always saying, "Let's pack and go... let's go to this affair and that affair," and I think that's kind of an exciting life.

FW: Did you ever think of going into politics?

HOPE: Yes. It was suggested to me about 18 years ago when they wanted me to run for the Senate. Jack Warner asked me one time, and then a group in Washington. But I've never been interested in it. I've always played it pretty cool when it came to politics. I don't want to be a hypocrite about it. Everybody knows my position. But they've never seen me get mixed up in politics until this last election. I think it's a shame the whole country couldn't have gotten behind all of the Presidents. I know that if Kennedy had lived we wouldn't have been in the Vietnam war so long.

FW: What makes you say that?

HOPE: He was so mad about the Bay of Pigs thing. When he put the blockade around Cuba, he meant it. I know, because I talked to him about it, and I know how he would have handled the Vietnam situation. He hated Communists.

FW: Did you meet him before he became President?

HOPE: I did. At a football game. And I got to be good friends with him.

FW: Can you think of any special amusing incident involving you and President Kennedy?

HOPE: Yeah, at the Waldorf, during the Football Hall of Fame banquet. I was sitting next to him on the dais. When I went to the restroom it was blocked off, so that everybody but the President had to use the ladies' room—1,200 men! So when I came back to the table, I said to him, "Mr. President, I appreciate your security and everything, but how far do you have to go? They've got the men's room blocked off for you and I had to go to the ladies' room." And he said, "No kidding! How was it?" He loved that—he'd rather tell jokes than anything.

FW: Have you ever had any close calls during your many travels?

HOPE: Several. The worst was in 1942. We were in Alaska in a little seaport called Cordova, doing a show. We had promised never to fly at night, but Gen. Simon Buckner was holding some kind of a street dance in our honor in Anchorage, and we were all so enthused about going, we took off at night anyway, in a Lockheed Lodestar. Within five minutes we were in a storm. We didn't like the feel of it, but figured the pilots must know what they were doing. In 15 minutes the pilot and copilot were yelling at each other up in the cockpit. The pilot was 22 and his copilot was 21! About ten minutes later one of them came back and said "Stand up." They put Mae Wests on us and told us we might have to jump. It wasn't just the storm—we had no visibility, and the radio went out too. We had no way of communicating. We were up there circling for about an hour, hoping and praying something would happen because the mountains around us were 13,000 feet high. And I really mean praying! Luckily, an airliner happened along as we were circling, and went down and told them he'd felt our backwash. General Buckner put up the antiaircraft lights, and the pilot saw one and circled right down and found the airport. I tell you, I was never so happy to see the ground! I got down and kissed it, and took pocketsful of dirt home with me.

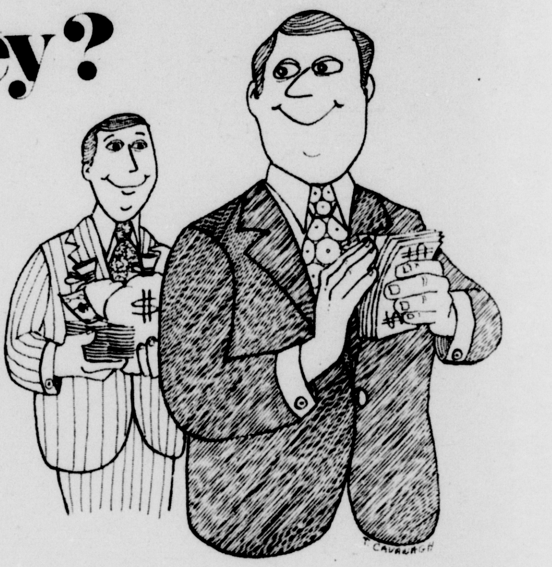
People Quiz

Would You Really Be Happier if You Had More Money?



True or False: A man's incentive to do a good job depends on the amount of money you pay him.
(See number 2)

By John E. Gibson

It's been said that money won't buy happiness. This may be true, but it's also an unarguable fact that money certainly makes unhappiness more comfortable. In this True-or-False quiz we take a candid look at that stuff that feels so good in your wallet.

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. It's easy to feel secure if you have plenty of money.

2. A man's incentive to do a good job depends on the amount of money you pay him.

3. Women are more money-hungry than men are.

4. Credit cards will soon take the place of money.

5. The less money people have the more they think about it.

ANSWERS

1. False. Psychologist Henry Clay Lindgren has observed in summing up the findings of various studies that despite the conviction of a great many people to the contrary, money is far from a cure-all for the feelings of insecurity that assail us. He points out that the notion that higher earnings or a heftier bank balance will cause our problems to vanish into thin air is wishful thinking that has no basis in fact. Most of our problems in life stem from basic psychological causes that have nothing to do with money. These remain to be faced and coped with–regardless of whether our income is large or small.

2. True–with some personality types, but False with others, according to the findings of a University of Melbourne study, which selected two groups of 60 persons with high and low emotional levels, as measured by psychological tests. Each received various amounts of monetary reward for performing mental tasks (typical of the white-collar desk worker). With the persons in the highly emotional group, it was found that when payment for their work was reduced, incentive to do a good job lowered appreciably. But this was not found true with the people in the less emotional group.

3. False. Psychological studies have shown that men are far more preoccupied with money than women are. Males were found to place a much greater emphasis on acquiring money not only for its own sake, but as a symbol of material success, prestige and power. Women, on the other hand, were less interested in money and more concerned with "social relations, personal attractiveness, and love and family relations." This is not to say that women don't like and appreciate money, but they don't give it as high a priority as most men do.

4. False–as evidenced by the findings of a University of Michigan study of credit card users and consumer attitudes, which indicate that although the credit card provides a valuable service and convenience, it is not becoming a replacement for money as many people predicted. As a matter of fact, it was found that "families using credit cards tend to write more checks per month than families who do not use such cards."

5. True. Recent Institute for Social Research studies that surveyed the attitudes of various income brackets and strata of society have shown that poorer people have a much more materialistic outlook, are more money-conscious, and more inclined to equate the amount of money they earn with their status as human beings. The affluent were found to be more interested in nonmaterial values such as the quality of their life-styles and personal satisfactions afforded by their work.

Now! With the simple method of Foot Reflexology!

'You Can Get Almost Immediate Relief from Aches and Pains All Over the Body!'

"I have brought relief to countless suffering people with this method—and have watched their joy of regained health and vitality—when all hope had seemingly been lost!"

"Let me show you how it can bring about the normal function of a specific location or organ..."

Says MILDRED CARTER, Professional Reflexologist

My name is
Mildred Carter.
I am not a doctor,
but I have been helping people receive remarkable relief
from seemingly hopeless aches
and pains!

What A Physiotherapist Says:

"During my forty-eight years as a Physiotherapist in my own Treatment Centers . . . I have had every opportunity to observe the amazing benefits of manual massage. As a means of rehabilitation where physical trauma is involved, it ranks high in the annals of Medicine.

"The techniques described in Mrs. Carter's book have been developed by experts in the field of reflex massage, and we have no hesitation in recommending them. . . . For the relief of pain, we know of no other means short of opiates to achieve this objective."

– CLARENCE R. MUNROE
Registered Technician, Physiotherapy

Dear Friend:

My name is Mildred Carter. I am not a doctor, but for over 14 years, I have been helping people receive remarkable relief from seemingly hopeless aches and pains all over the body, with a method—which you can use, too—called Foot Reflexology.

Foot Reflexology is a method for healing the whole body. If you've ever suffered from foot trouble, you know that it's the feet that make the whole body ache. By rubbing and pressing gently on certain areas of your feet, I can show you how you may get almost immediate relief IN OTHER PARTS OF THE BODY!

Why? Because the feet contain Reflexes, which lead like telephone lines to all parts of the body. By pressing them, you help restore normal circulation and health to congested areas. No one can guarantee a cure, nor is it a medical substitute, but:

- I have seen it relieve crippled hands and feet, caused by painful arthritis, straighten whole bodies and bring them back to normal!
- It can stop the pain of hemorrhoids almost immediately!
- Most headaches vanish immediately with this method!
- I have seen it relieve liver and gall bladder trouble!
- I have seen it clear up stuffed sinuses almost immediately!
- I have seen it relieve back troubles, in a matter of seconds!
- I have seen it bring fast relief to stomach troubles!
- I have brought lasting relief to sufferers of varicose veins with this method. This is also true with cramps or pains in the legs!
- I have seen it relieve bladder trouble quickly, with great relief after the very first treatment—all sensation of burning or itching seems to disappear completely!
- This simple method can bring women blessed relief from many disorders which may have been troubling them for years!
- I have brought relief to men, in every case of prostate trouble I have ever treated with this method!

...And still that's just the beginning! You'll find the full details of this amazing method of healing in a new book which I have written, called HELPING YOURSELF WITH FOOT REFLEXOLOGY. I'll tell you how to get it in just a moment, but first I want to tell you more about it!

Many Healings Reported!

Foot Reflexology is a safe, natural, and inexpensive way to help restore healthful circulation to every area of your body.

Did you ever notice how quickly water freshens when good water is poured into muddy water? Foot Reflexology does the same for circulation in your body. Blood flow slows over the years. Naturally, glands and organs become sluggish. Stimulating a new flow of blood to these "tired" places brings new life, clears glands and organs of years of accumulated waste.

Healings and relief from discomforts of all sorts are reported, by the dozen, in the pages of my book. All were obtained with the help of Foot Reflexology.

Here's What I Say In This Book:

Gall Bladder Healing "There are many cases where Reflex Massage of the liver and gall bladder has saved people from having an operation, with the stones seeming to vanish after a few treatments."—Quoted from Chapter 12

Anemic Conditions "Anyone who is anemic will find . . . improvement can be so rapid it is amazing. With pernicious anemia, results will be slower, but Nature will be there, changing new blood cells for old." —Quoted from Chapter 11

Helping the Heart "No matter what the nature of the trouble is, the heart can be aided with this method. . . . I can give you many case histories of wonderful results from this scientific massage of the reflexes on heart patients." —Quoted from Chapter 13

Relief for Leg Pain "I believe I have treated more cases of leg aches than any other malady, and most were caused by the sciatic nerve. Many people suffer for years without any relief. Yet it is so amazingly simple to banish all inflammation from this nerve in an unbelievably short time. In many cases this method has brought relief in one treatment." —Quoted from Chapter 22

Varicose Veins "I have brought lasting relief to sufferers of varicose veins by starting the proper circulation with Reflex Massage, thus causing congestion to disappear. This is also true with cramps or pains of any kind in the legs." —Quoted from Chapter 16

Relief for Hemorrhoids "Hemorrhoids are nothing more than a congested vein (known as piles). This is actually a varicose vein in the rectum. These can become so large as to protrude, causing inconvenience, much suffering, and in many cases bleeding. Though painful, they are usually suffered in silence by those who have them. Yet with Reflex Massage they are one of the quickest to respond to treatment. Here we will learn how to use the Reflexology method to bring you prompt relief!" —Quoted from Chapter 21

How to Make Reflexology Your Rejuvenator "Would you like to be young again? Would you like to walk expectantly into the future, to enjoy new experiences, with a revitalized body? We do not have to be old . . . Reflexology rejuvenates the entire body, giving new life to glands and cells. Blood flow slows over the years. Naturally, glands and cells become sluggish. Reflexology stimulates a new flow of blood to these tired places, clears glands and cells of accumulated waste, brings them new life!" —Quoted from Chapters 3 and 24

You'll Discover...

- How Reflexology relieved a man's stuffed sinuses. "After the first treatment, he could suddenly breathe through both sides of his nose" and he felt well again.
- How a woman who had hurt her spine, and was in so much pain that she called a bone specialist to take x-rays, received so much relief with Reflexology—after a single treatment—that she was able to get up and do her work. She felt so much better, in fact, that she cancelled her appointment for x-rays, and claims she is fully recovered.
- How a man with a hunchback—a huge, ugly bulge—received a complete healing with Reflexology. He was freed of pain, and "he was able to stand straight." The hump disappeared. "He was not deformed at all," I reported!
- How a man who suffered from ulcers, kidney trouble, hay fever, and constipation, received complete relief with Reflexology. "The symptoms of each illness disappeared one by one," and today he sleeps like a baby every night!
- How a man with a heart condition was healed with Reflexology. Doctors had always warned him he couldn't do the things other men did. With this method, "his heart returned to normal enough to allow him to do anything he wanted, without any trouble. Today, after more than 10 years, he is a strong and well man."

AMAZING TRUE Experiences!

"Reflexology will free you from sickness and suffering, and fear of pain, when used correctly."

"There are so many personal experiences which I could recount, stories of illnesses which were relieved by reflex massage, that I find myself wanting to tell all of them at once. I have seen it do marvelous things that surprised me many times when doctors said it couldn't be done.

"If it can do this for others, it can do this for you! I have proven that this method of healing works, in my own experience. Try it on yourself and FEEL the results!"

Safe To Use!

What's more, Foot Reflexology is absolutely safe. It is the "drugless" way to better health, and requires no exercise, no expensive equipment of any kind. It is so simple, and natural, that it is safe to use on anyone, from the youngest baby to the oldest person. In fact, it is a Rejuvenator that can actually win you many years of new youth!

Read It All From Cover to Cover, For 30 Days, Entirely At Our Risk!

I have proven that this method of healing works in my own experience. You owe it to yourself to try it at our risk and FEEL the results. And I invite you to do just that! Fair enough? Why not send in the coupon—TODAY!

Two Party Favorites: A Delicious Cake—Plus Swedish Meatballs!

Mary Ann McCarthy, who loves to cook, frosting the Birthday Cake with Glossy Chocolate Frosting.

This week, Food Editor Marilyn Hansen bakes a Birthday Cake and makes some party food. "One of our secretaries, Mary Ann McCarthy, brought in this cake to celebrate my secretary's birthday. Everyone thought it was super-delicious. Here is Mary Ann's recipe."

BIRTHDAY CAKE

2 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
1½ cups sugar
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup margarine (1 stick), cut up
1 cup milk
2 eggs
1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
Glossy Chocolate Frosting, recipe below

1. Preheat oven to 350° F. Grease and lightly dust with flour 2 (8 or 9 inch) layer-cake pans.

2. Sift flour, sugar, baking powder and salt into large mixing bowl.

3. Add margarine and ⅔ cup of milk. Beat 2 minutes at low speed of electric mixer. Scrape sides of bowl and clean beaters.

4. Add remaining ⅓ cup milk, eggs and vanilla and beat 2 minutes longer at medium speed.

5. Turn batter into prepared pans and bake 30-35 minutes, or until cake tester poked in center comes out clean.

6. Cool 10 minutes on rack in pans, then remove from pans and cool completely.

7. Place 1 cake layer on cake plate bottom side up. Frost top generously. Place remaining layer on top and finish frosting—frost sides first, and then top of cake.

Makes 1 (8 or 9 inch) layer cake

GLOSSY CHOCOLATE FROSTING

4½ squares unsweetened baking chocolate
2 tablespoons margarine
1½ cups sugar
4½ tablespoons cornstarch
⅛ teaspoon salt
2¼ cups boiling water
1½ teaspoons pure vanilla extract

1. Place chocolate squares and 1 tablespoon margarine in top of double boiler. Heat over boiling water until melted.

2. In 2-qt. saucepan mix sugar, cornstarch and salt.

3. Stir chocolate into cornstarch mixture. Add boiling water, stirring until smooth.

4. Bring to boil over medium-low heat, stirring constantly until mixture boils and thickens. Continue boiling 1 minute.

5. Remove from heat. Stir in vanilla and remaining 1 tablespoon margarine.

6. Cover surface of frosting with waxed paper. Refrigerate until completely cold.

Makes about 3 cups, enough to fill and frost 2-layer cake

MARY ANN'S SWEDISH MEATBALLS

1 slice bread, crumbled
1 egg
3 tablespoons ketchup
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
¼ teaspoon thyme leaves
½ cup chopped onion
1 lb. bulk sausage meat
1½ lbs. lean ground chuck or round
2 tablespoons margarine
2 tablespoons flour
2 bouillon cubes
2 cups water
2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley, optional

1. In large bowl, beat together bread, egg, ketchup, salt, pepper and thyme leaves.

2. In large skillet, cook onion and sausage meat until sausage loses its pink color, breaking up sausage into small pieces as it cooks.

3. Add onion-sausage and ground chuck to bread-and-egg mixture. Stir with large spoon until well mixed. Cover, refrigerate for 1-2 hours or overnight. (Chilling makes shaping easier.)

4. Shape into 1-inch meatballs.

5. Heat margarine in large skillet. Brown meatballs, shaking pan frequently so they keep their shape. Cook until done.

6. Remove meatballs from skillet, set aside. Pour off all but 2 tablespoons fat from skillet. Stir in flour smoothly. Add bouillon cubes and water. Bring to boiling, stirring.

7. Turn meatballs into sauce, heat gently to boiling point. Serve hot, sprinkled with parsley. Makes about 50 meatballs

The "two-together" laxative!

(It's made with smaller doses of two laxatives.)

Some single ingredient laxatives work on the "Sunday punch" theory. One big dose of a strong laxative that can knock your system for a loop.

Caroid & Bile Salts Tablets are made up of two separate laxatives that combine the surety of a strong laxative with the gentleness of a mild one.

Together they help ease you to regularity without sudden urgency upset.

And because the dosage is pre-measured, Caroid & Bile Salts Tablets are thorough and so predictable you can almost set your watch by them. Take two tablets at bedtime. Get a good night's sleep. And you can expect to be back on schedule in the morning.

Gentle Caroid & Bile Salts Tablets—the 'two-together' laxative—to help put your system back on schedule.

GRANT SULLENS WITH WEIRD-O
That's a normal chicken at right

Super-chicken has arrived. His name is Weird-O, and he weighs an incredible 22 pounds. It took 17-year-old Californian Grant Sullens five years to develop Weird-O. Grant took up breeding about nine years ago, and four years later began crossbreeding in order to strengthen his flock. Some 5,000 crossbreeds later, here's Weird-O (see picture). Says Grant, "I knew he was something special, since the egg he came from was heavier and rounder than normal. His ma never laid another egg—perhaps Weird-O was too much for her. In no time he was fathering chicks and all the time he grew and grew." As to selling Weird-O, Grant has turned down all incoming offers. He says, "He's my bird and mine he will stay." The new breed has been registered as "White Sullies" and Grant says, "I'm breeding them as full-meat birds. They are to the chicken world what the Angus is to the beef world."

QUOTE: A psychiatrist on promiscuity: "I find that the cause of promiscuity does not need to be physical. Rather, promiscuity represents a tremendous need to be loved and wanted, and physical contact is used merely to achieve that desire. Promiscuity is a defense against alienation. It is an attempt to get close to someone, to establish a relationship—but without success. It is the trying and the failing. It is an escape measure, a cursory and temporary meeting—nothing more than a means to achieve, to gain something permanent, to obtain love. For it is love, and only love, that can bring an illusion of meaning to life and an illusion of immortality."—Dr. I. Emery Breitner, Roslyn, N.Y. UNQUOTE.

"PEYTON'S" PAT MORROW
A hit in Yugoslavia

Pat Morrow, one of the main characters on NBC-TV's daytime series, "Peyton Place," recently went behind the Iron Curtain as a celebrity guest of Yugoslavia, where her TV show is going great guns. Ms. Morrow saw many people wearing T-shirts with pictures of the cast stamped on them. She reports: "Yugoslavia is the only Iron Curtain country that plays 'Peyton Place.' They combine three segments to show together, and beginning at 6:30 every evening, the show runs for 90 minutes. I was mobbed when I arrived—25,000 people milling about, jumping on the car, and pushing all around. I felt trapped, but it was fantastic too!"

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour

DISHING IT OUT

When at her home for dinner, lunch,
To make my hostess pleased as Punch
I know precisely what to do
And very often do it, too.

I pick some dish and praise it highly,
While hiding pangs of ptomaine slyly,
Or if I can't, my cheeks grown pallid,
I tuck it under leaves of salad.

Ah yes, I say it's simply yummy
And rub (as if with joy) my tummy.
Then topping all with one crescendo,
Which, happily, is near the end-o,
I make her joyous as can be
By asking for the recipe.

Scientists say we're fast running out of fossil fuels, and that's disconcerting news to all us old fossils.

Years ago we lived in a small town in Illinois, and when our son was about three and a half years old, his dad took him over to a neighbor's house to watch a man tilling his garden with a small plow pulled by a horse. He was quite excited. When they returned home I asked him what the man was doing with the plow. He answered, "He was pushing the horse with it."

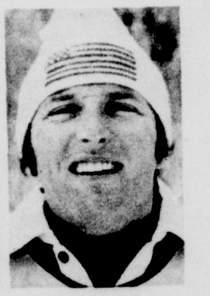
Juliet Lowell, author of the all-time best-seller "Dear Sir," collects unintentionally humorous letters to and from people in all walks of life.



To Billy Kidd
Champion Skier

Dear Billy Kidd:

I hear that you are giving up championship skiing to go into ski equipment. Now then, I would like some advice from you.

Perhaps the right kind of skis and outfit might help me. Right now my skiing is like having my portrait painted—it takes a lot of sittings. As you know, most people ski from left to right, I ski from fright to fright.

Looking forward to hearing from you. I remain yours sincerely,

Happy end to sub story; 2 men rescued

CORK, Ireland (UPI) —An international team hauled two Britons trapped in a miniature submarine alive and well from the bottom of the Atlantic Saturday, ending a dramatic three-day effort believed to be the deepest sea rescue ever made.

Roger Mallinson, 35, and Roger Chapman, 28, clambered under their own power out of their crippled 19-foot submarine Pisces III 75 hours and 50 minutes after it sank in 1,375 feet of water off the Irish coast.

"They looked fit enough to play football," a rescue spokesman said.

But the men escaped by a whisker.

Their midget sub, disabled while burying a new transatlantic telephone cable Wednesday, carried what was expected to be air enough for only 72 hours, plus a 45-minute emergency supply of oxygen. But they managed to stretch out the oxygen just long enough.

'Looked fit enough to play football'

The men's air dwindled closer and closer to what an official called "the drop-dead time" while two sister submarines and a U.S. Navy underseas drone made dive after fruitless dive.

The sister subs Pisces II and Pisces V were able to attach only two light marker lines to the disabled sub.

Then early Saturday the U.S. Navy drone CURV III—the kind of device which found a hydrogen bomb dropped into the sea off Palomares, Spain—reached the sea bed and in seven minutes attached an eight-inch-thick rope.

The craft, her aft compartment flooded, was stuck front end upward in the mud in the inky blackness and intense pressures of the deep sea bed.

The Canadian ship John Cabot, hauling slowly and steadily on the three lines, lifted the Pisces free of the bottom at 9:40 a.m.

Less than 3-½ hours later the craft was on the surface and a Royal Air Force helicopter flashed the jubilant message, "The rescue is a success."

Four doctors aboard the 4,600-ton mother ship Vickers Voyager examined Chapman and Mallinson. A helicopter flew them to Cork, where they transferred immediately to a jet for a flight to Barrow-in-Furness, England, where their families waited.

Sir Leonard Redshaw, chairman of Vickers Oceanics, owner of the Pisces, said the men were brought up in "our last chance." He described the operation as the deepest underseas rescue ever attempted.

Mrs. June Chapman, 25, and Mrs. Pamela Mallinson, 34, had spent Saturday together.

"I have had only three hours sleep in the last three nights," Mrs. Mallinson said. "But I had complete confidence in my husband and Vickers, and I always kept up hope."

'Our last chance' deepest sea rescue

"If anything, it has given me even more confidence about my husband going down under water again," Mrs. Chapman said.

Weather

Early morning low clouds Sunday and Monday, clearing by mid-morning. Warmer days, some gusty canyon winds in evenings to 20 m.p.h. Lows around mid-50's, highs to 92 — forecast high for California 500 in the 80's.

Blaze in hotel kills 19 from U. S., 17 others

19th century Denmark 'fire trap' gutted; no alarms, no sprinkler pumps in building

COPENHAGEN (UPI) — Denmark's worst hotel blaze in a generation gutted the 19th century Hafnia—described as a "fire trap"—before dawn Saturday, killing at least 36 persons, including 19 Americans. Another 20 guests were still missing, police said.

Police refused to identify the victims until their relatives were notified. Many of the victims were burned so badly it was difficult to identify them.

Police said 17 persons were hospitalized for burns, smoke poisoning or injuries received when they leaped from windows in panic.

Only 13 of the hotel's 85 registered guests escaped unscathed. Officials said it was the worst hotel fire in Denmark since the World War II.

An unidentified family of four Americans perished despite the father's efforts to save his wife and two children by putting them in a bathtub filled with cold water. The father was found lying across the tub over the bodies of his family, police said.

The Danish Fire Brigade said officials had been warned repeatedly that the 75-year-old hotel was a hazard because it lacked elementary fire prevention equipment.

A 'firetrap'

"The hotel was a fire trap and we have several times warned Danish authorities about this as well as other hotels in the old-fashioned style here in Copenhagen," Jan Amnizboel, chief of the Copenhagen fire brigade, told UPI. "They have no fire alarms, no iron doors, no sprinkler water pumps and no sufficient emergency doors."

Police managed to identify 15 victims by late Saturday and set about the task of discovering their relatives. In addition to the 19 Americans, police said the victims included one Belgian, two Italians, four Austrians, one Singapore national, two Japanese, two Dutchmen, one Canadian, one Mexican, two Brazilians and one Irishman.

One of the survivors, Jules Fine of Honolulu, said he was glad he spent the extra money for a room with a bath. All rooms with baths were in the front of the building.

Lucky room

Fine, an assistant inspector with the U.S. Department of Agriculture, said, "I think the reason we were so lucky was that we had a room with a bath, which is in the front of the hotel. The people in the back weren't so lucky.

He and his wife fled the thick smoke to a balcony, closing the French doors behind them.

"All above us on the fourth and fifth floors it was absolute pandemonium," he said. "We could hear people screaming for help . . . shouting, "Help us! Save us!"

"I think most of them at that point were suffocating rather than burning," he said.

The Fines were lowered to safety on a ladder.

A fire officer said the fire broke out about 2:30 a.m.. It apparently started on the main staircase between the second and third floors. The cause was not immediately determined.

Appeals in Nixon tapes could last to October

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The legal suits to obtain President Nixon's secret tape recordings will delay grand jury indictments in the Watergate case until at least mid-October but would not stop the Senate committee from issuing an interim report, investigators indicated Saturday.

Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox told Chief U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica this week that he does not want the grand jury to consider further indictments until he knows whether it will have access to the tapes.

Sam Dash, chief counsel for the Senate Watergate committee, told a reporter the committee could issue an interim report on the Watergate phase of its investigation without the tapes.

Cox is several steps ahead of the committee in their separate suits to get the tapes, and he hopes to have his suit ready to present to the Supreme Court when the high tribunal begins its fall term Oct. 1.

Sirica ruled Wednesday that Nixon should give him the tapes for personal inspection before the judge decides whether to order them given to the grand jury. Nixon decided to appeal the ruling by Sirica, who gave the President until this Thursday to do so.

James Doyle, a spokesman for Cox, said the prosecutor would seek to shorten the number of days permitted for both sides to file briefs and prepare for oral arguments. Doyle said this would permit the U.S. Court of Appeals to hand down a decision in September.

Area police crack down on drunk drivers during holiday weekend

CLAREMONT — California Highway Patrol officers here report drunk driving arrests this Labor Day weekend running at almost one every two hours. Officers assigned to the Claremont CHP office jailed 11 persons between 6 p.m. Friday and 6 p.m. Saturday on drunk driving charges.

Depending on the place of their arrest, they spent a minimum of four hours behind bars at the Pomona city jail, the West End substation of the San Bernardino County Sheriff's office, or Los Angeles County Sheriff's substation in San Dimas or City of Industry.

Minimum bail for those sober enough to leave after four hours is $350.

Across the nation in the first 24 hours of the three-day holiday period, 129 persons had been killed in traffic accidents, United Press International related.

Eighteen persons had died from drowning, while 11 others died in various non-highway accidents.

Epidemic of cholera spreads through Italy

NAPLES, Italy (UPI) —The government shipped hundreds of thousands of doses of vaccine and tons of fresh lemons to Naples and to Bari Saturday to fight a cholera epidemic spreading across southern Italy.

Since the first cases of the disease were reported early this week, nine persons have died in the Naples area and 229 have been hospitalized, 57 of them with confirmed cases of cholera. The Adriatic port city of Bari reported nine confirmed cases and 45 more suspected.

Residents of Naples took to the streets for the second consecutive day to protest a shortage of vaccine and demand immediate sanitation measures in the city's crowded slums.

At Portici 1,000 persons mobbed the mayor's car and beat on it with their fists as he tried to enter his office. Later a crowd of 3,000 public housing residents burned tires, furniture and bags of garbage in the street.

A motorcade drove through Naples with horns blaring, displaying signs demanding vaccine.

In Rome government officials announced the shipment Saturday of vaccine and lemons, a fruit believed effective in countering the cholera bacilus.

Gen. Bradley out of hospital

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —Gen. Omar N. Bradley was released from UCLA Medical Center Saturday, smiling and waving after an "excellent recovery" from blood clots near his lungs.

Bradley, the nation's only living five-star general, left the hospital in a wheelchair and was taken to his Beverly Hills home by his personal physician.

The 80-year-old general was admitted to the hospital on Aug. 12 and he underwent emergency surgery four days later after anticoagulants failed to break up the blood clots.

In that operation an umbrella-shaped sieve was placed on the large vein leading into the heart to prevent clots from reaching the lungs.

Dr. Eliot Corday said Bradley had made an "exceptional recovery from a critical illness."

Campers racing to Ontario

By PAUL HILL
P-B Staff Writer

ONTARIO — If they give a prize for ingenuity at the Ontario Motor Speedway today, Don Berryman of Calimesa might win it.

Of the 900 or more campers cramped together in the Speedway infield late Saturday afternoon, Berryman's camper really stood out.

His is not really a camper. It's a truck. A Ryder van truck. The kind you usually see hauling furniture on the open highways across the country.

"Everyone has been stopping by and asking us about this," the Berryman said. "We even received a lot of attention while we're driving here on the freeway. People kept honking their horns and waving to us."

Ironically, Berryman has a camper sitting in his garage at his home. But he doesn't have a pickup to set it on.

"I'm waiting for the new trucks to come out," he said.

Berryman proudly admits to being an avid racing enthusiast. He's a member of the Grand National Racing Association and has attended the three previous California 500 races here. Berryman has a commanding view of the track from high atop his truck.

The top of the van is 11½ feet from the ground, which will put Berryman much higher than any of the other people in the infield.

He first came up with the idea of using the Ryder van after he had gone shopping and discovered that renting a motor home for the weekend would cost him a bundle.

"A motor home would have cost me $250 for the week, and six cents a mile," he said.

He then suggested the idea to a friend who owns a rental agency in the Redlands-Yucaipa area. His friend, Berryman said, "thought it was a 'great idea,' and so he rented me the truck."

The price? "I'm paying $24 a day and 15 cents a mile," said Berryman with a smile. He is dividing expenses with his father-in-law, Irvin Wissert, also Calimisa.

The two, plus their wives and Berryman's children, are spending their Labor Day weekend in the truck.

Inside the huge van, they have placed three mattresses—king, queen and single sizes—for sleeping, a table, five aluminum folding chairs, and several coolers filled with food and cold drinks.

While Berryman and company took their own original approach to setting up camp in the Ontario infield, a handful of persons like Bernie Purvis and Buddy Shoemaker settled for the "simpler" life.

The two Navy men, here in California on temporary duty to attend a military technical school, planned to spend the night in the open with only their sleeping bags to keep them warm.

They were also somewhat comforted by the fact that they might be able to get the $20 back they paid for two tickets earlier this week.

"We bought the tickets before we arrived at the school," Purvis, of Mobile, Ala., said. "But when we got to the school, the Navy gave us both a $20 ticket. Free."

"We'll sell the other tickets for what we paid for them," promised Shoemaker, who comes from Hattiesburg, Miss.

The two Navy men, and all those in the infield then, will wait the magic words today, "Gentlemen, start your engines."

'Very satisfactory' session

Nixon, Agnew 'pulling together' at meeting

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew reviewed Agnew's legal and political troubles for two hours Saturday, and reportedly there was no talk of the vice president resigning. "They're really pulling together," an Agnew aide said.

At the vice president's request, he and Nixon met alone at the White House for the first time since Agnew personally informed Nixon nearly a month ago he was under federal investigation in connection with an alleged kickback scheme involving Maryland contractors.

Afterwards, the White House described it as a "thorough discussion" and "a good session." An Agnew spokesman said it was a "very, very satisfactory meeting" in which they reviewed the way the vice president and his lawyers were handling the affair.

"The vice president brought the President up to date on current matters involving himself," White House deputy press secretary Gerald L. Warren said. "It was a good session."

Nixon and the vice president met alone —at Agnew's request —in the President's Oval Office starting at 10:40 a.m., about nine hours after Nixon returned from a 12-day working vacation at San Clemente, Calif. Warren refused to give any details of their discussion, saying it was "a private meeting."

"There was no discussion of Agnew resigning," Warren said, nor was there any review of constitutional questions about Agnew's legal status as vice president while under criminal investigation.

Agnew's press spokesman, Marsh Thomson, confirmed Warren's remarks and said "they had a very, very satisfactory meeting together." Thomson said there was "nothing of a major, special nature to the meeting."

Other sources said Agnew, who has seen his lawyers for each of the past two or three days, reviewed "legal strategy" with Nixon, although Thomson denied it.

Brown, Lepire, Ayala voice approval

Valley legislators like reapportion plan

and
PHYLLIS CANNON
P-B Staff Writers

Three Pomona Valley legislators Saturday voiced their approval of the reapportionment plan proposed two days ago by a specially appointed "masters panel."

Congressman George E. Brown Jr., D-38th Dist., Pomona Mayor Ray Lepire, and San Bernardino County Supervisor Ruben Ayala said they were "happy" with the plan and predicted it would unite the Valley and give it a new political identity.

Ayala and Lepire also indicated that the proposal would allow the heretofore politically fragmented Valley more "home rule" in the three legislative arenas.

"I am most pleased they (the panel) have done this," Lepire said. "The Pomona Valley area will hopefully now get more direct representation in as much as we will probably have one congressional representative, one senator, and one assemblyman.

"Pomona is split into too many districts," the mayor said. "This is not meant as a criticism of our present legislators, but people in the city many times do not know who represents them because there are too many of them (legislators)."

Ayala echoed Lepire's sentiments.

"The plan is designed so someone from the Pomona Valley could carry any proposed congressional, senatorial or asstmbly district."

Presently, the Pomona Valley is split into the 25th, 33rd and 38th Congressional districts; the 35th, 49th, 50th, 58th and 72nd assembly districts; and the 19th, 20th, and 35th state senatorial districts.

Under the new plan, which must first be approved by the state supreme court before it can take effect, the Valley would be composed of two assembly districts (62nd and 65th); two senate districts 25th and 32nd); and one congressional district (35th).

"I think the three special masters did a good job," Ayala said. "Their plan shows community interest."

"When I appeared before that group in March, I proposed that a new state senate district be formed in the Pomona Valley. It seems like this is done in the plan," he added.

Asked if he wocld be interested in running in any of the districts should the plan be approved, Ayala answered, "I'll take a good hard look at all of these things. I'd have to see a breakdown of the registration. I'm a registered Democrat and it would be bad judgement for me to run in a district with a majority Republican registration."

Ayala was a Democratic nominee in the 38th Congressional District primary last year, but he was defeated by Brown.

Brown would be placed in the 36th Congressional District by the new plan, and it leaves him feeling "very happy."

He described the proposed 36th as more compact than the 38th, and with a greater indentity of interest. He said that Democratic voter registration in the 36th was 58 per cent compared to 62 per cent in the 38th.

"This means I will have to do a good job representing those voters or they will not keep me."

The cities of Pomona, Montclair, Ontario and Chino would be elimated completely from Brown's new district. But at the same time, the 36th would pick up the entire city of Riverside and the bulk of the city of San Bernardino.

Brown admitted that he was not unhappy about losing Montclair, Ontario and Chino because that was where he proved weak in last November's general election.

He said, too, that the masters had come up with a more rational plan for redistricting than had the Legislature, particularly with regard to keeping cities intact.

One of Ayala's colleagues, County Supervisor Daniel D. Mikesell, who could be tempted by the 65th district seat, said he had had the opportunity to study the reapportionment plan, and, therefore, had no comment.

Ontario Mayor Howard Snyder, who lost to Brown in the 38th District general election, was participating in his city's pre-California 500 automobile race festivities, and could not be reached for comment.

Most of the other area legislators were unavailable for comment, which was proably due to the holday weekend.

20,000 invaders rock Vermont village of 383 into city status

HOLLAND, Vt. (UPI) —More than 20,000 young people at a rock festival Saturday swelled this tiny northern Vermont village of 383 persons into one of the largest cities in the state.

State Police Cpl. Claude Hebert estimated the crowd size as "roughly 25,000" at noon Saturday, when rock fans still were arriving.

A brief rainstorm Saturday morning did not reduce the turnout at a 181-acre meadow that was the site of "Mac's Party," the festival staged by promoter Ronald "Mac" Worth.

Many of the youths wore plastic trash bags and sat in car trunks to keep dry during the downpour. "We've been praying for rain a lot, but I guess it didn't do much good," Hebert said.

Marijuana was smoked openly and people were seen hawking LSD in both English and French. Many Canadians were at the festival, which featured a number of rock bands from across the border.

..No serious injuries were reported. Dr. Stuart Shapiro, one of five volunteer physicians, said there were a few "bad trips" from drugs, but no one required hospital treatment.

Police reported 114 arrests, most on drug possession charges. Four cars were reported stolen.

Most of the arrests were made near the Canadian customs station at Derby Line. Frank Horton, an official at the immigration center on the border, said traffic began piling up about 2 a.m. Saturday morning.

"Most were all whacked out on drugs," he said. "With my 30 years with the border patrol, I've never seen anything lilke this."

Ontario man, 20, killed in cycle crash, girl hurt

ONTARIO — A Chino woman suffered cirtical injuries Friday evening when a motorcyclist, reportedly evading police pursuit, slammed into the side of her car at an intersection here. The cyclist apparently died instantly in the accident.

According to police reports, at about 6:15 p.m. Linda Karen Reenders, 19, 6169 Garfield, was entering the intersection of Mountain Avenue and Mission Boulevard when the cycle, driven by Daniel J. Scarsella, 20, 206 W. I St., ran a red light at a speed approaching 100 miles per hour and crashed into the auto.

Miss Reenders was hospitalized at Doctors Hospital of Montclair, where her condition was described Saturday as "critical" by a floor supervisor in the intensive care unit.

Scarsella was attempting to evade arrest, police said, after residents in the 200 block of West I Street had complained about two cyclists driving across private property there and stopping to drink beer on the lawns.

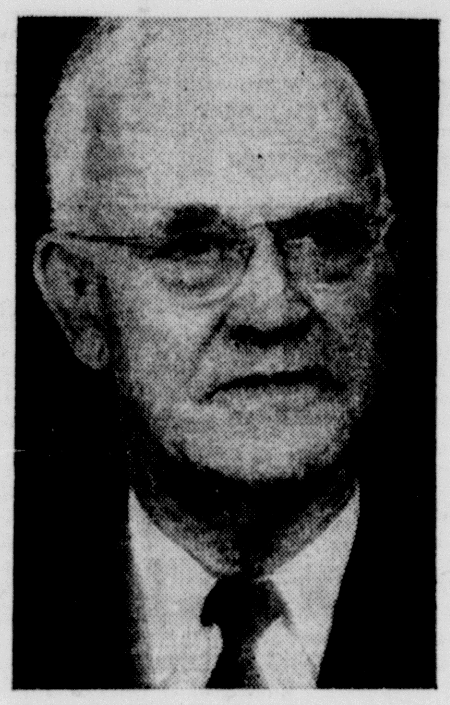
Officers said they were called when a 79-year-old woman nearly was run down by a cyclist after he had knocked a gate off its hinges at her home.

As she was talking to police, he appeared on the scene, but turned around and fled to Euclid Street, turning south before officers could start pursuit.

When they did, police related, he was already weaving through traffic, running a red light at G and Euclid Streets in the process.

Just as one of the pursuing units reached Euclid and Mission, after Scarsella had turned west on Mission, they observed the motorcycle crash into Miss Reender's car.

Miss Reenders, a recent graduate of the stewardess training program at Mt. San Antonio College, was on her way home from work at the time of the accident.



SEN. ARTHUR WATKINS

Arthur Watkins, ex-senator from Utah, dies at 86

OREM, Utah (UPI) —Arthur V. Watkins, the white-haired conservative from Utah who led the U.S. Senate's censure of Joseph McCarthy in 1954, died Saturday. He was 86.

Watkins, who served two terms in the U.S. Senate from 1947 to 1959 and later was chairman of the U.S. Indian Claims Commission, died of cancer at his daughter's home in Orem.

In 1954, Watkins, a conservative Republican, headed the Senate Select Committee that investigated censure charges against McCarthy following the hearings on the Wisconsin Senator's charges that Communists had infiltrated the Army.

Watkins, who authored a 1951 Senate resolution opposing entry of Mainland China into the United Nations, urged his colleagues to expand the charges against McCarthy.

Couple missing for 5 days

Girl with blood disease returns, weds sweetheart

KOKOMO, Ind. (UPI) — Sheryl McDonald, a 17-year-old with a serious blood disease, Saturday wed the high school sweetheart who ran away with her last week in a desperate bid for a normal life.

Wearing a lace-trimmed white gown and a floor-length veil, the bride said "I do" to Kevin Dodd, 16, in candle-andflower-bedecked Nazarene Church—with the parents whose opposition had prompted the attempted elopement in attendance.

It was a wedding with all the trimmings, including a four-tier white cake with pink flowers, and when it was over the couple left on a brief honeymoon to Angola, Ind., taking along the bride's schoolbooks. Both were scheduled to return to classes Monday.

About 150 guests attended the ceremony, performed by the Rev. Lloyd Tucker. Mrs. Nelson McDonald sounded like any mother of the bride, weary from the hectic preparations.

"I'm amazed that we did this much in two days," Mrs. McDonald said. "That's really all the time we had."

Mrs. Hershel Dodd, the mother of the groom, welcomed her new daughter-in-law.

"I'm proud of her. She's very sweet," she said.

The young couple, who fled South searching for someone who would marry them after their parents' refusal to let them wed, plan to live with the Dodds until Kevin finishes school.

The parents agreed to let the couple marry after they had been missing five days. They were spotted in a Georgia state park by a couple who had seen their picture in the newspaper. After telephone calls to their parents confirmed the newspaper reports, the young sweethearts returned home and began preparing for the wedding.

The story has another happy postscript. Sheryl, who suffers from a disease called hypoplastic anemia, was checked by her doctor after she returned to Kokomo and he said her condition actually had improved since her last examination.

Marine robbed near bus depot

POMONA — An 18-year-old Marine was held up by a pair of armed robbers early Saturday outside a bus station at 156 W. Commercial St., according to police.

Steven Ray Caddell, 5042 Marino St., Montclair, now on duty at Camp Pendleton, told officers he was accosted by two men as he left a phone booth outside the depot about 1:30 a.m. One pressed a round object, either a piece of pipe or a gun barrel, into his side while the other ordered, "Hand over your wallet."

NEWS BRIEFS

Ford burial on Wednesday

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —John Ford, one of America's greatest movie directors, who made stars of Spencer Tracy and John Wayne and captured more Academy Awards than anyone else, will be buried Wednesday in the cinema capital where he forged a career that spanned six decades.

Ford, who made more than 200 movies and was winner of a record six Academy Awards for directing, died of cancer Friday night at his home in Palm Desert, Calif. He was 78.

Tol Avery, actor, dies

ENCINO, Calif. (UPI) — Tol Avery, veteran screen and television actor best known for his portrayal of the judge in the TV series "Slattery's People," died of a heart attack Monday. He was 58.

Among Avery's more than 400 screen credits were roles in "Hotel", "The Man," "Ticklish Affair," "Satan Bug," and "A Tiger Walks."

Avery, a past president of the California Professional Hypnotists Assn., also appeared in the television series "Death Valley Days," "The Young Lawyers,'' "Maverick," "Lost in Space" and "Dragnet."

Vet graves increasing

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Starting Saturday, an additional 53,680 burial places for military veterans are being made available in national cemeteries around the country.

This was the effective date of a new law President Nixon signed June 18 putting the National Cemetery System under the jurisdiction of the Veterans Administration and incorporating 21 VA cemeteries into the system.

Dr. McIntire ready to fight

TRENTON, N.J. (UPI) —Dr. Carl McIntire, the fundamentalist minister, said Saturday he is ready for a court battle with the government if it tries to silence his pirate radio ship now anchored off Cape May.

"We'll resist their attempt (to close down the ship) and will challenge the entire constitutionality of the licensing system," he said in a telephone interview.

Who can be a bee expert?

WASHINGTON (UPI) —It's worth $10,000 to the Agriculture Department to be able to tell the difference between a warlike bee from Africa and the regular, peaceable honeybee from Europe that makes up most American beehives.

..The department said Saturday it will pay the money to a group of California scientists for the research. The only reliable and quick way now to tell the two types apart is by their behavior. That can be painful.

European bees, the ordinary honeybees found in the United States, generally are peaceful and easy to handle. By contrast, the department said, the African bee is "an exceptionally aggressive and ferocious strain" that wipes out competing colonies and attacks people freely.

Bonuses, early retirement

Pentagon opposes extra POW aids

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Pentagon is opposing proposals to provide early retirement and bonus payments to American servicemen who were prisoners of war in Indochina.

In a letter to Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee, the Defense Department said it opposed legislation providing these special benefits to the Vietnam POWs.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, a sponsor of the legislation, said it appeared the Defense Department feels "that POWs from the Indochina conflict do not merit special benefits."

Disappointed'

In a letter to Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger, Muskie said "I was disappointed that your department's correspondence was so negative and did not suggest any positive proposals which you would favor concerning special benefits for these prisoners of war."

He asked the Pentagon to come up with alternative proposals and said "the Department of Defense has a responsibility not to drag its feet on this most important issue."

The bill sponsored by Muskie, along with Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and William D. Hathaway, D-Maine, would give POWs double time credit toward retirement for time spent as prisoners and award them per diem pay as if they had been stationed in Saigon.

Liberal System

The Pentagon said it opposed early retirement for POWs because "retirement after 20 years service without regard to age is a liberal system under any criterion.

The Defense Department letter also warned against the impact of such an action on World War II and Korean POWs.

The Defense Department said it opposed the per diem proposal because those who did receive such pay were in Vietnam on temporary duty.

"Such a person was not a true counterpart of the prisoner of war," the letter said. "Servicemen on official tour of duty in Vietnam, their true counterparts, were not entitled to per diem pay."

The Pentagon also rejected two proposals which would not require legislation — allowing POWs to leave their accrued savings deposited in the uniformed services savings deposit for six to nine months instead of three, and waiving import duties on household goods brought back by POWs.

A third proposal —establishing health programs for POWs and their families even after they leave service —is under study by the Pentagon.

'Toughest' law against drugs starts in N.Y.

NEW YORK (UPI) —About 50 youngsters shouting "We want our pot back" lit up marijuana in Central Park Saturday in defiance of New York State's new "toughest in the nation" drug law, but they threw their "joints" away before police could make any arrests.

Police found about a half pound of the illicit drug on the ground when they arrived. Not one of the youths, mostly teenagers, was smoking at the time.

Under the harsh new law, which went into effect Saturday, possession of marijuana could result in a jail sentence for violators with possible probation for first offenders but mandatory imprisonment for those with previous felony convictions.

Most gas stations open

A planned holiday shutdown by service stations across Pennsylvania protesting proposed federal price controls on gasoline appeared spotty at best on the first day of the Labor Day weekend.

While the Pennsylvania AAA Federation indicated only about 2,000 of the state's some 10,000 gas stations would join the action, officials of the Pennsylvania Service Station Dealers Association said as many as "75 to 80 per cent" of their 5,400 members would close down.

In other sections of the country checks with regional and state gas stations associations showed no protest closings were expected in most areas.

Time magazine reported Saturday that in Los Angeles the antitrust department of the Justice Department was preparing for a large-scale grand jury investigation of gasoline pricing by the U.S. oil industry.

Without naming its sources, Time said the confidential records of more than 30 oil companies had been subpoenaed.

"Attorneys for the companies say that summonses will also be issued soon to a number of executives...about whether there was a massive conspiracy to fix wholesale and retail gasoline prices in 1971 and 1972," Time reported.

In Wisconsin, where a survey three days ago indicated 80 per cent of the stations would be closed, a later check by the Automobile Association of America found that 80 per cent of the stations along interstate and main highways intended to be open during the weekend.

In Pennsylvania dealer spokesman Thomas J. Anderson said the dealers would go through with their shutdown, despite a Cost of Living Council decision Thursday to put off imposing price ceilings on gas for one week.

A spokesman for the Gulf Oil Co. said the firm's Pensylvania dealers in a poll a week ago showed little sympathy for the protest.

"It is a pretty important weekend for the dealers," the spokesman said. "They've got to keep their regular customers happy."

The federal regulations which triggered plans for a shutdown would allow dealers a markup of seven cents a gallon. They contend 8 ½ to 9 cents was needed to meet higher operating costs. Imposition of the controls was delayed three times by the Cost of Living Council.

What's Going on At Griswolds

Recently our staff attended the Southern California restaurant convention in Los Angeles. It is difficult to realize the tremendous size of the resataurant business until you see row upon row of displays of stoves, sinks, trays, glassware, chairs and tables, and thousands of school personnel, cafeteria workers, managers, dinner house owners and fast food personnel studying and testing products. This says nothing of all sorts of foods that were displayed. Of course, this year there were fewer steaks, but we saw plenty of ideas of prepared foods to choose from. Naturally, we look at all of these goodies, but Griswold's believes that the best food comes from preparing everything ourselves. We avoid the frozen prepared entree that is the same item served from one dinner house to another. As our slogan says —"Our food is prepared with butter and love"— and we mean it.!

See you at Griswold's

Proxmire says press should not try Agnew

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., urged the news media Saturday to take special care in reporting the criminal investigation of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and said use of leaked allegations subverts the U.S. system of justice.

"No evidence has been presented so far to a grand jury against the vice president," Proxmire said in a statement.

"He has not been indicted. He has not been arraigned. He has not been tried. He has not been convicted."

Accordingly, the Wisconsin Democrat cautioned the press "to be careful not to charge, try and convict Vice President Agnew when the American legal system presumes his innocence."

Agnew has been formally notified by federal prosecutors that he is under investigation for possible violations of extortion, tax evasion, bribery and conspiracy charges as part of a probe into alleged kickbacks by contractors in Maryland doing business with the state.

Agnew, a former Maryland governor, has denied any wrongdoing.

Said Proxmire: "The foundation of our system of justice is the right to face accusers. When the press disseminates leaked charges, it helps undermine that foundation. It unwittingly subverts the system of justice."

Proxmire cautioned against "relaxed journalistic ethnics" because Agnew is vice president and said persons giving the media information on the investigation could have "ulterior motives for the leaks."

"The press, as guardian of the truth, must not risk being taken in," he said.

12 laborers buried alive

NEW DELHI (UPI) —Twelve laborers were buried alive and 40 others injured in a landslide at a highway construction site about 300 miles northwest of Simla, the Press Trust of India (PTI) news agency reported Saturday.

It said two bodies were recovered from the slide, which occurred Friday.

One isolated cholera case- no epidemic

ATLANTA (UPI) —A case of suspected cholera has turned up in Texas, but it appears to be an isolated incident, the Center for Disease Control (CDC) said Saturday.

The center said both state and federal health authorities "emphasize there is no cause for concern." A survey of the area had turned up no similar illnesses, it said.

The report, issued jointly by the CDC and the Texas State Department of Health, said an organism taken from a Seadrift, Tex., man "appears to be similar to the organism that causes cholera." Cholera is a gastrointestinal disease.

"The patient was taken ill one week ago, was hospitalized and has recovered," the report said. "The man has not traveled outside the vicinity of hps home."

It said there was no known connection with the current Italian cholera outbreak.

Forget and rebuild: Echeverria

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — President Luis Echeverri said Saturday that Mexicans hit by floods and an earthquake must "forget useless mourning" and go on to rebuild their country.

"Misfortune puts the vigor of strong people to the test. For them defeat does not exist. A challenge does. They take advantage of the changes in fortune to remodel themselves," Echeverria said in an annual address to the Congress.

"They find motivee to redouble their efforts and to go on to better things," he declared.

"Throughout its history Mexico has demonstrated its desire to survive and to be great. Now it has to forget useless mourning and begin a new period of unity and collective effort," Echeverria said.

Man guilty of killing 3

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI) — Guillermo Aillon, chosen one of the three most outstanding men in his state two years ago by the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce, was found guilty Saturday of stabbing to death his estranged wife and her parents in their North Haven home a year ago.

Aillon, a former antipoverty worker born in Bolivia, was convicted of three counts of murder by a Superior Court jury that deliberated a total of 47 hours over a four-day period.

Storm may develop into full hurricane

MIAMI (UPI) —Tropical storm Christine, its top winds holding at 60 mph, locked in a do-or-die struggled Saturday with a low pressure system that likely will determine whether the storm fizzles or blossoms into a hurricane.

Another tropical depression, meanwhile, turned up on weather satellite photographs of Mexico's Yucatan Peninsula and a reconnaissance plane was being dispatched Sunday to check.

Dr. Robert Simpson, chief of the National Hurricane Center, said the low pressure trough encountered by Chirisine could either merge with the storm or continue to fight it.

"If they merge," Simpson said, "Christine will intensify rather quickly into a full hurricane. If they don't merge, Christine probably won't go anywhere or amount to much."

Priest takes message to the young

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — The Rev. Edmund Nadolny is preaching the Roman Catholic faith through a new gospel—the top 20 records of the week.

Since the young aren't flocking to the church in droves, the 40-year-old priest is taking the church to them through radio.

He relates music, news and the gospel to such common teen-age problems as going steady and loneliness in his sermons which are shipped off nationally to some 175 radio stations.

"Are you an onion eater or a garlic eater?" Father Nadolny asked in one sermon.

An onion eater, he explained, is the type of sinner who keeps his transgressions inside and ends up hurting himself. A garlic eater, on the other hand, is one who lets everything out and makes others uncomfortable.

In another sermon, Father Nadolny took Carole King's pop song "You Light Up My Life" to make the point that "where there is true friendship there is the presence of God."

Father Nadolny, the communications director of the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Hartford, has been recording sermons over the past three years in an effort to better the relationship between God and the young.

Some of his preachings have been slightly more controversial. Last spring he challenged the war in Vietnam.

"One man asked me to refund a dollar donation he made to the radio programs," the priest said.

"I did. And I sent him an extra dollar out of my own pocket because I felt sorry for him," Father Nadolny said.

"Most of the callers believe priests should only talk about the gospel," he said. "That's what was so funny. The gospel talks about war."

The pop radio messages developed out of Father Nadolny's quest to solve the interdenominational problem of restoring the faith of the young in God.

On Radio, too

"If you can't get the kids to church, you have to bring God to them," he said. "The tapes show that you can hear God on the radio through music—not just in church."

When he taught high school and directed the area's Catholic Youth Organization (CYO), he realized music was the teenagers' main interest. He began the program on two popular music stations in Hartford, WDRC and WPOP and later on the ABC Network.

The pop sermons are just one of Father Nadolny's 17 types of radio programs. He also conducts adult and teenage talk shows and counsels marriages. A master of history and psychology, he recently began a mini-marriage reconciliation program.

All this keeps Father Nadolny busy seven days a week.

"Including all our programs, we send to 500 radio stations a month when we could be sending to one or two thousand."

The money he does get to fund his programs comes from private donors.

But what he learns from young people compensates for whatever drawbacks there are," he said.

He has been sharing his learning experiences with radio listeners by allowing young people to choose records and write scripts themselves.

Not candidates, thank goodness!

BUCARAMANGA, Colombia (UPI) —Police in the town of Barbosa did a doubletake when they took the names of the principals in a shooting in a brothel.

Alfonso Lopez, a patron of the establishment, shot and wounded Maria Eugenia Rojas, who worked at the brothel.

Alfonso Lopez is the presidential candidate of the Liberal party in next year's presidential election and Maria Eugenio Rojas is the name of the presidential candidate of the National Popular Alliance (ANAPO).

Police said they were no relation to the politicians.

Proper way to care for dog on plane

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: Being a frequent user of air line travel I have had the unfortunately frequent experience of having my luggage lost and eventually found again. Now I need to ship my dog across country by plane. I would appreciate any tips on assuring his survival on such a trip. — E. M.

Dear E. M.: The canine jet set makes it best when: (1) The animal is in top physical condition to begin with. The veterinarian will prescribe tranquilizers if he feels them appropriate. (2) The kennel used for shipping is properly marked and identified and is the proper size and the proper type to provide adquate ventilation. It must include, of course, a secure, usable water pan. (3) The pet is shipped on an air line which has the experience and facilities to provide temperature-controlled through flights to destination or, at least, can guarantee no long delays. (4) The final connection on the other end includes prompt pickup. (5) Low stress (gentle) care is provided for a couple of days after the trip until it is obvious the dog has indeed come through with flying colors.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Our daughter has pinworms. Could Mike, our cat, be the guilty party? Could he have given them to her? — M. F.

Dear M. F: No, not Mike. Nor any other cat or dog. Nor, for that matter, could any other pet. Enterobius vermicularis occurs only in the species Homo sapiens. The only domestic animal which might suffer from any type of pinworm is the horse. The horse pinworm, Oxyuris equi, is an entirely different species from that found in man.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Months ago my budgie, Big Boy, started squeaking. At first I thought I was hearing things. Then he did it more often and now he is squeaking all the time. I have tried to oil him—literally—by putting some oil in his food but that kind of lubrication didn't seem to help any. He still sqeaks. I hadn't worried about it because he seemed perfectly well. Lately, I have noticed, he is flying less. I hope you can suggest a better remedy than mine? — M. O.

Dear M. O.: As you found out, oil is unlikely to stop that particular squeak. Whether another prescription might would be up to a local bird-oriented veterinarian to determine. Because squeaking budgies are frequently victims of thyroid disease, carefully regulated doses of iodine are often the prescribed treatment.

Diamond cutter has expensive haircut

NEW YORK (UPI) —A diamond cutter went to get a haircut recently, leaving the office unattended. When he returned, $250,000 in diamonds had been stolen from the safe where he had left them.

The thief entered through a 14-inch high transom above the door of B&B Exclusive Diamonds, Inc. Police said the diamond cutter, who was not identified, had neglected to lock the safe.

MONTCLAIR — Pius A. Leier of 10183 Camerena Ave. died Thursday at the Doctors Hospital.

He was born Dec. 5, 1919, in Canada, and had resided in Montclair since 1957. He was a member of Our Lady of Lourdes Catholic Church in Montclair and the Knights of Columbus. He served in the Royal Canadian Air Force during World War II.

Survivors include his widow, Lillian; two daughters, Yovne Leier and Patrice Leier, and four sons, Valerien, Patrick, David and Lorne, all at home; five sisters, Mrs. Madge Hackle, Lacada Woters, Brigetta Jones, Sister Rosemarie and Mary Reise, and four brothers, Frank, Anthony, James and Peles, all of Canada.

Rosary will be recited Monday at 8 p.m. at the Griffith Chapel in Chino. Requiem Mass will be celebrated Tuesday at 9 a.m. at Our Lady of Lourdes Catholic Church. The Rev. Ruben Lopez will officiate. Burial will be in the Holy Cross Cemetery, Pomona.

Friends may make memorial contributions to the San Bernardino County Heart Fund, 760 N. D St., San Bernardino.

John A. Tomlinson

ONTARIO — John Ashley Tomlinson, a former Ontario resident, died Friday at his home in Saugus following a long illness.

Mr. Tomlinson was born May 11, 1948, in Oregon City, Ore., he grew up in Ontario, attending local elementary schools and Chaffey High School.

He is survived by his widow, Lynne, and three small children, Michelle, Amber and Justin; his mother, Mrs. Edward Chastain of Arcadia; and his grandfather.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 10 a.m. at Los Angeles Baptist College in Newhall where he was a student.

Friends may make memorial contributions to the Los Angeles Baptist College Scholarship Fund.

Ex-Harvey Mudd prof in new role

LOS ANGELES — Dr. Rex C. Mack, formerly professor of engineering and director of the Engineering Clinic at Harvey Mudd College, Claremont, has been appointed head of the systems technology department in the Systems Management Center at USC.

A physicist who previously served both education and industry, Mack succeeds Dr. Aaron Rose, who is now academic director of the center.

POW bracelet drive is continuing thing

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — During the summer vacation of 1970 two 20-year-old California college girls got to talking together about what they could do —personally —to help get American prisoners of war in Southeast Asia back home.

One was Carol Bates, a student at California State University in Northridge, and the other was Kay Hunter from UCLA.

They had joined a student group called VIVA (Voices in a Vital America) three years earlier, Miss Bates said.

"At first we just mainly wrote letters to servicemen in Vietnam," she recalls. "Then in 1969 we got involved in the campaign to free American prisoners. It wasn't a matter of whether you were for the war or against it. We ran into wives whose husbands were prisoners and we decided to try to help them."

One day the two came up with the idea of picking the name of one known POW, Miss Bates said, and having his name engraved on a bracelet and wearing it until he was freed.

Friends thought it was a great idea and then VIVA formally adopted it and the POW bracelet campaign became a nationwide endeavor.

Robert Treese, who is executive administrator of VIVA, estimates that approximately 5 million of the bracelets were manufactured by two Los Angeles area jewelry firms and sent out ot an estimated 50,000 volunteers, many of them affiliated with POW-MIA groups.

VIVA set up distribution centers in Los Angeles, New York, Washington, Miami, Wichita, Omaha, Kansas City, San Francisco, San Diego, Merced and Santa Ana.

A minimum contribution of $2.50 was asked for each bracelet (carefully distinguished from an outright sale) so that total finances reached a figure above $10 million.

The stainless steel bracelets cost about 30 cents apiece to manufacture and nickel plated ones cost 50 cents.

Treese said a spotless accounting and yearly audit was made of all income to the nonprofit group and reported to the Internal Revenue Service. The money was used to make more bracelets, for bumper stickers, broches, literature and aid to the campaign to bring prisoners home.

Administratice overhead never surpassed 8.4 per cent.

At the peak of the campaign, orders were being received for as many as 80,000 bracelets a day.

The figure had dropped drastically, of course, since the majority of POWS were released by the North Vietnamese and Vietcong.

But the campaign has not ended.

Treese says that bracelets are still being distributed because of the estimated total of 1,300 missing in action in Southeast Asia and government figures of 53 prisoners of war who are unaccounted for.

Richard Bell

POMONA — Richard A. Bell of 1526 Vejar St. died Friday in Pomona Valley Community Hospital following a year's illness.

Mr. Bell was born April 3, 1933, in Brooklyn, N.Y. He came to California in 1944 and lived in Long Beach. In 1966 he moved to Pomona from La Mirada. He was a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Besides his widow, Helen, he is survived by five daughters, Mrs. Deborah Guion, Mrs. Patricia Yockum, Kathrine Bell, Susan Bell and Lorraine Bell, all of Cypress; a step-son, Michael Miller of Pomona and a step-daughter, Miss Johnette Miller of Pomona; a sister, Mrs. Sylvia DeVita of Santa Ana; and two brothers, Charles of Westminster and Kenneth of Long Beach.

Services will be held Wednesday at 10 a.m. in Todd Memorial Chapel Pomona. Burial will be in Pomona Cemetery.

Friends may make memorial contributions to the American Cancer Society, 111 E. Center St., Pomona 91768.

S.B. County tax rate is reduced

SAN BERNARDINO (CNA) — The 1973-74 tax rate on the proposed $178,732,551 budget of San Bernardino County was set by the Board of Supervisors this week at $3.0034 per $100 assessed valuation. The new rate is 1.7 cents under the 1972-73 rate, the supervisors noted.

"The rates indicated in the compilation have been computed in compliance with Senate Bill 90, and rates to meet requirements or maximum allowed if Assembly Bill 2008 is passed are indicated under those headings," Auditor-Controller John Bulmer advised the board.

"Many of the special districts will not meet the requirements of their adopted budgets under S.B. 90 and several will not, even if A.B. 2008 is passed."

In the motion by the board for acceptance, it intended the rates as presented in accordance with A.B. 2008, subject to passage of that bill (which seems assured), otherwise they will be reduced in compliance with the limitations of S.B. 90.

Rates for the City of Needles and California City Community Services District have not yet been received by Bulmer and he requested that since they are both self-governing agencies he be given authorization to accept and apply the rates as certified by the two entities.

Edison plans purchase of generators

ROSEMEAD — The Southern California Edison Co. has signed a letter of intent to purchase two 770-000-kilowatt steam turbine generators at a cost of $40 million from the Allis-Chalmers Power Systems, Inc.

The generators are for use in a previously announced nuclear generating station the company plans to build in the eastern California desert, said William R. Gould, senior vice president. The exact site has not been selected.

Edison plans to file for an Atomic Energy Commission construction permit late next year and hopes to have the plant in operation in 1981, he added. Total project cost is estimated at $950 million.

The nuclear power plant is needed to help meet Southern California's electrical needs of the 1980s, said Gould. Some 7.3 million people depend on Edison for their electricity.

Bobby Fischer had great idea

At times, Bobby Fischer's play has been criticized by Russian grandmasters as lacking in originality. They have not been precise in this claim, which may only be an expression of their wishful thinking. One of my favorite ideas of Fischer is the motion that guided his play in the following position.

(Diagram 1)
BLACK Schweber

Fischer
WHITE

As you can see, his white bishop at Q3 is attacked by the black pawn at K5. It would seem that Fischer must retreat it to K2, which would allow black to play NxP and win a rook for a knight.

But Bobby had conceived a remarkable response. Instead of the bishop withdrawal, he played 1) RxP!!! True enough, the rook is inviolate, for an immediate. . . .PxR would allow 2) B-KB4, winning the black queen, which would be skewred against its own king. But why can't Schweber (black) play 1). . . .QxQ (which he did play), intending after 2) PxQ, to play PxR, which would gain a full rook? What did Fischer have in mind in the position reached after. . . .QxQ, which is given in diagram two?

BLACK Schweber

Fischer
WHITE

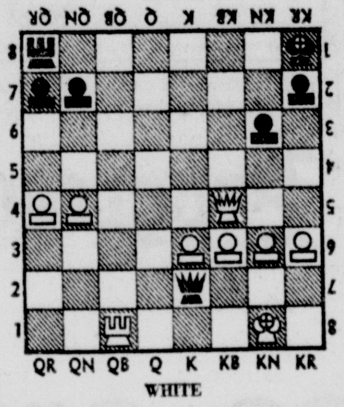
Ignoring black's queen, he played simply 2) RxN!! Curiously, the queen, which now has a tempo in which to save itself, has no escape. A queen retreat on the diagonal will yield the queen for a bishop after 3) B-KB4 and Fischer would have been a pawn ahead with an almost certain winning endgame.

Schweber elected to play 2). . .Q-N5, which at least gains a rook instead of a bishop for the queen. After the moves 3) RxQ, BxR; and 4) BxP, Fischer had two pawns for the exchange (bishop for rook) and had an easy time because of his very strong advanced bishop pawn.

In fact, after the moves, 4). . . KR-N1; 5) B-R7, R-R1; 6) B-Q3, QR K1; 7) P-B7, R-K2; 8) P-B8-Q, RxQ; 9) B-N4, Fischer won a rook for a bishop and pawn and remained a clear pawn ahead with a routine win.

As you can see, there is a delightful elegance in trapping a queen that seems to have so many escape moves. Another example of the same phenomenon can be seen in diagram three.

(Diagram 3)
BLACK



WHITE

Although black has the move, he cannot avoid a queen trade. Why? . . . . No matter where black moves his queen, i.e., R7, N.7, Q7, or Q6, QB5, QN4 or QR3, either Q-Q4 check or Q-Q4 check followed by Q-B4 check forces the queen exchange. Moves such as RQ-1 or P-R4 by black in diagram three prevent the exchange but result in the loss of a rook or in checkmate.

Work out the possibilities yourself. After the trade, white, who is two pawns ahead, has an easy time.

As in the Fischer game, the cornering of the king is an aesthetic delight.

Stamp design drawing fire

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The U.S. Postal Service receives a lot of mail itself these days, but not always from people griping about slow delivery.

The theme is often love.

Public reaction to the multicolored "love" stamp issued to commemorate last Valentine's Day is running 8-1 in favor, a spokesman said recently.

But "the specal stamp for someone specal," as the pop art design is offically called, has also generated some criticism.

"The adverse mail we've gotten on the stamp criticzes us for promoting what they term 'the hippie theme of love,'"the spokesman said.

"They act as if it was the young who invented love. And they imply that such a stamp will work to tear America down."

Lower your own taxes

Reagan launches his most ambitious political move

SACRAMENTO (UPI) Labor Day traditionally kicks of Fall election campaigns and Gov. Ronald Reagan is launching one unique not only for California but for the nation.

In his most ambitious project yet as the fiscally conservative governor of the nation's most populous state, Reagan is asking Californians to vote themselves a fat tax cut and freeze it into the state constitution.

Opponents condemn the proposal —the first tax rollback of its kind ever attempted by any governor in the nation —as a "fiscal straitjacket" for state government and an "ill conceived" scheme that ultimately could lead to higher local property taxes.

Reagan calls these charges "the big lie technique."

Many California politicians of both parties see the campaign as Reagan's opening bid for the Republican presidential nomination in 1976. The governor says his tax plan can be a "model for the nation." If successful in California, he says, it should be adopted by the federal government.

"The governor's future is pretty much on the line" with the success or failure of his ballot proposition on election day, Nov. 6, says one leading California Republican.

Reagan, 62, who is leaving the door wide open for a presidential race after he steps down as governor in January, 1975, insists he does not regard his tax plan as a White House stepping stone. But he does say "I would very definitely consider this my greatest accomplishment" in Sacramento — surpassing even his welfare "reform" and property tax relief.

Here's what Reagan's plan would do:

—Reduce the state income tax by 7½ per cent. For couples with adjusted gross incomes of less than $8,000, and single persons with less than $4,000, the tax would be eliminated entirely.

—More significantly, gradually reduce over a 15-year period the percentage of total California personal income the state could collect as tax revenue from 8.75 to 7.15 per cent. Reagan says over the 15 years this would reduce the total tax burden by 20 per cent, saving the average Californian $4,250 and all taxpayers $118 billion. Still, the state budget could triple to $27 billion during that time.

—Freeze all this into the state constitution. The legislature would be prevented from raising the total tax limit except in emergency situations, and then only briefly, although individual taxes could be hiked or lowered. To raise an individual tax would require a two-thirds legislative vote. Now only a simple majority is needed to boost most taxes. The voters could lift the overall ceiling at any time.

"Politicians have been promising the voters tax cuts for decades. Now the people will have a chance to cut their taxes themselves," says Reagan.

After six years of watching his "cut, squeeze and trim" proposals go down the drain in Democratic legislatures, Reagan took things into his own hands and became the first governor in California history to carry a program directly to the people through the initiative process.

A campaign committee organized by Reagan spent $361,000 collecting the 586,000 signatures which qualified the initiative for California's first special statewide election in 24 years.

Many of Reagan's "kitchen cabinet" campaign contributors are digging into their wallets to help finance the Fall campaign, which is expected to cost more than $750,000.

"It's a chance you may never have again," Reagan tells voters.

"Obviously freedom itself is in danger if we continue our present rate of tax increases."

Reagan intends to campaign around the state for his initiative as if he were running for re-election —speaking to every group he can find and taking advantage of free television news time. The former movie star also plans to buy substantial radio and television time.

Trailing close behind will be the proposal's most outspoken critic, Assembly Speaker Bob Moretti, a Los Angeles County Democrat running for his party's 1974 gubernatorial nomination.

"I think this initiative is the most serious question the people of this state will ever have voted on," he says.

Moretti's chief argument is that if voters approve the measure "they will be guaranteeing themselves property tax increases for the rest of the political history of this state." He contends local governments will be forced to raise taxes to pay for services the state no longer can afford.

Reagan disputes this, noting under his proposal local voters would have to approve any permanent property tax hike.

Opponents of the initiative include the County Supervisors Association, League of Women Voters, National Association of Social Workers, California Teachers Association and several other school groups.

Proponents include the California Taxpayers Association, the State Chamber of Commerce and the California Real Estate Association.

Folks block the way for young lovers

By JEAN ADAMS

SERIOUS: (Q.) Paul and I work at a bank and we really love each other. We have been seeing each other about a year.

Both his parents and mine are trying to break us up. His have told him he cannot date any girl until he is 21.

We are both 17 and he has given me his promise ring. Please help us.—Romeo and Juliet in Florida.

(A.) Your use of the names Romeo and Juliet tells me that you are very serious. Your parents sense this fact. They know that such seriousness at 17 is full of dangers.

Paul's parents are increasing the peril by imposing an unworkable rule.

I suggest a six-person conference—Paul, you, his parents, yourparents.

Be frank about how you feel. Ask for understanding. Promise to be sensible (and keep your promise). Agree to wait at least two years before taking any final steps.

One other thing: At the bank do your work. Do not let your personal affairs interfere with it. This goes for Paul, too.

MAKEUP: (Q.) My mom says I can't wear makeup. I am 12 and will be in the seventh grade. My older sister started when she was in the sixth grade. I need help for my face.—Looking and Feeling Terrible in Texas.

(A.) Maybe your parents now believe that your sister started too early. Maybe they see the current trend toward heavy makeup among 12-year-olds and think it doesn't make sense.

I personally think it is excessive. I think all you will need at the start is a little eyeshadow, cheek blush and pale lipstick.

Talk to your mother about starting like that.

Meteorology stamps due

By GUSTAV DETJEN JR.

On Sept. 4 Ethiopia will release a set of three stamps to mark the centenary of the International Meteoroligical Organization. The first Congress was held in Vienna in 1873 and this event is generally considered as the beginning of organized international co-operation in meteorology. Further information available from Post Office Department, Philatelic Section, P.O. Box 1112, Addis Ababa, Ethiopia.

The German Bundespost will issue a special stamp on the occasion of the entry of the Federal Republic of Germany in the United Nations. The stamp depicts the emblem of the United Nations and next to it an illustration of the Federal German Eagle on background colors of black-red-gold, the colors of the German flag. The value is 40 Pfennig. The stamp will be printed in blue, red, yellow and black on white fluorescent paper. Date of issue is Sept. 21.

The 1973 welfare stamps with surcharges for the benefit of the Federal Working Association of Free Welfare Work shows illustrations of eight musical instruments. The values and designs are: a; 25 plus 10 Pf. French Horn, 19th century (brown); b; 30 plus 15 Pf. Pedal Grand Piano (18th century) (green); c) 40 plus 20 Pf. Violin, 18th century (red); d) 70 plus 35 Pf. Pedal Harp, 13th century (blue); e) 20 plus 10 Pf. Hurdy-Gurdy, 17th century (brown); f) 30 plus 15 Pf. Drum, 16th century (green); g) 40 plus 20 Pf. Lute, 18th century (red); h) 70 plus 35 Pf. Organ, 16th century (blue).

The first four values are inscribed "Deutsche Bundespost" and the latter four stamps show "Deutsche Bundespost Berlin."

Postage stamps from the United Nations and some three dozen countries around the world, bearing heart symbols and issued in connection with World Heart Month 1972, have been assembled in album form and are available at $20 per set from the International Cardiology Federation, P.O. Box 158-D, CH-1211, Geneva 12, Switzerland. The albums contain more than 50 stamps in striking colors.

Collecting U.S. plate number blocks is another interesting facet of stamp collecting. The Plate Block Collectors Club caters to this collector; they can be reached for further information at P.O. Box 173, Brookfield, Ill. 60513 or P.O. Box 937, Homestead, Fla. 33030. Those plate block collectors who try to collect matched sets of each number, that is all four corners, there is also the Plate Number Sociyty, 9600 Colesville Road, Silver Springs, Md. 20901. Their primary purpose is to encourage the exchange of plate numbered blocks. Membership dues in the latter group are $3.000 face value in mint U.S. plate numbered blocks. Membership includes a bulletin.

Collectors of philatelic literature may be interested in the Sept. 19 mail sale sponsored by Stamps Information Associates, Inc., 675-D Massachusetts Ave., Cambridge, Mass. 02139. Offered for sale are books, catalogs, exhibition catalogs, as well as covers, postal stationery and stamps.

The American First Day Cover Society has produced a new full-color slide program highlighting first day covers from 1901-1972. It is available to stamp clubs at no cost. For a reservation write to William P. Duffy, AFDCS Program Librarian, 83 Rdigecrest Drive, Westfield, Mass. 01085.

The 9974 Michel Catalog for Germany, territories and colonies is now ready. The 446 page volume is essential to the collector of Germany. The price is $4.80 plus 50c for postage. Order from Lighthouse Publications, Inc., 317-D West 44th St., New York, N.Y. 10036.

For Sunday, September 2

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your opinion and assistance on a confidential matter will be requested by someone who feels she can trust you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Practice co-operation today. It will have a reflective effect. You will gain much more than you give.

GEMINI (May 1-June 20) Some pleasant activity outdoors today will do much good. You need it to tune-up for the week ahead.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You won't be at your best today unless with one who really means something to you. Then you'll shine.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Something is astir that will prove of value later. It will come about through one of your family.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't wait to be asked. One you'd like to see would enjoy seeing you. Make today visiting day.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Take some time to get off on your own somewhere. Your intuition has a profitable message for you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You'll sparkle in any group you're in today. Club or charitable work is your cup of tea.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You will be aided secretly today. Someone can help you obtain something very important.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Draw upon your spiritual reserves if you have any problem. Your faith will work marvels for you today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Benefits come to you through the kindness of another. However, there's some mystery about it.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You will get very good co-operation today from one who hasn't been as helpful as she should have been.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
September 2

Your outlook will undergo a major transformation this coming year. Greater determination, coupled with fresh ideas, make this a time of real promise.

For Monday, Sept. 3

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Don't make any major decsions today at least till later afternoon. Then, you'll be much sharper.

TAURUS (April 20 May 20) A misunderstanding will arise today with one with whom you're working. It will clear if both remain calm.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) One whose company you'll share today will arouse your deep emotional feelings. This person has an aura of mystery.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You'll not be completely at ease today till you're through with outside responsibilities and can concentrate on your home.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) The early part of the day you'll feel somewhat left out of things. Later, a companion will get you back in the swim.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Commercial dealings you have today will be to your advantage provided you show how fair you are.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) This will be a very creative day. Any hunches or ideas will be better than usual. Use them.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Take whatever help is offered you today and be grateful. There are hidden motives, but they're for your good.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Fresh hope will come today just when you are about to give up. Don't discard dreams without a second try.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It's a good thing your sense of timing is so keen today. You'll put an incident to advantageous use.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your interest in something you've been neglecting will be refreshed today. You'll pick up where you left off.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Even though you may not, others will recognize an inner strength you possess. This is a day to get things done.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
Sept. 3.

Your financial picture will improve as the year progresses. Many things that you want for yourself and your family can be had if you'll really try.

First warships at Portsmouth

Anglo-Saxon King Alfred built the first English warships at Portsmouth, home port of the British navy, in 1897. A contemporary chronicler wrote that the 60-oared galleys "were of a peculiar build, higher, swifter and steadier than those of the Danes or the Frisians."

'Separate Realities' exhibition scheduled

LOS ANGELES — "Separate Realities," and exhibition by 27 California artists noted for representational work, will be held at the Municipal Art Gallery, Barnsdall Park, Sept. 19-Oct. 21.

Gallery hours are noon to 5 p.m. daily except Monday.

"In recent years, a large group of California realists whose work was virtually unseen in Los Angeles, gained prominence in New York and Europe," said Curt Opliger, director of the gallery. "This exhibition was planned to acquaint Southern California art followers with the importance of this major development of representational art emanating from our own area."

Laurence Dreiband, California artist and chairman of the fine arts department of the Art Center of Design in Los Angeles, is guest curator.

The criterion for deciding which artists were to be represented in "Separate Realities" was based on quality of achievment and on the extent to which the work advanced or significantly altered representational painting and sculpture.

Artists in the exhibition include William Allan, John Battenberg, Robert Bechtle, Douglas Bond, Vija Celmins, Robert Cottingham, Dreiband, Doug Edge, Bruce Everett, Lyn Foulkes, Ralph Goings, Gerald Gooch, Robert Graham, Marvin Harden, Maxwell Hendler, Don Hendricks, Richard Joseph, Richard McLean, Keisho Okayama, Kenneth Price, Joseph Raffael, Mel Ramos, Edward Ruscha, Paul Sarkisian, Paul Staiger, Wayne Thiebaud and James Valerio.

"The body of work presented in the show primarily concerns new directions in representation to illustrate the broad, original and genuinely independent representational painting and sculpture emerging in California," Opliger said.

The works shown in "Separate Realities" are loaned from more than 50 museums, galleries and private collections throughout the nation. The show is open free to the public.

Butz expects leveling off

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (UPI) — Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz said that he expected food prices to start leveling off in a few weeks and remain fairly constant through 1974.

"The consumer price index in September will show a substantial jump," Butz said. "However, that index will reflect price hikes that are already behind us.

"I would expect it to level off after that," he said. "I think food prices in 1974 may be a little higher than 1973, but not much."

Butz also said he did not consider present food prices unreasonable when considered in a "long-term context. During the past five years, food prices have risen less than almost any other economic indicator."

He said the American consumer still pays a lower percentage of his income for food than citizens of practically any other country

Valley Camera Club will display fair nature photos

POMONA — The Pomona Valley Camera Club will host a showing of nature division slides to be exhibited at the Los Angeles County Fair's 17th annual International Exhibit of Photography.

The showing, to be open admission free to the public, will take place at 300 Pomona Mall West, beginning at 7:30 p.m. on Sept. 6. Ernest Wells will narrate.

Included will be accepted slides from Australia, Canada, England, France, Germany, Scotland, South Africa and the United States.

Judges in this division are Victor Baldwin, Costa Mesa; Betty Davenport Ford, Claremont; Lee W. Lenz, Claremont; Howard Kessler, Sacramento; and Dr. Lloyd Ingles, Fresno.

The Photographic Society of America recognizes this exhibit and offers two silver medal awards, one for wildlife and one as judges' choice.

Gold, silver, bronze and honorable mention awards will be announced, as will the winner of the Los Angeles County Fair trophy.

On Sept. 7, at 7:30 p.m. the General Dynamics Camera Club will host a public showing of all slides accepted by the fair in the pictorial division.

Mrs. Alda Van Poppelendam of Pico Rivera will narrate and announce awards.

This meeting will be held in the recreation building at General Dynamics.

Rodney is the star of 500 parade

By PHYLLIS CANNON
P-B Staff Writer

ONTARIO — Rodney Allen Rippey, the child who won fame eating huge hamburgers on TV, was the star of the fourth annual Ontario 500 Festival Association parade here Saturday, stealing the spotlight and attention from established television stars and record-setting race drivers.

The 5-year-old boy, nattily dressed in a striped blazer and slacks, was all but mobbed all along the parade route by autograph seekers.

Patiently he printed his first name with a ballpoint pen, and those who succeeded in getting an autograph squealed with delight.

Other popular parade participants who rivaled the 500 drivers for the crowd's attention were "Mom" Unser, Elgin Baylor, Phil Harris and grand marshal James Garner.

Autograph seekers were in evidence all along the line of the snappy parade, which started promptly at 10 a.m. at 5th Street and Euclid Avenue and proceeded south along the avenue.

Grey, overcast skies and mid-50-degree temperatures did not detract from the gaiety of the event. Many parade watchers were bundled in coats and sweaters, others pulled blankets they had brought to sit on around their shoulders.

The parade theme, "The Wonderful World of Wheels," proved appropriate. Possibly more than half the parade entries rolled by on wheels. Some, bearing celebrities popular with the crowd, were welcome.

Others merely were endured and added to the length of the three-hour parade.

Public hearing is scheduled Wednesday on airport study

ONTARIO — An environmental impact report prepared for Ontario International Airport will get its first public airing Wednesday night.

The West Valley Airport Land Use Commission has set a hearing for 7 p.m. at the Bon View Center's assembly room, 1010 S. Bon View Ave.

Persons are invited to speak for or against the report during the hearing, officials said.

The Northrup Corp. made the study for the Los Angeles Department of Airports, operators of the Ontario International Airport. Such a study was required to meet state and federal regulations before a second main runway could be constructed at the Ontario facility.

"We want the hearing to provide for public input on the results of this report," said Kenneth Topping, director of the San Bernardino County planning department.

"We want to determine what implications this may have in regard to the use of land surrounding the airport."

The commission felt the impact report was important enough to provide a hearing so residents could have an opportunity to provide input, he added.

The airport land use commission also sits as the West Valley Planning Agency. It is composed of elected city and county officials who serve the West End of San Bernardino County.

Maurice Laham, environmental planner for the Los Angeles Department of Airports, has been invited to attend the hearing.

Topping will present a brief county planning staff report to the commission members.

The Northrup Corp. completed its study last June. Airport officials must also conduct a public hearing on the proposed project, with a transcript of the hearing and copies of the report to be sent to U.S. Department of Transportation officials. A date for the hearing has not been announced.

In its report, the consulting firm noted the most positive way to reduce the noise impact at the airport would be to construct the other runway.

The proposed project is to construct a new 10,200 foot runway parallel to the present east-west runway, with the new runway's threshhold being located 2,200 feet eastward.

This is expected to reduce airplane noise and pollution levels over populated areas in take-offs to the east.

Regarding residents affected by the noise, the consultants said the final decisions as to acceptable exposure periods is a matter for local determination, with the City of Onatrio and other communities having to investigate the possibility of acoustical modification.

Diamond Bar woman in fair competition

DIAMOND BAR — A local resident has entered the Home Arts Division competition at the 46th exposition of the Los Angeles County Fair, which runs Sept. 14 through 30.

Cleta A. Farr of Diamond Bar has entered her handwork samples. Winning entries will be on display in the Home Arts Building during the fair.

Other attractions include a varied array of divisional competitions and displays. Highlighting the affair will be nightly circus and rodeo shows in the main grandstands.

Mom-daughter pairs seeking fair crown

POMONA — Two Pomona mother-daughter look-alike teams will be competing for the mother-daughter look-alike crown at the Los Angeles County Fair on Sept. 20.

Gloria Buiss and her daughter, Tanya Glover, of 882 Ashfield Ave., and Betty Ruth Wilmore and her daughter, Brenda Lynne, of 1804 Morrison St., will be competing in the annual fair event.

Enrollment Will Begin for Head Start program

POMONA — Pomona Unified School District's Head Start office, situated at Kingsley Elementary School at 1170 Washington Ave., will begin taking applications for the fall program on Tuesday.

Children who will be 4 on or before Dec. 2, and whose families meet income criteria are eligible to enroll.

The income level has been raised recently and those families whose children were turned down last spring are urged to call the office (623-5251, extension 402) Tuesday for a reevaluation of their eligibility.

Enrollments also will be taken for classes for 3-year-olds, children who will have had their third birthday on or before Dec. 2, and whose families meet the income criteria.

These classes will begin in January.

Pomona Head Start will conduct classes at Arroyo, Hamilton, Lexington, Madison, North San Antonio and Washington elementary schools this fall.

Anyone interested in having a child placed on the waiting list may contact the Head Start office after Tuesday between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

Holiday delays city meetings

City Council meetings and rubbish collection schedules in most Pomona Valley communities will be delayed one day this week due to the Labor Day holiday.

City Councils in Pomona, Montclair, La Verne, and Upland will hold their regular meetings Tuesday night instead of Monday. In addition, the Chino Planning Commission and the Claremont and Walnut school boards will shift their meetings to Tuesday night.

Trash collections in all valley cities except Montclair and Upland will be one day late all week due to the holiday. Residents in Montclair will have regular disposal service Monday while service in Upland will be according to the regular schedule beginning Tuesday. Upland residents who normally have Monday pickup will be serviced on Tuesday.

Finally transit gets fare $hare

At this point, it is not so much the money — although $1 billion for starters is going to come in very handy — as the principle that is most important.

For the first time, mass transit is being cut in for a direct share in the billions pouring into —and out of — the Federal Highway Trust Fund, the kitty set up a decade back to finance the interstate road network and one of the most fantastically productive revenue-raising programs ever devised.

Under the new highway bill, municipalities beginning next July will be able to tap the trust for $200 million, with expenditures initially limited to busy purchases. The following year, however, $800 million will be available for rail and subway systems as well, with the promise of more to come.

To those in the land who have been crying out in alarm at the steady deterioration of public transportation facilities as private autos and superhighways proliferated, it is the realization of an idea whose time actually came years ago. The allocations fall short of meeting even the most pressing immediate needs of transit systems and are of a $23-billion bill which still emphasizes asphalt and concrete.

But it does set a precedent, opening the door to a treasure house which highway interest have long barred. Their argument is that the trust, fed by gasoline and road-use taxes, should be reserved for the direct benefit of those paying for it— motorists.

Until recently, most of the public — which not so coincidentally is also mostly motorists — seemed to agree. But signs of changing attitudes on transportation in general abound. After thinking big is best for so many years, car buyers are turning to smaller, more economical models. Here and there around the country public opposition has halted freeway construction. And now in San Francisco, there is a movement to demolish one the Embarcadero.

President Nixon has been heard to murmur that in the preoccupation with political scandals, not enough attention is being paid to the "public's business."

He may have an excellent case in point in the muted fanfare with which signature of the highway (transport might now be the better word) bill was received. It is likely to have more influence on the future conditions of life in these United States than any number of Watergates.

U.S.-China trade unexpectedly high

Political and diplomatic dividends were expected to flow from the rapprochement with China and they obviously have.

Not expected were economic dividends, at least not immediately. Mainland China might be the world's largest untapped market, but the expert word was that the Chinese economy was still too underdeveloped to offer significant trading opportunities for some time to come.

It is something of a surprise, therefore, that in the short two years since President Nixon's historic visit to Peking, U.S.-Chinese trade had developed so briskly that the 1973 total is expected to reach $900 million worth, according to a New York Times report. The United States has, in fact, moved up from last among China's major trade partners to second, trailing only Japan.

China's chronic harvest problems account for much of this — Peking is making large purchases of U.S. grains and cotton — but U.S. exports also include jetliners and machinery.

The exchanges with China are still far short of U.S. trade with China's immediate neighbor, Japan (some $14 billion in 1972), or with the No. 1 U.S. partner, Canada (more than $27 billion in 1972), but it is a start, and an indication of how very rapidly the world can change.

We must be firm

Life in these United States often seems better when we look beyond our borders to other lands. In one strife-torn South American country, for instance, all it took was one saucy motorist sticking her tongue out at an army chief for near-tragedy to strike. According to witnesses, the woman stuck out her tongue as she drove by the general's car in her red compact. He was infuriated and ordered his driver to pursue her vehicle as he shot at it. Says a resident who saw the incident, "I heard a shot, I ran outside. I saw the general. He was putting a gun to the woman's head and he was telling her to apologize."

This appalling event would be unthinkable in the U.S., where freedom of speech and press are but two of many sacred Constitutional rights, guaranteed to all. We must be firm in our determination that it always remain so.

Nixon prides ability to keep cool

WASHINGTON — The strange shoving incident in New Orleans — where President Nixon grasped aide Ron Ziegler by the shoulders, spun him around and gave him an angry push — still has Washington whispering. Could the President be buckling under the Watergate pressure? Is he losing his grip on himself?

His strong showing before his press inquisitors at San Clemente has stopped the open talk but not the whispers.

Richard Nixon has always taken pride in his ability to control his temper. "A public official, particularly a President, should not show temper except for a purpose," he has told subordinates.

In private, he may display flashes of anger over small irritations. When someone tells a dirty joke in mixed company, for example, his dark jowls will flush. Or if an aide should do something stupid, the President may explode.

'He seethes'

However, he tends to bottle up any real wrath. The anger boils inside him until he becomes bitter. "He seethes," said a friend.

In trusted company, the President may betray his inner bitterness by making nasty cracks about those who have enraged him. This is one reason, suggested an aide, that Nixon is fighting against the release of the secret White House tapes. Some of his biting remarks about the high and mighty, apparently, were recorded.

While he is dealing with adversaries he holds his emotions in check. Not until the crisis is over does he let go. "I get a real letdown after one of these (confrontations)," he confided to a friend. "Then I begin to think of what bums they are."

But even for a President who keeps count of his political crises, Watergate has been an extraordinary ordeal. Sources close to him have seen signs of the strain. As the Watergate wreckage piled up around him he became drawn and distant. His periods of brooding lengthened; his private remarks about his tormentors became more ugly.

Cracks under pressure

In New Orleans, his self-control finally cracked under the pressure. A safety valve gave way, and he "blew his stack."

The shoving of Ron Ziegler, however, wasn't the first time Nixon has laid hands on an aide. During the 1960 campaign, frustration and fury built up inside him as the polls showed him falling behind John F. Kennedy. Nixon could sense the presidency slipping from his grasp.

As he prepared for his election eve telecast, the inner storm was ready to break. The late Everett Hart, a TV production specialist, approached him with some last-minute suggestions. Nixon didn't want to be bothered and gruffly ordered Hart to fetch his military aide. When Hart demurred, Nixon gave his TV adviser ahard shove against the chest.

The incident might have been tragic; Hart was recovering from open-heart surgery. Members of his family, still bitter over the incident, told us Hart had to go back for more heart operations before he died last January.

Time's president

He also lost patience in 1960 with another campaign aide, James Shepley, who is now president of Time magazine. Witnesses remember the furious Nixon telling Shepley: "I don't want to see you on this plane again!" Once during the campaign, the same sources recall, Nixon got so upset that he threatened to leave the country.

In the privacy of the White House, the President occasionally flies into a rage and invokes the power of government against his adversaries. But aides insist he usually calms down and calls off the federal forces before any damage is done.

In 1970, for instance, he visited his mother's sister, the late Edith Timberlake, at the Beverly Manor Convalescent Hospital in Riverside, Calif. He fumed afterward over the accommodations.

Recalled a former aide: "The President stomped around, chewing out everyone in sight. He fired off directives in every direction. He ordered a search to find out whether the hospital received federal payments. He damn well wanted them cut off."

Pleased

But later, he paid his aunt another visit and was so pleased over her care that he sent the hospital a letter of commendation.

He has a habit, when provoked, to categorize his enemies and threaten retribution. Although some aides ignore these fulminations, others have taken his threats seriously enough to draw up an enemies list. Some people on the list have complained of federal harassment.

Confidential White House minutes in our files show that the President lost his temper when the Senate opposed his nomination of Judge Clement Haynsworth to the Supreme Court. "Unless some new fact comes in," he thundered, "I will stick by Haynsworth even if he gets only one vote. Will I withdraw him? I will not!" He vowed retaliation against the senators who crossed him.

It is rare, however, for the President to show his temper. Those who have penetrated his seclusion have found him to be warm and friendly. He usually expresses anger with a cold, silent fury rather than a sudden outburst. When anger flashes across his face, he often catches himself and turns away. In public, he will sometimes break into an Exxon Tiger smile.

Bit his tongue

After his ailing father died, for example, Nixon asked sympathizers not to send flowers but to contribute to a health fund. An aide told us the President was accosted at the funeral by a florist who scolded him for setting an example that could hurt the florist business. Nixon's eyes blazed and he started to blurt something. But he bit his tongue and turned on his heel.

President Nixon, meanwhile, is still in a black mood over Watergate. He keeps largely in seclusion in the various presidential sanctums. In his private conversations, he expresses more anger against his accusers than against those who committed the Watergate crimes.

His erratic behavior in New Orleans caused a lot of tongue-clucking. Many people reminded us of his visits in the 1950s to a Park Avenue psychotherapist named Dr. Arnold Hutschnecker. All we know is that the then Vice President, exhausted after a foreign trip, went to Dr. Hutschnecker for treatment and was given "some pills".

Our report on his visit brought this emphatic comment from Dr. Hutschnecker: "During the entire period that I treated Mr. Nixon, I detected no sign of mental illness in him. As I came to know him over the years, we developed a trusting professional as well as amicable personal relationship . . . He always impressed me as a man with superior intellect and keen perception."

Gossip for today

Although I don't consider myself a prophet of doom and gloom, nevertheless I must confess that at times I am guilty of harboring certain X-rated thoughts regarding the sanity of the Great American Public.

We moan and groan about food shortages and spiraling food prices and at the same time, in Merced, we carted 100 tons of peaches to the city dump because of wage arguments.

We are unable to design a satisfactory pollution control device for autmoibles but we are building a $10 a whirl slot machine with a $1 million jackpot payoff.

We send our missionaries to savage lands to encourage the natives to cover their bodies with clothing while here at home fortunes are being made in the design and sale of belly-button jewelry.

We complain about the costs of health and welfare but find no difficulty in raising the money necessary to underwrite a beauty contest for snakes.

But on the credit side of the ledger let it be recorded that although we are fighting a losing battle with crime in the streets, at least we have come up with a built-in handbag siren to foil purse snatchers

And to compensate for the loss of an international track and field meet to the Russians, we have set a new world's record for non-stop pogo stick jumping.

OUR MAN IN WASHINGTON

Insanity of a few calls for caution

By RICK GOTCHER
P-B Washington Bueau

WASHINGTON — The "flower generation" has created a social monster that feeds on the trust of its makers.

Latest victims of this antithetical creation, which surfaced prominently during the Charles Manson episode, are 27 young boys found tortured and slain in Houston.

The cause of this grisly tragedy will never be fully explained. The person responsible is dead and his two known living accomplices are probably unable to give a coherent understanding for his motives.

But that isn't the point here — a killer's motives are always only sufficient to himself — the question is why did these youngsters allow themselves to so easily be led by the promise of drugs, sex, or whatever?

At least part of the answer can be found in today's permissive society; literature written only for shock value; movies that sell skin and violence; and, more subtly, the instance solutions of complex personal problems on a 30-minute television show.

However these have only transitory impact. But the peace, brotherhood and love message is a lasting one. And because it is, its followers are prone to think themselves above the world's cruelties.

A recent conversation with two young hitchhikers, a girl and boy, provides some insight into the problem:

Doesn't it bother you, out on the road like this, that you are vulnerable to any passing wierdo?

"What's the worry? If something is going to happen, it'll happen. You can get killed crossing the street."

Yes, but you don't deliberately cross the street just to see if the cars respect your indifference.

"Our generation isn't indifferent. Who do you think stopped the war?"

Your social activism is well-known. Whether it stopped the war is something wiser heads will have to decide. We're talking about your personal indifference, however.

"What's personally indifferent about loving your fellow man?"

Nothing, it's a beautiful thought. But where in your philosophy do you place thesavage psychotics who commit the rapes and murders which seem to headline newspapers daily?

"We don't think about them. They can't bother us because those situations are outside our belief.

"Besides, they are extremes and when you've been around enough, like us, you learn to size people up and stay away from those who might do harm."

If you "don't think about them," then why bother to stay away from someone you think is potentially dangerous?

Neither could explain that contradiction.

"You know, your generation is responsible for all the trouble in this world. If everybody loved and trusted his neighbor, there wouldn't be all this junk."

You might be right on both counts. But if you admit the problems, why can't you admit your personal solutions are easily exploited by devious and, sometimes, terrible people?

"Because we only want to think good thoughts."

Those 27 boys in Houston probably only wanted to think "good thought." We all would like to. But good thoughts run counter to the insanity of a few, which requires a certain amount of personal caution.

L.V. planners wind up work on general plan, send it to council

LA VERNE — The Planning Commission wrapped up its work last week on the city's proposed general plan and sent its recommendations for approval to the City Council.

The council will hold a public hearing on the proposal, a master plan that is expected to guide the city's growth for the next decade, on Sept. 17.

The commission wound up more than six months of work Tuesday, making two final recommendations affecting land use within the city.

It decided to keep five areas agricultural rather than residential as proposed earlier. The planners agreed with representatives of the Commission on Environmental Quality that the changes, if necessary, could be made appropriately at a later time.

The CEQ apparently convinced the planners that with open space continuously shrinking, it was more expedient to maintain as much land in green as possible.

Three of the five areas are expected to be bisected by the proposed Foothill Freeway.

They include about 40 acres on the southeast corner of Base Line Road and Emerald Avenue; eight acres south of Bowdoin St. and west of Wheeler Avenue; and 12 acres near Bowdoin and Fruit Street.

Also left as agricultural are 10 acres southwest of Amherst Street and Bradford Avenue, and 31 acres south of Golden Hills Road at the eastern city boundary.

The Planning Commission also decided at the request of residents on the south side of town to leave a strip of land in commercial-manufacturing use between Arrow Highway and Walnut Avenue from A Street to E Street.

The preliminary form of the general plan had indicated a proposal to place that area into an industrial zone.

Charles Le Gros, planning director, said the commission felt that by changing the existing zones on the agricultural parcels the city would "encourage premature development."

"If and when the need arose for changing the use of those areas," he declared, "we feel the time to consider them was at the time of the need."

Cheaper substitute

Researcher urges wood as new feed for cattle

PULLMAN, Wash. (UPI) — Beef cattle can be fattened for the broiler on a diet of wastepaper and wood, a researcher maintains.

A diet of cooked wood and paper can be substituted for scarce grain as the major source of carbohydrates for cattle and sheep, said Dr. Irwin Dyer of Washington State University.

Dyer, an animal nutritionist doing research under a $15,000-a-year grant from a timber firm, said cattle are fattened 14 per cent slower on wood products than grain.

But fed a little longer, he said Tuesday, "they will finish out about the same."

With grain prices soaring, he said, wood products could become a major new feed source for livestock. He said barley now cost about $120 a ton, but a new wood-base cattle feed has been selling for $35 a ton in the northwest and Canada.

The manager of the firm that manufactures the feed, Herb Kalbfleisch, said, "We have no alternative but to go to a cheaper source of feed.

"Let them eat wood."

Though corn did not spread throughout Europe until the 16th century, it had long been the principal food crop of the Mayas, Aztecs, Incas and other Indian tribes. Corn pollen taken from drill cores 200 feet below Mexico City was about 60,000 years old.

Walnut area teachers return to classrooms

WALNUT — Classes start Sept. 11 for students in Walnut Valley Unified School District, but teachers return a week earlier for orientation and "welcome back" luncheons.

Community Clubs at each of the schools will host a luncheon for teachers, staff, and district employes throughout the week. Walnut High School students will be on campus Tuesday through Thursday for registration under a new do-it-yourself system.

Walnut Elementary School Community Club members host their luncheon at noon Tuesday in the school's multi-purpose room. Orientation starts the same day and continues throughout the week. The club is also helping with a pre-school mailing to parents of information about programs, schedules, and rules.

Collegewood and Vejar elementary schools have scheduled their luncheons for Tuesday. The Collegewood Community Club will present the program at noon in the school cafeteria, while Vejar's club board hosts a session at 11:30 a.m. in the multi-purpose room.

Three back-to-school luncheons are planned for Thursday. Mrs. Carol Jensen, hospitality chairman for the Suzanne School Community Club, will be in charge of the activity at 11 a.m. in the multi-purpose room. Noon starting times are set for the programs at Castle Rock and Evergreen elementary schools.

New teachers will be greeted with a luncheon of their own at Walnut High School on Friday. The 11:30 a.m. session, set in the school cafeteria, follows a week-long program of orientation and department meetings.

Walnut High students face something new themselves, this year, as the school initiates a class registration system in which the pupils pick out their own programs. Seniors start on Tuesday from 8:45 to 11:45 a.m.; juniors register Tuesday afternoon from 12:30 to 4; sophomores sign up Wednesday from 8:45 to 11:45 a.m.; and freshmen start their high school programs with sign-ups Wednesday afternoon from 12:30 to 4.

Open registration for all students who were not able to register at their assigned times and days will be held from 12:30 to 4 p.m. on Thursday.

District trustees hope the new registration program will encourage teacher participation, foster development of student decision-making abilities, and eliminate massive class schedule changes after the school year is under way.

Brezhnev defends U.S. link against critics

LONDON (UPI) — Soviet party Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev has slapped down Kremlin critics of his policy of close cooperation with the United States who fear the Watergate affair will affect President Nixon's commitments to Moscow, Communist diplomatic sources said Tuesday.

The hard line critics have been arguing that Brezhnev has tied his policy too closely to Nixon and is running a considerable risk in the face of the uncertainty of the President's future standing and powers, the sources said.

Brezhnev has firmly opposed his opponents with the argument that the accords reached must be considered primarily as agreements with the United States, irrespective of who is the president.

Moreover, the critics have been given to understand that the Kremlin switch to closer cooperation with the United Soviet Union and its economic future, the sources indicated.

Moscow is continuing its policy of keeping the Watergate affair out of the limelight and avoiding any public discussion of Nixon's future.

Communist diplomats are critical of the western publicity of the affair and suspect it as part of an alleged concerted allied strategy to undermine Nixon because of his switch to closer relations with the Soviet bloc.

There is little doubt, according to the diplomatic informants, that Brezhnev feels he has established a good personal relationship with Nixon and expects to be able to continue "doing business" with him.

But they argue, that according to the Communist book one deals with "whomever is in power." The line on which the Kremlin has embarked will prevail, but there might be hitches and delays, they said.

Moscow would want especially the projected trade deals with the United States and others to be set in motion as soon as possible. The state of the Soviet economy appears to be heavily dependent on their fruition in the view of western experts who hold that the technological gap with the West is strikingly wide.

These experts also hold that the Brezhnev's survival in power hinges largely on his policy of cooperation with the United States proving a success for Russia.

Literary mystery

Was 'Patience Worth' for real?

ST. LOUIS (UPI) —On a hot, stuffy St. Louis summer night 60 years ago three women passed the time experimenting with a Ouija board. They had not had much luck in previous attempts to contact spirits but thought they would give it another try.

After several false starts the board spelled out a message:

"Many moons ago I lived. Again I come—Patience Worth my name."

Over the next quarter of a century "Patience Worth" and her earthly contact, Pearl Curran, wife of a successful St. Louis businessman, presented the world with literary works of much eloquence and beauty. The volume of the work was staggering—four million words, seven books, thousands of poems, epigrams and stories and hours of witty conversation —all, according to Mrs. Curran, spelled out one letter at a time with amazing speed.

The story of Patience Worth is detailed in a book, "Singer in the Shadows — The Strange Story of Patience Worth." Its author, Irving Litvag, has no explanation for the appearance of the spirit from another time and another place, and thinks it better that the mystery remain unsolved.

"I'm a rational human being," Litvag said in an interview, "and I try to get as much information as possible to solve the problems of life. But working on a book like this for about two years, you become emotionally involved in a way, caught up in the aesthetic beauty of the story as an unsolved mystery."

The source of the works, assertedly dictated by Patience Worth through Mrs. Curran, remains a puzzle for many reasons. The language was from many different periods, Litvag notes, from the time of Christ up to 20th century America, and Mrs. Curran disclaimed any personal literary talent. "Patience" was said to discourage speculation and probing into her background, replying that nothing mattered except what she had to say. One example of her poetry expresses this thought:

"I am molten silver running. Let man catch me within his cup. Let him proceed upon his labour, smithing upon me Let him with cunning smite my substance. Let him at his dream, lending my stuff unto its creation. It shall be no less me!"

Many skeptics charged that "Patience Worth" was a fraud, that Mrs. Curran actually made up the works herself. While there is no evidence she made any profit from "Patience Worth," Mrs. Curran's description of how she received her works did little to end the suspicions. "I am like a child with a magic picture book," Mrs. Curran once explained. "Once I look upon it, all I have to do is watch its pages open before me, and revel in their beauty and variety and novelty."

Some skeptics suggested that Mrs. Curran had literary talent in her subconscious that created the literature attributed to Patience Worth. Since Mrs. Curran's death in 1937 the voice of "Patience Worth" has been stilled, so the mystery is unlikely ever to be solved.

Fort Point growing tourist attraction

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — One of the fastest growing tourist attractions in the Bay Area is an old fort that never fired a shot in anger.

"Last year we had 500,000 visitors," said National Parks ranger Jim Lester as he stood in the giant courtyard at Fort Point, a massive brick structure that guarded the Golden Gate during some of America's most troubled times.

"And we are running 120 per cent of that figure so far this year," he added.

The park service opened the fort on a day-to-day basis just last year but the public had its first look at the three-story building long before that.

In 1967 the Fort Point Museum Association held a public "open house" and some 16,000 persons came through the fort's sally port during a four-hour period.

The fort, the largest brick fortification erected on the West Coast of North America, was built by the Army between 1854 and 1861.

Modeled somewhat after Fort Sumter, South Carolina, Fort Point is in the shape of an irregular quadrangle with the longest side 250 feet. The walls average about seven feet thick and are marked by gun ports that once mounted 149 cannon, including those on the roof.

A 12-pounder still sits in the courtyard and school children get a chance to play artilleryman.

"The kids get to run the ramrod and put in a ball," Lester said. "The ammunition is mock and doesn't make any noise but the children provide plenty of that."

The fort houses a museum that contains scores of old Army uniforms, guns and other equipment.

And tour guides wear uniforms of the Civil War era.

Guide Lee Shenk, dressed in a Civil War artilleryman's garb, plays bugle calls that can be heard down the fort's long passages.

"I also have to know the history of the uniform," Shenk said after blowing assembly and the Blue and Gray March. "People often ask why the brim of the hat is turned up."

"That's so you wouldn't chop it off with your sword while giving a salute."

The fort was abandoned for military use in 1905 but was used expediently during both World Wars and during construction of the Golden Gate Bridge, which soars overhead.

The closest the men at Fort Point came to combat was in the Civil War when fears mounted that a Confederate privateer would try to enter the bay.

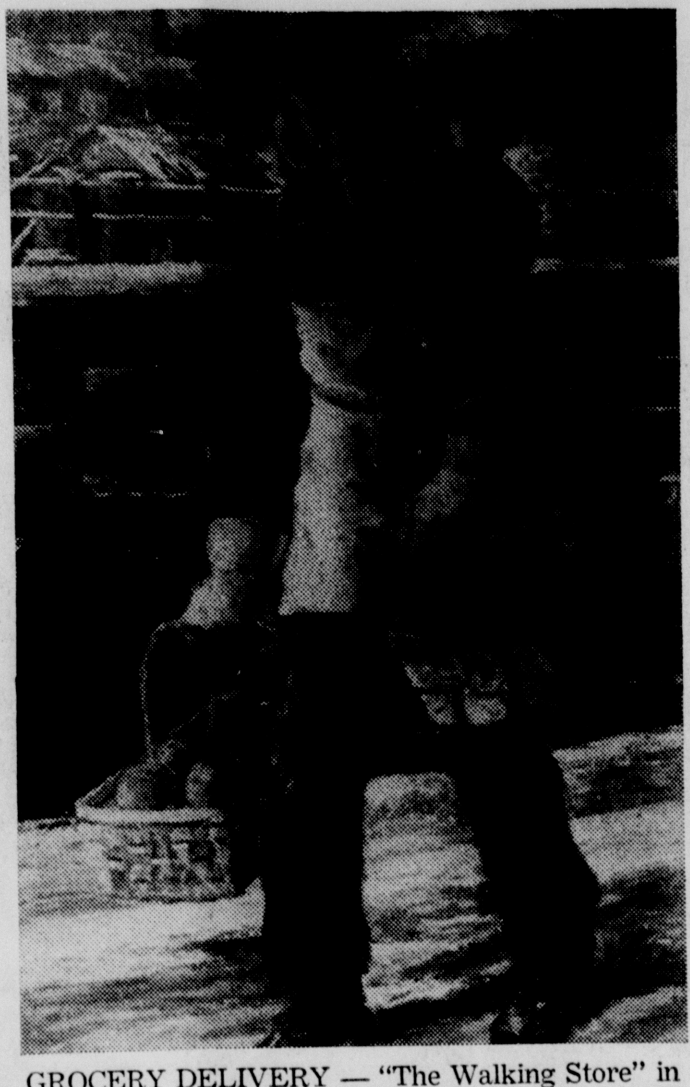
Capt. James I. Waddell of the Shenandoah planned to do so but the war came to an end before he could turn his plans into action.

Historians consider the fort one of the nation's finest example of pre-Civil War military technology, but it was hopelessly outdated not long after construction stopped. The fort's guns became obsolete with the advent of breech loading, disappearing guns and other advances.

Writer Rudyard Kipling noted this fact in 1889 when he sailed through the Golden Gate aboard the City of Peking.

Kipling, no doubt with a touch of British jingoism, wrote: "I saw with great joy that the blockhouse which guarded the mouth of the 'finest harbour in the world, Sir,' could be silenced by two gunboats from Hong Kong with safety, comfort and dispatch."

This may have been so, but the massive walls of the fort are certainly enough to fool today's average tourist.



GROCERY DELIVERY — "The Walking Store" in tempera is one of the works by Hungarian-born artist John Bernat (1910-1964) which are now on exhibition at the Pomona Public Library. Some 30 works have been loaned by the artist's widow, Berat, who became an American citizen and lived for many years in Southern California, won the Prix de Roma.

Brothers turn from sled dogs to bears

LINCOLN, N.H. (UPI) —It's noon any day of the summer and 400 people are leaning over a steel fence watching Murray Clark engage in a shoving match with a friend, yelling "Don't you bear on me."

"I can't stand it when they bear on me," he mutters, and the tourists shout with laughter. The friend who is "bearing" on Clark is a big black bear.

Clark, 45, and his brother, Ed, 49, got into the bear training business in 1950 because tourism was their way of life—as it is in much of New Hampshire—and they thought people were losing interest in their parents' Eskimo sled dogs.

Edward and Florence Clark opened Clark's Trading Post on the road to Franconia North and the Old Man of the Mountain, the stone face which is New Hampshire's greatest single tourist attraction, back in 1928. They were tired of New York City and Clark knew Eskimo dogs from his days trading furs in Labrador.

They trained the dogs and kept a few bears on the side, just to look at.

Their dogs served in the armed forces of Britain, Norway and the United States in World War II and were used by Admiral Richard Byrd in his 1948 expedition to Antarctica.

Trained bear acts proved a success, so great that Clark says they tried to phase the animals out when steam locomotives and a museum were added, but couldn't. "The public would come here looking forward to the bears," he said.

The bears look forward to the people, and sit on platforms high up on poles out front, working little trolly cars. Children put in bear food (dog pellets), peanuts and the best of all modern bear treats, ice cream.

Ice cream and marshmallows keep the act going, as the bigger bears climb poles for marshmallows and the 18-month-old "cubby bears" stick their tongues through a hole in a barrel to lick ice cream. Any flavor will do, but strawberry is a favorite.

"You won't see us mistreat the bears and you won't see anything thrilling," Clark warns his audience. "If it got thrilling" (a doleful voice) "it would just ruin my day."

He and his brother, their wives, and seven of their nine children, have no time for thrills—that's for the visitors. The whole family pitches in to run the show, feeding bears, taking people through a tilted "Haunted House," running the White Mountain Central Railroad (the ticket guarantees a ride of less than 100 miles), running the trading post and snack bar, and constantly searching for bits of "Americana" for the museum.

So far the museum specializes in steam fire engines, mechanical pianos of every description, typewriters, old cameras, model railroads, swords, posters, glass light-up tops from old gasoline pumps, early telephones and elec-miles per hour.
trical equipment — anything that strikes a Clark fancy.

The whole works draws 200,000 paying customers a year, and countless more who stop out front for free to feed the bears.

The big thrill for most children is the ride over the Pemigewasset River (Crooked River that Runs Among White Pines) and through the woods in a train drawn by a steam locomotive-but not the kind you ever saw on the main line.

The Clarks collect geared locomotives, the small, slow, tough little engines that can pull heavy loads of logs over steep grades and bad railroad beds. The biggest engine achieves a racing speed of 15 miles per hour.

The train stopped at the river until Ed Clark found an old covered railroad bridge in East Montpelier, Vt. He acquired it for a little cash and a 1910 Ford, found some granite bridge abutments elsewhere in Vermont, and brought the whole works home a truckload at a time in the winter of 1964 to extend the railroad.

Now it comes to a dead end just short of the construction site for Interstate 93, which Murray Clark hopes will never go all the way through Franconia Notch, tourism or no tourism.

Della Reese happy with life she leads

DENVER (UPI) —Onstage and off, singer Della Reese says she is a "people person."

"I believe in man and that the world must be run collectively by all people, be they white, black, Chinese or whatever," said the lady with the big brassy voice. "We all must work together."

The singer said in an interview there is no difference between Della the entertainer and Della the woman. "I'm just me, independent Della—all of the time," she said.

"I wouldn't consider myself to be a woman's liberationist, because as a black woman I feel I've always been liberated in many respects."

The 40-year-old singer explained that as a black woman in the entertainment business, she has rarely encountered prejudices or obstacles bcause of her race, and then long ago. She recalled that in earlier years, in Las Vegas night clubs, "blacks weren't allowed into the night clubs where I performed. Those were some really bad days, and I'm happy things have finally changed."

A frequent guest and sometimes hostess on Johnny Carson's "Tonight Show," Della said the image of her projected by television is not a complete one.

"Everything on those TV shows is pre-planned and calculated for exact times. Sure, that's Della Reese you see, but that's not all of me. I like to think that there is so much more.

"I'm often referred to as a pop singer, but I consider myself a Della Reese singer—giving to my audiences a wide variety of tunes including rock, blues, jazz and gospel."

A divorcee, Della and her 13 year old daughter (Deloreese Jr.) live comfortably in Hollywood. Having been divorced after eight years of marriage, she says she has no immediate plans for another marriage. "I left my husband following the birth of our daughter, and I must admit I've been very happy over the past 13 years. But I will say this—if the right man comes into my life and we share a mutual love—I would like to get married again."

She made another point: "I believe in green power—and the average man doesn't usually make the kind of money that I earn as an entertainer."

Romans built first aqueduct

The Romans developed a system for delivering water to Rome from more than 60 miles away. They built aqueducts 50 to 100 feet high. The first known system was constructed by the Phoenicians.

CASUAL PLAID

Girls' pants sets for fall feature plaids and cinched waists. Shown above is a set in red, yellow and green window plaid, knit of washable dacron polyester. Bands of yellow are at the neck, waist and sleeves.

SUIT LOOK

For school or fun outings is the plaid suit shown above. The suit has a zippered shirt-styled jacket and dirndle skirt with elasticized waist, and is an example of this fall's trend back to plaids and the suit for the classroom set.

OFF TO CLASS

Although it looks like a two-piece outfit, the knit dress is attached to a ribbed turtle neck top accented with tiny flowers. The solid blue a-line dress is appliqued with "Love." Easy to care for, the dress is perfect for back-to-school wear, play and parties.

Classics return in fall

A return to the classics in shapes, colors and patterns will mark this fall's back-to-school fashions.

Add a touch of nostalgia and the sporty look, and fashions start a trend to cleaner, more tailored, neater styles.

Traditional patterns and textures take the lead with plaids and checks in autumn brights and deep, rich earth tones. Spruce green, brick red, burgundy, camel and tree-bark brown add touches of color. Ivory, natural, string and pewter lend contrast and accessory notes to the darker shades.

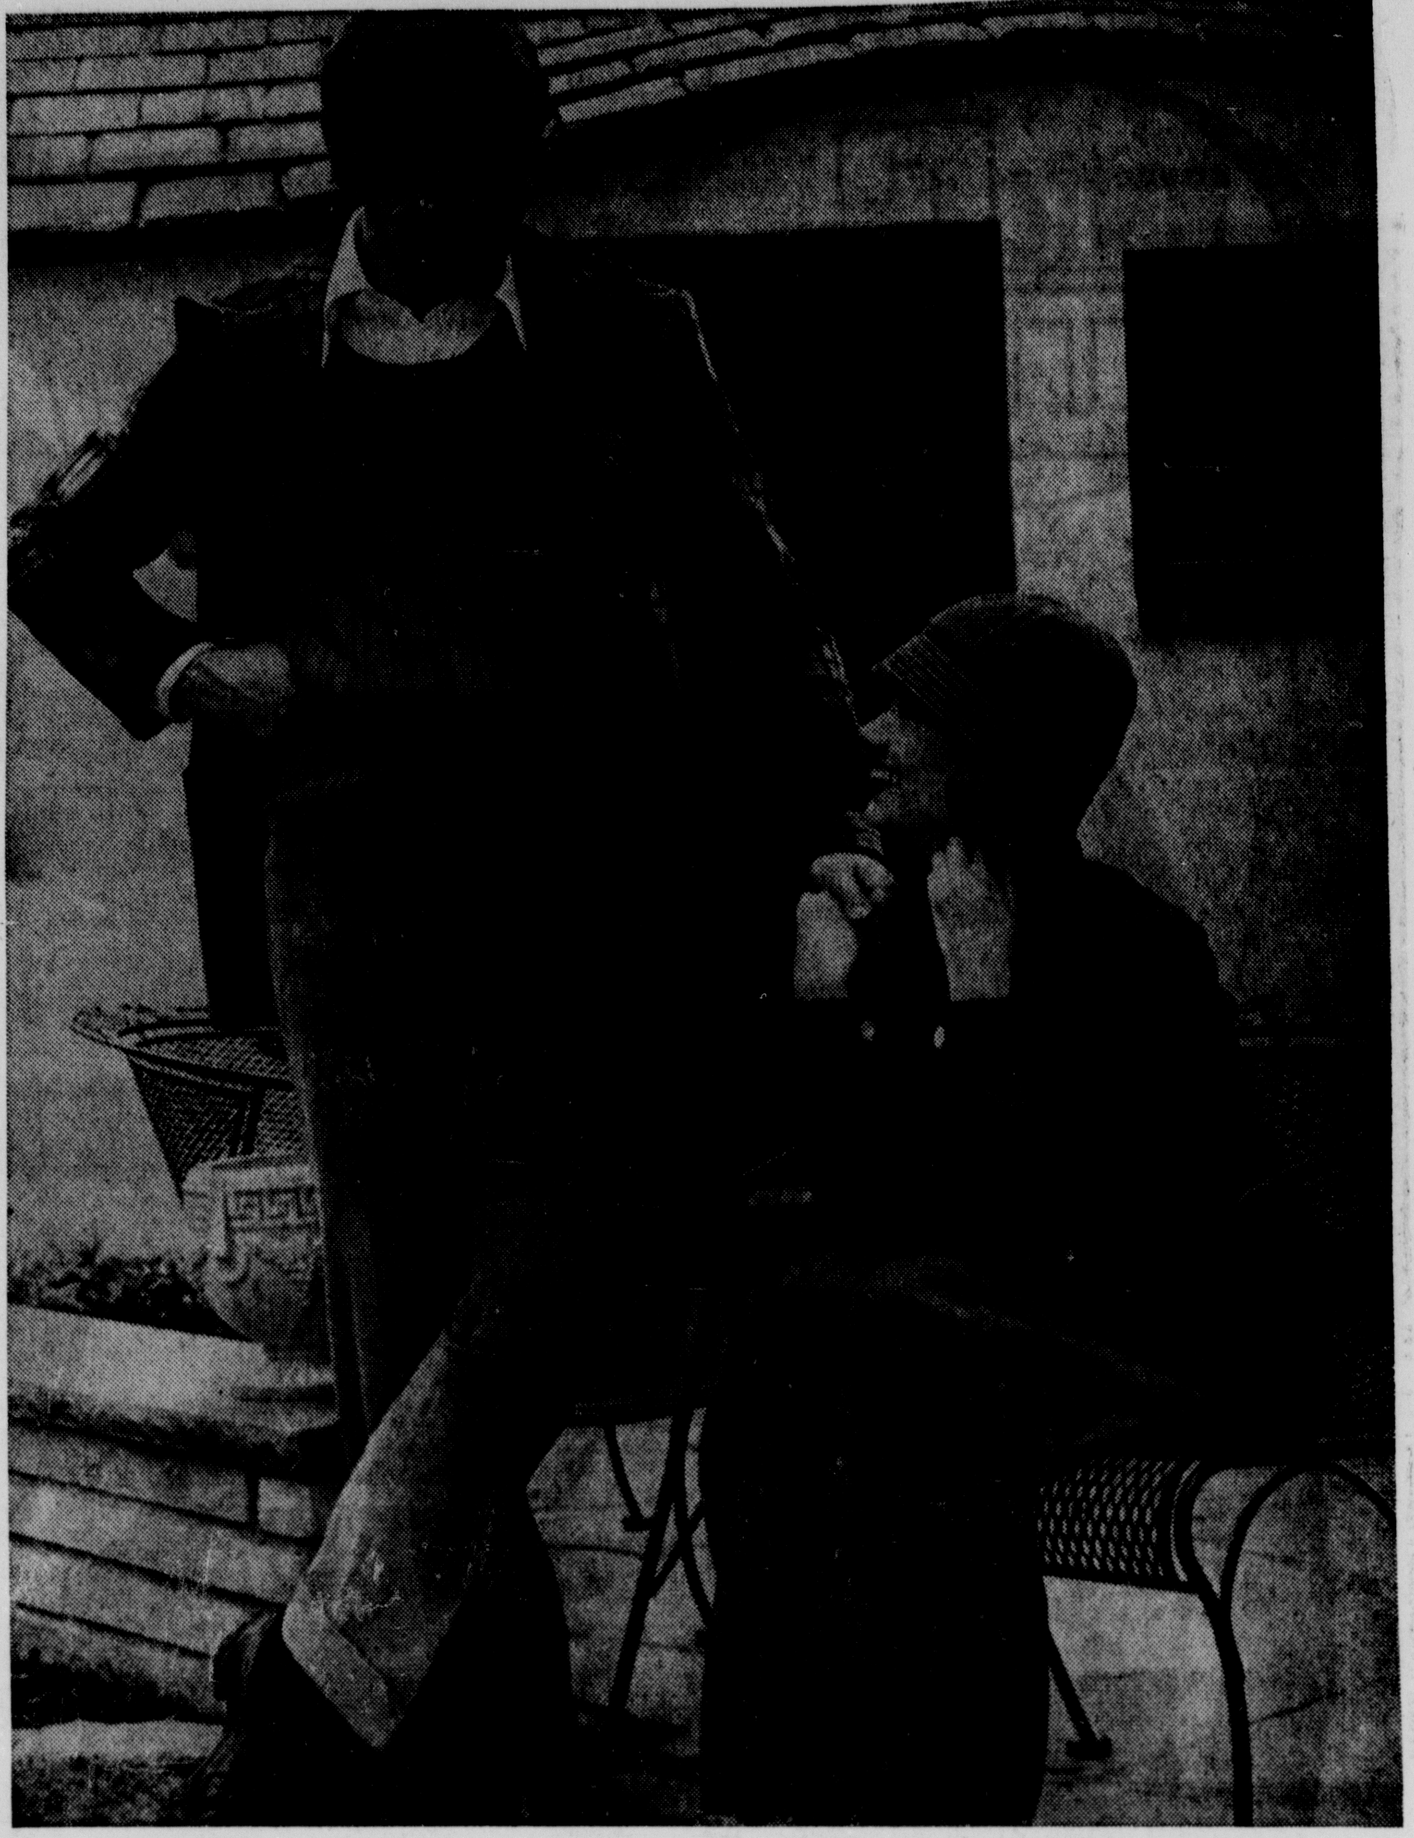
The sweater-look is all-important this year and teams up with sporty plaid pleated skirts and kneesocks, plaid pants, jumpers and smocks.

Another classic, moving from spring into fall, is shirtdressing with its fluid skirts, soft shoulders and blouson tops. The shirt dress is getting big and little girls back into dresses.

For the college set fashions from the "flirty thirties" and the "golden twenties," including the shawl-collared and super long sweaters, will go along with the charm of the new ladylike way of dressing.

Classic materials also return this fall, and those who sew their own styles will have available to them such fabrics as donegals, tweeds, herringbones, flannels and meltons.

For all ages the wardrobe concept is basic this school year with everything related. A plaid jacket and matching skirt mark the return of the suit for the grammer school girls as well as their older counterparts. By adding matching pants, a jumper and a sweater the costume is always interchangeable.



CAMPUS CLASSICS

Plaids and sweaters will be evident on the college campuses when school resumes this fall. Plaids are back for the men as well as the women this year and are part of the return of the classics.

BACK TO SCHOOL

Coordinates that click for fall are bright plaids and subtle checks for back-to-school wear. The cuffed pants and u-neck vest and the camel plaid dress with drawstring ties, above, are sew-yourself Singer fashions. Patterns and fashion plaids and check fabrics are featured in Singer Centers.

A 6:30 p.m. covered-dish dinner is planned for members and their husbands. Mrs. Paul Downs will conduct a brief business meeting before the social evening.

DAVID ARMSTRONG

Travelers schedule speaker

Pomona Valley Travelers will open its fall season Wednesday with a program by David Armstrong of Armstrong Galleries.

"Limited Edition Porcelain Figurines and Collectors' Plates" will be Mr. Armstrong's topic at the 2 p.m. meeting in St. Ambrose Episcopal Church, Claremont.

He will describe the history of collectors' plates, why people buy the plates, and their importance from an investor's standpoint. A number of famous figurines will be displayed.

Armstrong's has one of the largest selections of limited edition figurines and plates in the United States. Customers are from across the nation.

The Travelers club has scheduled a Hawaiian tour on Sept. 10 to 24. The group leaves Claremont at 8 a.m. and will fly to Hawaii via Western Airlines. The tour will include three islands.

Erma Bombeck

My husband says I overreact to a traffic ticket. That's not true. I know a lot of women who cry for three days. And sell the car. And try to retain F. Lee Bailey to defend them.

The trouble with men is they do not have the proper respect for a traffic ticket. To them, it is a sign of manhood, like drinking a quart of beer without belching. To women, it's an emotional trauma, comparable to Hester wearing a large "A" on her chest that stands for Auto Violation.

My husband considers my traffic tickets the greatest source of humor since Milton Berle wore a dress. As a high school graduate, I consider them a humiliation.

I have received three citations in 23 years of driving. The first one was in 1950, when I made a U-turn in front of a paddy wagon. I know what you're thinking. You're thinking I didn't see the paddy wagon. Wrong. In my mind, I humanized the police officer, rationalizing he was a man who took out the garbage, stood in line at the circus, and knew the agonies of circling the block 18 times only to see a parking spot on the other side.

If I live to be a hundred, I will never forget the laughter that came out of that paddy wagon.

My second misdemeanor was for speeding . . . while passing a police cruiser. As I sped by, I purposely waved to the officer and pointed to my watch, indicating that I, had a dental appointment for my son and would be charged for it if we were late.

I thought it odd when he escorted me from behind with his siren and red light for three miles, but I respected him for his understanding.

In traffic court, I sobbed so uncontrollably they had to give me two aspirin and a cup of hot tea to sedate me.

Last week, I cut in front of a police car to make an illegal left turn. As the officer put on his riot helmet and a crowd began to form around my car, I knew he would not buy the fact that if I was stupid enough to cut in front of a police cruiser for an illegal turn, I surely wouldn't be smart enough to figure out the one-way streets in the downtown area.

What could I do? I got out of the car, threw myself against the hood with my feet apart, asked to hear my rights, and requested a phone call to my husband.

Now, my husband is laughing. But just wait till he finds out who gets custody of the kids!

Traveler finds same problems aboard ship

By DONALD W. REYNOLDS

Aboard RMS Queen Elizabeth II — As most air patrons will agree, pleasant air travel is a thing of the past.

From the interminable telephone delays on your first call for a reservation right up until you arrive at your destination to learn that your baggage has been lost, the entire experience has been a series of frustrations. Deleyed flights are the rule rather than the exception and no specific information is ever available to the unfortunate traveler. Interminable hikes at over-crowded airports with security checks to complicate the boardings seem to be a part of the airlines conspiracy to keep you at home.

Therefore I was most intrigued to plan a leisurely trip to Europe by ship. My dissolutionment started when I was greeted by an amateurly painted sign saying that the escalator at the 44th Street Pier was out of order. The Que Two has 11 passenger decks —, and the formidable stairs at the dock measured approximately the height of a five story building. And at the summit the same sort of security check we have learned to expect at airports. No passenger is looking forward to being hijacked, but there must be a better way of checking hand luggage. Apparently cabin baggage is checked through X-ray equipment. If not, there is little point in searching carry-on bags. If such equipment is available why not use it.

And — again reminiscent of airlines — the 8 p.m. sailing is announced as departing at 10 p.m. Nothing is quite so bedraggled as a bon voyage party extending an extra two hours.

Admitedly, once under way, things do improve. This flag ship of the Cunard Line has been excellently designed. Staterooms are spacious and the public areas convenient and attractive.

Feeding approximately 1,700 passengers and about a 1,000 crew and staff members is a rough job. The remarkable thing is not that the food is only adequate, but that they can serve 7,000 meals a day of any sort. And for the gourmet, there is the Queen's Grill, where for a substantial extra charge special individual meals can be ordered.

What do 1,700 tourists do for five days between New York and London? You pay your money and take your choice — contests of all sorts, quizzes, bridge games, table tennis, shuffle board, lectures on Paris and London, discussions on investments mediated by a financial analyst and music by quartets, full orchestras and classical artists. Perhaps most popular is a casino with slot machines, roulette wheels, crap tables and twenty-one games.

It has been an interesting interval — but I'm afraid the art of offering truly pleasant travel has been lost. But then one could stay at home.

Young Americans needing help in Paris can get it

PARIS (UPI) —If that old book "Europe On Five Dollars A Day" wasn't still float ing around, Mrs. Margaret Garrett might have an occasional quiet day.

As it is, a dozen young Americans pour daily into her tiny office at the American Aid Society, a private charity housed at the U.S. Embassy. They have one thing in common: They're broke.

"One of the biggest problems is that book," signed Mrs. Garrett, society president and mother confessor to some 1,500 troubled Americans who come to her desk each year.

"Most of the travelers these days are new travelers, so misinformed. They still think you can get along on $5 a day. The normal estimate is $10, and that's only for food and room.

"The young people think of the days when Ernest Hemingway was in Paris, when you could be happy and poor in Paris. It's not that way now."

Busy day

It was a busy day at the Aid Society when a UPI reporter visited:

10 A.M.—Young man in jeans who lost passport. He said he loaned it to somebody else and never got it back. He was sent to the Embassy passport office.

10:30 A.M.—Boy on group tour whose hotel is paid for, but who ran out of food money. He had only seven francs ($1.60) left for four days until his charter flight leaves. He timidly asked for 22 francs ($5). Mrs. Garrett said with a smile, "He needs so little that it isn't necessary for me to phone his parents. It's a justifiable loan and I'm sure he'll pay us back."

11:00 A.M.—Boy who lost his return charter flight ticket. He was told how he could telephone his parents collect. He asked them to send $50. They said they'd send $100.

And so it went all day long.

The society was started by private Americans in Paris in 1922 to help stranded World War I veterans get home. During the World II the society —supported by private contributions and foundations—channeled food packages in Americans in occupied France, including Gertrude Stein and Raymond Duncan. After the war the society helped GI's studying in Paris.

Then the charter flights of the '60's resulted in many travelers being in the beard-and-knapsack class.

"That doubled our load and problems," said Mrs. Garrett, wife of a U.S. Embassy official.

"For those who are broke and need only under $20, we advance them the money and they sign this pledge," she said, showing a card saying "I faithfully promise to repay as soon as I am in a position to do so."

She picked up a packet of 20 bills she had mailed out for repayment of loans. The post office had sent them all back marked "address unknown'' or "addressee moved."

Call parents

"About 60 per cent pay us back," she said.

"For those who need more money, we help them call collect to their parents. While they are waiting for money to arrive, we put them up in a little hotel—we practically own that hotel. They pay the bill when they get their money."

The next big problem is lost passports and travelers' checks.

''The trouble is their clothes. Those tight pants. They don't have any safe pockets," the tall, elegant Mrs. Garret said. "The youth keep passports in exposed hip pockets, or knapsacks. Then they sleep on the quais by the river or in train stations and they get robbed."

Forty young people reported lost-stolen passports within four days to the Embassy recently. The society loaned many of them money for the new passports.

Student Counseling

So many young Americans now are studying in France—there are 75 third-year-abroad study programs in France alone, compared to three after World War II—that the society had to organize a specal student counseling service.

Social worker Irving Levin of Washington said most students who come to him suffer "a temporary cultural crisis" of being in a strange country.

He also visits Americans in French prisons, many on drug charges. Twice recently he was summoned to Paris hospitals to take charge of finding the parents of boys freaked out on LSD and in serious condition.

Many girls who come to Levin and Mrs. Garrett are pregnant. If they ask, they are advised of abortion faclities in England and urged to call their parents.

The society also cares for elderly U.S. pensioners living in Paris. As its last gesture, the society sends home the goods of Americans who die in France.

Ford decision to idle about 6,900 workers

CORONADO, Calif. (UPI) — The decision of Ford Motor Co. to shift its production emphasis toward smaller cars in the 1974 production run will mean the closing down of two assembly plants and the temporary idling of 6,900 workers, 3,500 in Michigan.

Six North American assembly plants will be involved in the changes designed to increase output of intermediate, compact and subcompact cars, two of them —at Wayne, Mich. and Chicago —will be shut down completely during the changeover.

Ford officials said they did not think the shift would result in any permanent reduction in hours workers at any of the plants, however.

About 3,500 employes will be affected at the Wayne plant, which will be shut down from Dec. 21 to Feb. 11 as the standard-size Ford is phased out in favor of the compact Maverick. At Chicago, where the standard Ford will be replaced by the intermediate Pinto, 3,400 employes will be out of work from Dec. 21 to Jan. 14.

Supplemental unemployment and unemployment compensation plans will provide the laidoff workers with nearly 95 per cent of their weekly wages

"STOMACH OK NOW"

Says Mrs. Ruiz, "I had stomach trouble mucho malo. It used to burn like fire and I couldn't eat anything without terrible pains. I was so nervous I could hardly think. Then my brother told me to see Dr. Wing, and after a few weeks I was much better. Soon I was well enough to stop all treatments and it is now 10 years ago and my stomach and nerves are fine."

'Gentlemen... start your engines'

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

ONTARIO — In just a few hours (depending on what time you're reading this), the cry "Gentlemen start your engines" and the roar of 33 machines will break the morning silence in Southeast Ontario.

It'll be coming from the Ontario Motor Speedway where the fourth running of the California 500 will be getting under way.

Six months, ago, it looked like those sounds would never come from the $25 million facility when it was closed down last November due to a breakdown in negotiations between the company that operated OMS and the firm that underwrote the bonds to finance it.

But Parenelli Jones and Tony Hulman came to the rescue, and signed a one-year contract to run the Cal 500. That was in April, and that's when the Ontario Motor Speedway Operation Co. Ltd. came on the screen. The group is headed by Jones and Hulman.

Thanks to those two men and countless others who helped put the speedway back in operating condition for today's race, the fourth Cal 500 will make it into the record books.

When the 33 cars take the green flag at about 11 a.m. this morning, Peter Revson will be sitting on the pole position with Jerry Grant and Gordon Johncock holding the other two spots on the front row.

But the eyes during the race will be on Roger McCluskey, the defending California 500 champion.

Not only will Roger try to be the first driver to win two California 500s, but he'll also be trying to cinch the National Driving Championship this year.

The 1,000 points the winner receives today would be all McCluskey would really need to win it all from second-place driver Billy Vukovich. After last Sunday's Twin 100 qualifying races, Roger extended his lead over Vuky to 955 points after coming to Ontario with an 805-point advantage.

The Tucson (Ariz) driver has been established as the favorite to win today, according to the choice of sportswriters across the country.

He received 24 votes from the Samsonite Triple Crown Sweepstakes panel, with Gary Bettenahausen two votes back. Mark Donohue and Mario Andretti were next on the list with 17 points each.

McCluskey will be starting on the inside of the third row next to Lee Kunzman and Al Unser.

Driving the blue and white Hopkins Buick McLaren-Offenhauser, Roger qualified at a speed of 198.238 miles an hour and finished second in the first heat of the Twin 100 qualifying races.

The winners of those two 100-mile qualifying races Sunday were Wally Dallenbach in the STP Oil Treatment Oil Filter Eagle-Offy and Johnny Rutherford in the Team McLaren-Offy.

Rutherford will be on the inside of row two, while Dallenbach will be in the middle of the same row. On the outside is Bettenhausen.

Revson won the pole position this year with the fastest average for a pole sitter in the history of auto racing—200.089 miles an hour.

The average was compiled after two laps around the 2.5 mile oval at Ontario instead of the traditional four laps which were conducted in the previous three years.

Bobby Unser, who had to qualify on the second day of time trials last year and again this year, holds the track record for one-lap and four-lap clockings.

Bobby blistered the OMS track at 201.965 miles an hour for one lap and averaged 201.374 miles per hour for the four laps. He also holds the all-time speed of 212.776 miles an hour when he qualified at Texas International Speedway in April of this year.

But again this time he'll have to do the chasing for the first part of the race— starting way back in the eighth row with Bentley Warren and John Martin.

Revson, though, isn't too excited about being on the pole. In the nine 500-mile races he has competed in during his racing career with USAC, Peter has been on the front row six times and on the pole three times.

Being on the pole at Ontario is a little different than being on the pole somewhere else.

"Being on the pole doesn't mean much in this race," he said. "Look at what they've done here in the past. They come from way back in the pack in this one."

That's an understatement.

Car owners and team managers held a closed-door meeting Saturday to discuss ways of upgrading the "design, performance, safety and finances" in the U. S. Auto Club circuit.

A brief statement after a preliminary meeting quoted the owners as being "interested in the general improvement of championship racing in this country."

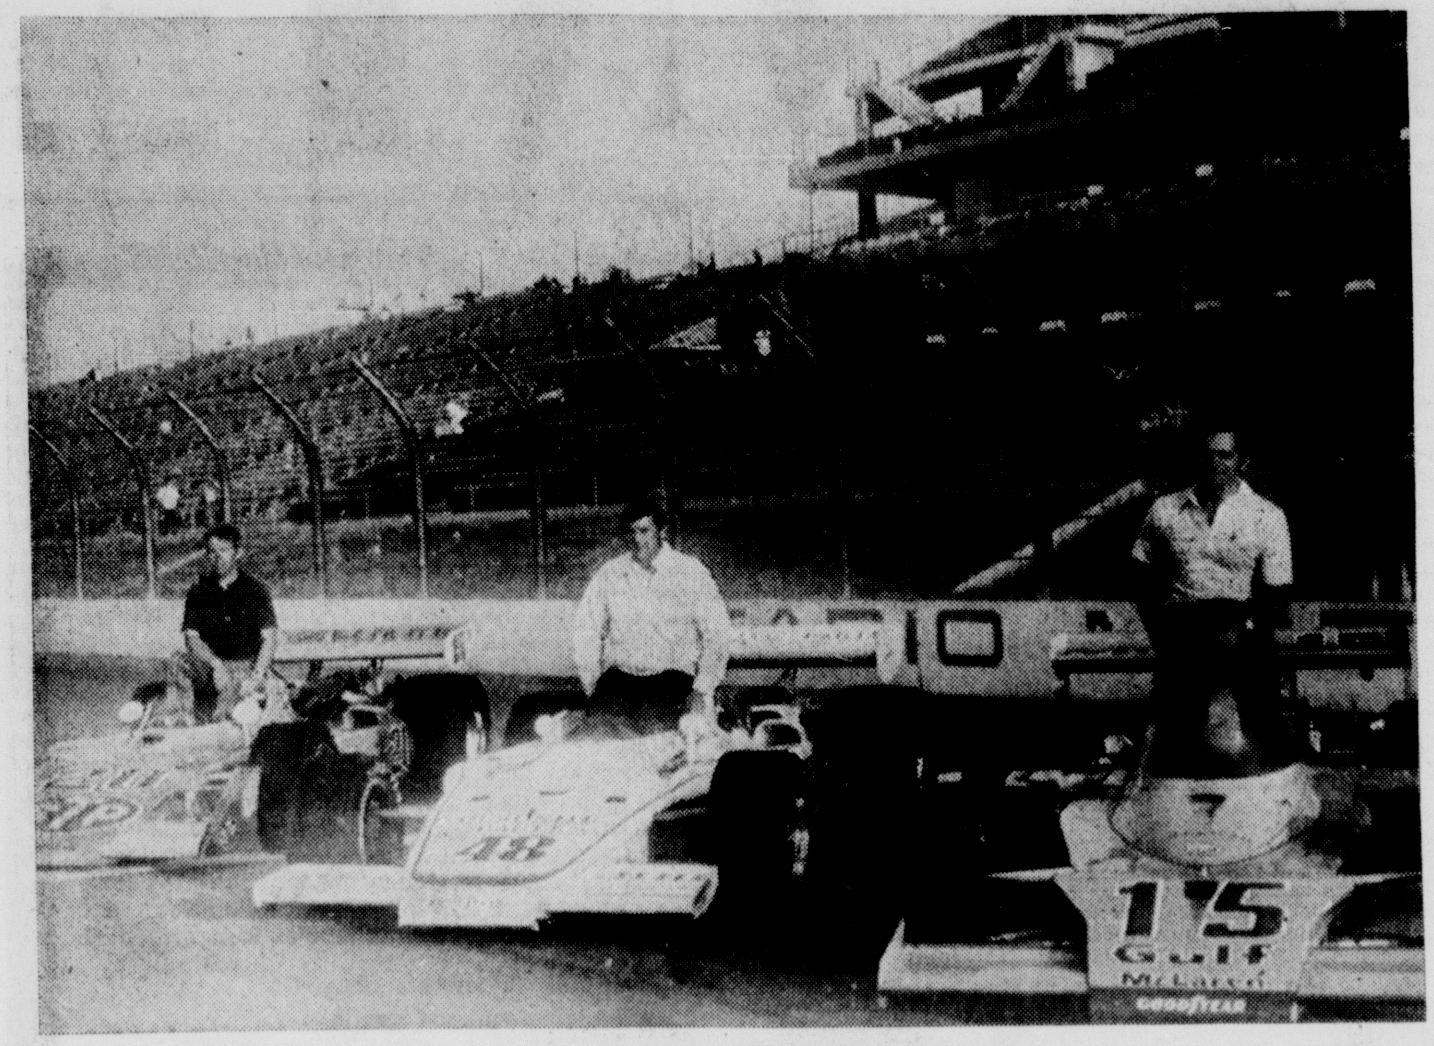
There was also a closed-door drivers meeting Saturday at the speedway.

A writers' breakfast was held in Claremont Saturday morning with a few drivers in attendance.

Since Norris Industries sponsored the breakfast, Norris drivers Sam Posey and Jim McElreath, the inaugural winner of the Cal 500, were there.

Posey, who is known to be very talkative, tried to pick a winner in today's race. "I'll have to pick Billy Vukovich," he said. "He tells me he doesn't have a chance. He said he didn't like how he qualified and where he's starting. It's only obvious he'll win the race."

Of course he was only joking, but don't be surprised if something like that happens today. It's already happened for three consecutive years at OMS.



CAL 500 FRONT ROW

When the green flag drops this morning at Ontario Motor Speedway, these three guys will lead the 33-car field through the first turn. The front row consists of Peter Revson (R, on the pole), Jerry Grant and Gordon Johncock (L). Revson averaged 200.089 miles an hour in qualifying.

Dodgers blanked by Reuss, 2-0

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Jerry Reuss pitched a six-hitter to give the Houston Astros a 2-0 victory Saturday night over the slumping Los Angeles Dodgers.

It was Reuss' 15th win against 10 defeats and his third straight over Los Angeles. He struck out four and walked only three.

Johnny Bench's two-run homer in the ninth inning gave Cincinnati a 3-2 win over the San Diego Padres and moved the Reds two games back of the Dodgers.

Houston scored its first run off loser Andy Messersmith, 11-0, in the second inning on singles by Doug Rader, John Edwards and Tommy Helms. Lee May made it 2-0 when he led off the fourth with his 23rd homer of the season.

Reuss stranded two runners in the fourth and survived two opening singles by Bill Russell and Steve Yeager in the fifth when he struck out Tom Paciorek with the bases full on a 3-2 pitch.

The Dodgers, who have been hit with injuries in recent weeks, had to take Dave Lopes out of the lineup when he suffered a muscle spasm in his back before the game. Then Messersmith had to leave after six innings due to pain from a pulled hamstring muscle.

Teenager upsets Laver at Forest Hills

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI) —Vijay Amritraj, a beanpole Indian from Madras, shattered the championship dreams of former titleholder Rod Laver when he upset the fourth-seeded Australian, 7-6, 2-6, 6-4, 2-6, 6-4, Saturday to reach the last 16 of the U.S. Open tennis championships.

The 19-year old Indian, who beat Laver in three sets at Bretton Woods, N.H., last month, whipped the 35-year old former world No. 1 player as a steady rain fell during the final set to make the already uncomfortable conditions all the more unbearable.

Amritraj attacked Laver throughout the match. His line passes matched those of the master, while he surrended nothing at the net and on the volley. There was nothing flukey about his victory. It was earned by his own endeavors, especially his returns of service.

The fifth set started in a steady drizzle and the first four games went against service.

When Laver broke for a 4-3 lead, it appeared he had finally gotten the match under control, but Amritraj broke right back for 4-4, then held service and then broke again in the 10th game for the match.

He reached match point with a backpoint return of service to Laver's feet, and then the Australian returned a volley long and it was all over.

Two other Australians, 38-year-old Ken Rosewall and 29-year-old John Newcombe, both advanced.

Rosewall, who won here in 1956 and 1970, had little trouble with Japan's Jun Kamiwazumi, 7-6, 6-1, 6-1, while Newcombe, who won here as an amateur in 1967, captured the battle of the "mustaches" from Romania's brooding Ion Tiriac, 7-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Allan Stone, a second flight Australian, upset 14th seeded Adriano Panatta of Italy, 7-5, 6-7, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Other seeds to advance in the bottom half of the draw were No. 7 Tom Okker of The Netherlands, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3, 6-4 over Brian Gottfried of Fort Lauderdale, Fla.; ninth-seeded Jimmy Connors of Belleville, Ill., 6-3, 6-4, 6-7, 6-2 over Charlie Pasarell of Los Angeles, and 16th pick Cliff Richey of Sarasota, Fla., who beat Raul Ramirez of Mexico, 6-2, 6-4, 6-7, 7-6, the first time in three matches he didn't have to go the full five sets.

Rhodesia's Andrew Pattison, who knocked off co first-seed Ilie Nastase of Romania in the previous round, Saturday defeated Charlie Owens of Tuscaloosa, Ala., 6-3, 6-4, 6-2.

The hard-serving, quick-moving Amritraj never faulted or lost his poise against Laver, even when the rocket flashed some of his finest vintage tennis. The crowd of 10,868 roared its approval to the sportsmanship of the teenager who always applauded Laver's finest shots.

The opening set saw Laver fall twice as he chased crosscourt passes and when it reached the tie-break, Amritraj won it five points to three, wrapping it up when Laver hoisted a top-spin lob over the baseline.

Laver broke for 1-0 in the second set, maintained the advantage although always under pressure and got another break in the seventh game. In the third set Amritraj got the bit in his teeth when Laver opened the ninth game with two double faults. The Indian got the break for the set. With dark clouds hanging over the stadium, Laver broke for 1-0 after five deuces and quickly reeled off the fourth set to square the set.

Disabled list for 2 Rams

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Rookie quarterback Ron Jaworski of Youngstown State and defensive end Jim Peterson of San Diego State have been placed on the temporary disabled list by the Los Angeles Rams Saturday.

Jaworski has a sore elbow and Peterson has a bad back. Placing them on the disabled list means they will not be permitted to play in the last preseason game against the San Francisco 49ers Friday.

Three shine in SC scrum

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Tailback Rod McNeill went 80 yards on a pitch play and quarterback Pat Haden hit flanker Lynn Swann with a five-yard scoring toss to highlight a 60-minute controlled scrimmage by University of Southern California Saturday.

The Trojan offensive regulars scored the first three times they had the ball, while the only touchdown scored against the first two defensive units came on an 80-yard pass-run play from quarterback Rob Hertel to wide receiver Dave Farmer.

The offensive regulars scored their other touchdown when fullback Ray Washmera plunged one-yard for the score.

Coach John McKay said, however, "We are far behind this time than last year. It is almost like being in another world."

Orta homer downs Angels, 7-5

CHICAGO (UPI)—Jorge Orta crossed up the California strategy by belting a two-run pinch-hit homer in the eighth inning Saturday night to lift the Chicago White Sox to a 7-5 triumph over the Angels.

Orta, a left-handed batter, was sent in to hit for Bucky Dent against right-handed reliever Dave Sells, but after Orta was announced manager Bobby Winkles replaced Sells with Steve Barber, a lefty.

Orta then slammed a 1-1 pitch into the upper deck of the rightfield stands to tag Rudy May with his 13th loss against seven wins.

The Angels had scored a run in the opening inning on singles by Sandy Alomar, Frank Robinson and a double by Bob Oliver.

Brian Downing's second homer of the year tied the score for the White Sox in the second inning.

A single by Alomar and a double by Robinson gave the Angels a 2-1 lead in the third but the Sox came back to take a 4-2 lead with a three-run fourth. The Angels scored three runs in their half of the fifth, two coming in on Oliver's bases-loaded single.

John Jeter's fifth homer of the year off May tied the score at 5-5 for the White Sox leading off the seventh.

Broncs impressive in final scrum

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Stafff Writer

POMONA — First impressions can either be beneficial or very costly.

After attending Cal Poly's fourth and final scrimmage of the preseason several things left impressions. Some good and some not so good.

The spirit of the camp continues to be a strong suit, with praise and encouragement to individuals from fellow players and coaches for achievement.

Most impressive was the entire defensive unit, which held the offense to minus yardage rushing and 144 yards passing.

While the entire defensive unit dominated the game-like scrum several individuals had standout performances Of the front four, tackles George Lucas and Collin Bromley brought expressions of delight from head coach Roy Anderson and newly acquired assistant defensive coach Mike Jones, who comes to Poly after serving under Chuck Mills at Utah State.

Lucas, who on several occasions could be found harrassing quarterbacks Jim Zorn and Randy Brown in the backfield, indicated exceptional football form for his freshman years. Throughout the one hour and 45 minute session the 5-9, 192 pounder fought off the offensive block, shot gaps, and either made or assisted on the tackles. As expected, Bromley, who is making a switch from linebacker to the line, appears to be fullfilling expectations ability. The two spearheaded a defensive charge that held the offense to seven first downs with two of those coming on penalties.

For the fourth straight scrimmage, linebackers Joe Diaz and Lonnie Mahi had fine showings. They displayed good pursuit, shrugged off blocks to fill holes and were in on most of the tackles.

From the secondary, veteran Paul Russell, freshman Rod Hiatt and junior Louie Perez looked good, holding the offense to just nine receptions in 29 attempts.

Perez intercepted a Brown misplaced aerial and retured it 30 yards for a touchdown.

The offense was completely stymied until their final two drives of the 68-play session.

Zorn was only able to complete 5 of 16 passes for 102 yards and a TD while Brown could only connect on 4 of 13. aerials for 42 yards and had two intercepted.

Zorn did combine with Ron Tatum for the only offensive score of the day, a 57 yard bomb.

While the young QB's Zorn is a junior and Brown a freshman, did appear to have off days, their receivers didn't help much as it least six passes were dropped.

The Broncs may have had their quarterback problem solved for them. Four signal-callers were vying for the No. 1 spot.

Dave Erikson was ruled out of the picture because of asthma problems, and now last year's backup QB Steve Rothblum has left the squad leaving the job up to Zorn and Brown.

With the departure of Rothblum, there are only six seniors left on the team.

"We had a good workout today (Saturday)," said Anderson. They worked hard, hit hard and continued to show progress in some areas. I just hope that the offense can pick up more of that defensive spirit."

U.S. water polo team whips Cuba

BELGRADE (UPI) —The U.S. Olympic bronze medal water polo team whipped Cuba 4-3 in an incident-filled opening match Saturday at the start of the first World Swimming Championships.

Paced by two goals from Peter Asch of Berkeley, Calif., the U.S. squad continued its winning streak against Cuba which stretches six years.

Although eight Cubans were suspended and one, Orlando Cowley, expelled from the game, there was no repetition of the fighting which took place the last time athletes from the two nations met in a stormy basketball battle at the World University Games in Moscow.

Eric Lindroth of Newport Beach, Calif., brought the United States back into the game in the second period after Carlos Sanchez had put the Cubans one up after only three minutes.

Asch scored once in the second period and again in the third and then Jon Svendsen of Orinda, Calif., wrapped it up at the end of the third quarter after Sanchez had scored his second goal.

Tereza Anderson capped the good American start in the championships by taking an almost unassailable lead after the compulsory stunts in the synchronized swimming.

In the team standings, however, Canada had the slight edge with five girls in the top eight.

A crowd of 2,000 watched the U. S. team begin its quest for the water polo gold medal which eluded it at Munich.

U.S. Coach Monte Nitzkowski said his team played exceptionally well.

"It was a tough game as we expected but we handled it well," he said.

The U.S. team used its own version of a full-court press to stifle the Cuban attack and even when it lost two players simultaneously through suspensions still managed to contain the Cubans.

The U.S. polo players escaped the illness which hit several members of the U.S. swimming team.

Wiechers takes GHO lead

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (UPI) —Chunky Jim Wiechers shot a steady but unspectacular five-under par 66 Saturday for a one-stroke second round lead in the Greater Hartford Open — but Arnold Palmer blasted out his best round of the year, a 65, and moved within two shots of the lead.

Lee Trevino, Billy Casper and Bruce Devlin all were tied for second, a stroke behind Wiechers and a shot in front of Palmer, after two rounds of the $200,000 tournament at Wethersfield Country Club.

Wiechers reached the midway point of the tourney with a 65-66--131, 11 strokes under par on the 6,583-yard course. First round leader Hubie Green lost control of his game on the back nine Saturday and finished with a 73 for a two-day total of 136, five back.

Wiechers, who dropped in five putts of 20 feet or more in the opening round, said he did nothing spectacular on his second trip around the course, but shot a steady game in which he "was a lot closer to the hole."

"I'm doing everything well in this tournament," said Wiechers, who at 6-foot-2 and 220 pounds is one of the biggest men on the PGA tour. "I think I missed just one green in two days and I didn't miss a fairway."

Wiechers said the mid-day heat, which again was in the mid 90s, helped him concentrate on his game. "I find that I force myself more to concentrate in the heat than I do on a cool day."

Trevino, the defending champion, went six under par at 65 to move within one stroke of the top with 132. His biggest shot of the day was a 3-wood that left him 10 feet from the hole for an eagle 3 on the 497-yard 14th hole.

He sank birdie putts of 2, 30, 6 and 20 feet and saved par on the 18th hole by chipping out of a bunker and tucking away an 18-foot putt.

"I made a couple of good ones out there today," Trevino said. "The greens are the best I've seen on the tour. You can throw the ball up there and they'll hold it."

Casper had a 65 Saturday and Devlin shot 67.

Palmer was grouped at 133 with John Schroeder, who also had 65, Gary Player, George Knudson and Don Bies.

Palmer caught the fancy of the gallery with his long putts that kept him in contention. "I made more long putts today than I have at any time this year," Palmer said. "This is the way I used to play all the time."

Palmer's best birdie putts came from 30 feet on the fifth hole, 25 on the eighth and 30 on the 11th.

"The big thing was that I left only one putt short of the hole all day," said Palmer, who complained Friday that he was short on far too many putts.

"I've been unsure of myself," he said. "I had a lack of confidence in my putting, but today I was getting the ball up to the hole."

Green, who carded an eight-under-par 63 Friday, remained in contention early Saturday with birdies on the fifth and sixth holes. But he faded quickly with consecutive bogeys on the 8th, 9th and 10th holes and still another bogey on No. 17.

Garner goes on with show despite injury

By MIKE RAWLINSON
P-B Staff Writer

ONTARIO — In thinking of all the ways there are to cause bodily harm to yourself, playing a leisurely game of golf doesn't immediately come to mind.

But it can happen. Just ask James Garner, the motion picture and television actor.

Garner was sailing along at even-par through nine holes in the Cal 500 Celebrity Invitational at Ontario National Golf Club Saturday when disaster struck.

On the 10th hole, Garner took a practice swing and dislocated his left shoulder. In true show business tradition, however, Garner went on with the show and finished the round, carding a gross 76 to finish in a tie for third with William Reynolds and Max Baer Jr. in the celebrity flight.

John Agar fired a 74 to take celebrity flight honors, and Don Lamond was second with a 75

It had been a busy week for Garner, who besides acting as tournament chairman, performed as grand marshall of the Cal 500 parade. And he is the honorary chief steward. (Gentleman, Start Your Engines) for today's race at Ontario Motor Speedway.

A record crowd joined celebrities in balmy weather for the fourth invitational tournament held at Ontario National in conjunction with the 500.

The top score of the day was a 69, shot bv Jim Ruziecki of the University of Southern California Golf team. Jack Garner (Jim's brother) had a 71.

Among the celebrities, Elgin Baylor, the former Laker great, won low net honors with a 64. Buddy Lester had a 65 for second and Tim Herbert carded a 66 for third.

In team scoring, Baylor's fivesome took honors with 111. The John Agar group was second, while midget actor Billy Barty's fivesome was third and the group led by actor Jim Davis was fourth.

Low net honors the guest flight went to Joe Trocino (72-13—59) of Riviera Countr Club. Second low as turned in by E. K. Jensen (80-18—62), who along with P-B editor Joe Gendron, was a member of the Jim Davis fivesome.

S. Fernando ends legion campaign

LEWISTON, Idaho (UPI) — Memphis, Tenn., scored early Saturday to defeat San Fernando, 6 4, and eliminate the Californians from the American Legion baseball World Series.

West Hartford, Conn., and Cincinnati met in the second game with the loser being eliminated. Portland, Ore., and Puerto Rico, the only undefeated teams remaining in the tournament, complete the triple-header Saturday night.

San Fernando tallied single runs in the first and third innings and rallied for two runs in the ninth inning.

K. Buchanan scores TKO over Malave

NEW YORK (UPI) —Former lightweight champion Ken Buchanan of Scotland, who helped capture two robbers a night earlier, scored a seventh round technical knockout over game but outclassed Chu Chu Malave in a bloody, nationally-televised junior welterweight bout Saturday.

Both fighters' faces were masks of blood when the bout was stopped, with Malave bleeding from cuts in the mouth, the nose and from over the eye. Buchanan ran into an unintentional butt in the fourth round that opened a cut over his left eye and left one side of his face a pool of blood for the remainder of the round.

Buchanan, still looking for a chance to regain the lightweight crown he lost to Roberto Duran of Panama in June 1972, was in complete command of Malave throughout. From the opening round, when Malave was on the verge of getting knocked out, Buchanan kept up a steady attack of vicious left jabs and right uppercuts.

Buchanan who weighed 137 ½, the heaviest of his career, still gave away 3 ½ pounds to Malave, the fourth ranking junior welterweight, but the extra weight in no way slowed down the speedy Buchanan.

After taking the first two rounds easily, Buchanan kept up the attack in the third round when he bloodied Malave's nose with four left jabs in a row. Buchanan also opened the cut over Malave's left eye in the fifth round and finally put down the game underdog for the first time early in the seventh round.

Malave arose but was unable to defend himself further from the aggressive Buchanan and referee Herb Krunowitz stopped the bout at 1:43 of the round to prevent Malave, a Puerto Rican now living in New York, from absorbing further punishment.

Friday night, Buchanan was returning to his hotel with his aunt, who was in town to watch the fight, when he noticed two thieves emerging from his aunt's room. He gave chase and with the help of the hotel detective, caught the two thieves in the lobby and restrained them there until police arrived.

The victory raised Buchanan's record to 49-2-0 and was his 19th knockout. Malave, an aspiring Broadway actor who abruptly quit boxing two months ago before returning to the ring, suffered his fifth loss against 21 victories and two draws.

Stadler, Strawn to finals

TOLEDO, Ohio (UPI) —Craig Stadler and David Strawn, a couple of young underdogs, advanced to the finals of the 73rd U.S. Amateur Championship Saturday with semifinal victories over two of the tournament's former champions.

Stadler, 20, of La Jolla, Calif., turned in a 3 and 1 victory over defending champion Vinny Giles of Richmond, Va., while Strawn of Concord, N.C., defeated 1964 winner Billy Campbell of Huntington, W.Va., 6 and 5.

Strawn, a third year law student at Furman University, and Stadler, a junior at the University of Southern California, both making their first Amateur appearances, meet Sunday in the 36-hole final.

Stadler, a mustachioed, 5-10, 205-pounder who outdrove Giles on most holes, got off to a flying start, winning the first three holes with a birdie and a pair of pars.

After that, it was all uphill for the 30 year-old Giles, who managed to cut the margin to one hole early on the back nine, but could never get any closer.

Giles, who beat A. Downing Gray 5 and 3 in the morning's quarterfinals, captured his first hole at the sixth when he hit his second shot three feet from the pin, took the ninth when he knocked in a six-foot putt while Stadler missed a two-footer and won the 10th when Stadler went into a bunker and blasted out 20 feet short of the pin.

Stadler, named to this year's All-American college golf team, said he had played well in stroke play all summer but had been having trouble in match play competition coming into the Amateur.

"I had been playing the man instead of the course," Stadler said. "Lately I've been playing the course and I think it's helped a lot."

Stadler said he was "very happy with my iron play" although he admitted his driving espcially late in the afternoon rounds gave him some problems. "I was hitting them every which way," he said.

In the quarterfinals, Stadler eliminated 1973 British Amateur champion Dick Siderowf of Westport, Conn., 2 and 1.

Campbell, 50, the 1964 Amateur champion, got off to a rocky start on the very first hole when he hit his drive under a three and had to lay out. He settled for a bogey five and lost the hole to Strawn's par, the first of five straight holes Campbell lost.

Strawn, who was seven-up at the turn, got a birdie three on the second hole with a 30-foot putt, then hit his drive on the 172-yard third hole three feet from the pin and made it for another bird.

The lead swelled to four on the fourth when Campbell, who was short of the green in two, chipped about 20 feet past the hole and failed to make his putt coming back as Strawn putted for a par.

Campbell drove into a small creek on the fifth hole and was forced to take a penalty stroke. He hit his third shot into the woods at the right of the green and made a miraculous recovery three feet past the cup and made a five. Strawn, however, was on in two and got his par.

Campbell had beaten Bill Kratzert III of Fort Wayne, Ind., 2 and 1 in the quarters while Strawn eliminated Henri Delozier of Crofton, Md., 2-up.

Bee sting causes crash at Pocono

MT. POCONO, Pa. (UPI) — Jody Scheckter, his right hand swollen from the effects of a bee sting, lost control of his Lola Saturday and crashed into a retaining wall at Pocono International Raceway while practicing for the Labor Day L&M race that could prove the clincher in the series for the South African driving ace.

Scheckter was stung last Thursday. He kept soaking his hand in a bucket of ice water to keep the swelling down during non-practice hours, but the grind was too much.

The 23-year-old flamboyant driver had just set a new track record of 114.39 miles an hour on the 1.8 mile track when he hit the wall. The front nose cone was ripped apart and the car suffered some slight front suspension damage. Two tires blew out on impact.

Scheckter had been driving a Trojan for most of the series, but after a fourth place finish at Road Atlanta, team manager Sid Taylor decided to switch to a Lola for Monday's important race.

Scheckter and Brian Redman of England are running 1-2 in the standings, with the South African leading, 120-90, in points. If Scheckter finishes third or higher he will clinch the title.

Mark Donohue, relying on air travel to speed him between coastal racing points, tries to crack this foreign domination. Donohue, driving in the Ontario (Calif.) 500 Sunday, jets east immediately after the race and has received special permission to qualify early Monday just prior to the Pocono feature. The 1972 Indianapolis winner currently leads the Can-Am competition and is fifth in this series.

Saturday's fastest time was recorded by Redman when he turned a lap in 115.71 following Scheckter's smash up.

Haynie still leads Charity Golf Classic

FT. WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Sandra Haynie birdied five holes in a row on Woodhaven Country Club's back nine Saturday to overcome early trouble and retain a two-stroke lead over Kathy Whitworth after the second round of the $30,000 LPGA Charity Golf Classic.

Miss Haynie, struggling on the front nine, caught fire on No. 12 with a birdie and then started her birdie string for a one-under-par 71 and 139 total for 36 holes.

Miss Whitworth, the second leading moneywinner on the LPGA tour, shot a 72 for a 141 total.

Another shot back at 142 were Beth Stone, Mary Mills, Judy Rankin and Carol Jo Skala. Joyce Kazmierski was at 143 and Sandra Palmer and Shelley Hamlin were at even-par 144. The third and final round will be played today.

Women still getting short end of economic stick in Britain

LONDON (UPI) —"By 1975 every woman in Britain will be getting equal pay with men," promised the British government's chief spokesman on labor relations.

The audience of women exploded into applause.

The year was 1970. The spokesman was red-haired Barbara Castle, at that time secretary for employment and productivity in the former British Labor party government. She was addressing the national Labor Women's Conference.

More than three years have passed since then. Under the program announced by Mrs. Castle and endorsed by Parliament a few months later, women by now should be earning 90 per cent of men's pay for equal work. By 1975 men's and women's pay was to have been completely equal.

In fact, British women are nowhere near achieving that goal.

Lost Hope?

Income Data Services, an organization that monitors industrial pay, reported recently that out of 84 industries it checked, 49 still are paying women less than 90 per cent of men's wages.

At the beginning of this year the average women in Britain earned a little over 20 pounds ($50) weekly. The average man earned somewhat over 33 pounds, or $82.50.

"Unless the whole program is speeded up, equal pay by December, 1975, is a lost hope," reported Income Data Services.

Mrs. Doreen Tomlin, 44, a state registered nurse of Berkshire, announced she and friends plan to form a new political party dedicated to equality for women.

"It is something in which I believe very strongly and I think the only way to change the general attitude and bring about changes is through a political party," she said.

Began in 1964

Mrs. Tomlin turns her back on "Women's Lib."

"It is a derisory term and not treated with much respect by men," she said.

The equal pay fight in Britain began in earnest in 1964, when the Labor party made it official policy. In 1969 Harold Wilson, at that time Prime Minister, publicly pledged equal pay for women.

In the spring of 1970 Parliament approved legislation promising "gradual progress" toward equal pay. At that time only one million of the 8.5 million women employed in Britain earned the same as men.

The government said the equal pay legislation would add 30 per cent to industry's payroll. But it said if this were spread over five years it should cause no major hardships.

Employers' tricks

The Conservative party government adopted the policy when it took office in June, 1970, but the Ministry of Employment says that instead of closing the gap, industry is using every conceivable trick and loophole to avoid putting women on an equality with men.

The tricks, it says, include "segregating" women in separate departments so they have less chance of finding out what men earn, re-grading jobs and reserving the lowest-paid posts for women.

Recently, the ministry mailed 400,000 leaflets to employers urging them to quit stalling and to start paying women on an equal basis.

Harold Walker, an opposition Labor party spokesman on employment, plans to introduce an anti-discrimination bill into Parliament in an effort to close loopholes.

None of this has impressed Mrs. Tomlin and others like her. "We seem to have heard all this before," is their reaction.

Find a truck stop

How to eat cheaply -- and well -- in France

PARIS (UPI) —It's a little restaurant in the east of Paris, the kind you might call a hole-in-the-wall, and it could be out of a French movie about truckdrivers.

As a matter of fact, most of the customers are truckdrivers. And outside the door hangs a red and blue sign that says, "Relais Routiers", or truckdrivers' stop.

In this land of Maxim's and luxury champagne, the hottest type of restaurants this season for tourists have been the eateries rated by a special guidebook for truckdrivers.

The 4,450 restaurants and inns around France carrying the sign "Relais Routiers" may not have fine white tablecloths or expensive brandy in the sauces, but they offer two advantages hard to find in France—low prices for tourists plagued with inflation or devalued dollars and a friendly, oldfashioned French atmosphere.

Out in front of "Au Rendezvous des Routiers", (Truckdrivers Rendezvous) on Rue Beaubourg in the east of Paris one recent day, diners swigged wine at little outdoor tables and an old fellow played an accordion.

Price right

Inside, a man at the bar, stripped to the waist, roared with laughter as he told a joke to the bartender in his big, blue apron. Hefty waitresses twirled among the tables with remarks to the eaters that indicated they had known each other for years.

That day you could have a hardboiled egg, nicely presented on lettuce with a vinegar sauce and chopped parsley, as a starter. Then came tender, juicy, roasted chicken with a heap of watercress on the side. Dessert was a bowl of chopped fresh fruit, or you could have cheese. All that, including a quarter of a bottle of red wine and the tip, was exactly eight francs, or $1.90.

The same simple meal in a more elegant restaurant in a plush neighborhood would come to more than double that price.

What is even more attractive to some tourists, a customer in a truckdrivers' stop is not likely to tangle with unfriendly French. Foreign tourists who are lost or have flat tires are helped by the truckdriver customers.

"Everybody who comes here knows each other. It has a family atmosphere", said one customer at the truckdrivers' hangout on the Rue Beaubourg.

Started in 1934

The "Routiers" system is not new. It celebrates its 40th anniversary next year. The truckdrivers' restaurant organization was started in 1934 by a Paris sports writer who thought roadside eating places and hotels should be organized for drivers who make long hauls at night.

For years the Routiers' Restaurant and Hotel Guidebook was published only for truckdrivers. Only since 1968 has it been sold to the public. And this tourist season it "took off" as a wild success for bargain meals because of inflation and tourists suffering from dollar devaluations.

The editor of the Routiers 350-page restaurant guide, Thierry de Saulieu, son of the sport writer founder of the Routiers organization, said "many tourists say they travel quickly through France because it is so expensive. We often see foreign tourists eating sandwiches in their cars by the road. The truckdrivers' stops are a better solution."

Truckdrivers themselves serve as inspectors for the restaurants. The rule is a restaurant has to serve a good meal costing no more than between eight and 13 francs, and offer a warm welcome.

Last bistros

The 13 franc meals often take off on flights of gastronomic splendor. The Du Coq Bressan, a truckdrivers' restaurant in the village of Piolliat, serves a chicken souffle. Le Beau Site on a highway near Paris offers lobster quenelles (patties of chopped lobster) and omelettes with mushrooms, food of a sort that can be commanded at a three-star food place in Paris.

The Paris newspaper France Soir calls the truckdrivers' stops "the last authentic bistros of France". Even Brigitte Bardot has her favorite truckdrivers' stop near Aix-en-Provence.

The only sad note as you eat your eight franc feast is in remembering what the price was a few years ago when it was three francs, or just 60 cents American.

Mail against Liberty Bell moving 100-1

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Although he says his mail is running "100 to 1" against moving the historic Liberty Bell from Independence Hall, Mayor Frank L. Rizzo said the bell should be moved.

However, one question still remained: Where to move it?

Two weeks ago Rizzo said he was opposed to moving the 220-year old symbol, but made a walking tour of the site proposed by the Independence Historical Park Advisory Commission.

Rizzo rejected the site, three blocks from the bell's present location, and said he favors a location on Independence Mall directly in front of the hall. The commission's suggested location is also on the mall.

The mayor's change of heart came after he saw a large number of tourists attempting to see and touch the bell.

"It's a tough decision to make," he said. "My mail is 100 to 1 against moving it."

Commission Chairman Arthur Kaufman announced Aug. 16 plans to move the bell to a proposed new visitors' center on the mall. He said the state of Pennsylvania, which owns the site where the bell would be relocated, and the National Park Service had agreed to the move.

Stock prices attract some buying interest

By LEE MITGANG
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) —Stocks, battered for weeks by investor apathy in the face of economic uncertainties, finally attracted some buying this week after prices had reached bargain-basement levels. Volume remained light, however, on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average gained 24.08 to 887.57. In the previous four weeks, the index of 30 blue chips had sagged some 73 points. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index shot up 2.48 to 104.10. The NYSE index rose 1.46 to 55.64.

Participation in the rise was broad. Advances topped declines, 1,315 to 459, among 1,957 Big Board issues traded.

Turnover showed little improvement over the slow pace of the last few months. Many analysts pointed out, however, the pre-Labor Day week typically is one of the dullest of the year on Wall Street. Volume totaled 59,889,299 shares, compared with 53,814,460 the week earlier, and with 59,446,675 the year before.

"If you look for outside causes to explain this rally, you won't find any," according to Monte Gordon of Dreyfus Corp. He and many other market observers looked primarily to technical —or internal—market factors, and concluded the obvious: after taking a beating tor months, prices had become too good to resist.

Playing on that same theme, some concluded the market had reached a "bottoming phase," in which the widely-followed averages would establish themselves in a zone of support until —on some given outside signal —they would make their upward move.

Use point scoring system in making new home selection

POMONA — A family seeking a new home recently developed a point scoring system.

Members had so many arguments about what was most important about the house they wanted that they had to bring order into the chaos, said James Odom, president of the Pomona Valley Board of Realtors.

"The two boys were tennis buffs, so being near courts brought a few pleas. Their sister was only eight, so the parents gave high ranking to closeness to a school they liked, and a neighborhood with possible playmates.

"The husband didn't want to be too far from his work. He hated commuting. The wife eyed distance to shopping," he added.

After a few "near finds" that ended in tears and hurt feelings, they settled on the point system. They listed first all of the qualities every member of the family wanted, and asked that member to rank each on a scale of 10.

"Surprisingly, when each one began rating, particularly the children, they were influenced by the desires they already knew the others had. They made concessions without being asked."

The house they finally found and bought was just what was expected—a compromise. "Of course, such considerations as price, number of rooms, and other facts that cause no argument had to be settled first, and in those the children had no voice," said Odom.

"In my work as a Realtor, I find that families sometimes need such a soul searching to really learn what they want. Even then, the emotional experience of selecting a house for the future can take unexpected turns that have little relationship to points or other such logical methods.

"The loser on points can be the winner on charm and happiness for the family living there. And who can say that's illogical?" he asked.

Carriage Square West holds opening today

UPLAND — The Carriage Square West will hold its grand opening today.

"The model homes are completed. They're sparkling clean. And we are ready to offer quick occupancy on the limited number of homes we have here,'' said Dale McPhetridge of Key Realty, the sales agent.

"Only 24 homes have been built, so this is a choice development with plenty of individuality for each of the homes."

Each house has four bedrooms with two or two and a half bathrooms. The minimum size is 2,290 square feet of living area. Lots are up to a half acre in size.

"Everyone wants to know he can install a pool, and that's no problem on any lot here,' said McPhetridge.

The one and two story homes were developed by Jackson Development Co.

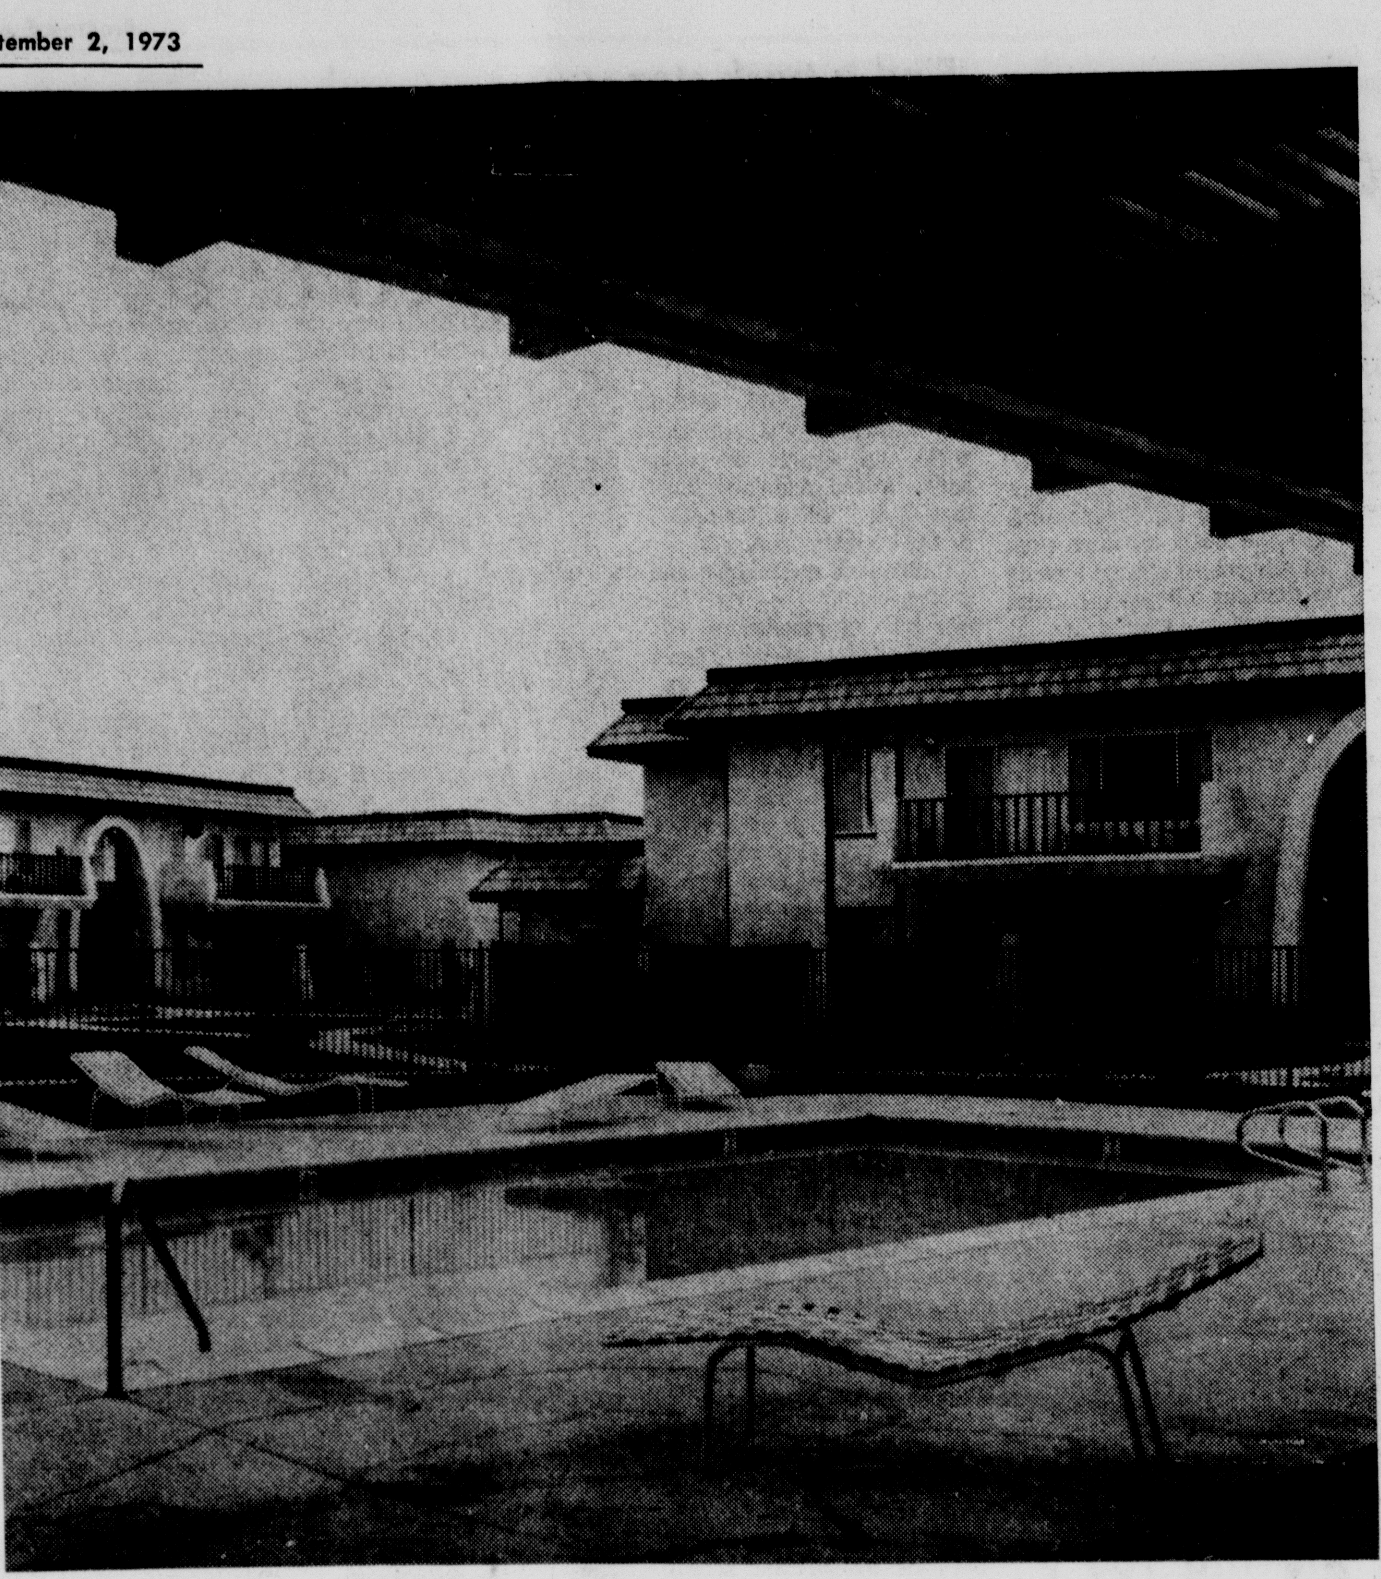
They are priced from $45,450 to $47,800. Financng can be arranged with a 10 per cent down payment.

The homes include central air conditioning, forced air heating, insulated exterior walls and ceilings, nylon carpet in the living room, dining room, family room, hallways and all bedrooms. Vinyl floors are located in the kitchens, breakfast rooms and bathrooms. The front entry hall floors are of ceramic tile.

The medallion kitchens have double ovens, dishwashers, disposals and hardwood cabinets. These also have cold water lines for icemaking refrigerators.

Bathrooms have cultured marble pullmans and ceramic tile shower areas.

Each family room has a wood-bruning fireplace with a raised hearth. Homes are wired for cable television. Phone jacks are standard.



LEISURE LIVING — A heated swimming pool, hydrotherapy pool, and gas barbecues are some of the leisure time amenities offered at the Los Arnolitos apartments soon to open in La Verne.

Lewis Homes:

Buyers see advantage in home price freeze

UPLAND — Home shoppers are taking advantage of current prices and interest rates by buying homes in the new Prestige Series here, said Richard Lewis, builder.

They are buying now without waiting for our grand opening.

The homes, located near San Antonio Avenue and 21st Street, are priced from $38,000. Buyers are offered financing at 7¾ths per cent interest.

The house are air conditioned. Some have powder rooms and three car garages.

Similar financing terms prevail at the Lewis Homes-Upland community at Mountain Avenue, said Lewis.

Prices there are from $28,950, just as they were during Phase III's frozen price period, he added.

noted at Lewis Homes—Alta Loma, a new development which opened at Beryl Avenue north of Base Line Road. The three and four bedroom homes are priced from $25,450.

"Just how long the firm can continue to adhere to the Phase III scale is unpredictable, said Lewis. "It has put us in a great competitive position in the residential home development market.

''However, constantly mounting building costs and higher interest demands by lending institutions are apt to force us to reexamine our prices and terms.

"The public understands that. That's why the hurry to buy now," he added.

Sales offices and model homes are open daily and also evenings by appointment.

LaVerne complex is nearing completion

LA VERNE — The second phase of Los Arbolitos adult apartment community here is nearing completion and applications for rentals of the 120 units are being accepted.

The community, developed by Fredricks Development Corp., is located on Foothill Boulevard west of Garey Avenue.

Renters have their choice of four floor plans, including one and two bedrooms. These are offered either furnished or unfurnished. Some units have dens.

The two bedroom units also have two bathrooms. The rents range from $155 to $220 a month, which includes natural gas and water utilities.

The luxury apartments feature central air conditioning, central heating, deep shag carpets, drapes and a private patio or balcony.

Kitchens include luminous ceilings, double sink with disposals and built-in gas ranges and ovens. Fully equipped laundry rooms are located throughout the development.

The project also has a heated swimming pool, hydrotherapy pool, gas barbecues and landscaped dining and conversation areas.

The apartments are managed by the Ankirk Development Corp. Rental offices are located at 1849 Foothill Blvd.

Survey indicates:

Interest rate increase creates minor 'draining'

WASHINGTON — A national survey indicates that banks have increased their interest rates for savers without draining a significant amount of funds from other financial institutions.

The American Bankers Association (ABA) polled the 110 bankers on its governing council, who represent banks of all sizes and types throughout the nation. They were asked about developments since July 5 when financal institutions were permitted to pay more interest to savers.

"This survey illustrates that banks are exercising their new freedom to the benefit of their customers and to the detriment of nobody," said Eugene H. Adams, ABA president.

"The survey also indicates that bank's commitment to all its customers, including home buyers, is remaining firm during the current period of tight money."

Of the 93 council members who responded, 60 reported modest gains in savings and time deposits. In each case, all or virtually all the gain was attributed to transfers from other bank accounts. Twenty five bankers, however, said very small portions of their increases came from savings and loan institutions or mutual savings banks.

Sixty-seven of the responding bankers reported decreases in passbook savings deposits since July 5.

Adams said the survey also indicated no substantial reduction in bank mortgage lending activities despite the scarcity of money. Only 30 of the bankers reported any reduction in their housing-mortgage commitments, closings or home construction financing activities.

Adams said the money scarcity was the chief reason for decreases in mortgage lending. Another factor, he said, was that usury laws in some states hold the interest that financal institutions can charge to a rate below what they must pay to obtain funds.

He also reported that interest rates on home mortgages in most parts of the country are far below the prime rate charged to large commercial and industrial borrowers.

Adams said the survey produced no evidence that a rollback in savings interest ceilings would benefit housing. "To the contrary," he said, "a rollback would force funds to flow out of all financial institutions and into other investments, and this would deprive the housing market of funds.

"A rollback would also be unfair to the saving public," he said.

In an earlier ABA survey conducted Aug. 6 among 50 banks, Adams said, of 42 banks responding, 14 reported lower passbook savings totals while 17 reported gains for their higher yielding certificates of deposits.

Of the banks reporting funds gains, 12 indicated their major source of funds resulted from the transfer of deposits within the bank itself. While several respondents were able to identify funds as having come from other commercial banks, only two were able to identify a funds gain at the expense of a thrift institution, he reported.

JIM DISTELRATH

Distelrath wins July sales award

POMONA — Jim Distelrath, a salesman for the Herbert Hawkins Co. office here, has received an award for making the greatest number of realty sales in the Pomona area during July.

John Kelly of the Title Insurance and Trust Co. presented him a plaque on behalf of the Pomona Valley Board of Realtors' multiple listing service at a breakfast meeting held at the Mission Family Restaurant.

Distelrath, born in Michigan and a California resident since 1953, has been in the real estate business for 12 years. He is a charter member of Elks Lodge 1996 in West Covina. He has lived in Chino for seven years.

Sales top $4 million in June

POMONA — Real estate sales handled through the Pomona Valley Board of Realtors multiple listing service totaled 185 transactions and a $4,889,882 volume during June. June.

This compares to 188 transactions and a $4,599,935 volume in June of 1972.

Sales for the period of Jan. 1 to June 30 is $25,490,571, down slightly from $27,998,750 for the same period last year.

The average price of houses sold through the multiple listing service in June was $26,467. Fourteen of the total sales were for homes selling for more than $40,000.

Villa LaVerne

Lease purchase plan offered at condominium

LA VERNE — Villa La Verne, a condominium development, is offering a lease purchase plan which allows families to move into their new homes on approval of credit and save their down payment money while living there.

The plan is ideal for families now renting, officials said. The full price of the two bedroom, one and two story homes, is $17,995. Monthly payments are often lower than rentals.

The community was developed by the McKeon Construction Co.

Prices include wall-to-wall carpeting, forced air heating, air conditioning, built-in electrical kitchens, swimming pool, cabana and recreation area.

The exterior maintenance, gardening and upkeep of the common grounds is done by professionals and administered by a homeowners association.

Each home has a private entrance for privacy. Covered parking, underground utilities and laundry rooms are provided.

The development is close to both parochial and public schools, colleges and churches. Residents may also find bus service to Pomona, Los Angeles and Pasadena.

Furnished model homes and a sales office are open daily from 10 a.m. until dusk. These are located on White Avenue near Foothill Boulevard.

Sales increase at Upland condominium

UPLAND — Sales at Orchard Lanes 134-home second phase has passed the 50 per cent mark.

The $4.5 million condominium development is located near Fredricks Lane and Spencer Avenue.

"Visitor traffic in recent weeks has shown a sharp increase, and the homes are selling at a record pace," said Jim Noever, sales manager.

"They are most attracted by the homes unusual one story design and the variety of exteriors," he added. "Eight different contemporary and Spanish elevations are offered."

The homes, priced from $19,900, feature quality construction and a variety of comfort amenities, with emphasis on privacy and individuality, said Noever.

The homes include wood-beam cathedral ceilings, large private patios, wall-to-wall shag carpeting, decorator drapes, central air conditioning and heating, and many have fireplaces.

The color-coordinated kitchens include built-in gas ranges and ovens, double sinks with disposals, dishwashers, luminous ceilings and pantries. An inside laundry area adjoins the kitchen.

For outdoor living, the community has a heated swimming pool, hydrotherapy pool and landscaped "greenbelts" and conversation areas. All exterior replacement and maintenance are included in the monthly payment.

La Linda Homes has furnished home open

FONTANA — A furnished model home will be open today at La Linda Homes development here.

The community of 14 homes is located near Fairview Road and Blanchard Avenue.

"The model home emphasizes the complete home package of luxury extras included in the purchase price of every La Linda home," said Richard Hall, president of La Linda Estates, builder.

"Air conditioning is just one of the many features which make up our package of extras," he added. "Others include deluxe-equipped kitchens, dishwashers, shag carpeting, draperies and fencing."

Buyers will have a choice of three distinctive floor plans, with two, three or four bedrooms and one or two bathrooms.

Prices start at $24,500, with conventional financing terms available.

Featured at La Linda is the "Granada Plan" which won a National Association of Home Builders Gold Nuggett Award in an earlier La Linda Homes development.

The La Linda sales office is located in the model home at 7812 Blanchard Ave. Eight of the homes are on Blanchard Avenue, flanking Fairview Road, a cul-de-sac street which contains the other six homes.

Visitors may reach the site from the San Bernardino Freeway go going north on Sierra Avenue, east on Foothill Boulevard, north on Palmetto Avenue, west on Reed Street and north on Blanchard to Fairview.

Seminar set on Wednesday

COVINA — The American Home and Associates will host a free real estate career night seminar Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at 263 E. Rowland St.

Jerry Weislow, American Homes vice president and director of sales training, will conduct the training program which the firm offers to licensed and unlicensed men and women considering a career in real estate sales.

Company executives and sales managers will also attend and be available after the meeting for informal discussions. The meeting is open to the public at no cost. Refreshments will be served.

Impeachment

The House of Representatives has the power to impeach federal officials and the Senate conducts the trial. Conviction requires a two-thirds Senate vote.

Training director is named

ONTARIO — David Butler, manager of the Herbert Hawkins Realtors office in Ontario, has been appointed the firm's director of training.

His new job will cover both sales and management training. Butler has been with the firm for three years and was instrumental in developing the company's sales training examination recently approved for college credit through Chapman College.

He is a graduate of USC and holds a law degree from Blackstone School of Law in Chicago. Butler, an associate broker, has been active in the Upland-Ontario-Chino Board of Realtors, the California Real Estate Association, and the Ontario Planning Commission.

17 designs offered at development

CHINO — Buyers have their choice of three and four bedroom homes at the Princess Del Chino, with prices starting at $26,950.

These homes include such kitchen applicances as continuous-cleaning ovens, disposals and dishwasher; wall-to-wall capreting; storage cabinets; concrete patios.

The master bedroom suites also have private bathrooms and large closets.

"Home buyers have 17 different exterior designs to choose from, and the builder has arranged the single story homes for maximum privacy for each family, said Hal Pease of Colwell Properties, Inc.

"With nine floor plans, buyers can really find the home that suits their needs. And the moderate price is a real boon to budget-conscious families," he added.

The residential community is located near Mountain and Chino avenues. Dispaly model homes are open daily.

Briton urges international grain reserve

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An international grain reserve designed to help ward off future famines could be built up over five years at an initial cost of about $750 million, a British economist estimates.

The tentative plan, suggested in a study by Prof. Timothy Josling of the London School of Economics, is the latest entry in a wave of world-wide discussion of grain reserves. International interest in the subject has been revived by the fact that grain supplies around the world are tight this year, leaving poor nations hardpressed to feed their people at current record prices.

Among other groups talking about ways and means to deal with future years in which farm production may drop, as it did in 1972, is the UN Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO). By the end of this year, the FAO is expected to produce recommendations for international cooperation in maintaining reserve stocks, and Josling said he hopes his study will make "a timely contribution" to debate on the issue.

The Josling study, commissioned and published by the British North American Committee, was released here by the National Planning Association, one of the participants in the committee. The committee, in a foreword, conceded that the world's nations "may not yet be willing or able" to make a strategic grain reserve program work. It said, however, that if a reserve is established, the contributing "rich" countries should own the grain, fix policies for its use and determine where it should be stored.

Joseling, in his report, added that needy nations which draw from the proposed reserve during emergencies would decide how to distribute the grain, and would pay for it in their own currencies. Such a policy would hold down inflation in needy-nation food costs during periods of short supply, he said.

Ironically, Josling said, one of the factors pointing to an increased need for creating international food reserves is the "Green Revolution" —the rapid rise in grain yields due to growing use of improved varieties and irrigation in developing nations. The very factors which have increased production have made crops more susceptible to sudden disasters from plant diseases and water shortages, he said.

Josling's tentative suggestion for a future reserve program calls for beginning a stock buildup after world grain production begins to rise above current needs, a development many experts think may begin next year.

The reserve, Josling said, might be designed to meet 80 per cent of the gap between world output and needs in "all but the very worst years." As a beginning, he said, efforts could be made to build a stock of 5 million tons of wheat and 5 million tons of rice.

Social group giving blood

POMONA — The Inland Empire Social Group, made up of people throughout the Pomona Valley, has established a blood bank at the Red Cross station here.

The blood bank is open for the public use, according to group president Bob Haar.

The group explained the purpose of the bank and its future last week at the Alibi East Show Bar at Second Street and San Antonio Avenue.

Anyone interested in donating blood should go to the Red Cross and make their donation in the name of the Group.

SOLITUDE
ESCAPE TO 11 ACRES OF WOODSY PINES!

Here's a secluded kind of apartment luxury living that you haven't seen before.

It's uniquely different, because The Pines has created 11 tranquil acres where you can stroll amid the pine trees. Get back to nature! Play 9 holes on our putting green, have a picnic, or just be plain old lazy.

At The Pines, you are just a stones throw from Montclair Plaza, minutes away from hospitals and medical facilities.

All apartments are fully carpeted and centrally air-conditioned. Closets are large and easily accessible. Kitchens are fully modern. There's a separate garden patio for each apartment. Carports have convenient storage compartments.

Come to The Pines—and we'll introduce you to a whole new way of life!

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY—While having a garage sale the children were trying so hard to be helpful that the customers were falling over them. We finally decided to have a minigarage sale and give the kids their own small table. They filled it with unwanted items of their own (toys, books and so on).They sat in one place, leaving spaces clear for the customers. They made their own change and learned a little about retail selling in the process. The kids were thrilled when they learned they had made a little money.—SHARON McB.

Polly pays $1.00 for every idea used. Send them to her, c/o this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY—I have a fish aquarium and found it difficult to keep live plants on the rocks in the bottom. The fish nibbled on them and the plants also came loose and would float to the top until I fastened some small fishing weights to the ends of the plants. No more plants floating on the top of the water in my aquarium!—D. S. F.

DEAR POLLY—When I make a casserole, meat pies, etc., I always fill an individual container or even two to give to someone in time of need or to an elderly neighbor. If this food is not needed right away, freeze it and take out when wanted. I also make something extra to give away each time I bake.—HELEN

DEAR POLLY—Here's how to keep the lids of salt and pepper shakers from sticking: Lay a square of waxed paper on top of an open shaker, replace the lid and turn back and forth. Move the paper over and repeat four or five times. Remove the waxed paper and replace the lid. This also is good for sugar dispensers.—MRS. J. A. L.

DEAR POLLY—Those coupons we save to get a few cents discount on various items are hard to find when an item is to be bought. I file mine in a box in letter envelopes that are marked by categories such as beverages, packaged mixes, etc., and they're easy to find when I shop.—DOROTHY

DEAR POLLY—I have seven kids in the house so there used to be quite a hassle over whose turn it was to get the prizes that come in cereal boxes. I have solved this bickering by taking them all myself to save for use at birthday parties. I never have to buy any prizes for games or favors. They really accumulate fast in a family the size of ours.—C. L.

DEAR POLLY—When cupboard doors will not stay closed, put a thumbtack on the edge of such a door, adjust it to the proper length and the door will stay closed.—PAM

DEAR POLLY—You can easily improvise a portable grill with your wheelbarrow. The only materials needed are a metal wheelbarrow, wire mesh for the fire basket and grill and wire hooks to fasten the grill on. This works just great.—MYRTLE

MOM! THE SALES SLIP ISN'T IN THE DESK WHERE I PUT IT··· I WON'T BE ABLE TO RETURN MY DRESS!
GEORGE, YOU CLEANED OUT THE DESK RECENTLY! I HOPE YOU DIDN'T THROW THAT SLIP AWAY!
OH, HE MUST HAVE, MOM! I LOOKED IN EVERY DRAWER TWICE···!
GEORGE, LIL'S IN A HURRY··· IF YOU KNOW WHERE THE SLIP IS, WILL YOU GET IT QUICKLY?
BOY! DOES THAT GRIND ME!
YOU TWO STAND THERE ALL HUFFY AND PUFFY AND CONDEMN ME BEFORE I CAN EVEN OPEN MY MOUTH···
···AND THEN YOU EXPECT ME TO JUMP LIKE A PUPPET AND GET IT FOR YOU RIGHT NOW!
WELL, I'M SORRY, BUT I'M NOT JUMPING TODAY!
I DO KNOW WHERE YOUR SALES SLIP IS, BUT I'M NOT GOING TO TELL YOU···
YOU CAN JUST WAIT A BIT!
I'LL GET IT MYSELF, AS SOON AS I TAKE CARE OF A LITTLE TASK IN THE BASEMENT···

HEH-HEH! ALL ACCORDING TO PLAN!
THEY'RE ON THEIR WAY TO A LABOR DAY EXHAUSTIVE 'REST'!
I'VE GOT NEWS FOR YOU, LAZYBONES! YOU'VE MISSED BUSTER'S BOAT TO THE ANNUAL LABOR DAY BLAST YOU VULTURES HOLD!
AND I'VE A SURPRISE FOR YOU, M'DEAR!
WITH MY WINN-- I MEAN RETURNS OF A FINANCIAL COUP--WE'LL TAXI TO THE PARK WITH THIS DISPOSABLE BAG OF GASTRONOMICAL DELIGHTS, AND THEN--
I WON'T EVEN PINCH MYSELF TO SEE IF I'M DREAMING!
WE'LL LET THIS COLLATION COOL A FEW HOURS AND THEN DEPART! MEANWHILE-- ONE MORE CHORE!
THAT NIGHT:
WHAT A DAY! AND IT'S STILL 85 DEGREES UNDER THE MOON!
YEAH! THAT'LL TEACH AMOS! HE WAS CRAZY TO MISS THIS BASH!
WHAT'S GOOD FOR MOSQUITO BITES ON MOSQUITO BITES?

WHY DON'T WE INVEST IN ONE OF THE NEW, BIG 12-INCH SCREENS?
DON'T GET SMART, GLADYS!
HELLO, HERB? BRUTUS HERE! ARE YOU WATCHING THE GAME?
YEAH...
LET ME KNOW WHAT I'M MISSING! MY TV JUST BLEW AND I'M GOING TO FIX IT!
YOU'D BETTER CALL CLANCY...HE'S OPEN TILL 10!
NICE TRY, HERB, BUT I'M NOT PAYING YOUR UNCLE AN ARM AND A LEG FOR SOMETHING I CAN DO MYSELF!
BUT, ARE YOU SURE YOU-- HELLO? HELLO?
THERE WE GO... NOW A PIECE OF FOIL ON THE BASE OF THIS TUBE AND... VOILA!

THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:
[illegible] "HOW DO SEEDLESS ORANGE TREES GROW?"

ORANGES ARE SELDOM GROWN FROM SEEDS TODAY. A COMMON WAY OF GROWING NEW SEEDLESS ORANGE TREES IS BY BUD GRAFTING. IF A STEM BUD OF A SEEDLESS ORANGE TREE IS CAREFULLY INSERTED INTO A SLIT MADE IN THE BARK OF A YOUNG CITRUS TREE, THE ORANGE TWIG WILL GROW INTO A NEW SEEDLESS ORANGE TREE. GRAFTING IS IMPORTANT IN GROWING OTHER FRUITS THAT HAVE LOST THEIR POWER TO PRODUCE SEEDS, SUCH AS SEEDLESS GRAPES AND GRAPEFRUIT.

CUTE?!
YES, AND YOU WOULD, TO, IF YOU HADN'T BEEN HIT ON THE HEAD WITH ONE OF THEM!
OH! OH! HEADS UP!!
WHAT IS IT?
IT'S MORE OF THOSE DANG ROCKS!
WHAT DOES IT SAY, YOUR HIGHNESS!
IT SAYS, 'LOVE YOUR NEIGHBOR'!
IF HE DOES, I'LL BREAK THAT ROCK RIGHT OVER HIS SKULL!
WHAT'S THAT ONE GOT ON IT?
THIS ONE? IT SAYS 'YOUR FEET ARE NICE'...
...'EVEN IF THEY ARE BIG'!
WHY, THE NERVE OF THAT KING TUNK! BIG FEET, INDEED!

Now! Sears Guarantees Every Highway Tire For Mileage, Not Months

Here's what you wanted — an easy-to-understand Highway Tire Guarantee with all these great features—

- FREE Replacement During First 10% of Guaranteed Mileage
- Guaranteed in case of Premature Tread Wear-Out

Sears Highway Passenger Tire Guarantee

If you do not receive the number of miles specified because of your tire becoming unserviceable due to (1) defects (2) normal road hazards, or (3) tread wear-out

We will: At our option, exchange it for a new tire or give you a refund charging in either case only the proportion of the then current selling price plus Federal Excise tax that represents mileage used. If the tire is unserviceable due to any of the above causes before 10% of the guaranteed mileage is received, the replacement or refund will be made with no charge for mileage received.

Nail punctures will be repaired at no charge. Guarantee applies to tires on vehicles used for private family purposes.

- FREE Nail Puncture Repairs Tire Guarantee
- Guaranteed in case of Defects in Material and Workmanship

Tony & Lena

"Sentry Insurance Presents Tony and Lena," an elegant hour-long musical entertainment special starring Tony Bennett and Lena Horne, will air on ABC, Thursday at 9 PM. In the music-filled hour, the two stars combine their talents in a selection of popular standards written by Burt Bacharach, Cole Porter, Duke Ellington and the Beatles, but concentrate on a special tribute to composer Harold Arlen. It was Arlen who wrote "Stormy Weather," long identified with Miss Horne, and which Bennett will sing on the special. And it was Arlen who created such wonderful songs as "Any Place I Hang My Hat Is Home," "Accentuate the Positive," "I Gotta Right to Sing the Blues," "Over the Rainbow," "Ill Wind," "Get Happy," and "Happiness Is Just a Thing Called Joe." There will be 24 Arlen songs in the tribute. The first time Tony and Lena appeared together was on a Burt Bacharach special produced by Gary Smith and Dwight Hemion. That Emmy Award-winning team has brought the pair together for the second time. The special was taped in London in association with ITC, and was directed by Hemion.

'Land Sailers'

An incredible 1500-mile trek by land yacht through the forbidding western Sahara is the subject of "Wind Raiders of the Sahara," the premiere presentation of the popular National Geographic color documentary series moving to ABC, Thursday at 8 PM. To film the one-hour program narrated by Leslie Nielsen, National Geographic dispatched a team of eight international pilots under the leadership of Gen. Jean Du Boucher, a retired French Army officer with 20 years of Sahara service. From knowledge gained from his first trans-Sahara land yacht expedition in 1967, the general prepared for this second attempt using a more sophisticated type of yacht and chose a shorter but more arduous course.

In strict survival terms, the inhospitable Sahara is adventure enough. Attempting to traverse its western region—the most desolate portion—in a wind-driven vehicle increases the prospects of adventure all the more, as recorded by the cameras.

TV WEEK'S COVER CLOSE-UP

20 years in prime time... and still going strong!

Milestones are rare in any industry. Especially so in television, where series die by the dozen. One particular milestone though is just around the corner. It marks the 20th year on TV for The Wonderful World of Disney.

The happy occasion officially begins this Fall when the Sunday evening anthology series returns for its 13th year on NBC, and its second decade of continuous programming.

Originally aired on ABC (1954-1961) before moving to NBC, World of Disney is currently television's longest-running prime time show. It is only three years shy of catching TV's all-time champ, The Ed Sullivan Show. Sullivan racked up 23 consecutive years before leaving the air in 1971.

Winner of seven Emmy Awards during its 20 years, World of Disney remains the Secretariat of the medium. Most TV shows lose their audience appeal after several seasons, but not Disney. Its lively anthology format, which defies the traditional vid-series formula for a hit show, endears the program to young and old alike. Each week the series presents new stars, new plots and new locales in single and multi-part adventures. Its family-oriented programs attract an average viewing audience of over 40 million.

During the 1972-73 season, World of Disney placed among the Top Ten shows 10 times, and in the Top Twenty shows 11 times during its first 23 weeks of scheduling. On the basis of that fine performance, NBC renewed the program through the 1975-76 season. Disney in turn granted an option to the network to extend the series through 1978.

In signing the agreement earlier this year, Don Durgin, executive vice president, National Broadcasting Company said: "We take great pride in our long and rewarding affiliation with the Disney organization and The Wonderful World of Disney series. The genius and creativity of Walt Disney and the continuing dedication of his successors to his unique and innovative ideas of quality and taste in popular entertainment have made the Disney name a household word around the world."

'THE LOST ONES'

E. Cardon Walker, president, Walt Disney Productions stated: "We are highly pleased at the continuing public acceptance for this series. The unique nature of our show requires extensive lead time in production and NBC has once again allowed us to begin planning another two years of filming well in advance. This arrangement helps maintain the overall quality of the show."

For the fall schedule, Disney will premiere its 20th season with a first-run motion picture, "The Barefoot Executive," the hilarious spoof about an unusual chimp that predicts top-rated television shows. Starring Joe Flynn, Kurt Russell, Harry Morgan, Wally Cox and Heather North, this comedy hit was released in theaters in 1971.

Other movies to air during the '73-'74 season are "King of the Grizzlies," also a first-run feature, "The Ugly Dachshund" and "Flight of the White Stallions." "Grizzlies" concerns an Indian's love and friendship for a giant grizzly bear in the Canadian Rockies. "Dachshund," starring Dean Jones and Suzanne Pleshette, is a homespun comedy about the owners of a Great Dane named Brutus. "Flight of the White Stallions" is a World War II action adventure starring Robert Taylor, Lilli Palmer, Eddie Albert and James Franciscus. It depicts the daring rescue of prized Lipizzan stallions from behind enemy lines during the last months of the war. The motion picture was filmed in Europe amid the old world charm of Vienna.

In a special three-part presentation, the series will air a first-run movie filmed entirely in England. "Diamonds on Wheels" is a mystery involving three youngsters who enter a sports car rally only to discover that hidden within their car is a cache of diamonds worth millions. The film is a chase from beginning to end with proper British criminals in hot pursuit of the kids.

Among the most popular types of program on the Disney hour are the animal-adventure dramas. At least four are scheduled for fall. "Mustang!," a powerful two-parter, was filmed in New Mexico. Produced by Roy E. Disney, who is noted for quality location films, the story is set in 1880s Mexico. Its animal hero is a wild mustang that fights for his birthright of freedom even as civilization crowds in around him.

"The Lost Ones" was produced by Academy Award winner James Algar and filmed in Alaska's arctic wilderness. The plot concerns two Eskimo children who wander the vast, desolate landscape of the frozen North; their encounters with nature and their continuous fight for survival.

Closer to home, Northern California becomes the forest setting for "Fire on Kelly Mountain." Starring Andrew Duggan, this one-parter shows nature untamed as an awesome firestorm sweeps through virgin timber country.

Oscar-winning producer Larry Lansburgh's offering for '73-'74 is "Cow Dog," a western tale of an Australian sheep dog named Stub. Slim Pickens stars in this rugged adventure set in Arizona's mesa territory. Rex Allen narrates and sings. Executive producer Ron Miller helms the production, "Alvin the Magnificent." In this two-part mystery, three youngsters uncover a swindle in their city government and track down the crooks with the help of zany inventions concocted by their ingenious leader, Alvin.

Rounding out the schedule, "World of Disney" will present its annual Christmas show, and a tour of its giant Florida project entitled "The Magic of Walt Disney World."

A Man for all Seasons

Paul Scofield portrays Sir Thomas More, the Lord Chancellor of England.

For the first time in commercial television history, a major two-and-one-half hour program will be presented twice on the same network in the space of five days. The occasion is the television premiere of Fred Zinnemann's much-honored film, "A Man for All Seasons."

The 1966 motion picture version of Robert Bolt's award-winning play will be shown on NBC, on Wednesday evening from 8:30-11:00PM and a matinee performance, Sunday (September 9) at 1:30-4:00PM. The purpose of the double showing is to allow as many people as possible to see a motion picture of extraordinary importance.

"A Man for All Seasons," starring Paul Scofield, Orson Welles, Susannah York, Wendy Hiller, Leo McKern and Robert Shaw, tells the story of the last seven years in the life of Sir Thomas More, with special focus on the confrontation between More, as Chancellor of England, and King Henry VIII. The film won six Academy Awards, including "Best Picture," "Best Director" (Zinnemann), "Best Actor" (Scofield) and "Best Screenplay" (Robert Bolt). It also became the first film in history to win four major New York Film Critics Awards.

INSIDE the tube & OUTSIDE hollywood

by Bill Mahan

There is a very famous place in Marina Del Ray, California called THE BASEMENT. To get in to spend your money is a monumental chore. The music is so loud that one's ears ring for a good hour after leaving. Ordering a drink is nearly impossible unless the order is written. The frantic dancing has a kaleidoscopic effect on the eye. All in all, it is not a place I would care to frequent very often. THE BASE- MENT was balanced for.me last Friday. I spent the evening at the Hollywood Bowl listening to the soothing music of Neil Hefti, followed by an hour and a half of Tony Bennett singing songs that, to me any- way, had tunes. I left the Bowl feeling better about music in general. More than incidentally, there wasn't a seat to be had and the scalpers were at the box office before Tony's performance asking astronomical prices for the coveted tickets.

For the bulk of Tony Bennett lovers across the nation who weren't able to attend his Bowl performance, come Thursday, September 6, on ABC, Tony will have a color special and his guest singer will be Lena Horne. "It's just an easy hour of music." he said. "Lena and I bat around the oldies and the whole show is quite informal."

"How come I don't see you in the movies?" I asked. "That's never really been my bag," he said. "However, Elliott Kastner, the motion picture producer, came to hear me rehearse with the Ruby Braff- George Barnes quartet in New York and he was so turned on that he decided to film a concert by us. We'll be doing all Rodgers and Hart songs." "You mean the show will go into the theatres" I questioned. "Yep," he said. "Just like a feature motion picture." At that point he took a small tape recorder out of his desk and dropped a tape into it. "This is some of the kind of music we'll do for that concert," he said. The first song was the smoothest version of THIS CAN'T BE LOVE that I have ever heard. Then he turned the recorder down and let it play as background music as we continued to talk.

My time with Tony Bennett was up much too soon and as I left his hotel room I couldn't help but think what would happen if he dropped into THE BASEMENT and offered to do a guest song or two. I'll bet all those hip young kids would be twice as turned on if they heard the kind of music I had just heard.

'A COUPLE OF DONS'

Highlights include satirical sketches of famous movies, including "The Godfather," "City Lights," and "Moulin Rouge." That's Rickles above, and Adams below, in character for these sketches.

Don Adams and Don Rickles are the title role stars in "A Couple of Dons," a one-hour comedy-variety special featuring comedy sketches, monologues and songs covering a wide range of subjects, on NBC, Saturday (Sept. 8) at 9PM. Joining them are the Jackson Sisters, a popular young singing group who perform two numbers, and special guest star Sally Kellerman, who sings and also appears in several sketches. Highlights of the show include "Hooray for Hollywood," a series of satirical sketches of famous motion pictures, and Don Rickles roasting guest celebrities in the audience.

"TELE-TALK"

"In Search of Ancient Astronauts," one of the most talked-about television specials of the past season, will have a repeat colorcast on NBC, Thursday (Sept. 6) at 8PM. Originally colorcast on NBC-TV on January 5 of this year, the special depicts the theory that ancient visitors from other planets are responsible for various baffling phenomena of the past which are visible in widely scattered parts of the world.

"In Search of Ancient Astronauts" is based on "Chariots of the Gods?", the international best-seller by Erich Von Daniken which supports his premise that early space travelers visited earth years ago and profoundly altered the life of primitive man. Rod Serling narrates the special, which was filmed in England, Egypt, Mexico, Japan, Iraq, Australia, Peru, Yugoslavia and on Easter Island.

Following its January telecast, the program received one of the largest outpourings of mail — overwhelmingly favorable—ever inspired by an NBC Special. Within days, copies of the Von Daniken book were sold out at book outlets in all parts of the country, prompting its paperback publisher, Bantam Books, to rush additional copies into print and onto the shelves. (Variety reported that in Washington, D.C., ". . . most accounts polled reported entire inventories . . . exhausted by noon Saturday" —just one day after the Friday night presentation on NBC).

The special also had a major impact in the educational community. For example, Prime Time School Television, a Chicago-based non-profit organization which develops free teacher utilization material on nighttime TV broadcasts, surveyed nearly 800 teachers by phone in connection with "In Search of Ancient Astronauts." The responses indicated that 83% of the teachers assigned or recommended viewing of the program and 60% of those were able to do classroom follow-up. In a separate post card survey, PTST found that 80% of nearly 3,600 teachers who responded used the program in connection with classroom work.

In the special, many mysteries are offered to support the Von Daniken theory. A clay vase, which is on display in the Baghdad Museum, is also a 2,000-year-old electrical battery. Istanbul's Topkapi Palace houses maps found in the Orient by Turkish Admiral Piri Reis. Dating back to the 1st century A.D., these maps are uncannily accurate and, according to Von Daniken, show the earth as it would have appeared to astronauts high above Cairo.

In Mexico, in Central America, in Italy, and on a rocky ledge in the Sahara Desert, there are ancient drawings and sculptures depicting strange beings wearing what appear to be space suits, including helmets with antennae. Von Daniken suggests that if space travelers from another planet were to visit earth, they would have found the environment hostile. They, too, would have had to travel in self-contained units and, in appearance, they may have resembled modern astronauts.

Von Daniken also suggests that these ancient astronauts would have brought with them superior skills and may have been responsible for the incredibly accurate Mayan calendar, the huge, stone carvings on Easter Island, Egypt's massive Pyramids and Stonehenge in England. He also considers it significant that legends of various ancient peoples mention powerful strangers descending to earth in flaming chariots. In addition to utilizing much hitherto unexplained physical evidence, the program presents the comments of several scientists including Dr. Wernher Von Braun and Dr. Harold P. Kline, of NASA's Ames Research Center.

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR GEORGE HAMILTON

You used to live in such a grand style. Do you still?—N. P., San Rafael, Calif.

● I have a Rolls convertible and a Cessna 182 that I fly myself. I have two houses, one in Palm Springs and one in Los Angeles, but neither one is quite the size of the house I used to have—which I sold to financier Bernie Cornfeld. As to whether my attitude has changed, my answer is yes—and no. Yes, I don't think it was necessary to live in such high style, and no, I loved it. But if I had continued to live that way, I might be in the poorhouse by now.

FOR HOPE LANGE

You have a teenage daughter. How have you advised her about the new morality?—T.D., Albany, Ga.

● I haven't yet. She's 14 and too wrapped up in horses at this point to be very interested. When the time comes, I guess we'll just face it together. I wouldn't want her to run off, but I don't mind her having a boyfriend—as long as he is absolutely perfect: cute, handsome, rich, not temperamental, loves her, and so forth.

FOR SEN. BIRCH BAYH (D-Ind.), chairman of the Senate Subcommittee on Juvenile Delinquency

My newspaper gives me the impression that a big percentage of crimes are committed by young people. Right or wrong?—F.D.M., Bradenton, Fla.

● Ninety-five percent of all adult felons have juvenile records, and half the crimes in this country are committed by youngsters not old enough to vote. These are alarming facts that point to one very sad conclusion: Whatever we are doing in the area of prevention and rehabilitation has been a dismal failure.

FOR WALTER CRONKITE, newscaster

In all your travels at home and abroad as a newscaster, which trip has proven to be the most interesting?—Mrs. John A. Parker, Eureka, Calif.

● Probably the trip to China with President Nixon. It was our first opportunity to take television cameras to this great country. We felt like modern Marco Polos.

FOR MICKEY SPILLANE, author

I have heard that you now live in South Carolina while your wife lives in New York City because of her career in show business. Do either or both of you have dinner dates with other people?—Roger Morre, Bloomington, Ind.

● We both have many friends and do have dinner dates with other people. This doesn't bother either one of us at all.

FOR JANE BLALOCK, pro golfer

Some of the other female pros have been complaining that since you got in trouble for allegedly bettering the position of your ball, the crowds have been lionizing you. Is this true?—Joan Smedley, Cambridge, Md.

● The spectators have been very nice to me, and I have to assume that this is because Americans root for underdogs. But there is another reason. I won the highly publicized Dinah Shore tournament and that made me more easily identifiable. The big public reaction started after that.

FOR TWIGGY

Do you ever fight with your boyfriend and mentor, Justin de Villeneuve?—M. N. T., New Albany, Ind.

● I hate fighting. But to be perfectly honest, once in a while Justin and I do have an argument. If we scream at each other, we always make up in the end—and that's always so beautiful. I think in a love relationship it is all right to scream once in a while, but I wouldn't want to do it at work.

FOR SAM LEVENSON, entertainer-author

Why did you decide to leave teaching and become an entertainer?—A. S. Kravitz, Brooklyn, N.Y.

● I never decided what I wanted to be. Somehow circumstances pointed out new directions for me. I started out as a musician, went on to teaching school, then on to show business, then to writing. At this point I am doing some of each. I bring one subject to all of my careers—me.

FOR GARY GRIMES, star of "Summer of '42" and "Class of '44"

Do you have any heroes among older actors and actresses? —K.R.D., Reading, Ohio

● Yes. James Dean is one of my heroes. To make scenes as dramatic as possible, without making them look overdone, is probably the most difficult thing to achieve in acting—but Dean could do it. Orson Welles in his earlier days is another hero of mine. Glenda Jackson is my favorite actress.

FOR WILMA SCOTT HEIDE, president of the National Organization for Women (NOW)

Is it true that the Equal Rights Amendment will abolish alimony payments by men?—J.B., Sweetwater, Texas

● No. Decisions under federal or state law will be made on the bases of needs and resources, not sex. Fewer than ten percent of divorces require any alimony. Much child support after divorce is called alimony, and women pay over one-half of child support after divorce. Anyone who cares about women should know there are hundreds of better reasons to support this amendment. Its ratification will help put sex in its place.

The Woman Who Could

The Story of a Fateful Meeting

By MacKinlay Kantor

Author of "Andersonville"

One morning years ago I was aboard an ocean liner, and got up at five-thirty in the morning and began to walk the sun deck.

At first there was no one else about except for a few sailors wiping away the last traces of their swabbing. Solid planks were damp and pungent, the tender mystery of sunrise lifted behind the Azores. Those islands were actually mountains shafting up impassively from bases four miles beneath the smooth marbled water.

They said, We are here, we have been here for a long time.

But I felt a sadness, despite the gold and wine behind mossy clouds.

My problem at that moment was more inscrutable than I could passively accept.

At 52, after 36 years of crowded writing and more crowded living, suddenly I stood upon a summit. It was an attainment for which any man might yearn, and lacerate himself in order to reach it. I was dressed in fame, financial security, artistic and professional accomplishment.

I cried to myself, "But I am still comparatively young, still ambitious. I have won the Pulitzer Prize in Letters. A book I wrote has earned—and is earning, and will earn—a fortune for publishers, dealers, tax collectors, agents, and even for myself.

"Is there no direction to go except down? I have been tussling in the climb for more than a third of a century. Is there still another mountain waiting? Should there be one, have I the strength to attempt it?"

Presently I observed two women of elder years coming slowly toward me. Perhaps craving the same sea-smoked privacy I sought, they had risen with the first light to go a-walking and a-hunting something.

As they approached, I realized that the woman in the beige cloth coat

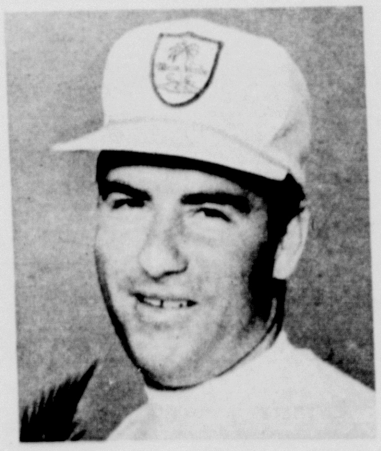
Golfer DAVE STOCKTON:

What's My Secret?
My Dad Didn't Spoil Me!



Dave Stockton, winner of this year's Greater Milwaukee Open and former national PGA champion, has chronic back trouble that causes him to walk around golf courses with a strange gait. He also has a tendency to succumb to heat strokes during tournaments. Yet he is one of the golf game's leading money winners, known on the professional tour as a "scrambler"—a man who makes up in sheer determination what he lacks in physical strength. Stockton, who's 30 and married, credits his iron determination to his upbringing. His dad was a successful sporting goods merchant who refused to indulge his son. "He wouldn't give me a job in his own store," Stockton recalls, "because he felt the work wasn't hard enough. He sent me to work in a neighbor's lumberyard. That was when I was 12. Then he decided the first week's pay I got was too much for the work I did and made me give part of it back to the neighbor. . . . I may have kicked about working hard, but I came to appreciate the work ethic. That's why I've had the guts to stick to this game. I'm bringing my children up the same way."

Feel the Mountains

At the pinnacle of his success, MacKinlay Kantor questioned: "Is there no direction to go except down?"

must be blind. Her companion, in a brown-suede jacket, was directing her steps.

On impulse I went to the two.

I asked, "Does she feel the islands? Feel the power of the mountains which hold them? Feel the ocean? The dawn?"

The woman with the jacket said, "Ah. . . ."

I feared she was surrendering, and to the inevitable.

She spoke softly. "It would be very difficult."

"Still, perhaps, in some miraculous way, could she—?"

The answer to Kantor's anguish came from a radiant Helen Keller.

She turned and pressed my question into the palm of her companion.

The answer was something to make a man walk away and lift his head higher, make him breathe well, make him feel that there were still cliffs awaiting . . . and he might be vigorous enough to start climbing again.

With busy fingers the woman tapped out the words, even as her lips shaped them.

He—wants to know—if you feel the sea — the mountains holding the Azores—feel the dawn. . . .

Sightless blue eyes seemed to glow. A color pinker than the sunrise was on that keen face.

"Of course I do! Yes, yes. . . . Feel depths and heights. . . . Feel the dawn, feel its coming, its vastness. . . . I feel it," said Helen Keller.

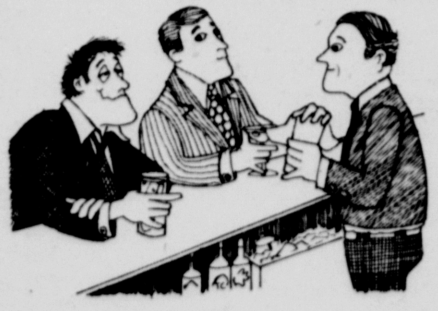
Why Some People "Hold Their Liquor" Better Than Others



Nobody really holds his liquor—only some people look as if they do, just because they don't stumble and can apparently keep a conversation going along a straight line. But the fact is, just as soon as alcohol is absorbed into the bloodstream, some mental functions, like judgment or coping with an emergency, begin to be impaired. So why do some people look as if they can hold their liquor longer than others? It is a matter of absorption.

What counts is the concentration of alcohol in the blood. Concentration is the difference between the amount that is absorbed and the amount that is oxidized—which means, changed in the body and excreted. When intake and absorption are faster than oxidation, you show the effect of alcohol more strongly. Habitual drinkers absorb alcohol more slowly and oxidize it faster than those who rarely drink. That is the reason they seem to show less effect. But impairment of higher faculties is not reduced! Other things can also delay absorption, such as having a full stomach. Size of a person also counts. The same amount of alcohol absorbed will have more effect on a small person than on a large one. So—if you plan to drink, eat first. But even then, do not undertake tasks that require judgment or a reaction in an emergency.

Is a new home of your own becoming an impossible dream?

On a national average, home prices have jumped nearly 22% over the past three years!* That $20,000 home you started saving for in 1970 now sells for $24,400. That's why more and more families are building the Capp Homes way. And the free plans service lets them build exactly the home they want.

Capp does the rough stuff, then you do the finishing. Even if you just subcontract it all, you can save up to 20% because that's the usual contractor's fee.

And you can save lots more if you do some of the work yourself.

Nothing but the best. All building materials and construction in a Capp Home meet or exceed all building codes. In fact, they're probably superior to those used in most model homes you've seen.

Financing? Don't worry about it, Capp Homes has a variety of financing plans to help you buy that home right now . . . without closing costs, points or hidden charges.

Bob Hope Nears 70—And Talks Frankly About His Wealth, His Politics, His Home Life

"I've always played it pretty cool when it came to politics. I don't want to be a hypocrite about it. Everybody knows my position. But . . . I know that if Kennedy had lived we wouldn't have been in the Vietnam war so long."

Globe Photos

Bob Hope's tribute to his wife: "I admire Dolores for the way she's kept the family together in all my travels...."

FAMILY WEEKLY: If you had to live your life over again, what would you do differently?

HOPE: I had an opening line in one of my books that said if I had to live my life over again, I wouldn't have time. I've had the most exciting and lucky life. People say to me, "My God, the way you've traveled in the last four months!" and I say, "Yeah, and I arranged the schedule!" People think I'm a bit flakey, but I enjoy it. That must be why I feel in such good shape. I'm hitting the ball better than I have in 15 years!

FW: That means you have no plans for retiring?

HOPE: No way! I'm just starting, Peer!

FW: You're supposed to be the richest actor in Hollywood. How did you acquire your business acumen?

HOPE: I think I was just lucky. You see, Bing [Crosby] and I made a killing in oil about 20 years ago. I also got some good business advice from Joe Rosenthal of Lehman Brothers. He said to buy real estate. I don't think that I am any kind of business genius. I just did the very obvious thing that people can do. I can look back and see that I could have gone off in other ways.

FW: A couple of years ago I read a story that said you were not only the wealthiest actor in Hollywood, but that your net worth was between $250 million and $750 million. Is that correct?

HOPE: I remember being quoted in "Time" magazine as saying that I had a billion dollars! I've been looking for it ever since! I can't find a tenth of it. Frank [Frank Liberman, Hope's publicist] had a guy from "Fortune" magazine who wanted to talk to me about my estate, and I said, "Sure, bring him down to Palm Springs." He never got down there. But he reported that I was worth a quarter of a billion dollars! And people believe it. It was absolutely a lie! [Editor's note: Yet Bob is not a pauper. When his new house in Palm Springs—being built at a cost variously estimated between $1½-3 million—burned down in July, Bob, who already owns two homes in Palm Springs, said, "No need to cry over spilt milk"—and promptly decided to rebuild the house.]

FW: You still didn't answer my question: How much are you worth?

HOPE: If I could sell all of my real estate, I would be worth about $25 million to $30 million. But now I am property poor. I am fighting to pay my taxes. Look, I have 11,000 acres right around here. Damned good property. But you have to realize it. I've been lucky in the last couple of years and did sell a few things that kept me moving pretty good.

FW: You've been married 40 years now?

HOPE: Thirty-eight.

FW: To what do you ascribe the success of your marriage?

HOPE: I travel a lot. [Smiles.] No, I think when you can live with one woman for so long, there must be a lot of admiration connected with it. It wouldn't last if you didn't admire the other person a lot. It's like patriotism: You don't go around yelling "I love my wife." You kind of look back, and think about what she's done, and I admire Dolores for the way she's kept the family together in all my travels, and for her philosophy of life, her belief in religion, and everything else.

FW: Do you feel you are difficult to live with?

HOPE: Not at all. In fact, I think I am a rare delight! Because it is very rare that I am home! You know, I would think someone would be difficult to live with if they didn't want to do things. I am always saying, "Let's pack and go . . . let's go to this affair and that affair," and I think that's kind of an exciting life.

FW: Did you ever think of going into politics?

HOPE: Yes. It was suggested to me about 18 years ago when they wanted me to run for the Senate. Jack Warner asked me one time, and then a group in Washington. But I've never been interested in it. I've always played it pretty cool when it came to politics. I don't want to be a hypocrite about it. Everybody knows my position. But they've never seen me get mixed up in politics until this last election. I think it's a shame the whole country couldn't have gotten behind all of the Presidents. I know that if Kennedy had lived we wouldn't have been in the Vietnam war so long.

FW: What makes you say that?

HOPE: He was so mad about the Bay of Pigs thing. When he put the blockade around Cuba, he meant it. I know, because I talked to him about it, and I know how he would have handled the Vietnam situation. He hated Communists.

FW: Did you meet him before he became President?

HOPE: I did. At a football game. And I got to be good friends with him.

FW: Can you think of any special amusing incident involving you and President Kennedy?

HOPE: Yeah, at the Waldorf, during the Football Hall of Fame banquet. I was sitting next to him on the dais. When I went to the restroom it was blocked off, so that everybody but the President had to use the ladies' room —1,200 men! So when I came back to the table, I said to him, "Mr. President, I appreciate your security and everything, but how far do you have to go? They've got the men's room blocked off for you and I had to go to the ladies' room." And he said, "No kidding! How was it?" He loved that—he'd rather tell jokes than anything.

FW: Have you ever had any close calls during your many travels?

HOPE: Several. The worst was in 1942. We were in Alaska in a little seaport called Cordova, doing a show. We had promised never to fly at night, but Gen. Simon Buckner was holding some kind of a street dance in our honor in Anchorage, and we were all so enthused about going, we took off at night anyway, in a Lockheed Lodestar. Within five minutes we were in a storm. We didn't like the feel of it, but figured the pilots must know what they were doing. In 15 minutes the pilot and copilot were yelling at each other up in the cockpit. The pilot was 22 and his copilot was 21! About ten minutes later one of them came back and said "Stand up." They put Mae Wests on us and told us we might have to jump. It wasn't just the storm—we had no visibility, and the radio went out too. We had no way of communicating. We were up there circling for about an hour, hoping and praying something would happen because the mountains around us were 13,000 feet high. And I really mean praying! Luckily, an airliner happened along as we were circling, and went down and told them he'd felt our backwash. General Buckner put up the antiaircraft lights, and the pilot saw one and circled right down and found the airport. I tell you, I was never so happy to see the ground! I got down and kissed it, and took pocketsful of dirt home with me.

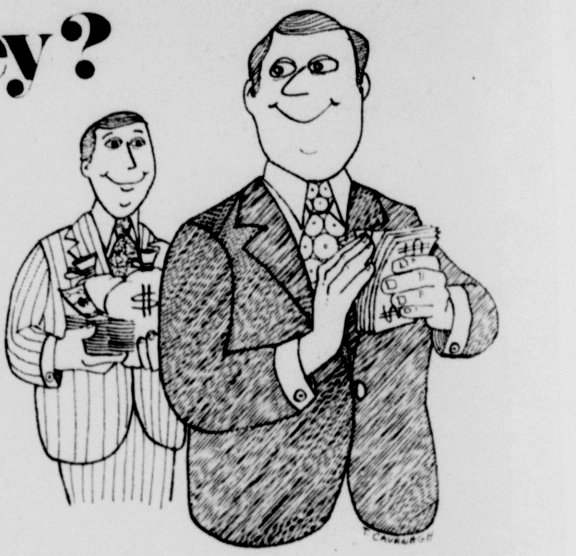
People Quiz

Would You Really Be Happier if You Had More Money?



True or False: A man's incentive to do a good job depends on the amount of money you pay him. (See number 2)

By John E. Gibson

It's been said that money won't buy happiness. This may be true, but it's also an unarguable fact that money certainly makes unhappiness more comfortable. In this True-or-False quiz we take a candid look at that stuff that feels so good in your wallet.

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. It's easy to feel secure if you have plenty of money.

2. A man's incentive to do a good job depends on the amount of money you pay him.

3. Women are more money-hungry than men are.

4. Credit cards will soon take the place of money.

5. The less money people have the more they think about it.

ANSWERS

1. False. Psychologist Henry Clay Lindgren has observed in summing up the findings of various studies that despite the conviction of a great many people to the contrary, money is far from a cure-all for the feelings of insecurity that assail us. He points out that the notion that higher earnings or a heftier bank balance will cause our problems to vanish into thin air is wishful thinking that has no basis in fact. Most of our problems in life stem from basic psychological causes that have nothing to do with money. These remain to be faced and coped with—regardless of whether our income is large or small.

2. True—with some personality types, but False with others, according to the findings of a University of Melbourne study, which selected two groups of 60 persons with high and low emotional levels, as measured by psychological tests. Each received various amounts of monetary reward for performing mental tasks (typical of the white-collar desk worker). With the persons in the highly emotional group, it was found that when payment for their work was reduced, incentive to do a good job lowered appreciably. But this was not found true with the people in the less emotional group.

3. False. Psychological studies have shown that men are far more preoccupied with money than women are. Males were found to place a much greater emphasis on acquiring money not only for its own sake, but as a symbol of material success, prestige and power. Women, on the other hand, were less interested in money and more concerned with "social relations, personal attractiveness, and love and family relations." This is not to say that women don't like and appreciate money, but they don't give it as high a priority as most men do.

4. False—as evidenced by the findings of a University of Michigan study of credit card users and consumer attitudes, which indicate that although the credit card provides a valuable service and convenience, it is not becoming a replacement for money as many people predicted. As a matter of fact, it was found that "families using credit cards tend to write more checks per month than families who do not use such cards."

5. True. Recent Institute for Social Research studies that surveyed the attitudes of various income brackets and strata of society have shown that poorer people have a much more materialistic outlook, are more money-conscious, and more inclined to equate the amount of money they earn with their status as human beings. The affluent were found to be more interested in nonmaterial values such as the quality of their life-styles and personal satisfactions afforded by their work.

Now! With the simple method of Foot Reflexology!

'You Can Get Almost Immediate Relief from Aches and Pains All Over the Body!'

"I have brought relief to countless suffering people with this method—and have watched their joy of regained health and vitality—when all hope had seemingly been lost!"

"Let me show you how it can bring about the normal function of a specific location or organ..."

Says MILDRED CARTER, Professional Reflexologist

Dear Friend:

My name is Mildred Carter. I am not a doctor, but for over 14 years, I have been helping people receive remarkable relief from seemingly hopeless aches and pains all over the body, with a method—which you can use, too—called Foot Reflexology.

Foot Reflexology is a method for healing the whole body. If you've ever suffered from foot trouble, you know that it's the feet that make the whole body ache. By rubbing and pressing gently on certain areas of your feet, I can show you how you may get almost immediate relief IN OTHER PARTS OF THE BODY!

Why? Because the feet contain Reflexes, which lead like telephone lines to all parts of the body. By pressing them, you help restore normal circulation and health to congested areas. No one can guarantee a cure, nor is it a medical substitute, but:

- I have seen it relieve crippled hands and feet, caused by painful arthritis, straighten whole bodies and bring them back to normal!
- It can stop the pain of hemorrhoids almost immediately!
- Most headaches vanish immediately with this method!
- I have seen it relieve liver and gall bladder trouble!
- I have seen it clear up stuffed sinuses almost immediately!
- I have seen it relieve back troubles, in a matter of seconds!
- I have seen it bring fast relief to stomach troubles!
- I have brought lasting relief to sufferers of varicose veins with this method. This is also true with cramps or pains in the legs!
- I have seen it relieve bladder trouble quickly, with great relief after the very first treatment—all sensation of burning or itching seems to disappear completely!
- This simple method can bring women blessed relief from many disorders which may have been troubling them for years!
- I have brought relief to men, in every case of prostate trouble I have ever treated with this method!

...And still that's just the beginning! You'll find the full details of this amazing method of healing in a new book which I have written, called HELPING YOURSELF WITH FOOT REFLEXOLOGY. I'll tell you how to get it in just a moment, but first I want to tell you more about it!

Many Healings Reported!

Foot Reflexology is a safe, natural, and inexpensive way to help restore healthful circulation to every area of your body.

Did you ever notice how quickly water freshens when good water is poured into muddy water? Foot Reflexology does the same for circulation in your body. Blood flow slows over the years. Naturally, glands and organs become sluggish. Stimulating a new flow of blood to these "tired" places brings new life, clears glands and organs of years of accumulated waste.

Healings and relief from discomforts of all sorts are reported, by the dozen, in the pages of my book. All were obtained with the help of Foot Reflexology.

Here's What I Say In This Book:

Gall Bladder Healing "There are many cases where Reflex Massage of the liver and gall bladder has saved people from having an operation, with the stones seeming to vanish after a few treatments."—Quoted from Chapter 12

Anemic Conditions "Anyone who is anemic will find . . . improvement can be so rapid it is amazing. With pernicious anemia, results will be slower, but Nature will be there, changing new blood cells for old." —Quoted from Chapter 11

Helping the Heart "No matter what the nature of the trouble is, the heart can be aided with this method. . . . I can give you many case histories of wonderful results from this scientific massage of the reflexes on heart patients." —Quoted from Chapter 13

Relief for Leg Pain "I believe I have treated more cases of leg aches than any other malady, and most were caused by the sciatic nerve. Many people suffer for years without any relief. Yet it is so amazingly simple to banish all inflammation from this nerve in an unbelievably short time. In many cases this method has brought relief in one treatment." —Quoted from Chapter 22

Varicose Veins "I have brought lasting relief to sufferers of varicose veins by starting the proper circulation with Reflex Massage, thus causing congestion to disappear. This is also true with cramps or pains of any kind in the legs." —Quoted from Chapter 16

Relief for Hemorrhoids "Hemorrhoids are nothing more than a congested vein (known as piles). This is actually a varicose vein in the rectum. These can become so large as to protrude, causing inconvenience, much suffering, and in many cases bleeding. Though painful, they are usually suffered in silence by those who have them. Yet with Reflex Massage they are one of the quickest to respond to treatment. Here we will learn how to use the Reflexology method to bring you prompt relief!" —Quoted from Chapter 21

How to Make Reflexology Your Rejuvenator "Would you like to be young again? Would you like to walk expectantly into the future, to enjoy new experiences, with a revitalized body? We do not have to be old . . . Reflexology rejuvenates the entire body, giving new life to glands and cells. Blood flow slows over the years. Naturally, glands and cells become sluggish. Reflexology stimulates a new flow of blood to these tired places, clears glands and cells of accumulated waste, brings them new life!" —Quoted from Chapters 3 and 24

You'll Discover...

- How Reflexology relieved a man's stuffed sinuses. "After the first treatment, he could suddenly breathe through both sides of his nose" and he felt well again.
- How a woman who had hurt her spine, and was in so much pain that she called a bone specialist to take x-rays, received so much relief with Reflexology—after a single treatment—that she was able to get up and do her work. She felt so much better, in fact, that she cancelled her appointment for x-rays, and claims she is fully recovered.
- How a man with a hunchback—a huge, ugly bulge—received a complete healing with Reflexology. He was freed of pain, and "he was able to stand straight." The hump disappeared. "He was not deformed at all," I reported!
- How a man who suffered from ulcers, kidney trouble, hay fever, and constipation, received complete relief with Reflexology. "The symptoms of each illness disappeared one by one," and today he sleeps like a baby every night!
- How a man with a heart condition was healed with Reflexology. Doctors had always warned him he couldn't do the things other men did. With this method, "his heart returned to normal enough to allow him to do anything he wanted, without any trouble. Today, after more than 10 years, he is a strong and well man."

My name is
Mildred Carter.
I am not a doctor,
but I have been
remarkable relief
from seemingly hopeless aches
and pains!

What A Physiotherapist Says:

"During my forty-eight years as a Physiotherapist in my own Treatment Centers . . . I have had every opportunity to observe the amazing benefits of manual massage. As a means of rehabilitation where physical trauma is involved, it ranks high in the annals of Medicine.

"The techniques described in Mrs. Carter's book have been developed by experts in the field of reflex massage, and we have no hesitation in recommending them. . . . For the relief of pain, we know of no other means short of opiates to achieve this objective."

— CLARENCE R. MUNROE
Registered Technician, Physiotherapy

AMAZING TRUE Experiences!

"Reflexology will free you from sickness and suffering, and fear of pain, when used correctly."

"There are so many personal experiences which I could recount, stories of illnesses which were relieved by reflex massage, that I find myself wanting to tell all of them at once. I have seen it do marvelous things that surprised me many times when doctors said it couldn't be done.

"If it can do this for others, it can do this for you! I have proven that this method of healing works, in my own experience. Try it on yourself and FEEL the results!"

Safe To Use!

What's more, Foot Reflexology is absolutely safe. It is the "drugless" way to better health, and requires no exercise, no expensive equipment of any kind. It is so simple, and natural, that it is safe to use on anyone, from the youngest baby to the oldest person. In fact, it is a Rejuvenator that can actually win you many years of new youth!

Two Party Favorites: A Delicious Cake—Plus Swedish Meatballs!

Mary Ann McCarthy, who loves to cook, frosting the Birthday Cake with Glossy Chocolate Frosting.

This week, Food Editor Marilyn Hansen bakes a Birthday Cake and makes some party food. "One of our secretaries, Mary Ann McCarthy, brought in this cake to celebrate my secretary's birthday. Everyone thought it was super-delicious. Here is Mary Ann's recipe."

BIRTHDAY CAKE

2 cups unsifted all-purpose flour
1½ cups sugar
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
½ cup margarine (1 stick), cut up
1 cup milk
2 eggs
1 teaspoon pure vanilla extract
Glossy Chocolate Frosting, recipe below

1. Preheat oven to 350° F. Grease and lightly dust with flour 2 (8 or 9 inch) layer-cake pans.

2. Sift flour, sugar, baking powder and salt into large mixing bowl.

3. Add margarine and ⅔ cup of milk. Beat 2 minutes at low speed of electric mixer. Scrape sides of bowl and clean beaters.

4. Add remaining ⅓ cup milk, eggs and vanilla and beat 2 minutes longer at medium speed.

5. Turn batter into prepared pans and bake 30-35 minutes, or until cake tester poked in center comes out clean.

6. Cool 10 minutes on rack in pans, then remove from pans and cool completely.

7. Place 1 cake layer on cake plate bottom side up. Frost top generously. Place remaining layer on top and finish frosting—frost sides first, and then top of cake.

Makes 1 (8 or 9 inch) layer cake

GLOSSY CHOCOLATE FROSTING

4½ squares unsweetened baking chocolate
2 tablespoons margarine
1½ cups sugar
4½ tablespoons cornstarch
⅛ teaspoon salt
2¼ cups boiling water
1½ teaspoons pure vanilla extract

1. Place chocolate squares and 1 tablespoon margarine in top of double boiler. Heat over boiling water until melted.

2. In 2-qt. saucepan mix sugar, cornstarch and salt.

3. Stir chocolate into cornstarch mixture. Add boiling water, stirring until smooth.

4. Bring to boil over medium-low heat, stirring constantly until mixture boils and thickens. Continue boiling 1 minute.

5. Remove from heat. Stir in vanilla and remaining 1 tablespoon margarine.

6. Cover surface of frosting with waxed paper. Refrigerate until completely cold.

Makes about 3 cups, enough to fill and frost 2-layer cake

MARY ANN'S SWEDISH MEATBALLS

1 slice bread, crumbled
1 egg
3 tablespoons ketchup
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
¼ teaspoon thyme leaves
½ cup chopped onion
1 lb. bulk sausage meat
1½ lbs. lean ground chuck or round
2 tablespoons margarine
2 tablespoons flour
2 bouillon cubes
2 cups water
2 tablespoons finely chopped parsley, optional

1. In large bowl, beat together bread, egg, ketchup, salt, pepper and thyme leaves.

2. In large skillet, cook onion and sausage meat until sausage loses its pink color, breaking up sausage into small pieces as it cooks.

3. Add onion-sausage and ground chuck to bread-and-egg mixture. Stir with large spoon until well mixed. Cover, refrigerate for 1-2 hours or overnight. (Chilling makes shaping easier.)

4. Shape into 1-inch meatballs.

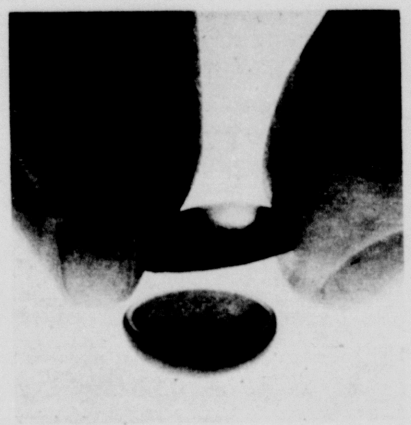
5. Heat margarine in large skillet. Brown meatballs, shaking pan frequently so they keep their shape. Cook until done.

6. Remove meatballs from skillet, set aside. Pour off all but 2 tablespoons fat from skillet. Stir in flour smoothly. Add bouillon cubes and water. Bring to boiling, stirring.

7. Turn meatballs into sauce, heat gently to boiling point. Serve hot, sprinkled with parsley. Makes about 50 meatballs

The "two-together" laxative!

(It's made with smaller doses of two laxatives.)



Some single ingredient laxatives work on the "Sunday punch" theory. One big dose of a strong laxative that can knock your system for a loop.

Caroid & Bile Salts Tablets are made up of two separate laxatives that combine the surety of a strong laxative with the gentleness of a mild one.

Together they help ease you to regularity without sudden urgency upset.

And because the dosage is pre-measured, Caroid & Bile Salts Tablets are thorough and so predictable you can almost set your watch by them. Take two tablets at bedtime. Get a good night's sleep. And you can expect to be back on schedule in the morning.

Gentle Caroid & Bile Salts Tablets—the 'two-together' laxative—to help put your system back on schedule.

GRANT SULLENS WITH WEIRD-O
That's a normal chicken at right

Super-chicken has arrived. His name is Weird-O, and he weighs an incredible 22 pounds. It took 17-year-old Californian Grant Sullens five years to develop Weird-O. Grant took up breeding about nine years ago, and four years later began crossbreeding in order to strengthen his flock. Some 5,000 crossbreeds later, here's Weird-O (see picture). Says Grant, "I knew he was something special, since the egg he came from was heavier and rounder than normal. His ma never laid another egg—perhaps Weird-O was too much for her. In no time he was fathering chicks and all the time he grew and grew." As to selling Weird-O, Grant has turned down all incoming offers. He says, "He's my bird and mine he will stay." The new breed has been registered as "White Sullies" and Grant says, "I'm breeding them as full-meat birds. They are to the chicken world what the Angus is to the beef world."

QUOTE: A psychiatrist on promiscuity: "I find that the cause of promiscuity does not need to be physical. Rather, promiscuity represents a tremendous need to be loved and wanted, and physical contact is used merely to achieve that desire. Promiscuity is a defense against alienation. It is an attempt to get close to someone, to establish a relationship—but without success. It is the trying and the failing. It is an escape measure, a cursory and temporary meeting—nothing more than a means to achieve, to gain something permanent, to obtain love. For it is love, and only love, that can bring an illusion of meaning to life and an illusion of immortality."—Dr. I. Emery Breitner, Roslyn, N.Y. UNQUOTE.

"PEYTON'S" PAT MORROW
A hit in Yugoslavia

Pat Morrow, one of the main characters on NBC-TV's daytime series, "Peyton Place," recently went behind the Iron Curtain as a celebrity guest of Yugoslavia, where her TV show is going great guns. Ms. Morrow saw many people wearing T-shirts with pictures of the cast stamped on them. She reports: "Yugoslavia is the only Iron Curtain country that plays 'Peyton Place.' They combine three segments to show together, and beginning at 6:30 every evening, the show runs for 90 minutes. I was mobbed when I arrived—25,000 people milling about, jumping on the car, and pushing all around. I felt trapped, but it was fantastic too!"

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour

DISHING IT OUT

When at her home for dinner, lunch,
To make my hostess pleased as Punch
I know precisely what to do
And very often do it, too.

I pick some dish and praise it highly,
While hiding pangs of ptomaine slyly,
Or if I can't, my cheeks grown pallid,
I tuck it under leaves of salad.

Ah yes, I say it's simply yummy
And rub (as if with joy) my tummy.
Then topping all with one crescendo,
Which, happily, is near the end-o,
I make her joyous as can be
By asking for the recipe.

Scientists say we're fast running out of fossil fuels, and that's disconcerting news to all us old fossils.

THROUGH A CHILD'S EYES

Kids see life differently. Send original contributions to "Child," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., N.Y., N.Y. 10022. $10 if used—none returned.

Years ago we lived in a small town in Illinois, and when our son was about three and a half years old, his dad took him over to a neighbor's house to watch a man tilling his garden with a small plow pulled by a horse. He was quite excited. When they returned home I asked him what the man was doing with the plow. He answered, "He was pushing the horse with it."

To Billy Kidd
Champion Skier

Dear Billy Kidd:

I hear that you are giving up championship skiing to go into ski equipment. Now then, I would like some advice from you.

Perhaps the right kind of skis and outfit might help me. Right now my skiing is like having my portrait painted—it takes a lot of sittings. As you know, most people ski from left to right, I ski from fright to fright.

Looking forward to hearing from you. I remain yours sincerely,
